MAYOR FRANCIS X. McCAULEY offers a note of cautious optimism in his mid-term address.

$3.4 For Sewer Project

McCauley Cautious, Optimistic About '83

Mayor Francis X. McCauley presented an optimistic but characteristically cautious picture of the city's financial situation in the third year of Proposition 2½ Monday in his mid-term address to the City Council and the public.

"In fiscal 1984," he said, "the city of Quincy should bottom out of Proposition 2½. We have about run the course on layoffs and closing school buildings and that type of approach to complying with Proposition 2½."

"What we will have to do in the future is find better and more efficient ways to deliver city services to our constituency here in the city of Quincy."

McCauley, a paired address with his "good news" announcements of federal and state grants that are coming to Quincy.

One of them involves $3,443,000 to help repair and recondition the city's ancient sewer lines, which are so inadequate in the South West Quincy area that the state has placed a ban on new development in that section of the city.

This was due, he said, to the city's adoption of a sewer user charge which made the city eligible for such state and federal funding.

The second grant involves $100,000 from the state in an off-street parking grant for the purchase of equipment for validated parking. The mayor promised to bring the City Council up to date on the parking plans very shortly.

McCauley struck back in his address at those who have criticized his administration for what they call its failure to bring new development into the city during the first year in office.

"Probably one of the biggest projects the city of Quincy will see in the coming years is a project in West Quincy," he said, on the 177-acre site of the Old Colony Crushed Stone Co., which was purchased by a group of Middle East investors.

"This group has engaged Meredith and Grew, the real estate firm, and they're currently undertaking an environmental impact study and we're hopeful that this project is going to be coming to fruition in the 1980s."

"It is a project of quite a dimension and will be unfolding as we go into the 1980s. So we have some things in the city of Quincy in 1982 despite a (national economic) climate that is not all the best."

McCauley noted that the city has received some $4,200,000 in the fiscal years 1982 and 1983 in Community Development Block Grants, federal money that mostly goes into neighborhood rehabilitation.

He said that he and aide Arthur Foley, Planning Director James Lydon and City Councillor Leo J. Kelly

$14 Million At Stake

Shipyard Case Shadow Over City's Future

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley expects a decision from the State Supreme Court about Jan. 15 in the General Dynamics case which, at worst, could cost the city more than $14 million in property tax rebates to its largest taxpayer.

The General Dynamics case, in which the city is appealing a lost decision in a lower court, casts a shadow over a relatively optimistic picture of the city's financial condition painted by the mayor in his mid-term address.

"There is just no way that you can figure something like that when you're planning the fiscal 1984 budget," said McCauley. "The consequences are so severe that you can't anticipate what will happen. You can just wait and see where it lands."

The General Dynamics case is only one of several uncertainties that are facing McCauley as he begins preparations for the fiscal 1984 municipal budget. He has asked department heads to have level-funded budget requests in the auditor's office by Monday, Jan. 10.

Most important is revaluation. The mayor can only guess at the tax levy that will be permitted under the third year of Proposition 2½ until the full valuation of the city is known. This year, the tax levy can be only 2.5 per cent of the total valuation.

Preliminary figures for the total valuation were $1.7 billion. If, as expected, the updated figure is $1.8 billion, the permissible tax levy will be about $45 million, or $3.3 million less than the tax levy of $48.3 million in fiscal 1983.

McCauley said he hopes that the $3.3 million can be made up in increased state aid, which would allow the city to level-fund its entire budget, provided receipts and Cherry Sheet charges remain the same as fiscal 1983.

"State aid will be the big thing," said McCauley. "We have done well in the past two years. State aid to Quincy increased by $3,737,000 in 1982 and $7,857,000 in 1983. Those are hefty increases. But can they continue next year?"

McCauley noted that the new governor, Michael S. Dukakis, "understands the problems of the cities and has earmarked 40 per cent of the state's growth revenues for aid. But how that will affect Quincy I don't know."

McCauley Highlights

Here are some highlights of Mayor McCauley's mid-term address Monday to the City Council and the public:

- The state and federal governments have approved some $3,443,000 in sewer grants to upgrade the city's ancient sewer lines. This was made possible by the city's sewer user charge.

- Gov. Edward J. King has signed a $100,000 state grant to the city for the purchase of capital equipment for the conversion of city-owned parking lots into validated parking under Kinney Systems.

- A group of Middle Eastern investors is currently making an environmental impact study prior to development of the 177-acre Old Colony Crushed Stone property in West Quincy.

- Robert Brennan, newly appointed director of the Data Processing Department, will start putting city records on the computer about July 1 — "a very important step that's long overdue."

- The latest financial report shows that the once deficit plagued City Hospital "is operating solidly in the black" and is hopeful of state permission to upgrade its old facilities.

- Once the updating of 100 per cent revaluation is completed, he is in favor of "some form of classification... in order to soften the impact of revaluation on our homeowners."

- The city should bottom out in its three-year effort to comply with Proposition 2½ and "we have about run the course on layoffs and closing school buildings and that type of approach."

Student's Belongings Stolen

Edward DiTullio of 33 Curtis Ave., Quincy Point, reported to police Monday that a long list of personal items he was taking back to college were stolen from his 1967 Chevrolet Camaro.

Taken were a car stereo and speakers, tapes and records, an electric guitar, a portable TV, a gray pin-striped suit, a brown leather jacket, a Harris tweed coat, other clothing and a tool box.

Entry was gained by slashing the convertible roof of the car.

Chief Finn 'Doing Fine'

Quincy Police Chief Francis Finn, 57, is up and walking at New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, following quadruple bypass heart surgery.

Finn told The Quincy Sun he expects to be released from the hospital by weekend.

Finn entered the hospital Dec. 26 for a triple bypass but during the surgery, Dec. 29, doctors decided on a quadruple bypass instead.

Finn is expected to be sidelined for three months.

Capt. Roy Cavochi is acting chief during his absence.

Car Recovered

A 1981 Chevrolet Malibu reported stolen in Quincy by Thomas V. Dahill of 15 Samost Ave.,

Merrymount, was recovered by state police in Braintree Monday badly damaged.

U-Haul Can Sell Gasoline, Too

Customers of the U-Haul at 435 Quincy Ave., will now be able to fill their gas tanks as well as rent trailers and trucks.

The Quincy License Board approved a request Tuesday for the company to sell gasoline to the public for a trial period of nine months.

license for 12,000 gallons of gasoline under ground for private use only.

"It's not going to be a gas station," said Rene Bugnon, a supervisor for U-Haul, "we don't intend it to be one." "Occasionally, our customers ask for gas," explained Bugnon who said he did not plan to undercut prices of other gas stations. Bugnon said he did not expect to sell that much gas, and that many of the U-Hauls across the country offer that service.

Manager John Thompson said that he had only two such requests from customers in a month.

The applicants were instructed that there are to be no more than 16 cars and trucks on the lot.

Board Continues Request For Auto Repair Shop

The License Board has continued to Jan. 11 a request from George Scott for an automobile repair shop license and permit for 150 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars at 5-23 Farrington St., Quincy.

Board members requested the time to familiarize themselves with the area. Building Inspector Allan MacDonald also wanted to check whether the zoning was correct for such a business.

Scott, a resident of Germaine Ave., said that he wanted to repair cars on a limited basis. He requested a license for six cars.

A general contractor of building maintenance, Scott said that his hobby is antique autos.

Abutters Matilda Mulcny, 14 Safford St., and Bernice and Henry Dever, 8 Safford St., pointed out that there are already four garages in the area.

They also expressed concern that the business would grow into a large operation.

Threatened For Refusing To Purchase Liquor

Sandra McGunnigle of 57 Grafton St., Quincy Point, told police last week she was assaulted by a youth wearing red earrings who threatened her with a knife after she refused to buy him liquor.

She said the youth approached her outside

Fleischman's Liquor Mart, 603 Washington St., Quincy Point, and asked her to buy him some liquor.

When she told him, "No," she said, he pulled a knife and said, "how would you like your neck sliced open?" McGunnigle fled into the store and called police.

The youth was described as white, about 17, 5-foot-8, with short blond hair, wearing a black jacket, jeans and two earrings inlaid with red stones.

Lydon Pledges Fair Tax Classification

City Council President John J. Lydon Jr. has pledged "a fair and equitable distribution of the tax load" when property in the city is classified for purposes of taxation.

"It has been my concern that the process would become politicized with neither resident nor business witnessing long-term gain," he said Monday after his re-election.

"It is my caution that the fair route down not mean a windfall for business or resident."

Here is the text of Lydon's remarks at the first city Council meeting of the new year:

Embarking upon the second session of this City Council and the second year of my presidency, I look with great satisfaction upon our most recent past.

With a sameness of purpose, the administration and this City Council have successfully negotiated a path through the difficult dilemmas imposed upon us by Proposition 2½. With neither significant cuts in the provision of public safety, our primary responsibility, nor public services; we have developed a municipal organization that can respond to the pressing demands of today's society; yet operate at a minimum of cost. We continue to develop and implement those financial management tools and programs which will allow this municipality to follow its course on a sound financial footing.

Our commitment to public safety continues as illustrated by the rehiring of the 22 firefighters who had been laid off by earlier cuts. We will endeavor to continue this strong commitment to the organizations and individuals who provide for the safety of you, the citizens.

After court-ordered revaluation, this city must deal with the issue of classification. Because of my discussions with both the administration and fellow City Councillors, it is my belief that this issue will be dealt with fairly. It has been my concern that the process would become politicized with neither resident nor business witnessing long-term gain. It is my caution that the fair route does not mean a windfall for business or resident, but is rather a fair and equitable distribution of the tax load.

It has always been my contention that this City Council is that wing of government which is most closely associated with responding to residents. For that reason I have endeavored to improve upon the City Council office. This we have enlarged, along with our staff. It is my feeling and belief that these new facets of the Council, along with the advantages of cable television, bring us closer to the people and allow us to better respond to their individual needs. Further, it brings to our municipality a new openness in government. We have taken government out of and away from those who would have it conducted in back rooms and placed it where our residents may view it and participate in it.

Relative to economic development, this I continue to view as the promise of the future. With the continued opening of major complexes such as the Quincy Center Plaza, the SCI Office Buildings, Monarch's I, II and III; this city, through the efforts of the Planning Department, continues to forge a strong and exciting future. Importantly, we have not done this at the expense of our residents.

"We continue in our park rehabilitation work,

Ambulance Looted

William Ryan of Boston, an emergency medical technician, reported to police Monday that a Bay State Ambulance unit was entered at City Hospital and equipment stolen.

Listed as missing were assorted medical dressings, bandage shears, a stethoscope and blood pressure cuffs. The vehicle was parked by Gordon House.

neighborhood street resurfacing, tree planting, and neighborhood business programs. We continue our emphasis upon providing social services to the needy. And in this coming year, we will pass the million dollar mark in our Neighborhood Housing Loan Program. With federal community development money and upon completion, each major neighborhood will have its own complete loan pool which will provide - Ad Infinitum - for the rehabilitation of our city's most precious commodity, our residents' homes."

I am optimistic about our future as a city. I am excited about our future. There is a renewed vibrancy and sense of direction. There is a rebirth of purpose and feeling of urgency.

This Council and this administration share a sameness of purpose. That purpose being to make Quincy a better place for her residents. To that end we are irrevocably committed.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

Dog Crime Deterrent

Unquestionably a dog in the house or yard is a deterrent to an intruder.

A large intimidating dog, or even a small dog with a big bark, is an added risk factor for a thief who is not really interested in taking risks.

If you are at home when someone breaks in, a dog's sensitive nose or ears can give you an early warning. But bear in mind that a dog is not infallible.

Dogs can be trained to watch, to bark, to attack, but they cannot be trained to distinguish between an intruder and your neighbor's 5-year-old child or your visiting aunt.

Generally, they will not refuse any kind of food, even poisoned or doped food offered to them by a thoughtful burglar to put them out of action.

An attack dog can be any large animal trained to be aggressive toward strangers and protective of family members.

But, because such dogs can be terribly vicious, they sometimes generate more problems than they solve.

One incident of overaggression against an innocent party could involve the dog owner in a ruinous lawsuit.

Rather than an attack dog, choose one that is capable of creating a lot of noise.

Noise is what scared away intruders and that's really all you want from a watchdog.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the executive director of the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services?
2. The Thomas B. Pollard School is named for: a former mayor of Quincy? a former school superintendent? a former principal of the school?
3. What well known Quincy business establishment is located at 1604 Hancock St.?
4. True or false: The original name of Germantown was Palmer's Neck.
5. Wedgewood St. is located in what section of the city?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz.

1. Thomas F. Brownell is the state representative from the Second Norfolk District.
2. Quincy achieved its highest school enrollment of 17,080 in 1971.
3. Jim's Diner is located at 126 Quincy Ave.
4. False. Patricia Toland was the third woman elected to the Quincy City Council.
5. Prout St. is located in the South Quincy section of the city.

No Donnelly Mayor Bid

Mayor Kevin White may have all kinds of investigators nosing around Boston City Hall but luck is still roaming the corridors, too.

Congressman Brian Donnelly, according to close sources, will not challenge White as a candidate this year.

Which should be some good news, for a change, for White. A recent poll reportedly shows that of all the potential challengers mentioned, Donnelly was No. 1.

Back in November, Donnelly frankly admitted he was considering running for mayor and that there were people ready to support and back his candidacy. But he decided not to.

Then he apparently had second thoughts and began to warm up to the idea.

Donnelly lives in Dorchester and is not happy with the way White runs the city or does things. And, he would probably support White's opponent, whoever that might turn out to be.

Donnelly, according to those around him, would one day like to be mayor of Boston. But he has decided not to make the run this year.

But, four years from now, he probably will do it.

DONNELLY

MILESTONE: How time flies. Remember back in 1959 when James McIntyre ran for mayor against Amelio Della Chiesa? McIntyre was 29 then and some people thought he was too young to be mayor. "Just a kid," they insisted, returning Della Chiesa to office. Well, that kid is now a grandfather.

His grandson, James Lewis Engelke was baptized Sunday at St. John's Church, Quincy. Parents are daughter, Elizabeth, and son-in-law Marine First Lt. Andrew Engelke. Who are living in New River, N.C. where he has been assigned after recently winning his wings.

Well, maybe you can believe that the former "kid" mayoral candidate is now a grandfather. But his wife, Sheila, really looks too young to be a granny.

THE MANY VOLUNTEERS who have given us a hand at The Sun during the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethons are saddened by the death of George Tobin, father of former mayor Arthur Tobin, who died this week at age 85.

We all looked forward to seeing him come in with a number of coffee jars and cans filled with pennies for the fishbowl to help Jerry's Kids. He used to collect and save the pennies from one telethon to the next. He'd start the new collection the day after Labor Day.

GEORGE TOBIN

And he would call weeks ahead to let us know we could count on him coming in.

After his death, this week, the family found in his home a jar of coins marked for Labor Day, 1983. We're all going to miss him.

REMEMBER William Ellis? He was Ward 6 City Councillor back in 1958-61 and served as council President. He and his wife, Katherine, have been living in Ft. Pierce, Fla. for some time now. He underwent a triple heart by-pass a few months ago, and writes, Katherine, he "has come back fine."

CITY COUNCILLOR Leo Kelly came to the rescue when Larry Butler, who helps tabulate the votes election nights, had a piece of food caught in his throat during a holiday social hosted by City Clerk John Gillis. Kelly applied the Heimlich method with coaching from Theresa Gacica of the clerk's office, and dislodged the food.

SIGN OF THE TIMES. — Father William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, took a little license with the Bible at Sunday's family liturgy. In explaining the feast of Epiphany to the youngsters, he referred to the "three wise people" who visited the Christ Child. He also illustrated that term by having two boys and a girl portray the long ago visitors. "You have to bow to the customs of the time," explained Fr. McCarthy.

Grateful For Help Given Her Daughter

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the unidentified individuals who helped my daughter, Dorothy Woodward.
On December 29, approximately at 8:30 a.m.

she was on her way home from working the night shift as a nurse when she had a car accident on Gallivan Boulevard in Dorchester. My daughter was hurt and bleeding when two men came along and offered their welcomed assistance.

One of the gentlemen took her immediately to the Carney Hospital for treatment and then left. My daughter was shaken up and realized later that she had not gotten the names of either of the gentlemen. Hopefully they will read this and realize how grateful we are for all they did. If not, at least the public has heard a story about the goodness in our fellow man, which is something we don't hear often enough.

'Bah, Hum-Bug'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
While the citizens of Quincy were busy preparing for the holiday season, E.T. and his friends were at Quincy High School, in the administration office, making a gift list for the Ambiguous # 7 (School Committee), who had just completed another year of school closings and budget cuts, at the expense of quality education.

E.T. feeling uneasy around people was looking for a place to shop that was uninhabited by human life. In searching for the proper environment and knowing the Quincy School System better than anybody else, he decided to shop in the Ward 2 area of Quincy.
With his shopping list in hand, E.T. entered the now abandoned Pollard School. He decided to take only those items that the Ambiguous # 7 considered valuable. He ordered his friends to take the doors, ceiling tiles, stage curtains, toilets, urinals, and electrical fixtures, leaving just a shell, as a Christmas present, for the residents of Ward 2, who are working hard to have the school converted to a gymnasium and community center, for the Ward.

Before E.T. leaves this planet for another world, I would like to say "Bah-Hum-Bug" to him and his friends, for the Christmas present they left Ward 2.

Emergency Food Center To Serve The Needy

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Ribbon cutting ceremonies for an emergency food center were held Monday night at the Southwest Community Center on Granite St. during Quincy Community Action Week.

And, as at most such occasions, refreshments were served. Only this time, the food was of a special nature.

"It was all made from surplus food," said Mary Brelsford, center director.

"We want people to know that when we say salvage food, we mean good, hearty food."

And that's what is available at the center for needy individuals referred by churches, neighborhood centers and the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

There are items with a shelf life that is nearly up, cereals in boxes whose tops have been damaged, and overstocks of candy from holidays such as Halloween. There are also gourmet foods from CETA's culinary arts department, United States Department of Agriculture surplus commodities and a range of other items.

The food comes from a variety of sources including stores, and food drives by students from schools such as Archbishop Williams, Sterling Middle, and St.

Mary's, employees such as those from Quincy City Hospital.

There are also donations from individuals, church groups such as St. John's and the PSSB, and businesses such as Hancock Bank which donated $600, the prize money won by the bank's float in the Christmas parade.

"We've received about a ton of food," said Mrs. Brelsford who also noted that about that much food has already been given away since Thanksgiving prior to the official opening of the center.

The number of donations by individuals seems particularly notable in a time when so many are out of work.

"People stop by with bags full of food," said Mrs. Brelsford. "One woman has brought in 95 pounds of food."

A man who donated $20 last month to the center explained to Mrs. Brelsford, "I'm working and I don't want to see anyone else go hungry at Christmas."

Food recipients are often touchingly grateful.

Mrs. Brelsford told of a woman with three children who had been living on spaghetti. At the food center, she was offered beef cooked by the CETA culinary arts department and she started to cry.

EMERGENCY FOOD CENTER at the Southwest Community Center on Granite St. was officially opened during ribbon cutting ceremonies Monday night. Sharing in the honors were Charles Sullivan, chairman, and Mary Brelsford, director.

"She said that she hadn't had red meat since she could remember," said Mrs. Brelsford.

Mrs. Brelsford said that food containers as well as food will be gratefully accepted. Arrangements for pick up can be made by calling Stephen DeWald, food bank coordinator, at 471-0796.

Charles Sullivan, a senior vice president at Hancock Bank and chairman of the food center, said that tax deductible contributions are also welcome.

Committee members also include Rev. Roger Kvam, First Presbyterian Church; Rev. Winston Clark, Quincy Point Congregational Church; Rev. William McCarthy, St. John's Church; Pat Yovino and Cecile Sterin, Atlantic Neighborhood Center; Doris Folger and Robert Taylor of the PSSB.

QNHS Taking Applications For Loans

Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services is taking applications for home improvement loans during the month of January.

To qualify for a loan, one must reside in the target area of Southwest, own the house lived in, and be unable to secure a conventional bank loan.

"With home improvement loans still averaging 17 per cent, many people have been unable to replace roofs, fix plumbing and electrical systems, or maintain the appearance of their home," said Jane Ford, executive director of the Quincy NHS.

"It's not only the elderly on fixed incomes who are unbankable. Many families, even with both parents working, cannot afford to do even necessary repairs."

Each loan application taken is reviewed on the basis of financial need and type of work to be done. The program has three rehab priorities: health and safety problems, energy conservation, and exterior cosmetic improvements. The rate of interest varies, but the average loan rate was 7 per cent for the first program year.

To see if you qualify for a loan, call the Quincy NHS office at 770-2227. The office is located at 266 Water St., and is open from 8:30 - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Snow Costs Highest In State

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa told the City Council that the cost of snow removal in Quincy is one of the highest in the state and if something is not done to cut the expense "we'll go broke over it."

Fellow City Councilors joined in criticism of what they called waste of the taxpayers money, particularly through inadequate supervision of hired truckers who were paid $17.50 an hour.

26 Years Ago

Councillor Charles L. Shea suggested that the city might get better response from hired equipment if councillors were empowered to fire on the spot any men on a hired truck who are seen to be idle.

Councillor James R. McIntyre requested City Manager Edward T. Lewis to analyze Quincy's snow removal costs and methods compared to other cities and see if buying equipment is cheaper than hiring it.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that $223,800, more than two-thirds of the new equipment requests by the Public Works Department, is earmarked for the purchase of 26 pieces of snow removal equipment.

It would include one bulldozer, $14,000; two salt spreaders, $1,000; 12 sidewalk plows, $57,600; two jeeps, $6,000; four Walters snow fighters, $120,000; and four plow blades, $4,800.

Also one trench digger for the Sewer Division which could be used for snow removal.

This week will deal with the PROCEDURES involved for the COMPLETION of a PROFESSIONAL MANICURE.

Carefully re-examine the nails for defects. Use the fine side of an emery board to give the nails a smooth beveled edge. Remove the remaining pieces of cuticle. If required, repair split or broken nails.

Apply base coat to the left hand with long strokes, starting with the little finger and working towards the thumb. Allow it to dry until "lick to a light touch." With a camel's hair brush dipped into the polish, apply lightly and quickly with sweeping strokes, from the base to the free edge of the nail. Remove excess polish by using a cotton-tipped orangewood stick. Apply carefully around the cuticles and nail edges. Apply a top or seal coat to the left hand with long strokes. Brush around and under the nail tips for added support and protection.

Next, apply a base coat to the right hand, starting with the little finger and working towards the thumb. With a camel's hair brush, apply nail polish to the nails of the right hand, using sweeping strokes. Remove excess polish with a cotton-tipped orangewood stick and apply a top or seal coat. Finally, apply hand lotion with light manipulations over the hands, from the wrists to the fingertips. This completes the PROCEDURES for a PLAIN PROFESSIONAL MANICURE.

ALCOHOL FATAL TO TOTS

It doesn't take much alcohol to kill a child. According to Dr. Richard Morality, Director of the National Poison Center, "Alcohol poisoning is becoming more and more common among children under the age of five."

It doesn't take much alcohol to kill a child and the major problem is that there is no antidote once it depresses the nervous system or drops the blood sugar level low enough for death to occur. That is why alcohol is so dangerous when consumed by tots. The ability to metabolize alcohol is directly related to the body weight. The less you weigh, the less you can handle. That's why alcohol and small children are such a dangerous combination.

How do children consume the liquor? The largest number of cases showing up at emergency rooms are from children finding many unfinished drinks around on a Sunday morning after a parental party the night before. The answer is simple. No matter how tired you may be after you host a party, make sure that all the drinks are removed and poured down the sink. Then go to bed.

Comdr. Stephen Keith Receives Navy Medal

A 1962 graduate of North Quincy High School, Comdr. Keith was recognized "for meritorious achievement" while serving as the officer in charge of Patrol Squadron Ninety-Two, Naval Air Station, South Weymouth, Mass., from August 1980 to August 1982.

He was cited by Rear Admiral Frederick F. Palmer, chief of naval reserve, for "his keen foresight and management talent," which "resulted in a complete revitalization of Patrol Squadron Ninety-Two."

Comdr. Keith, the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Keith of Quincy, is married to the former Nancy M. O'Donnell, daughter of Edward J. O'Donnell of Quincy. The Keiths reside in Springfield, Va., with their two sons, Stephen T. Jr., 12, and Christopher S. 10.

He enlisted in the active naval reserve in July 1966 after receiving a B.S. degree from Boston University. After he completed flight officer training in 1967, he was attached to Patrol Squadron Twenty-one in Kingsville, Texas, and Training Squadron Twenty-seven, Corpus Christi, Texas.

After he received an M.S. degree in aeronautical engineering from the Navy Post-Graduate School in Monterey, Calif., in 1973, he served a previous tour with Patrol Squadron Ninety-two. This was followed by a tour at the Naval Weapons Engineering Support Activity in Washington.

His other awards and decorations include the Navy Achievement Medal, the Naval Reserve Medal and the Humanitarian Service Medal.

Two great ways to earn money market rates
at Quincy Savings Bank.

You make the choice.

You have some money to invest. Maybe a few thousand. Perhaps a lot more. You want to earn money market rates, locally, where you can get more personal service. Where you have a wide choice of insured investment alternatives. And where you can take care of other financial needs as well.

You know better than anyone what's important to you, what your investment strategy is.

That's why Quincy Savings now is offering its new Super NOW account, along with Excellerate Plus.

Our Super NOW is an excellent way to earn high money market interest while you enjoy the convenience of unlimited checking and access to your money all of the time at convenient locations, with no penalties for withdrawals.

You can open a Super NOW at Quincy Savings for as little as $2500, with the knowledge that your account is fully insured by the FDIC and the Deposit Insurance Fund of Massachusetts.

You earn a competitive money market rate on every dollar in your Super NOW account above $2500 and 5¼% interest on balances below that level.

There are no restrictions on the number of checks you can write or the dollar amount. And the minimum fee is just $1.00 a month, or 15¢ a check. (If you're 65 years of age or older, or have a direct deposit plan here, your Super NOW account is free.)

Our Super NOW also entitles you to a REDI-CASH Card which you can use 24 hours a day at all of our handy automated teller machines and at more than 100 other bank and supermarket locations in eastern Massachusetts.

Reintroducing
/// EXCELLARATE /// PLUS

Now that you know about our new Super NOW, you should also know about our Excellerate Plus and Excellerate accounts, which also earn money market rates.

Excellerate Plus is our new insured money market deposit account. You can open yours for $2500 and until January 10 we will guarantee a rate of 10% on the entire balance, as long as you maintain the required minimum of $2500.

Excellerate Plus has no management fees. As an insured investment account, it allows you to write up to three checks per month, plus three transfers, or a total of six transactions.

... and /// EXCELLARATE

Simply stated, you can open an Excellerate account for as little as $10, the minimum balance to earn our 5¼% checking account rate. But when your Excellerate balance exceeds $2,000, we automatically invest the money over that amount into a repurchase agreement* which pays you a money market rate equal to the Donoghue Money Fund 30-Day Average.TM

Squantum Church Service Held In Fellowship Hall

Before a roaring fire in the fireplace, the First Church of Squantum held its first service of the season Sunday in Fellowship Hall instead of the sanctuary.

The congregation moves its worship services to this downstairs room each winter to conserve heat.

Gathered at small tables about the room, worshippers joined in the usual activities of worship and a few more besides. Some small group interaction at the tables was added to the service as well as an art project as part of the scripture reading.

Since the scripture for the morning was the entire book of Jonah, each table was asked to produce one scene from the life of that Old Testament prophet. The completed pictures were then hung on the wall. It was from these that the church pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached a sermon entitled, "Which Way To Go?"

Music for the service was provided by guitarists Andrew Ogilvie, Steven Williams and Mary Ruth Scott. Ushers were Jim and Michael Stamos, a father and son. Refreshments were prepared by Hazel Mayne and Grace Holmes. The service lasts an hour and a half.

The message of the second service was "Resolutions for the New Year." As the offertory anthem, the Chancel Choir sang Henry Purcell's "Rejoice in the Lord Always", a musical setting of the scripture reading of the day from Paul's letter to the Philippians.

Greeters for the second service were Janet Sumner and Doris Longmire. Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Jennie Preston and Eva Martin.

The schedule for Sunday afternoon youth activities at the church for the new year is this: Youth Church (practical churchmanship) at 3 p.m.; Recreation at 3:45 p.m.; Cinnamon Toast (Christian education) from 4:15 to 5:15 p.m. with Youth Choir from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Youth fellowships at the church will meet at these times: Orange Crush, Mondays at 3:30 p.m.; and Seven-Up, Fridays at 7 p.m. There will be two services again next Sunday morning, at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. The Lord's Supper will be observed during the second service.

Islamic Community Honors Haj Mohamed Omar

Haj Mohamed Omar of Quincy was recently honored at a testimonial dinner for his years of service to the Islamic Community in Greater Boston and to the Muslims in New England.

Relatives and friends attended the dinner at the Chateau de Ville in Randolph. Imam Talal Eid gave the opening Dua.

Dr. Mian Ashraf opened the testimonial with a welcoming address and recapped the highlights of Omar's life.

Omar and other immigrants came to this country to raise their families. A small group of these Muslims organized and founded the Arab-American Banner Society that later led to the formation of the Islamic Center of New England.

A certificate and plaque from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts were presented to Omar by Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli. Norfolk

Haj Mohamed Omar

County Sheriff Clifford Marshall presented him with an honorary certificate and badge appointing him an honorary deputy marshal of Norfolk County.

Haj Aziz Abraham, president of the Islamic Center of New England, presented Omar with an engraved plaque.

On behalf of friends of Omar, Dr. Mohammed Wafai presented a robe and expressed appreciation.

Robert Derbes, of the Derbes family, presented Omar an inscribed plaque.

Toufic Hajjar, president of the Sons of Lebanon Society, expressed appreciation for cooperation with the Lebanese Christian groups in the area.

Omar's son, John Omar of Quincy, also spoke as did other family members.

Also on hand for the ceremonies were Omar's other children, Richard Omar and David Omar, both of Braintree; and Mary Hassan of Weymouth.

Daughter Haseba of Arizona could not attend.

Omar, who also has 22 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren, thanked those at the dinner and expressed the hope that he would be able to serve them for many more years to come.

Dr. Mian Ashraf was chairman of the dinner.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Donald M. Deware
Director

A New Year is here. The old year probably had moments of fear, distress, disappointment and unfulfilled hopes. But you had days of good cheer, beauty, variety and happiness too. It is the usual pattern of life.

There is really no use in mourning the past year or the years before. The New Year is here for all of us. It gives all of us a chance for new hopes, new dreams, new individuals if we make it so. It gives us a new chance to have good intentions; a chance to have whole-hearted instead of half-hearted resolution to do better. It gives us a chance to live better through guidance from the Good Book and the counsel therein. It gives us a chance to do good things; write long delayed letters, live cheerfully with new understanding and concern for others. It gives us a chance to have new enthusiasm.

It is a God given opportunity for all of us. Can you thank of any reason why any one should not at least try to make the most of it?

Mass, Dinner Jan. 15

Fr. McMahon To Be Honored On 40th Anniversary

Parishioners of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, are planning a testimonial Mass and dinner for their pastor, Rev. John J. McMahon Saturday, Jan. 15, in honor of his 40th anniversary as a Catholic priest.

There will be a concelebrated Mass in the church at 6 p.m., followed by a dinner and dance in Mullarkey Hall.

The Most Rev. Thomas V. Daily, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Boston and Chancellor of the Archdiocese, will preside at the Mass and speak at the dinner. Earl Hannafin's orchestra will provide music for dancing.

More than 400 people are expected to attend the dinner, according to Leo F. Meady, general chairman.

Other committee members include Rev. Richard G. Lennon, associate pastor at St. Mary's, honorary chairman; the Sisters of St. Joseph, who staff St. Mary's elementary school; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beatson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donohue, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eames, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fay, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gaudiano, Mrs. Rose Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. George Kanelos, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kilcommons, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lally, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas

McDonald, Mrs. Leo Meady, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Callaghan, Mr. and Mrs. James Schlager, Mr. and Mrs. James Shea, Mr. and Mrs. James Triglia, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Verrochi.

Almost half of Fr. McMahon's priesthood has been spent at St. Mary's. He was first assigned there in 1964. Four years later, he succeeded the late Rt. Rev. Cornelius Donovan as pastor.

Following his graduation from Boston College he was ordained by the late Richard Cardinal Cushing on Jan. 6, 1943.

Other assignments were at St. John's in Canton, Immaculate Conception parish in East Weymouth, St. Margaret's in Lowell and St. William's in Dorchester.

His 19 years at St. Mary's makes him the dean of all South Shore priests from the point of service at any one parish.

'Twentieth Century Theologians' Course To Begin Sunday

Rev. Dr. Theodore E. Romberg will teach an adult class entitled "Twentieth Century Theologians" beginning Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at Wollaston United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

The course will introduce several contemporary theologians with a biography, summary of their thought, and a brief reading from their works.

Intended to help participants understand the revolution in contemporary theology, it will cover such theologians as Albert Schweitzer, Karl Barth, Rudolf Bultman, Teilhard de Chardin and Paul Tillich.

Rev. Dr. Romberg is co-pastor of the United Methodist Cooperative Parish of Quincy and Professor of Philosophy and Religion at Emerson College in Boston.

Dr. Romberg has been a theologian for the World

He is a Professor and has lectured in the U.S.S.R., Japan, many countries in Europe and throughout the United States.

The course is open to the public, and everyone is welcome.

9 Churches Participating

Feast Of Lights Service At Sacred Heart Sunday

The seventh annual ecumenical Epiphany Feast of Lights Service will be held Sunday 7:30 p.m. at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

The event, growing in popularity, is under the sponsorship of the Inter-Church Council of Wollaston and North Quincy, which lists nine member congregations.

Open to the public, the service will feature several choral works performed by the Eastern Nazarene College a cappella choir, under the direction of Professor Greg Larkin. The college's Brass Ensemble, directed by Professor Robert Howard, will also share in the service.

The Rev. Walter Wnek, pastor of United Methodist Co-Operative Parish, North Quincy, will deliver a brief homily. Clergy and laity from all member churches will participate. A social hour will follow the service.

A candle-lighting ceremony is a central feature of the event, representing the light of Christ entering the world and "gradually spreading through time and space," according to the Rev. William D. Underhill of St. Chrysostom's Church, chairman of the Planning Committee.

"The candle-lighting ceremony climaxes with each worshipper holding a lighted candle to carry forth into the world," he said.

Members of the Inter-Church Council include Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church, Sacred Heart (Roman Catholic) Church, Union Congregational Church, First Church of Squantum, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, as well as St. Chrysostom's (Episcopal) Church.

The committee planning the service points out that this Feast of Lights is for the entire community and open to the public. There will be ample room for all who wish to attend.

Epiphany Concert At German Church

Local residents are invited to celebrate the close of the holiday season by attending the Epiphany Concert Sunday, Jan. 9, at 3 p.m. at Boston's historic old German Church of the Holy Trinity, 140 Shawmut Ave.

The Cambridge Chorale, an ensemble of 25 young women, will present seasonal music at the free concert.

In an event planned by the church Missionary Committee to celebrate the denomination's 25th anniversary year, Dr. Evans will be the national representative.

Dr. Evans has held the national position for 15 years, and prior to that top 25 years served in local churches. As secretary, he is responsible for the official records of the Church, and is also one of its chief spokesperson throughout the country. He frequently represents the Executive Committee and the President of the Church at various gatherings.

Recipient of several honorary degrees, Dr. Evans is a noted preacher. He was educated in the public schools of Chicago, and did his graduate work at Yale.

Following morning worship, there will be a dinner at noon. A program involving children, a visual presentation, and remarks by Dr. Evans will follow the dinner, with an opportunity to question him and to meet him personally.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Clark, Chairperson of the Missionary Committee, announces the celebration is open to all, cordially invites the public to attend and requests that dinner reservations be made through the Church Office (773-6424). The church is located at 444 Washington St.

John McIntyre MIANE Vice-President

John L. McIntyre of 40 Ocean St., Squantum, was elected vice-president of the Military Intelligence Association of New England (MIANE) at its recent meeting.

McIntyre served with the U.S. Army Counterintelligence Corps in Germany as a special agent.

Other Quincy residents elected by MIANE were Isadore Zack, secretary, and John Creeth, treasurer. John Farley of Braintree will head a special committee for good and welfare.

Our repair policy hasn't changed; we'll still fix your phone. As long as it's one of ours.

There's good news about telephone repairs: no news.

New England Telephone lines and equipment will still be maintained at no additional charge.

How do you get repairs?

The first step is to call a New England Telephone Repair Center. If you need repairs on a home phone, call Residence Repair at 1 555-1611; if you need repairs on a business phone or phone system, call Business Repair, 1 555-1515.

Our repair people will discuss your problem with you, and determine whether it's in the phone or the line. If a simple replacement of the phone is indicated, they'll direct you to a nearby New England Telephone Service Center (formerly Bell PhoneCenters) or other locations where you can exchange your broken phone, at your convenience, for a working model. Or they'll ship a telephone to you.

Replacements will be provided subject to availability.

If a visit to your home or business by a repair technician is required, they'll schedule one for you.

What about line repairs?

New England Telephone will still make all telephone line repairs. So your service will be as dependable as ever, no matter where you buy or lease your telephones.

What if your phone isn't one of ours?

This policy hasn't changed, either. If your phone isn't leased or purchased from us, you'll have to take it back to the store where it was purchased, or determine its manufacturer's repair policy.

What's next?

A recent ruling by the Federal Communications Commission has affected how you'll get service or telephone equipment from New England Telephone.

But despite these changes, New England Telephone will still be your local company. We'll be here, working harder than ever to see you through any coming changes. And doing our best to see that you barely notice any change at all.

But to do our job right, we need to stay in touch with you. So let's talk. If you have any questions, call us on our "Let's Talk" number 1 800 555-5000. We've got the answers.

Text Of Mayor McCauley's Mid-Term Address

(The text of Mayor Francis McCauley's mid-term address.)

"I'm going to spend a little time this morning discussing for you about the progress that we've made in the city of Quincy over the past year and then I'm going to take a brief look ahead into 1983."

On Monday, Jan. 4, 1982, at ceremonies at the Vocational Technical School I was sworn into office as the 30th mayor of the city of Quincy but the 27th person. During those inauguration ceremonies I touched on some of the jobs, the ex officio jobs that the mayor inherits, by virtue of our Plan A form of government. I mentioned that one of the important jobs I assumed was as chairman of the School Committee and I noted that in the past there had been a lack of communication between the general city government and the School Committee and I thought that I could be a bridge between those two bodies. I also planned and pledged to be a very active School Committee chairman. I pledged that I would attend all meetings of the School Committee. Looking back this morning I find that with one exception, a special meeting called while I was on vacation, I did do that, I did attend those meetings.

School Plan Goal Met

"I also set a goal for the School Committee during my remarks that morning and that goal was to have a school reorganization plan in place no later than the second meeting in February. I'm pleased to announce this morning that that goal was met. On Jan. 24 the Quincy School Committee by majority vote did adopt a plan of school reorganization. That plan closed four additional elementary schools in the city of Quincy and shifted the school structure from an elementary school, three-year junior high school, three-year high school to the middle school concept. At that meeting, on my motion the School Committee, by majority vote, directed the superintendent to bring in a school budget for fiscal 1983 that reflected a decrease in school spending of some $3 million. Later on we reduced that amount by $350,000 surplus the schools were generating in 1982. I am pleased to announce that the school reorganization plan was implemented on Wednesday, Sept. 8, and at this time I would like to thank Mrs. Collins the vice chairman of the School Committee and all the members of the School Committee as well as Dr. Creighton and the School Department for the cooperation they have given me in 1982.

$700,000 Back Taxes Collected

"In December, prior to taking office, I directed the then-city Auditor William Grindlay and the then-City Treasurer Robert Foy to prepare for me an analysis of the financial position of the city of Quincy. That report was brought to me the first part of January a year ago. And one number literally jumped off the page. The number said there was some $6,878,000 in uncollected property taxes in the city of Quincy. I then directed then-Treasurer Foy to prepare for a list of the top 10 delinquent taxpayers. Bob asked if there was any significance in the number 10. I said, no, I guess I was thinking of the FBI's list of the 10 most wanted that has been published since 1950. Bob brought me a list of 12. These 12 individuals and firms owed some $3 million in uncollected property taxes and interest. I then sat down with City Solicitor William Golden when he took office in February 1982. My instructions to Solicitor Golden were simple. I said, 'Bill, go collect that money.' I'm pleased to announce that after some 12 months of intense effort, of the $3 million, some $700,000 has been collected and we have under agreement some $600,000.

"In March of 1982, we sent a special mailing to all those people who had not yet paid their 1980 property taxes. We asked them to pay them soon so we could keep their names out of the newspapers. That mailing yielded $115,000 in a period of 10 days. Nov. 28, through Dec. 3 we sent out another mailing. This time to qualify for that letter you had to owe at least $5,000 in back taxes. There were some 102 individuals that owed $1,200,000 in back taxes on this list. And now, a month later, I'm pleased to report that Mr. Jay, our treasurer, has collected $172,000 of those taxes. Now it is important for the financial condition and position of this city to collect these taxes. It's equally important that taxpayers of this city know that the McCauley administration will continue to conduct an intensive ongoing program for collection of these taxes. We don't make deals for the collection of these back taxes. We don't discount what you owe. We don't waive the interest. What we will do is enter into agreements with you to pay the taxes over a period of time. I'd just like to thank City Solicitor William Golden for the very great effort he has done in this particular area.

$3 Million For Sewers

"In June, the Quincy City Council, on my recommendation, adopted a sewer user ordinance. That ordinance embodied a plan which we hoped would make us eligible for state and federal funding for the renovation of our aging sewer system in the city of Quincy. In October, the state approved our plan. I then directed Commissioner of Public Works Paul Anderson to prepare the necessary applications so that we can obtain these grants. On Thursday, Dec. 23, I went Christmas shopping for the people of Quincy. My shopping trip took me to the governor's office on Beacon Hill. The governor was most generous. He welcomed us and after the usual pleasantries were done he sat back in his chair and he said, 'Frank, what can I do for my favorite Republican mayor?' I said, 'Governor, I have two items I'd like to talk about this morning, one of them being the sewer problem. I enlisted his help to expedite approval at the state level. That meeting started a week of intense effort. Mr. Paul Anderson, my commissioner of public works, working at the local level; Gov. King's office taking a personal involvement at the state level; and we also contacted Cong. Brian Donnelly for his help at the federal level. At 4 o'clock, Dec. 30, I received a call directly from the governor's office and as a result of that call I'm pleased to announce this morning that the city of Quincy has received approval from the state and federal governments for some $3,443,000 in sewer grants which will help repair and reconduct our sewer lines in the city of Quincy. This announcement has got to be good news for Councillor Jim Sheets in Ward 4 and Councillor DeCristofaro in Ward 2. Their constituents have been impacted adversely over a number of years. The situation has been so critical that a sewer ban has been in effect throughout certain parts of south West Quincy. Once again, this was a prime example of cooperation among local government, state government and the federal government.

Data Processing

"In October, the Quincy City Council, on my recommendation, approved an ordinance to set up a Department of Data Processing. A companion agreement, negotiated between the city government and the School Department, resulted in the turning over of the school computer to the city government. On Nov. 1, I appointed Mr. Robert Brennan, long term executive director of the school data processing to be my first director of data processing. Bob is at present assembling a department and he has set a time line of July 1, 1983, to start to put some of our departments and some of our records... on the computer, a very important step that's long overdue in the city of Quincy.

"On Jan. 5, one day after my inauguration, I held my first meeting with a department head. That meeting was with the director of planning, Jim Lydon. One of the items on that agenda was my concern over the large number of school buildings that had been closed by the School Department and turned over to the city of Quincy. In January a year ago, some eight schools were closed, six of which had been turned back to us. I expressed my concern to Jim Lydon and asked him to expedite the disposition of these schools. I'm pleased to announce this morning that very definite progress has been made in those six schools that we had on our rolls a year ago.

"The Great Hill School in Houghs Neck has been leased to the Houghs Neck Congregational Church for use as a community center. The Nathaniel S. Hunting School in Adams Shore will be demolished and that land divided up as house lots. The Adams School in South Quincy and the Quincy School in North Quincy are under agreement for sale and the developers are going to convert these buildings into condominiums.

Cranch Condos

"In December, we sold the Griddle Bryant School in West Quincy to the Ricciardi Co. and they will be converting that school into office space. The Cranch School disposition is presently before the City Council. There are two plans for the disposition of that school.

"One plan that has the support of some neighborhood groups is to demolish the building and rezone the area and preserve it as open space. The second plan, which has the approval of the Planning Board is to sell that property to a developer for some $150,000 and convert the building to condominiums. I've given an awful lot of thought to the disposition of this school and I've talked to many people about it. It is my recommendation that the City Council act favorably on the request to sell the school for condominiums. It's my feeling that 15 condominium units will not impact that neighborhood to any great extent and it would be in the interest of the city to do this. And if the City Council does decide to sell the property I will sign the order. Assuming that they do this, the four schools that we have sold or are under agreement to sell would yield some $821,000 to the city of Quincy and additional money will be coming in for the sale of the house lots at the Hunting School site.

"On Dec. 6, the Quincy City Council received back three more elementary school buildings, the Willard School in West Quincy, the Massachusetts Fields School in Wollaston and the Thomas B. Pollard School in Quincy Point. I have already had a meeting with Jim Lydon and he is preparing developers' kits for those three schools and we're hoping to have those available for proposals from developers around the first of April. I'm hopeful that final disposition of all our school property will be completed by mid-1983. I would just like to take this opportunity to thank Jim Lydon, director of planning, and his staff for the very excellent effort they have made in getting these schools off of the city's hands and back into use.

Validated Parking

"On Dec. 22, 1982, my administration awarded to the Kinney Systems of Boston a plan to enter into an agreement for Kinney to operate the city's downtown off-street parking areas. There are some 1,442 spaces in the John Hancock lot, the Ross parking area and the Ross garage. It has been my feeling and the feeling of many of our business people that the era of the parking meter as a method of traffic control is long since past.

"The key element in the Kinney plan is a system of validated parking whereby merchants would participate and buy validated stickers and they would distribute these to their customers. So theoretically someone could come to downtown Quincy and spend some hours shopping in stores that are on the validation plan and leave without having to pay any money, let alone running the risk of paying a $5 ticket. In the mayor's office over the past year we received many of these tickets. They don't all go to Bob Denver. They send them to my attention and they have some letters in very colorful language expressing what they feel are the deficiencies of our downtown parking plan area.

"The present status of the so-called validated parking system is that Mr. Dean Nieastro, the assistant city solicitor is in possession of a proposed lease and he is working with the city departments and with Kinney to fashion a lease that will protect the city's interest. We will be going to the City Council with a full report on this validated parking system some time between now and the end of January or the first part of February. One important ingredient in this proposal was that the city would undertake the responsibility of providing the capital equipment, ticket booths and ticket spitters, and as a result of that agreement, Jim Lydon assigned Judy Cullen of the planning Department to apply to the state for an off-street parking grant.

$100,000 For Parking

"I told you that when I went to Beacon Hill there were two things I talked to Gov. King about. The first was, of course, the sewer situation, and the second was the off street parking grant. We asked the governor's intervention and asked if he could help out. He said he would do what he could and that afternoon he called back and informed me that he was signing a grant for the city of Quincy in the amount of $100,000, which we hope will take care of the cost of that capital equipment. So once again that is an ongoing thing and we will be bringing the City Council up to date very shortly.

Sun News Channel Covers Mid-Term Session

The Quincy Sun took a big step forward this week in providing viewers of its News Channel 8 with television coverage of Quincy news.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley's mid-term address was taped at City Hall Monday morning and rebroadcast over The Sun's Channel 8 Tuesday, along with man on the street comments on McCauley's speech. Street interviews with Quincy residents on their opinions of the old year, 1982 and what they would like to see in the new year, 1983, also were aired.

Last year, Chan, 8 broadcast live from The Sun office the Quincy portion of the Jerry Lewis national muscular dystrophy telethon. "We will be using tape more and more to bring the latest Quincy news to our viewers," said Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun.

Channel 8 went on the Quincy Cablesystems programming in February. For the past 11 months, broadcasts have been mostly printed words but, said Bosworth, the channel will be using more and more video taped newscasts and then live newscasts.

will attend a conference of mayors in Washington Jan. 26 to discuss the future of the CDBG program.

"We want to have some input into the conference," he said. "We don't want this program to be diminished and we don't want it to die. It's a very important program for the city of Quincy."

McCauley also noted that close to $14 million in Industrial Revenue Bonds were authorized during his first year in office, including "the biggest chunk" to a project at 200 Newport Ave. and $2 million for the rehabilitation of the Adams Building in downtown Quincy.

McCauley said one of the major tasks that will be facing the mayor and the City Council in 1983 will be completion of the 100 per cent revaluation process, including the classification of properties as residential or commercial.

"That program started in November, 1979, when the City Council approved funds to hire PRC Jacobs to do an updating of our values," he said. "At present time an updating of those figures is underway and should be completed very shortly."

"Once that is done there will be a major decision that will have to be made by the mayor and the City Council and that is whether we should classify property on the basis of setting up a tax rate."

"It is my feeling that some form of classification will be necessary in order to soften the impact of revaluation on our homeowners. I'm not prepared to state how great or what the classification should take place."

Text Of Mayor's Address

the economic development for the city of Quincy. I pointed out that as a member of the City Council for some eight years I have a very positive approach to downtown Development. I noted that downtown development or economic development, not only our downtown area, but throughout our city, is important for two reasons: provide jobs for our citizens and tax revenue to underwrite the cost of our city government. 1982 was not the greatest year in the city of Quincy or in the country. We had a national recession. Fortunately Quincy and the state has not suffered as bad. But I think we have made some progress during 1982.

Development

"One of the areas that is a new type is the industrial revenue bonds. This is a development where private developers coming into the city can take advantage of the financing at lower interest rates that states and municipalities. I'm pleased to announce this morning that the city of Quincy and my administration and the approval of the City Council that close to $14 million in industrial revenue bonds have been authorized. The largest chunk of that money went to the 200 Newport Ave. development, the Mark Dickinson project, and I hope that is going to be utilized very shortly."

"Some $2 million was invested across the street in the Adams Building and that construction and renovation is ongoing and will be completed in the spring. There is an additional $1 million in the Manganaro Building, that's on upper Hancock St., and that project will be getting underway shortly. And then the Patriot Ledger availed themselves of three-quarters of a million dollars for the upgrading and renovation of their plant and equipment. In 1982, the Ricciardi Co., announced plans to purchase several acres of the Duane property at the foot of River St. They plan a $10 million project known as Captain's Cove in this area. There will be some 300 units of condominiums housing in that area."

"A side issue would be the fact that the Duane interests have promised to pay us several hundred thousands of dollars in back taxes that is due not only on that property but on other properties that they control in the city of Quincy. Mr. Andrew Herrey, the New York developer who developed the 100 Newport Ave., building is in the process of buying parcels in the north end of the city. He came into our office and discussed the project with Jim Lydon and myself and members of my administration and we're very enthusiastic about it and we plan to work very closely

5 Residents Named Outstanding Young Men

Five Quincy residents were selected by the Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America Awards Program to be included in the 1982 edition of the Outstanding Young Men of America publication.

The five are:

James E. Melchin, Holyoke St.; Thomas V. McNamara, Clay St.; Leo J. Bottary, Manet Ave.; Timothy P. Cahill, Packards Lane; and Edward S. Graham Jr.,

Shed St.

They were selected from nominations received from senators, congressmen, governors, mayors, state legislators, university and college presidents and deans as well as various civic groups including the national and local Jaycees.

These young men along with others from throughout North America will be featured in this prestigious annual awards publication.

Two ENC Professors Receive Ph.D Degrees

Two Quincy men, both professors at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, have received Ph.D degrees in religious studies and history.

Prof. Mark Lloyd Taylor completed degree requirements at Southern Methodist University with a dissertation entitled, "God is Love: The Study of the Christian Concept of God Based on the Theology of Karl Rahner."

Donald A. Yerxa finished his requirements at the University of Maine with a dissertation entitled, "The United States Navy and the Caribbean: 1914-1941."

Dr. Taylor is assistant professor of philosophy at ENC while Dr. Yerxa is director of admissions and assistant professor of history.

Retires After 30 Years

It Was Auld Lang Syne For Win Bettinson

By TOM HENSHAW

"Welcome to the Party Line," said Win Bettinson as he has each weekday morning at 10:30 a.m. for the past 20 years.

Then things got out of hand.

It was the 62-year-old Bettinson's last Party Line talk show on WJDA before his retirement Friday, Dec. 31, and friends from out of the past and present were on the line to wish him well and share a memory or two, all unbeknownst to Bettinson.

"This is a concerned citizen from Quincy," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, the first caller, whose concern was that Party Line, from which South Shore politicians had learned to sample public opinion, would not be the same without its genial host.

There was Ken Coleman, the voice of the Boston Red Sox, who worked for WJDA for 3½ years some 30 years ago, to welcome Bettinson to the Alumni Club and give him the ultimate accolade — "You came here and became part of the community; that's the epitome of what radio is about."

There was Don Kent of TV Channel 4, who was the WJDA weatherman when the station opened in 1947, calling from New Hampshire; and Jerry Howard, who with his friends Lizzie Perkins and Slim Pickens, is living on the Cape "making antiques to sell to the tourists next summer."

"You hired me as a teenager, a female before there was any Equal Rights Amendment," said Gail Matthews (ne Thunberg). "You did it just because it was right. You set the tone at WJDA, the standard we all had to live up to."

There were other old WJDA hands. Don

Latulippe, now with WRKO; Barry Lunderville, now with WEEI; Fred Lane, now with Channel 4; Thelma Fernald, Oscar Levesque, Bob Rissling and Ken Fallon, all now retired.

There were colleagues in the business, Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; and Ed Querazoli, managing editor of the Patriot Ledger, and Dave Keefe, general manager of Quincy Cablesystems.

And public figures like McCauley, Weymouth Selectman Jim Oteri, and Braintree Town Clerk Bob Bruynell.

"I don't know if I dare punch this button," said Bettinson at one point, his voice breaking, as he prepared to activate the next call.

Bettinson was the first and only host of the half hour Party Line show and he conducted it for 20 years with an unflappable cool even in the face of callers who seemed bound and determined to raise his wrath and win an angry retort.

"I guess it's just my makeup," said Bettinson. "It goes with what Jim Asher had in mind when he started WJDA as a family station. A lot of listeners consider us a member of the family."

Bettinson is so imbued with the spirit of WJDA that the initials of his name and those of his wife, Jean, his son, Dana, and his daughter, Andrea, make up the station's call letters.

Several times on his last Party Line show, Bettinson referred to his imminent departure as "semi-retirement."

"I plan to continue the church in the Wildwood and the Songs of Faith programs on WJDA," he said, "and I'll be on call here if they need me."

As a matter of fact, it won't be long before WJDA needs him. He'll be getting up before dawn for a couple of weeks starting Jan. 10 when colleague Roy Lind goes on vacation.

But no more party line. Joe Kenney, who filled in for Bettinson many times during the past 20 years took over the show Monday and, judging from past performance, things will be a little more volatile between the hours of 10:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. on WJDA.

Finnegan Coaching Quincy

Raiderettes Host Waltham, First Ladies At Newton

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, off to another sparkling start, took a 4-0 record into Tuesday's Suburban League opener against Quincy.

The First Ladies are now being coached by Marty Finnegan, who piloted the boys for 14 years.

Paul Bregoli's North girls will host Waltham Friday at 5 p.m. and will be home to Brookton Tuesday at 5.

The Quincy girls will be at Newton North Friday night at 8 and will be idle on Tuesday.

The North Quincy girls whose pressure defense has been outstanding all season, defeated Canton for the second time, 46-34, last Thursday for their fourth win in a row.

Canton gave North some early trouble with a collapsing man-to-man defense trying to shut down Karen Bridges' strong inside game. However, Debbie Cavanaugh hit for four first quarter points and Chris Choukas added six as the Raiderettes took an 11-6 lead.

Karen Boutilier hit a big jumper in the second quarter to give North a 16-8 lead and from then on the Raiderettes never looked back.

An aggressive 1-3-1 zone defense helped key the surge as Mary Holleran, Boutilier and Cavanaugh had several steals which led to baskets.

Bridges, who got into foul trouble, scored five third quarter points and Choukas added eight as North pulled safely away, 40-17, after three. A change in offensive strategy allowed Bridges, Choukas and Chris Donovan to dominate inside and clinch the victory.

Eileen Crehan came off the bench in the final quarter to score all six of North's points. Michelle White and Joanne Keenan handled Canton's full-court pressure flawlessly. Donovan played well replacing Bridges. Choukas led all scorers with 20 points. Bridges had 10 and Cavanaugh had four points and six steals.

Ted Stevenson's North Junior varsity topped Canton to improve its record to 3-1 with Crehan scoring 12 points.

Earlier in the week North raced out to a 23-6 first quarter lead and went on to roll over Revere, 61-26.

Choukas scored 13 first quarter points and Bridges added eight as the Raiderettes increased their lead to 29-8 at halftime.

Holleran had eight third quarter points and Choukas added six more as North pulled away, 49-14, going into the final session.

Keenan played a fine second half scoring six points and playing a solid floor game. White was also impressive with four steals, four assists and three offensive rebounds.

Choukas finished with 19 points and nine rebounds and Bridges had 14 points and 18 rebounds. Choukas was named the offensive star of the game and Holleran, who had four steals to go with her 10 points, the defensive star by Quincy Cablesystems, which televised the game.

Also playing well for North were Sandra Whitehouse, Karen Koski and Lynda Feeney.

Quincy Home To Newton, Raiders At Waltham

The Quincy and North Quincy boys' basketball teams took identical 1-2 records into Tuesday night's game following North's last second 56-54 loss to Somerville last week.

Tuesday's game was the first Suburban League game for both teams. Quincy will host Newton North Friday night and North Quincy will play at Waltham at 8 o'clock. Tuesday the Raiders will be at Brookline at 7 o'clock while the Presidents have an off-night.

Joe Amaral scored on a 12-foot jump shot with just eight seconds left last week to give Somerville its win over North Quincy.

Trailing, 44-40, after three quarters, North rallied to tie the score at 54 with 20 seconds left.

Chris Bunker, who has led the scoring in every game, again led the way with 19 points. Tim Ryan added 16 and John Phelan had six points, six assists and three steals.

The Raiders had previously beaten Cathedral and lost to Stoughton. Quincy lost its first two games to Natick and Randolph before downing Arlington for its first win.

QJC Leads Small Colleges

The Quincy Junior College basketball team completed the first half of its season leading the Greater Boston Small College Conference with a 8-1 record.

The Jaguars are 10-4 overall.

QJC, which has been idle since Dec. 17, will host Bunker Hill Community College next Wednesday at Quincy Vo-Tech. Bunker Hill is in third place in the conference with a 6-2 mark.

Quincy coach Brian Buckley feels Bunker Hill will be one of his team's biggest tests.

"We haven't faced Bunker Hill as yet, the only conference team we haven't played and they are well coached and talented. I played for their coach, Pete Saitta, at Boston State College," said Buckley.

The Jaguars have relied on a balanced scoring attack led by center Jim Conboy, averaging 19 points a game, guard Paul Gill and forward Steve Belcastro, averaging 16 points each, and guard Gary DiNardo with 12 points a game.

"Ken Mann and Ricky Anderson have sparked the defense and our bench has contributed game after game," Buckley said.

Phelan, Purland North Co-Captains

The North Quincy basketball co-captains this season are John Pheland and John Purland.

When they walk to half court to meet the opposing captains and the officials, Phelan may find an easier path there.

He is the third Phelan brother to captain a North Quincy team.

In 1975 Gerald 'Ged' Phelan and Steve Miller co-captained the Raiders under Coach Bob Nolan, who went to the state tournament and lost to Xaverian, led by current NBA player James Bailey.

In 1978 William "Wink" Phelan and Steve Germain co-captained North under present coach Ed Miller.

The three are the sons of Sam and Terri Phelan. It appeared that John would be the last of the Phelans at North, but Jim, an eighth grader at Central Middle School, is a fine player and will be attending North next year. It could be that still another Phelan will make the walk to meet the officials and opposing captains before games.

There are four other Phelan children, Teresa, Patti, Chris and Joe, all of whom attended North Quincy High.

Hennessy Eastern Representatives For Youth Athletics Congress

Jeff Hennessy of North Quincy was elected Eastern Zone representative for the Youth Athletics Committee of The Athletics Congress at the recent convention in Philadelphia.

Hennessy, 26, succeeds Mrs. Pearl McDaniels of Washington, D.C.

The Eastern Zone covers states from Maine to Virginia and as far west as Pennsylvania.

Hennessy currently is New England Athletics Congress youth chairman, coach and director of the Quincy Track Club, the largest youth club in the country, and is field events coach at North Quincy High.

A former North Quincy track captain and a member of the Greater Boston Track Club, Hennessy is responsible for overseeing the meets and programs in the Eastern Zone and is now involved in the development of a new youth program modeled after the Junior Olympic program. He will now become a member of the executive board of the National Youth Athletics Committee, the youngest ever to serve on the board.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Hennessy.

Mann, Grutchfield Lead North Over Columbus

Dick Mann, with 27, and Doug Grutchfield, with 25, combined for 52 points to lead the North Quincy High School basketball team to an easy 73 to 24 victory over Christopher Columbus of Boston in the North gym.

Pete Frederickson, whose rebounding skills were conspicuous by their absence when he missed the Weymouth game in which North was upset, 50-44, was outstanding on the board as the Raiders controlled the ball 80 per cent of the time.

North ran up a 21-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, stretched it to 38-12 at the half, then coasted the rest of the way. "The game gave us a chance to use boys who will be back next year," said Coach Jack Mullarky.

The North Quincy lineup included: Mann, Frederickson, Morrison, forwards; Grutchfield, Cornell, centers; Baldwin, Lanberg, Scanlon, Smart, guards.

QUINCY WINS ON LATE KICK

Coach Munroe MacLean's Quincy High School basketball team broke a 71-71 tie with a run of nine points in the last minute to earn an 80-71 victory over Medford at the Quincy gym to end a two-game losing streak in the Greater Boston League.

Earl Allsop, who scored 14 points for the game, put Quincy in front with a free throw, then stole the ball and drove the length of the court for a 74-71 lead and the last minute rout was on.

Tom Scanlon led the Presidents' offense with 22 points while Eddie Dunham, a transfer from Scituate, had 20.

SKATERS BOW TO HINGHAM

Art Burke scored two goals 31 seconds apart late in the third period but it was not enough as the Quincy High School hockey team lost to Hingham, 4-2, in a South Shore League game at Boston Arena.

The Quincy lineup included: Mooney, goal; Houghton, Dwyer, defense; Burke, Vient, Dettoni, forwards; Morrell, McCabe, Toland, spares.

NORTH BLANKED

Paul Houde scored the first goal at 7:04 of the opening period and assisted on the second by Dave Larking as the Archbishop Williams hockey team shut out North Quincy, 2-0, the Raiders' fourth straight loss and third whitewash.

The North Quincy lineup included: Lloyd, goal; Travers, Cook, defense; Quintiliani, Pitts, O'Neill, forwards; Ryan, Deschamp, Diering, Nangle, spares.

TENNIS AT NEW HIGH

H. Hobart Holly, reviewing the achievements of 1956 as president of the Quincy Tennis Club, boasted that "individual achievement in tennis in Quincy reached an all-time high in quality last year."

He noted that the club's boys under 16 won the New England Junior championship and that Brooks Harris of Quincy and Tom Raleigh of Weymouth were rated the No. 1 doubles team in the state.

TRACK TEAM BOWS

Ralph Frazier won the shot put with a toss of 36 feet, one inch, and Jim Kenney captured the hurdles in 6.7 seconds but the North Quincy High School track team went down to its second defeat, 46-31, to Arlington in a Met League meet at the East Newton St. Armory, Boston.

POINT UPSET

SPORTS BITS '57

Fifteen points each by Jim Hebert and Larry Baker were not enough as the Dorchester Varsity Club clobbered the Koch Club, 96-67, sending the North Quincy team down to fourth loss in five games. . . . Doug Grutchfield's 24 points paced North Quincy to a 52-48 victory over Newton. . . . Tommy Brewer, a 19-game winner for the Boston Red Sox last summer, was chosen Boston's outstanding pitcher by the Boston Baseball Writers Association. . . . Mary Weinstein and Hobie Robinson, former Quincy High School stars, were playing basketball for the Williams College varsity. . . . Earl Lloyd of the Syracuse Nationals solved the problem of Bill Russell by shooting over the intimidating Boston Celtics' rookie for 22 points and a 116-106 victory for the Nats. . . . Art Burke of Quincy was second to Jerry Stonehouse of Christopher Columbus in South Shore Hockey League scoring with seven goals and two assists. . . . Defenseman Leo Boivin's first goal of the season lifted the Boston Bruins to a 2-1 decision over the Detroit Red Wings and put them within one point of Montreal for the league lead.

Jago's Debut As North Coach Success

Kevin Jago's debut as North Quincy's hockey coach was a marked success last week when the Raiders rolled over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 10-0, at BU. But he expected a good deal more trouble last night (Wednesday) when North faced Suburban League favorite Newton North.

Saturday the Raiders will face Quincy in a 7:50 game at the Youth Arena. Cambridge isn't one of the Suburban League's stronger teams, but Jago, who replaced Kevin Lewis as head coach after four years as assistant, was pleased with the Raiders' performance.

North received excellent goal-tending from Bill Cahill and Matt Higgins and six players scored goals.

The first of Dave

DiCarlo's two goals in the first period was all North needed but Kevin White also scored twice and Keith Smith, Steve Dannelsbeck, Scott Messina, Bob Lynch, Rick Reardon and Mike Cullen each had a goal.

"The boys skated well and the defense was strong," Jago said. "We also received some fine goal-tending from Cahill and Higgins. It was a good start for us."

Double Trouble For Quincy Icemen

Not only did the Presidents, following two non-league wins, lose to league favorite Newton North, 8-4, but Ed Boyle, who had played strong defense, broke his leg and probably will be lost for the season.

Quincy played at Brockton yesterday (Wednesday) and Saturday will meet North Quincy at 7:50 at the Youth Arena. The Presidents will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Wednesday at 6:40.

Sylvia, who last year had his first losing season in 17 years, felt his team would score a lot of goals this year but admitted he had problems in goal.

His prediction proved true in the league opener as Quincy skated well and got goals from four different players, but his worries about his goal-tending proved justified.

Jim McSweeney and Doug Cancannon scored first period goals for the Presidents and Mike Chenette and Frank Reynolds scored in the third period.

"I feel Newton is the best team in the league this year," Sylvia said. "I was pleased with our offense and I think our goalies, who have had no experience, will improve as we go along."

Track Club Members Shine In Junior Olympics

The Quincy Track Club finished on its cross country season with several outstanding performances in Junior Olympic competition.

In the recent New England Junior Olympics held at Pageant Field in Quincy nine QTC members qualified for regional competition. More than 600 runners competed.

In Bantams (9-10) Anthony Stafford took seventh in boys and Nancy Sheehy and Liz Renda ninth and 15th respectively in girls.

In Midgets (11-12) Brian Barrett took seventh in boys and Patty Feeney 12th and Maria Martinez 14th in girls.

In Youth (13-14) Finn Kelly continued his fine running by winning the boys' race and Barry Morash took 16th. Tricia Barrett was 18th in girls.

The Top 20 in each age group qualified for the regionals.

In the regional meet held in New Jersey Stafford placed 34th, Sheehy 18th, Renda 21st, Barrett seventh, Feeney 28th, Martinez 40th, Kelly seventh and Morash 63rd. The top 15 in each division qualified for the nationals.

At the club's cross country party 10 athletes were honored.

Brian Barrett and Tracy Millett received trophies for having the fastest times over the Brockton course and Harry Morash and Tricia Barrett received awards for showing the most improvement over the season.

Special achievement awards went to Regina Murphy and Sutee Sirikanjanachae. Best attendance awards went to Mike Fleboite and Maria Martinez.

Patty Feeney received the award for the outstanding performance in the N. E. Junior Olympics and Liz Renda for the best individual performance in the regional meet.

The athletes presented Coach Jeff Hennessy with a gift certificate.

The club wishes to thank Bill Feeney, Marie Pearce, Fred Cashman and Dick Barrett for their help during the season and special thanks go to the dozens of volunteers who made the N.E. Olympic meet a huge success.

'Macbeth' At ENC Jan. 14-15

An adapted version of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" will be presented at the Mann Student Center Auditorium on the campus of Eastern Nazarene College Jan. 14-15.

In this experimental version of the play, the length of the original drama has been trimmed into a fast-paced, action oriented play which stresses the beauty of Shakespeare's language through minimal use of costumes and props, and combines elements of reader's theatre, mime and creative movement.

"Macbeth," one of Shakespeare's shortest dramas, is the story of a highly imaginative, ambitious and conscience-stricken nobleman whose wife and his own burning ambition drive him to murder, and to his own guilty destruction.

"Macbeth" is presented by the Communication Arts Department of Eastern Nazarene College under the direction and design of James P. Byrne. Producing the production is Ronda Rice Windel who has directed and produced such critically acclaimed performances as "The Pirates of Penzance," "Oliver," "Pacific Overtures," "1776," and "Man of La Mancha."

Byrne is approaching "Macbeth" from a psychological perspective to more clearly emphasize the emotional dilemma which Macbeth faces in the chain of events that eventually destroy him.

Performances of "Macbeth" are: Jan. 14 and 15 at 7 p.m. All seats are $2. For more information, call 773-6350 extension 302.

There is a small fee for the bus.

Also on Jan. 18, the center will begin an Aerobics class from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The class will run for 12 weeks Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 p.m. - 7 p.m. Class size is limited to 15 people.

Call Pat Riden at 471-8251 for more information or to sign up.

'All My Children' Star Has Roots In Quincy

By MARY TRAVERS
"I don't know what all the fuss is about. I'm starting to be treated like a celebrity. People have been coming up to me and asking me all about Peter," said Mrs. Herbert Bergman of Quincy Point.

"Seriously, I'm very proud of Peter," laughed Mrs. Bergman.

The "Peter" Mrs. Bergman referred to is her grandson, actor Peter Bergman, who plays "Prince Charming" Cliff Warner in the ABC Soap Opera "All My Children".

During recent interviews, Mary Travers of the Quincy Community Television series "Mary Soaps" spoke with both Peter and his grandmother.

In the area for a recent "Soaps Alive" performance, Peter told Miss Travers that he has roots in Quincy.

"I spent my Christmases there," said Peter. "Both my parents are from Quincy and graduated from Quincy High School."

"My father, Walter, was born and raised in Houghs Nec, and my mother, the former Janet Burgess, was brought up in the Merry-mount section of Quincy."

"As a matter of fact, they were voted class sweethearts in their senior year."

"You know, when Peter first told us he was going to be an actor, my husband was very surprised, to say the least," said Mrs. Bergman.

"He wanted Peter to go into construction."

"Peter was always a very nice and mischievous little boy," reminisced Mrs. Bergman. "He was always smiling and he took everything in stride, much like his character of Cliff."

There are some similarities between Peter and Cliff, conceded Mrs. Bergman. "They look an awful lot alike, don't they?" she laughed.

Asked whether the characters of Nina and Cliff will break up because of Nina's affair with Steve, Mrs. Bergman said, "Well, I don't have any idea or any clues on that because Peter doesn't even know."

"But I wish Nina would wake up and see what a great guy her Cliff really is."

(Mary Travers appears weekly on "Mary Soaps" which airs Mondays and Tuesdays at 6:45 p.m. on Cable Ch. 3)

WEEK OF: JANUARY 6

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
 Social activities make for a lively week. Possible romantic slowdown, but a platonic relationship is launched. Recent career decision benefits from consultation and reflection.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
 Recent plans backfire but speedy thinking brings a successful alternative solution. Willpower is strong now - a perfect week for all the resolutions you ever wanted to set forth.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
 Added work requirements interfere with social butterflying, but be sure you know your priorities. Household problems may require professional expertise. Faraway friend gets in touch.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
 Keep rivalries on a professional level, not a personal one. Romantic question seems to defy solution - the answer is much more obvious than you think. Intuition is generally strong.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
 You can dabble successfully with philosophical and even occult matters, gaining new insights into relationships and recent events. Financial news is more encouraging now.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
 A long-awaited career or academic opportunity opens up; you may have to make some quick decisions. Domestic obligation can get in the way of weekend plans.

LEO - July 23-August 22
 You may find this a difficult time, so far as group activities are concerned. On your own, though, you progress in financial and/or educational spheres.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
 Clear up small misunderstandings before they get quite out of hand. Discussion groups provide venue for meeting new people. In legal affairs, read all the fine print.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
 Accent is on recreation and travel. Enjoy the company of a Gemini or Leo. Make an effort to not be on the defensive - and watch out for people trying to intimidate you.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
 You present a glamorous image, attracting wealthy and/or witty admirers. Don't put off visits, appointments or correspondence. Overseas news offers encouragement.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
 Recent plan can backfire, and you may have to lay out some extra cash. More positively, romantic intuition is powerful and prestige increases by Wednesday.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
 A longtime responsibility is finally transferred from your tired shoulders, and you can devote more time and energy to trying out new hobbies or earning spare cash.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
 You're practical, articulate, a born teacher and - sometimes - a little calculating. Delayed personal goal can be achieved by mid-'83, thanks to effort of teamwork. Family decisions affect every member - be an active part of the clan this year.

BORN THIS WEEK
 January 6th, actress Loretta Young; 7th, actress Butterfly McQueen; 8th, actor John Farrow; 9th, actress Susanah York; 10th, singer Rod Stewart; 11th, actor Rod Taylor; 12th, actress Patsy Kelly.

West Quincy Project

"Probably one of the biggest projects in the city of Quincy will see in the coming years is a project in West Quincy. In March in a press conference in my office the announcement of the sale of the Old Colony Crushed Stone Co., 177 acres of it, had been purchased by a group of mid-East investors and this group has engaged Meredith and Grew, the real estate firm, and they're currently undertaking an environmental impact study and we're hopeful that this project is going to be coming to fruition in the 1980s. It is a project of quite a dimension and will be unfolding as we go into the 1980s. So we have done some things in the city of Quincy in 1982 despite a climate that is not all the best.

Neighborhood Commitment

"My administration has also made a strong commitment to the neighborhoods of our city. We are a city of neighborhoods. We have some very strong and active neighborhood organizations. The Houghs Neck Community Council, The Merrymount Association, The Ward 2 Civic Association, The Atlantic Neighborhood Association. I try to work very closely with these groups. The Community Development Block Grant program has been one of the more successful federal programs that have come out of Washington. In the two recent tax years, the fiscal years 1982 and fiscal year 1983, some $4,200,000 has been made available for our neighborhoods, a very important program.

We also have a revolving loan account and that loan balance is right now in the vicinity of $1 million. And as we get money back from the paybacks, those monies are now reaching $17,000 a month and that is being recycled. My administration has strongly supported the neighborhood housing services program, the program that is currently operating in South West Quincy under the very able direction of Mrs. Jane Ford and we've helped them out.

Going To Washington

"On Jan. 26 there will be a conference of the U.S. Conference of mayors in Washington and they will be discussing the future of the Community Development Block Grant program. I plan to attend that conference in company with Councillor Leo Kelly, Arthur Foley of my office and Planning Director Jim Lydon. We want to have some input into that conference. We don't want this program to be diminished and we don't want it to die. It's a very important program for the city of Quincy.

Hospital In Black

"Two years ago on the first Monday in January, Jan. 5, 1981, Mayor Arthur H. Tobin turned over the direction of the Quincy City Hospital to Hospital Corp.

of America, one of the larger hospital management firms in the country. Six months later, after passage by the City Council and approval by the mayor and state legislative approval, and enterprise account was put into operation. Very basically what they do is to make Quincy City Hospital self-sufficient. They will have to generate sufficient revenues to pay their bills. No longer would the taxpayers of the city of Quincy be asked to pick up any deficit. Several weeks ago I received a financial report from Mr. Jim Lowenhausen, present director of the hospital and I'm pleased to announce that the Quincy City Hospital is operating solidly in the black and we're very thankful for that. That is no longer one of the problems of the city.

New Hospital Facility

"A year ago, after obtaining approval from outgoing Mayor Tobin and my incoming administration, Hospital Corp. of America filed a determination of need for a plan to construct a brand new hospital facility. We weren't asking for a lot of expansion and bed space but there'd feel the buildings up there are antiquated and some of them very old. The project is in the vicinity of $99 million. The timing wasn't all that good because there is an awful lot of support in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to try to contain hospital costs. That program has been divided into two separate parts.

The first part, Phase I, would be approximately two thirds of the original cost. The Determination of Needs Committee is presently reviewing our proposal submitted by Hospital Corp. of America and they are expected to make a recommendation around the first of February. The Public Health Council of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is going to make a determination of the viability of that project sometime in March. I hope they approve it. I think it's necessary that we upgrade the facilities at Quincy City Hospital. If we're going to be in that kind of business we should provide the very best for the citizens of the city of Quincy.

"With those few remarks I tried to sum up very quickly what has gone on in the city of Quincy in 1982. I'm going to take a brief look ahead to 1983.

Revaluation

"One of the major tasks that are going to face the mayor's office and the Quincy City Council will be the completion of the revaluation program. That program started in November 1979 when the City Council approved funds to hire PRC Jacobs to do an updating of our values. At the present time an updating of those figures is underway and should be completed very shortly.

Once that is done there will be a major decision that will have to be made by the mayor of this city and the Quincy City Council and that is the decision as to whether we should classify property on the basis of setting up a tax rate. It is my feeling that some form of classification will be necessary in order to soften the impact of revaluation on our homeowners. I'm not prepared to state how great or what the classification should take place.

I've discussed the matter of classification with Council President John Lydon and we're in agreement that the Council and the mayor have to work very closely once we get our update done. It's most important that this be handled in a proper manner. The law says that the plan must be devised by the Board of Assessors and receive approval of the City Council and the mayor, after having a public hearing. We hope that we will carry this out properly.

It's my hope that we can send out, complete this agenda and revaluation, and send out the tax bills no later than April 1 so that we can save on our short term interest. For the first time in eight years the bill, it was an estimated bill, the fall bill was sent out in time for a November payment, the first time since 1974.

"In fiscal 1984, the city of Quincy should bottom out of Proposition 2½. You know Proposition 2½ basically says that the tax levy may not exceed 2½ percent of the fair tax value of the city. A provision was made for cities, such as Quincy who are in excess of 2½ percent to reduce their tax levy by 15 percent a year and in the past two years we have reduced our tax levy in the city of Quincy by some $18,600,000, a total decrease of 27.1 per cent. and we expected to be bottoming out in 1984.

I'm not exactly sure where we're going to land because until the revaluation is complete we won't know what the tax rates are. But once we get to that point, there is a feeling that our troubles are over. That's not so. Because when you reach that level you can only increase the tax levy by 2½ percent a year and still have to be under the umbrella of the overall 2½ percent. We have about run the course on layoffs and closing school buildings and that type of approach to complying with Proposition 2½. What we will have to do in the future is find better and more efficient ways to deliver city services to our constituency here in the city of Quincy.

We have already taken a look at several things and we're going to be examining in 1983. We've had an energy audit, for example, taken by New England Electrical Service. We looked at the police station and the public works complex and they've indicated we can save as much as $40,000 a year in that complex. The way that type of audit goes, the New England Electric Service would put the up front money, the capital equipment that is needed for savings, they will share dollar for dollar in the savings. We are presently reviewing a contract in that area.

Capital Equipment

"I'm hosting a conference of cities and towns that are served by the Mass Electric in our Commonwealth. We're going to take a hard look what we can accomplish in savings in that area. I met with Mr. Peter Duggan a couple of weeks ago from Mini Lease Corp.

The time will come in this city when we're going to have to start to upgrade our capital equipment, our fire engines and our police equipment and our public works equipment and park, forestry and cemetery equipment. We're going to prepare, we're going to work with Mr. Anderson and Chief Barry and Chief Finn and Mr. Koch and we're going to get a list of items that we need and Mr. Duggan is going to present a plan to us for a lease purchase-like operation and if our financial capacity is there we may be implementing this or asking City Council approval for it when we go before you with the 1984 fiscal budget.

Those are some of the things we are doing in the city of Quincy.

Koch Dissents On Lydon Re-election

John J. Lydon Jr. was re-elected to a second one-year term as president of the City Council Monday with one dissenting vote.

Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr. voted "present."

"I do not agree with the leadership of the Council," Koch told The Quincy Sun.

"This was my way of showing that I do not agree with the way things are going.

"I feel that we on the Council are not showing the same fiscal restraint that has been imposed on the other city departments. We have much too elaborate setup on the Council."

Koch noted that during his acceptance speech as president, Lydon referred to the expansion of the Council office in personnel and facilities.

"It shows that we are not practicing what we preach," he said.

In the Council's organizational meeting Monday, Jeanne Reardon was chosen for another term as the clerk of committees.

Cooperation

"In conclusion, I thank the School Committee for its help and several of my department heads and I would be remiss, Mr. President, if I did not thank you and members of the City Council for the high degree of cooperation you gave our administration for the past year. What I have tried to do is send proposals to the City Council that are in the best interest of the city, that are well thought out, well documented. My department heads and members of my staff, I believe, have been willing to meet with members of the Council in regular session, in committee session, and on a one-to-one basis and there has been a good working relationship. I've enjoyed being mayor for the past year and I am looking forward to a continuation of this working relationship as we go into 1983.

NOTICE

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that the last will of two codicils of said decedent be proved and allowed and that THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF BOSTON of Boston in the County of Suffolk be appointed Executor named in the will without surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before ten o'clock in the forenoon on February 9, 1983.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving the specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) otherwise the Court may upon its own motion or on motion by the petitioner, the guardian ad litem, (if any), or any person whose appearance is on file (with notice to any person whose appearance is on file and, if applicable, the guardian and petitioner), order the appearance struck.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the twenty-fourth day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighty-two.

No. 82M1265-D1
MARTHA C. MARLOWE Plaintiff vs. JAMES H. MARLOWE Defendant.

Summons by Publication.

To the above-named Defendant:

A Complaint has been presented to this Court by the Plaintiff, Martha C. Marlowe, North Quincy, Massachusetts, seeking a divorce on the grounds of irretrievable breakdown of the marriage; and requesting custody of the minor child, conveyance of real estate, support, and a distribution of assets pursuant to M.G.L.c. 208, §34.

You are required to serve upon David E. Cherny, Esquire, plaintiff's attorney, whose address is Atwood & Wright, 211 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, MA 02116 your answer on or before February 1, 1983. If you fail to do so, the Court will proceed to the hearing and adjudication of this action. You are also required to file a copy of your answer in the office of the Register of this Court at Dedham.

Historic Quincy

A Tourist Guide

City Of Quincy

Massachusetts

Office of The Mayor

Welcome To Historic Quincy

As the Mayor of Quincy, it gives me great pride and pleasure to welcome you to the City of Presidents.

Quincy's Historic Trail is not a road by which one follows history; but rather a way by which one may experience contact with a rich and varied history.

Quincy, Massachusetts conjures up many images to many people. The rich history, the historical sites, the source of granite for famous structures, the building place of many ships, the home town of famous people; all of these are distinctions that belong to Quincy alone.

It has been over 350 years since the first Europeans settled in what is now Quincy. Over this period of time there has been a change from an open area occupied by a few Indians and a small trading post, to a city of 86,000 persons. Quincy's history is one of continuing change. Quincy has kept pace with the world around it, but has retained a distinctive identity that is based on its proud past.

In the pages ahead, you will read about places and men and women who have played important roles in the history of our city and country. I think you will agree with me that Quincy is rich, indeed, in historic heritage. I urge you to visit our City Hall, both old and new, and while you are in Quincy Square, you should visit the First Parish Church, and a recently declared U.S. Landmark, Hancock Cemetery, which are all within walking distance of one another.

I hope your visit to Quincy will be a rewarding and memorable learning experience.

Sincerely yours,

Francis X. McCauley

Completion Target Date June, 1984

John Adams Birthplace Being Restored

It was probably built in the late 17th or early 18th Century for less than $1,000 in the pounds of the day and the clapboards were hand-hewn from trees that grew in its fields.

But when the U.S. National Park Services gets through restoring the birthplace of John Adams, the second president of the United States, the price tag probably will have soared to $100,000.

The John Adams Birthplace, which peers over the shoulder of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace on Franklin St., South Quincy, has been under reconstruction off and on for the past four years.

It is still closed to the public. "There is a lot left to do," says Wilhelmina Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site, "and it seems like the more work that is done the more work there is found to be done."

The National Park Service spent about $50,000 on restoration of the old house through last year, when the financing ran out.

The work, most of it interior carpentry and painting, is scheduled to resume Oct. 1, 1983, when another $30,000 in funding becomes available. That may not be sufficient to finish.

There is a loose target date of June, 1984, for completion but that likely would be without furnishings. And without furnishings the house would hardly be an Adams home.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace re-opened last year for the first time in three years after undergoing a faithful $175,000 rehabilitation.

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace, which is open to the public for the first time in three years following a $175,000 rehabilitation job by the U.S. National Parks Service.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Parks Service on May 1, 1979, after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

The USNPS started off by repainting them as they were in 1807, when the last Adams lived there.

For more than 80 years, they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research by the new owners turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

undergoing restoration and will not be open to the public at least until June, 1984.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1980, the John Quincy Adams birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula. The John Adams Birthplace was painted white.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.

The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, the model on which the U.S. Constitution was based.

"The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it," says Wilhelmina S. Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site and once secretary to Brooks Adams, the last member of the family to live in the Old House.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copied from those in his second law office in Boston.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

"Brooks Adams always thought that books could go anywhere," explains Mrs. Harris.

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

"The furnishings lack only Abigail's writing desk," says Mrs. Harris. "But we know where it is. It's owned by an Adams descendant in Oregon and we have permission to reproduce it."

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was, a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9½ acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabdiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735 (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents who are father and son stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was restored by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1681 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel

Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, a grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Parks Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces are at 133 and 141 Franklin St. The John Quincy Adams Birthplace has been restored and his open to the public. It is open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Oct. 15 with guided tours at no charge. The John Adams Birthplace is closed to the public while restoration work is going on. An interpretive program is given on the grounds free of charge between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Quincy Presidential Trail

The Adams Birthplaces are an important stop on the newly designated Quincy Presidential Trail, a 10.5-mile route that takes the visitor through the 17th and 18th Century locales associated with the lives of the Adams family.

Historic sites along the trail include the Adams Mansion, Dorothy Quincy Homestead, Adams Academy, First Parish Church, Adams Crypt, City Hall, Hancock Cemetery, the Birthplaces, Abigail Adams Cairn, First Commercial Railroad, First Ironworks, Col. Josiah Quincy House and Moswetust Hummock, most of which are described in this magazine.

The Quincy Presidential Trail is a National Recreation Trail, the seventh in the state of Massachusetts and the 625th in the nation.

QUINCY'S PEOPLE

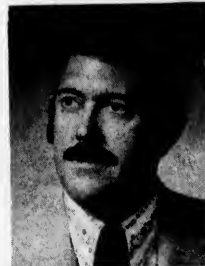

After the lapse of the Granite Industry, Quincy had only one major resource left to utilize -- her people. We do not have gold under the surface of our soil or oil deep within. What we do have is a populace that has depended upon its skills, imagination and resourcefulness. Our people have a faith in progress and a sense of responsibility to a modernizing world. What once began as a remote trading post has grown beyond its contribution to the glass, steel, railroad, granite and shipbuilding industries to become the modern office mecca and financial center of the South Shore. Our progress is a tribute to our people.

ADAMS MANSION NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

The Adams Mansion

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"... it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed and warm than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of one Cotton Tufts of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was at first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith. "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Parks Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site, located at 135 Adams St., is open to the public from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents with children under 16 admitted free.

The Adams Family

HENRY ADAMS (1583-1646) emigrated from England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston (later Quincy).

2. JOSEPH ADAMS (1626-1694), son of Henry, farmer and maltster of Old Braintree.

3. JOSEPH ADAMS (1654-1737), son of Joseph, who married Hannah Bass, a granddaughter of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins.

4. JOHN ADAMS (1691-1761), son of Joseph, farmer and selectman of Old Braintree, known as Deacon John.

5. JOHN ADAMS (1735-1826), son of Deacon John and second President of the United States.

5a. SAMUEL ADAMS (1722-1803), revolutionary firebrand; great, great grandson of Henry and cousin of President John.

6. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS (1767-1848), son of John, sixth President of the United States.

7. CHARLES FRANCIS

ADAMS (1807-1886), son of John Quincy, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War.

8. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS II (1883-1894), son of Charles Francis, state legislator and thrice candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

8a. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS II (1835-1915), son of Charles Francis, historian and founder of the Quincy school system.

8b. HENRY ADAMS (1838-1918), son of Charles Francis, author of "The Education of Henry Adams."

8c. BROOKS ADAMS (1848-1927), son of Charles Francis, the last Adams to live in the Old House in Quincy.

9. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS III (1866-1954), son of John Quincy II, mayor of Quincy and Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover.

10. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS IV (1910 -), chairman of the board of Raytheon Co.

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Col. John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months, later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm St. lodging house were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

HANCOCK CEMETERY

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity. "God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later in November, 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH

TOMBS OF PRESIDENTS John and John Quincy Adams and their wives in First Parish Church.

First Parish Church

Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chappel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56 — which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate — and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of its benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

Still an active Unitarian church, it is open to the public for tours from May 15 through the Saturday after Labor Day, Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations are accepted. There is a charge of 50 cents per adult for organized tour groups, which should make an appointment at least one week in advance. Tours of the church at other times during the year may also be made by appointment.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see"?

There are 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. but they pronounce it "Quin-see".

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee', including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass. the first Quincy was named in 1792."

Apparently all 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see".

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd. on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

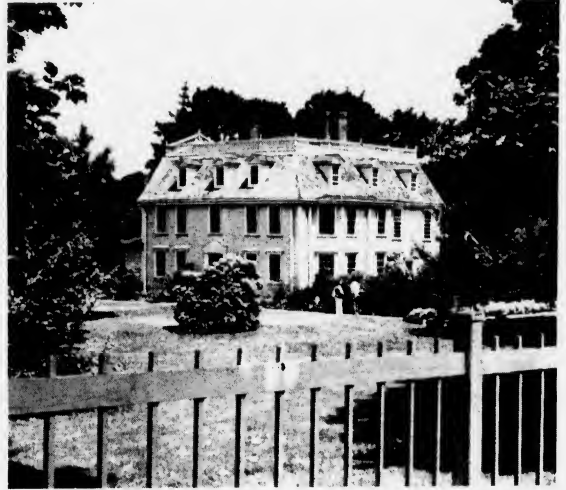

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later vice president of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

The Dorothy Quincy Homestead is open to the public May through October, Tuesday through Sunday, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. (last tour at 4:30 p.m.). It is also open by appointment only Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. There is a $1.50 admission charge for adults, 25 cents for children.

A fitting memorial . . .

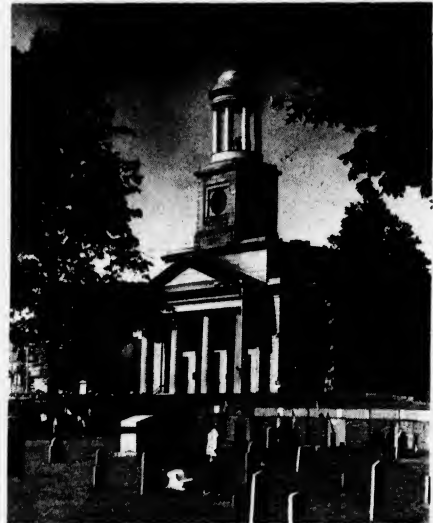

John Quincy Adams occupied the White House in 1828 when United First Parish Church, the Stone Temple, was built of Quincy granite, a fitting memorial to the enduring work of the men who founded the state and the nation.

Two presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, and their wives, are buried side by side in vaults in the grotto of the Church.

The cornerstone of the Stone Temple was laid on June 11, 1827, and in it was placed a silver plate with the inscription: 'A temple for the worship of God, and for public instruction in the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion.'

Historic Hancock Cemetery in the foreground is the final resting place of early Quincy settlers and patriots among them Col. John Quincy for whom Quincy was named and Rev. John Hancock, a minister of First Parish Church and father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Abigail Adams Wife, Mother Of Presidents

Mrs. John Adams, the former Abigail Smith of Weymouth, is the only woman to be wife of one president and mother of another ... and she could have been grandmother of a vice president.

Husband John was chief executive from 1797 to 1801; son John Quincy occupied the White House from 1825 to 1829; and grandson Charles Francis Adams ran for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

An early advocate of women's rights, Abigail Adams once wrote to her husband, John:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

"Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

HIGHLIGHTS

1. Town Hall, City Hall of Quincy Architect and builder, Solomon Willard. Completed November 1, 1844. Built of Quincy granite.
2. Adams Academy Site of the birthplace of John Hancock, the Patriot. Erected in 1871. Now the home of The Quincy Historical Society. World War I statue and memorial. Bust of Hancock. Historical exhibit.
3. Adams National Historic Site Built in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall. Purchased by President John Adams in 1787, and occupied by four generations of the Adams Family.
4. Dorothy Quincy Homestead Dating from 1685, it was the home of four generations of the Edmund Quincy family. Home of Dorothy Quincy who married John Hancock.
5. Woodward School Founded by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward in 1869 to educate Quincy born girls.
6. Milestone Marker The Neponset Turnpike (now Hancock Street) gave people a shorter route to Boston. This milestone (almost illegal) marks 7 1/2 miles from Boston. An older milestone across the way, on Adams Academy grounds, marks the miles on the old route via Milton.
7. Old Court House District Court of East Norfolk was established in 1872. This courthouse, built in 1912, has been replaced by a modern building on Chestnut Street.
8. Quincy Junior College Formerly the Coddington School built in 1909, then a "modern" elementary school.
9. Bethany Church Built in 1928 in Gothic style, its gargoyles, four feet long, are the longest in New England.
10. Thomas Crane Public Library Designed by Henry Hobson Richardson, foremost architect of his era. Commissioned in 1880 by Albert Crane in memory of his father.
11. United First Parish Church A fine example of the Greek Revival period designed by Alexander Parrish and constructed in 1828. John Adams and his wife Abigail, and John Quincy Adams and his wife Louisa Catherine are buried in the church.
12. Hancock Cemetery Dated around 1640 and named for the Reverend John Hancock, father of the Patriot. The oldest headstone is dated 1666.
13. Post Office.
14. Christ Church Oldest Episcopal parish in the state.
15. St. John the Baptist Church Roman Catholic.

John Winthrop, Jr. Blast Furnace

First Productive Iron Works In U.S.

It failed after nine years of effort and, since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River (now Furnace Brook) in a section of Old Braintree called "the Woods."

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England."

The first iron was turned out in 1644 but young Winthrop was fired from his 100 pounds a year job the next year, to be succeeded by Richard Leader. The ironworks itself didn't last much longer.

The ore from which the iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook was not a high quality product. It was bog iron from the nearby swamps. Making it proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured by Oliver Cromwell at the Battle of Dunbar. Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England as cheap labor in an effort to make the Quincy ironworks a paying proposition. It didn't work.

The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works north of Boston in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650, it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

The foundation of ironworks in Quincy has been restored on Crescent St., next to St. Mary's Cemetery in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Why are more people bringing their money market funds back to us?

More benefits.

You probably invested in a money market fund because it offered liquidity, check writing privileges, and high interest. But we can offer you all those benefits and more. In fact, thousands of smart people have already switched from a money market fund to our Better Money Market Account. Here's why:

- A $2,500 minimum deposit earns interest that is better than most money market funds.
- Unlike money market funds, each depositor is insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC.
- It's totally liquid, with unlimited deposits and teller withdrawals.
- It allows 6 transfers per month, 3 of which may be by check.
- Interest is state taxed at half the rate of money market fund earnings.

■ Better Money Market Account deposits are invested in the local economy. Money market fund deposits are reinvested in someone else's economy.

■ It has no account service fees.

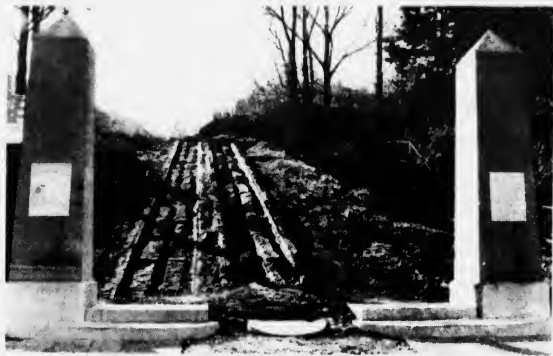

With money market funds, you have to sacrifice your money's safety to get high interest and liquidity. With the Better Money Market Account, you don't have to sacrifice anything, because it's high paying, it's liquid, and it's safe. Call us for the current high Better Money Market Account rate.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway

First Commercial Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, 6½ feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Col. Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 37 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too. He was a carpenter turned wood-carver, turned stone-carver and, finally, architect.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in an empty car en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The incline of the old Railway has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year round, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Business is soaring in The Sea Belt.

The South Shore of Massachusetts

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce firmly believes that our area offers great advantages to business and industry. Hence, we have created the term we call "The Sea Belt".TM The "Sea Belt" of New England, the South Shore of Massachusetts running from Boston to Plymouth, offers a rather unique geographic, social, and recreational opportunity for businesses to expand and relocate.

Through our affiliate, The South Shore Economic Development Corporation, we are helping individual business grow through small business loans.

The tourism industry in the coastal South Shore Communities needs not only individual but also collective action with creative regional approaches. Quincy has recognized this need.

QUINCY YESTERDAY - with America's historical roots of democracy and industry, makes it potentially one of the most exciting historical cities in the United States.

QUINCY TODAY - where pride in our city has led to planned economic development where tourism play a part and the past and present blend through a sense of dedication and tradition.

QUINCY TOMORROW - a city that is broadening its scope for the future. Tourism is a viable economic industry and defines the Chamber's objectives of creating jobs and promoting business. The "Sea Belt" of New England, the South Shore of Massachusetts, will not be a short-lived phenomenon. We can say, to all concerned, that we are justifiably proud of our past and very confident of our future. Call on us:

Seat Of Government For 137 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite in Quincy Square has been just that for the past 137 years, the nerve center of government for first the town and then the city.

It was in the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a president of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard — who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months — the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 3½-story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Her husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children, Abigail, John Quincy, Charles 5, and Thomas Boylston 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth president of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public free of charge.

The Thomas Crane Library

A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial -- preferably a library -- to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestley and the foremost American architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I cannot guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty or taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees.

It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism -- "Food will win the war," they said -- the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, year around, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, October through May.

Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it as a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrowhead (mos) so they call it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.

He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tisquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and he was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge

Adams Academy

On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time except by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second president of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed large enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body -- 25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 from 14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolute of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar schools" and warned that "no pupils are desired to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Everett, an amiable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett who signaled the passing of Adams Academy -- and many other 19th Century classical prep schools -- at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone came forward and planked down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms. The museum is open all year, Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. The library is open Monday & Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. There is no admission charge.

Josiah Quincy Homestead

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall mast of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder:—"Oct. 10, 1775. General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquilla" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josiahs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family -- Col. John Quincy, the great grandfather of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

The Josiah Quincy Homestead is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

How Many Miles From Boston?

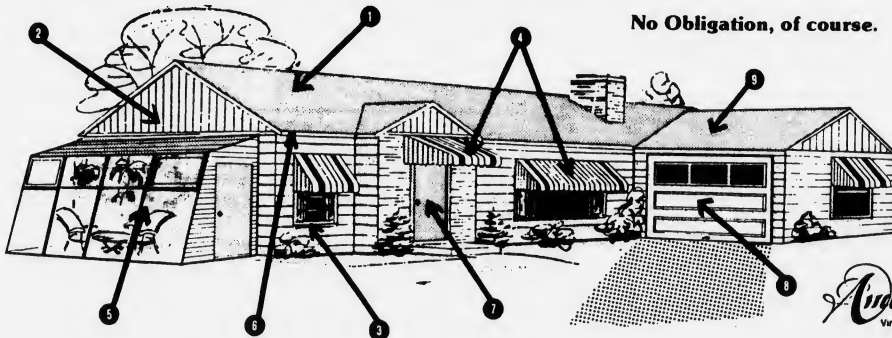

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both 7 1/4 and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-mile marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The 7 1/4-mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

Our Sweet Home

Quincy has been our home since 1916 and since our namesake was the first Governor of the State, it's fitting that we should be community minded.

Hancock Bank...named after our first Governor, President of the Continental Congress, the first signature on the Declaration of Independence and one of Quincy's most celebrated citizens.

We now have 17 branch offices (five in Quincy). Come into any one of them and let us tell you more about the bank that named itself after John Hancock.

Laid Off Yard Workers Eligible For 78 Weeks Aid

Workers who lost their jobs at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard are now eligible for federal Trade Adjustment Assistance to see them through a year and a half of hard times, says Cong. Brian J. Donnelly.

The FAA program offers extended unemployment compensation and training benefits to workers who lose their jobs to foreign competition. Donnelly said workers laid off at the shipyard on or after Dec. 10, 1981, are now eligible for a maximum of 78 weeks of benefits, twice the length of regular unemployment compensation.

Eligible workers will receive weekly benefits equal to their unemployment compensation payments.

"Shipyard workers who believe they qualify should get in touch with their local office of the state Department of Employment Security to apply for the benefits," said Donnelly.

"The U.S. Department of Labor conducted a 14-month study of the Quincy shipyard. They found that competition from foreign shipyards is the major cause of unemployment.

"The study confirms the argument I've been making for the last two years. The Reagan administration is exporting shipbuilding jobs by encouraging shipping companies to build and repair their vessels overseas.

"The Trade Adjustment Assistance will not replace the lost jobs but it will make life a bit easier for shipyard workers until Quincy begins building the new ships the Navy has ordered."

The Navy has placed orders for two 1A-K-X container ships at the Fore River shipyard and orders for three more are expected, possibly this week.

More than 1,000 employees of the yard have been laid off but General Dynamics is expected to begin rehiring workers this summer to build the Navy vessels.

The Labor Department study concluded Quincy had been hurt by foreign competition because "14 vessels scheduled to be built in foreign shipyards are designed for use in shipping lines which Quincy competes to supply and are directly competitive with vessels that Quincy has the capacity to produce."

Lydon will head the delegation, which also includes Peter O'Connell of O'Connell brothers construction company, the developers of the building.

Also in the party will be Judie Cullen of the Planning Department, Robert Kinney, the city's development adviser, and a representative of the Monarch Insurance Co. of Springfield.

They will leave in the morning, return in the afternoon.

Monarch UDAG To Be Finalized Friday In Washington

A delegation from Quincy will be off to Washington tomorrow (Friday) to finalize negotiations for a $2 million Urban Development Action Grant to build Monarch III in the State Street South complex.

Planning Director James

Sheets To Hold Meetings On Brewers Corner Vandalism

City Councillor James A. Sheets will hold the first of a series of conferences with city officials today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in City Hall to discuss the problem of vandalism in the Brewer's Corner area.

"People are no longer secure in person and property in that area," said Sheets. "There is a high degree of property turnover because new residents simply refuse to stay in an area where they cannot feel secure."

He said he is concerned that continued investment of time and money in the Brewer's Corner district will not be effective unless the city comes to grips with the problem of wanton property destruction.

Attending the meeting will be representatives of the Mayor's Office, the Police Department, the Police Juvenile Division, Gerard Kavanaugh of the Planning Department, Jane Ford of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, and Mary Breisford of Quincy Community Action.

Rent Grievances Simmer Council To Get New Condo Bill

By TOM HENSHAW

Another bid to restrict condominium conversion in Quincy will be filed with the City Council Monday amid a rising storm of protests over rent increases and scarcity of rental housing units.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Councilor Stephen J. McGrath said they plan to reintroduce the same home rule petition governing condo conversion that died in the State Legislature last year.

Meanwhile, tenants of the President Arms Apartments appeared before the Rent Grievance Board Monday night to protest high rent increases and both tenants and board members were miffed when management representatives failed to show up.

Another Rent Grievance Board meeting on rent increases at Executive House, 1025 Hancock St., was scheduled for 7 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

In spite of the fact that Presidents Realty Trust of Boston, the new owners of President Arms, failed to send a representative, Jane Reikard, executive director of the Rent Grievance Board, called Monday night's meeting "productive."

"The new landlord has the problem now," she said. "He got about $1 million worth of bad publicity by not showing up. It looked beautiful on the 11 o'clock news."

Channel 4 was on hand with its cameras to cover the meeting.

Former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who was identified as the local representative of Presidents Realty Trust, was not available for comment.

Last year's condo conversion ordinance, devised by a committee of landlords and tenants headed by McGrath, was permitted to die on Beacon Hill when it appeared there would be statewide condo conversion legislation.

The statewide bill passed both the House and the Senate but, when both branches of the legislature rejected amendments suggested by Gov. Edward J. King, the governor vetoed the bill five hours before the legislative session ended.

"We are introducing the same bill as a home rule petition," said McGrath. "But there may be another statewide bill before the 1983 Legislature. I understand Gov. Dukakis has said he would sign such a bill."

Mayor McCauley said he hopes to get together with Mrs. Reikard soon to discuss recent rent increases in Quincy.

"I haven't gotten any great litany of complaints until a few days ago," he said. "Then Frank Anselmo called me and Peter Kenney got some calls protesting unrealistic rent increases."

"People see that taxes are going down and fuel costs

McCauley To Reappoint Ceriani To Assessors Board

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday he intends to reappoint Patricia J. Ceriani to another three-year term on the Board of Assessors when her current term expires in February.

Mrs. Ceriani, who lives at 386 Quarry St., West Quincy, was named to the board by former Mayor Arthur H. Tobin in October, 1978, to fill an unexpired term and appointed to a full term in February, 1980.

A Quincy resident for 23 years, she is a Massachusetts Real Estate Broker and both an accredited and certified assessor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

McCauley also an-

PATRICIA CERIANI

nounced the appointments of:

• Howard S. Willard of 19 Nicholl St., South Quincy, to the Board of Registrars of Voters to complete the unexpired term of John McGowan, who resigned last November. The term expires in February, 1985.

Willard, who is moderator of Bethany Congregational Church, retired in 1966 as director of the Division of Law Enforcement in the State Department of Natural Resources.

• Edmund W. O'Leary of 65 Whitwell St., Quincy Center, as an alternate member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, succeeding Matthew McDonnell, who resigned last fall.

O'Leary, who has a degree in accounting from Boston College, is a sales representative for the Century Insurance Agency.

Finn To Be Released From Hospital

Police Chief Francis X. Finn was expected to be released yesterday (Wednesday) from New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston where he underwent quadruple heart bypass surgery Dec. 30.

Finn will be out of action for about three months while Capt. Roy Caviechi serves as acting chief.

Maine Man Sought In Quincy Motel Slaying

Police are seeking a 40-year-old Maine man in the strangulation death of a South Boston woman whose body was found last week in a bed at Eddie's Motor Inn on Quincy Ave., Quincy Point.

A first degree murder warrant is out for James

Ciano of Lewiston, Maine, who police said checked into the motel with Rose Marie Sanborn, 46, early on Tuesday, Jan. 4.

The body of the mother of two children was found partially clad, the next morning by a maid who came to clean the room about 10:30 a.m. It was lying on one of two beds with the covers over it.

Pathologist Dr. George Katsis ruled that Sanborn died of asphyxiation. He said she was strangled manually and there were bruises on the back of her head.

Det. Lt. Frederick Laracy is conducting the investigation.

Jewelry Stolen

A quantity of jewelry was reported stolen Monday from the apartment of Mrs. Phyllis Murphy, Greenleaf St., Quincy Center, while she was away on vacation.

Mrs. Murphy, who discovered the break when she came home, told police her daughter had checked her apartment Dec. 12 and found the front door lock forced but didn't think anything was missing.

Tickets Taken

Thieves broke into Ferguson's Catering, 255 Arlington St., Wollaston, Monday and stole $300 in cash and 42 tickets to Boston Bruins' home game.

Board To Decide On 'Anything Doughs'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board will decide at its Jan. 18 meeting whether "Anything Doughs" at 325 Newport Ave., Wollaston.

Theresa Veneto of Milton, Ruth Fiore of Dorchester and Alice Doherty of Quincy are requesting a common victualer license for the shop which will offer calzone, soft drinks and dessert.

The applicants explained that calzone consists of dough surrounding cheese or any other filling and that it is baked.

They suggested that hours would be 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and that business would be mainly take-out with some eating on the premises.

"We're not against it, but there is a tremendous parking problem (in the area)," said City Clerk John Gillis.

"I don't mind giving them a shot," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald who suggested the women talk with Wade and come back with a floor plan and definite hours next week.

Social Services Employees Plan Protest Demonstration

Social workers and supervisors from the Quincy Department of Social Services are scheduled to hold a noon time demonstration today (Thursday) at 1419 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

Georgia Neill, 509 steward said, "Our complaints include too much paperwork, responsibility for too many cases and not enough time to meet with families to consistently provide quality care.

"Currently, workers are faced with a Feb. 1 deadline to complete various forms; this, and the negative publicity the department has been receiving lately, adds to the pressure under which social workers and their supervisors are already working.

"We are concerned that the families with whom we work are not receiving the attention and care they need and deserve.

"We are also concerned that we are held responsible when a child is abused or neglected, yet we are given such high caseloads, and so much paperwork, that we cannot adequately do our work.

"This demonstration is only one of many being held throughout the state at D.S.S. offices," she said.

for the position of President of Quincy Junior College has been narrowed down to 25.

Most of the candidates are from out-of-state.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon said that the interviewing committee would begin meeting with the candidates on Saturdays until a final recommendation is to be made to the school committee.

Dr. Edward Pierce resigned as president last year and is now president of a Junior College in Pennsylvania.

Protection From Burglaries

H.N. Council Topic

Protection from burglaries and physical harm will be the subject of an open meeting of the Houghs Neck Community Council Tuesday Jan. 18 at 8 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St. Quincy Police Lt. William Murphy will present a slide presentation. There will be discussion of ways the average homeowner can safeguard his property and himself. All interested residents are invited.

Lt. Murphy writes the weekly "Police Alert" column in The Quincy Sun.

Break Foiled

A burglar alarm and quick response by police apparently foiled a break early Tuesday morning in the Medi-Mart store at 141 Newport Ave., North Quincy.

Police said they arrived on the scene and found cartons of cigarettes scattered on the ground behind the store and more, 22 cartons in all, in a shopping cart.

The would-be thieves apparently hid in the store at closing time, police said.

Golden Successor Due Next Week

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he plans to name a successor to William B. Golden as city solicitor within a week of 10 days.

Golden announced last week that he is resigning, effective Feb. 7, to return to private practice after a year as the city's top legal officer.

McCauley, accepting the resignation "with regret," said the Squantum attorney will continue his involvement in major law suits involving the MDC and General Dynamics.

The city is appealing a judicial decision that could mean as much as a $14 million rebate of taxes to General Dynamics. A decision on the appeal is expected possibly by the end of the week.

The city is suing the MDC in an attempt to halt the dumping of raw sewage and polluting Quincy Bay. A response by the MDC to the suit is due momentarily.

McCauley said Golden will continue as chairman of the Mayor's Water Pollution Task Force and will be available to advise the mayor on a case by case basis.

City Criticized For Montclair Floods

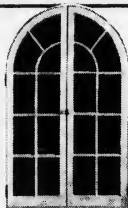

The city of Quincy drew heavy criticism at a recent meeting of the Montclair Men's Club for its failure to solve and eliminate the flooding conditions in the Montclair area.

Joseph N. Gildea Sr., chairman of the club's civic committee, in a letter to Planning Director James Lydon, asked that a re-examination "be made to curtail the prevailing flooding mess, even if a step by step approach is mandatory."

He will also aid in the transition to a new city solicitor, the mayor said.

"When I first agreed to serve as city solicitor," said Golden in his announcement, "I indicated to the mayor that I was making a one year commitment."

"I found the job satisfying and demanding. In fact, I have enjoyed the job so much that my decision to leave was a very difficult one."

Dr. Gerald Rosenblatt, M.D., has been reappointed by the Board of Managers as Chairman and Physician-in-Chief of Quincy City Hospital's Department of Medicine.

First elected to the position in 1975, Dr. Rosenblatt has held the position of Physician-in-Chief for seven years.

A graduate of Quincy City Hospital, Dr. Rosenblatt obtained his M.D. degree from Boston University in 1959 and his M.P.H. degree from Yale University. He interned at Boston City Hospital and completed his residency training at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston.

Certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, Dr. Rosenblatt is a fellow of the American College of Physicians, the American College of Chest Physicians, and the American Medical Association.

While serving as a U.S. Public Health Officer in 1963, Dr. Rosenblatt studied heart disease among the Hawaiians. He became one of the few non-Hawaiians to visit the secluded island of Niihau, located off the coast of Kauai.

After returning to Boston he received a Medical Foundation grant to continue heart research at Boston State Hospital and Tufts Medical School. He is the author of several scientific publications relating to heart disease.

The Department of Medicine at Quincy City Hospital comprises medical specialties including internal medicine, family practice, dermatology, neurology and psychiatry. As Physician-in-Chief, Dr. Rosenblatt will oversee a variety of projects currently in progress including the expansion of medical and out-patient facilities and purchase of modern medical diagnostic and therapeutic equipment.

A member of Medical Associates of Quincy, Inc., 21 School St. Quincy Center, Dr. Rosenblatt practices internal medicine and cardiology. He holds faculty appointments at both Boston University and Tufts University Medical Schools.

QCA Urges Mayor Give Classification Priority

The Quincy Citizens Association has urged Mayor Francis X. McCauley and the City Council to give top priority to classification of property for tax purposes.

President Arthur M. Chandler reminded McCauley that the QCA was founded in 1967 to fight revaluation "and we are still concerned about the adverse effects it will have on Quincy's small homeowners."

"For that reason," he said, "I communicate our concern to you and urge that you immediately implement classification before the new budget is considered."

"All Quincy homeowners are, as you know, apprehensive about revaluation and for that reason voted in 1981 for classification to soften the blow on their pocket-books this year."

Be Careful Riding Bus

One of the occasions when people, particularly senior citizens, are most vulnerable is while they are waiting for or riding on public transportation.

If you ride the same bus regularly, locate a convenient, well-lighted and frequently utilized bus stop.

Do not wait alone at a bus stop if you can join other people at nearby stops.

Stand behind the bus waiting bench.

Know where you are going and how to get back.

When boarding the bus, choose a seat near the driver.

If you are verbally or physically harassed on the bus, attract the attention of the driver or other passengers by talking loudly or screaming.

Report such incidents to the bus driver immediately. Be alert to whoever gets off the bus with you.

Trust your instincts; if you feel uncomfortable, walk directly to a place where there are other people.

Basically, remember that there is safety in numbers.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office the correct answers to the week's five questions win T-shirts. The next two win bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the Quincy City Council's Clerk of committees?

2. Which of these men never served as mayor of Quincy: Charles Francis Adams? Russell Bates? David S. McIntosh?

3. What well-known Quincy business establishment is located at 308 Quincy Ave.?

4. True or false: The first synagogue in Quincy was Beth Israel, formed in Quincy Point in 1910.

5. Eugene B. Daley Square is located in what section of the city?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Jane Ford is the executive director of the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services.

2. The Thomas B. Pollard School is named for a former principal of the school.

3. The Quincy Furniture Co. is located at 1604 Hancock St.

4. False. The original name of Germantown was Shed's Neck.

5. Wedgewood St. is located in the Squantum section of the city.

A Call From Mo Udall

If Congressman Morris Udall decides to run for President next year Quincy Senator Paul Harold wouldn't be a bit surprised.

The Arizona Democrat called him to ask him if he would be willing to serve on an Exploratory Committee for him.

The call came shortly after Senator Edward Kennedy took himself out of the Presidential ball game for '84.

The Exploratory Committee would check out the fund-raising potential and organize the framework on which a national campaign would be based.

Udall, of course, is no stranger to Quincy, or to Harold.

He campaigned here in 1976 for the Presidential nomination. Harold was the 11th Congressional District coordinator for him and a delegate for him to the Democratic National Convention.

HAROLD

And, at Harold's request, Udall came to Quincy in 1977 to inspect the Presidents Adams birthplaces which were fast falling apart.

As chairman of the National Resources Committee, Udall was instrumental in having the two historic sites taken over by the U.S.

National Parks Service. Since then, the government has completed a $175,000 rehabilitation project at the John Quincy Adams birthplace and now has a major restoration overhaul underway at the John Adams birthplace.

Two years ago, Harold went to Arizona to stump for Udall in his re-election bid.

Harold first met Udall in 1975 in Boston when he launched his Presidential campaign. He had been an admirer of his since 1971 when Harold was an intern in the Washington office of then Congressman James Burke of Milton.

Indications seem to be that Udall will give it another try in 1984. He could make it official in Sacramento in the next few days.

SPEAKING OF HAROLD, he may now be able to pick up a few votes in Germany. He's been named to the German "Who's Who" called, get this: "Namenstexte de Promineuz aus Politik". Published in Berlin, the book is the only international Who's Who in the German language.

IF YOU'VE EVER had your car tagged in Quincy and had to pay a fine, this might make you feel a little

DENVIR

Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir who doubles as parking tickets clerk, got tagged himself the other day in North Quincy for parking in a restricted area.

That's a $5 fine. What did he do about it?

He wrote out a $5 check to the city of Quincy and paid it.

But, when he gets the cancelled check back he's going to frame it and hang it in his office. And when people come in trying to get out of paying their parking violations, he's just going to point to the framed check and say: "Look, I had to pay mine. You'll have to pay yours."

THE RESIGNATION of William Golden as city solicitor effective Feb. 7 to return to private practice, leaves the inevitable question: who will succeed him?

The best bet would seem to be Assistant Solicitor Dean Nicastro, a highly regarded young attorney. Nicastro, who is close to Mayor Frank McCauley, as is Golden, was mentioned for the post before it went to Golden when McCauley took office.

NICASTRO

The consensus is that Golden did an outstanding job in his year as the city's top legal officer and he will be missed by the McCauley administration. But the consensus also is that someone like Nicastro could fill his shoes very nicely.

CONDON

IN ONE OF his final appointments as governor, Edward King named City Councillor Joanne Condon as a member of the Board of Trustees of Medfield State Hospital. The term will expire Feb. 4, 1989.

MILESTONE: John King, manager of Quincy Cablesystems, is handing out cigars and candy canes. His wife, Marcia, presented him with a daughter, Abigail, who weighed in at 10 pounds, two ounces Jan. 5 at Newton Wellesley Hospital. They also have a son, Joshua, 2. What about the candy canes? They're for non-smokers.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "One reason for juvenile delinquency today is that parents didn't burn their kid's britches behind them."

McIntyre Honorary Chairman QJC 25th Anniversary Committee

Former Mayor James McIntyre has been named as honorary chairman of the Quincy Junior College 25th Anniversary Committee.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon announced McIntyre's appointment in his report to the School Committee last week on the progress of Quincy Junior College. Co-chairmen will be Mrs. Jean Green and John Baron.

Creedon said there are some 15,000 area residents who have graduated from Quincy Junior College since its inception.

The college is planning a 25th anniversary celebration during the 1983-84 academic year.

Creedon said the alumni association of QJC would serve primarily to promote the attendance of new students at the college rather than solely be a means for raising revenue for alumni activities.

QJC Women's Center Registration

The Women's Center at Quincy Junior College will accept registration today (Thursday) and tomorrow (Friday) 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for three courses of particular interest to women.

The courses are being offered by the division of Continuing Education for the spring semester.

A 10 week "Personal and Career Growth Workshop" led by Helen Ross, QJC's Placement Director, will begin Monday, Jan. 24, 7 to 9 p.m.

This non-credit course is for women dealing with changes in their lives, either in returning to school or to work.

The course emphasizes techniques of confidence building necessary for success in employment and for achieving a positive life style.

Topics will include values clarification, goal-setting, decision-making skills, interviewing and resume writing.

A 10 week "Assertiveness Training" course led by Susan DeColaines of Lesley College will begin Wednesday, Jan. 26, 7 to 9 p.m.

This non-credit course will enable students to communicate honestly without manipulation. The differences between assertiveness and non-assertiveness, and aggressiveness will be examined through role playing and group discussions.

A "Women Writers:

Images of Women in Literature" course led by Alicia Coletti, QJC Women's Center Director, will begin Monday Jan. 24, 6:30 to 9:10 p.m.

This three credit course will be held for 15 weeks.

The course will include a survey of women writers of the 20th century and an analysis of the images of women in literature as presented by male and female writers.

Readings are organized around female stereotypes of women as submissive wife, mother, seductress, sex object, woman alone or woman becoming.

Further information may be obtained by calling 786-8741 or 786-8791.

The Massachusetts Association of Student Financial Aid has set up a hot line 1-800-343-3713 for those students with questions about what aid is available to help pay their

North Quincy Project Will Remove Eyesore Says Foley

An office building project planned at the intersection of Hancock St. and Newport Ave. Extension in North Quincy will remove an eyesore from the area, says Arthur Foley, the mayor's aide.

Foley, who is Mayor Francis X. McCauley's administrative assistant and citywide development coordinator, appeared on the Quincy CableSystems' interview show "Quincy Newsmakers."

The site of the low-rise office complex proposed by developer Anthony Herrey across from the Cathay Pacific Restaurant has tremendous potential value, said Foley.

"It's tremendously underutilized," he said. "There are some real eyesore properties down there, derelict buildings that should have been torn down years ago."

Foley said there is no intention of taking any residential properties in the area to make way for the Herrey project.

The North Quincy office complex was only one of several development projects cited by Foley in the interview.

"A real exciting project is the Old Colony Crushed Stone's 177 acres in West Quincy which, when it's finished many years from now, will be one of the major developments on the South Shore," he said.

Foley said that Meredith and Grew, which is seeking tenants for the former Sears building in downtown Quincy, has developed a couple of possibilities.

"The Sears building has been a problem," he said.

"It's important that we put in the right kind of business, the kind that will attract a lot of foot traffic and economic spinoff in the square. We don't want a storage warehouse, for instance, that will generate no traffic.

"It's important that we have some kind of retail outlet. Originally, we tried to get a large department store. That was not feasible. Now they're trying to attract several small retail-type businesses.

Foley declined to name the retailers who have expressed interest in the Sears building, which has been vacant for more than two years, but he promised more definite news within a week.

In other matters:

Foley said that it is possible under classification that business properties could be charged 150 per cent of valuation for tax purposes, "but it's difficult to discuss until we know the final figures."

"The Mayor and the City Council will keep in mind that businesses always have been assessed at a higher rate than residential," he said. "150 per cent to them may not have the impact a lot of people might think. In some cases their taxes might go down."

The coming of validated parking and the takeover of the downtown parking lots by Kinney Systems will free meter maids to control parking on the metered streets.

"We talk of 1,442 spaces to be taken over by Kinney," he said. "That will take meter maids off those areas so that they will be able to concentrate on the areas left. They will be able to do a much more efficient job with less numbers of metered spaces."

Foley was interviewed on the show by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA, and Ray McEachern, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Funds OK'd For Sewer Projects

The City Council's Finance Committee, reported favorably on an order authorizing Mayor Charles A. Ross to borrow $275,000 and accept a federal grant of $64,000 for sewer projects at Squantum, Houghs Neck and Adams Shore.

The projects would provide much-needed work for 300 men over a period of nine months.

Mayor Ross said he felt the city should have some hand in hiring the men but Joseph W. Bartlett, chairman of the State Emergency Finance Board, told him that all of the workers would have to be hired from the Federal Reemployment Office.

Supts. Walter S. McKenzie of the Sewer Department and John G. Whitman of the Water Department, the mayor said, "are both high types of public officials. They should be allowed to hire men whom they know are qualified to perform certain duties."

DRAW BRIDGE TO MOVE

Engineers in charge of building the new Fore River Bridge announced that the draw of the bridge will be floated up the river and connected to the new span during one incoming tide on Jan. 30.

Barges were to be placed under each end of the draw at dead low tide and lift it with the rising water. Then tugs will tow the 300-foot draw up river and hold it so that it can be dropped in place on the outgoing tide.

FREE BEDS OPPOSED

The annual report of the City Hospital Board of Managers, which disclosed a $5,000 deficit, expressed opposition to City Councillor William M. Edmonston's proposal to establish free beds at the hospital.

"It would seem as though the Quincy taxpayer was doing his share now," said the report.

are leveling off but rents are going up and they can't figure out what is going on.

"Instead of sending out notices of rent increases, the landlords should be sitting down with the tenants and discussing the matter and keeping everyone informed."

It's possible, he said, that landlords have financial problems that the tenants don't understand.

Mrs. Reikard said tenants at the 48-unit President Arms Apartments at 6 Presidents Lane received notices from CYC Realty Management, Inc., of Albany, N.Y., that their rents would be going up Feb. 1.

One bedroom apartments were going up by $85 a month and two bedroom units by $110 a month. That would bring the rents in the case of a two-bedroom apartment to $510, she said.

Mrs. Reikard said she notified the owners, the management firm and Hannon of the Monday meeting.

"I got a call from Walter Thursday," she said. "He said management did not want to come to the meeting because they felt it would get out of hand with the tenants there.

"They were willing to sit down with the board and discuss the matter but we don't do things that way."

She said Hannon, who came to see her in December when Presidents Realty Trust bought the property, represents the trust as a friend of Matthew Antell of Boston, one of the trustees.

Today's Tips have to do with the different types of NAIL SHAPES. The shape of the nail should conform to that of the fingertips for a more natural effect. In general, the oval-shaped nail, nicely rounded at the base, slightly pointed at the tips, fits most hands. Women who perform work with their hands usually need shorter, more round-shaped nails in order to avoid nail breakage and injury.

NAIL SHAPES may be divided into types: OVAL, SLENDER TAPERING and CLUBBED. For an OVAL nail, cover the entire nail with polish, leaving the free edge white, or leave the half moon white at the base of the nail.

If you have a thin, delicate hand, use a SLENDER TAPERING nail. Taper the nail longer than usual to enhance the slender appearance of the hand. Completely polish the nail or leave a half moon at the base.

Finally, a CLUBBED nail should be slightly tapered and extend just a little bit beyond the finger tip. Polish the entire nail, leaving a thin white margin at the sides.

MASTER OF ARTS IN PASTORAL COUNSELING

Cecil R. Paul, Ph.D., Instructor noted educator, psychologist and author who challenges his students to examine options and choices consistent with a Christian life style and examines with them the effectiveness of their ministry to others. His book, Passages of a Pastor, has been hailed as compassionately and non-judgmentally recognizing the tasks, needs, and crises of the minister and effectively assisting the pastor in dealing with his own personal psychosocial pilgrimage. His recently published book, Choices, In Pursuit of Wholeness, co-authored with Janet Lanham, offers basic guidelines strong enough to provide Christian answers to today's complex questions, and challenges the reader to face the question of value.

Board Mulling Over Donut Shop License Request

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The License Board has taken under advisement for one week a request from Yiannis Davos of Brockton for a common victualer license for Supreme Coffee and Donuts, 275 Quincy Ave.

Board members said they would visit a similar establishment owned by Davos in Brockton. Davos said he has 12 establishments, not all of them donut shops.

The donut shop in Quincy is to be located on a section of subdivided land to the right of Keltic Liquors.

The other section of land is being developed by Ricciardi Co., Inc., and is scheduled to include a Dacey Bros. store.

W. J. Rodgeron, who appeared at the meeting with Davos, said that one building is constructed to house the donut shop, and another for one or two other businesses.

Fire Chief Edward Barry pointed out that the shop would be located in an extremely bad, high speed area.

Board members also said that the plans for the two separate buildings seemed "somewhat disjointed" and suggested they be joined together.

"We're not getting the maximum potential out of this," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald. Davos explained that his donut shop, as a free standing building, would have more "clout".

"We have an obligation to see to the orderly growth of the city," said MacDonald.

///EXCELLARATE///PLUS

Great ways to earn money market rates
at Quincy Savings Bank.

You make the choice.

You have some money to invest. Maybe a few thousand.

Perhaps a lot more.

You want to earn money market rates, locally, where you can get more personal service. Where you have a wide choice of insured investment alternatives. And where you can take care of other financial needs as well.

You know better than anyone what's important to you, what your investment strategy is.

That's why Quincy Savings now is offering its new Super NOW account, along with Excellerate Plus.

Our Super NOW is an excellent way to earn high money market interest while you enjoy the convenience of unlimited checking and access to your money all of the time at convenient locations, with no penalties for withdrawals.

You can open a Super NOW at Quincy Savings for as little as $2500, with the knowledge that your account is fully insured by the FDIC and the Deposit Insurance Fund of Massachusetts.

You earn a competitive money market rate on every dollar in your Super NOW account above $2500 and 5 1/4% interest on balances below that level.

There are no restrictions on the number of checks you can write or the dollar amount. And the minimum fee is just $1.00 a month, or 15¢ a check. (If you're 65 years of age or older, or have a direct deposit plan here, your Super NOW account is free.)

Our Super NOW also entitles you to a REDI-CASH Card which you can use 24 hours a day at all of our handy automated teller machines and at more than 100 other bank and supermarket locations in eastern Massachusetts.

Reintroducing ///EXCELLARATE///PLUS

Now that you know about our new Super NOW, you should also know about our Excellerate Plus and Excellerate accounts, which also earn money market rates.

Excellerate Plus is our new insured money market deposit account. You can open yours for $2500 and until February 1 we will guarantee a rate of 10% on the entire balance, as long as you maintain the required minimum of $2500.

Excellerate Plus has no management fees. As an insured investment account, it allows you to write up to three checks per month, plus three transfers, or a total of six transactions.

... and ///EXCELLARATE

Simply stated, you can open an Excellerate account for as little as $10, the minimum balance to earn our 5 1/4% checking account rate. But when your Excellerate balance exceeds $2,000, we automatically invest the money over that amount into a repurchase agreement* which pays you a money market rate equal to the Donoghue Money Fund 30-Day Average.TM

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Donald M. Deware
Director

"When things go wrong, as they sometimes will... When the road you're trudging seems all uphill... When the funds are low, and the debts are high... When you want to smile, but you have to sigh... When care is pressing you down a bit... Rest if you must—but never quit... Life is queer with its twists and turns, as every one of us sometimes learns... And many a failure turns about... When he might have won if he'd stuck it out... Success if failure turned inside out—the silver tint of the cloud of doubt... Stick to your task, though the pace seems slow... You may succeed with one more blow... And you never can tell how close you are... It may be near when it seems afar... So stick to your fight when you're hardest hit... It's when things seem worse that you mustn't quit."

Much has been said and written through the years about "try again" and "don't quit"... We think the quote above is one of the finest on the subject we ever read—or published. Don't you think so?

Paul Hurley Elected Director At Bank Of New England

Paul E. Hurley, president of the Hurley Insurance Agency Inc. of Quincy, was recently elected to the Board of Directors of Bank of New England Corporation.

The appointment became effective coincident with the merger of The Hancock Group Incorporated and Bank of New England Corporation.

Hurley, president and founder of the Quincy company that bears his name, was educated at Dartmouth College. He had been Chairman of the Board of The Hancock Group since 1980 and he had served on the Board of the bank and its predecessor, Quincy Trust Company, since 1964.

During World War II he served in the Pacific as a gunnery officer and later executive officer aboard a destroyer in the U.S. Navy. Hurley was twice individually cited in combat, receiving the Bronze Star and Navy Commendation Medal. He also received the Presidential Unit Citation. He retired a Commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve.

Among his many community service activities, Hurley has served on the Board of Directors of Fore River Railroad and Board of Managers at Quincy City Hospital and was Chairman of the Board for two years. He is Past Chairman of the Quincy Heart Fund, South Shore Cerebral Palsy Fund, and Past President of the Quincy Community Chest, the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, and the Quincy YMCA.

He is an active member of the Algonquin Club of Boston and the Wollaston Golf Club in Milton of which he is also past president.

Bank of New England Corporation is a $5.1 billion bank holding company headquartered in Boston. With the addition of the $160 million Hancock Group and its 17 offices on the South Shore, the Company now owns 12 commercial banks and several non-bank subsidiaries which provide a broad range of financial services throughout the region.

The new Bayside Exposition Center at Columbia Point, Dorchester, made its debut last weekend with a record 62,000 people turning out for its first show, Budweiser's World of Wheels.

Already Bayside, with its 300,000 square feet of space, 200,000 devoted to exhibition area, has corralled some 75 per cent of available trade and gate show business for 1983.

Between January and May, the following major shows are scheduled: North American Home Show, New England Camping and Trailer Show, New England Spring Garden and Flower Show and New England Boat Show.

The facility, financed and constructed in only six months, is designed to replace the Old Commonwealth Pier as an exhibition hall and at the same time rejuvenate the depressed Columbia Point area.

School Committee Seeks Discipline Policy Classification

The School Committee voted to adopt but then voted to reconsider the final adoption of a new school discipline policy.

The matter last week was referred back to the School Department's legal counsel, Murphy, Lamere and Murphy, drafters of the new policy, for points of clarification.

Under a new proposed policy a special needs student who commits an offense after being suspended four times during a school year would be subject to action by the school committee. Such action would be determined by the Chapter 766 team and the principal of the particular school before it is brought to the attention of the school committee.

It was felt that adoption of such a new policy may be construed as discriminatory against special needs students.

Committeeman Frank Anselmo pressed this point and urged the committee to reconsider its previous action and send the proposal to the legal firm for clarification.

Statistics indicated that of the 76 offenses reportable to the school committee for expulsion 21 were offenses committed by Chapter 766 students. Of these 21 offenses only six were considered to be major offenses.

Anselmo and Joan Picard argued that the discipline policy should be the same for all students.

HAZARD OF THE SNOWBLOWER

Some dangers around the house merely change appearance by the season. For example, the snow-blower-winter's cousin to summer's potentially hazardous power lawn mower.

The motorized snow-blower breaks up snow and tosses it to the side. There's no doubt that it has safety advantages - such as reducing the exertion of shoveling snow (which can result in heart attack), and making walks less slippery. But it has, also, built-in hazards similar to those of the power lawnmower.

The snowblower has blades or augers that can slice off parts of the human anatomy, and a number of users have had fingers mangled or amputated while using their hands to unclog a snowblower when the motor was running. It's imperative to shut off the blower's motor and wait for the blades to stop revolving before putting your hands near the discharge area. In general, say safety engineers, you should treat snow-blowers with the same caution as you do power lawn mowers.

QUINCY'S Frank Reynolds shoots puck past North's Mike Cullen during the season's first meeting of the teams last week.

Defeat North, 6-2

Monahan Sparkles In Goal For Quincy

Quincy hockey coach Bob Sylvia said before the season opened that his team would score a lot of goals but was extremely worried about his goal-tending.

But last Saturday night he shifted forward Rick Monahan into goal and he turned in an outstanding performance as the Presidents defeated North Quincy, 6-2, for their first Suburban League victory. The win improved Quincy's overall record to 3-2.

Quincy faced Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday (Wednesday) and Saturday will play Brookline at the Watertown rink at 3:30.

The Quincy-North game was typical, featuring a lot of hard hitting and aggressive play. The win was not nearly as easy as the 6-2 score would indicate, Quincy was called for eight penalties and North nine.

Quincy kept the pressure on North in the opening period but had to be satisfied with a 1-0 lead on Mike Chenette's goal. Ted Walsh and Brian Silcox assisted.

The Presidents added three second-period goals with Chenette scoring his second with Silcox assisting, Bryan Provenzano making it 3-0 with assists for John O'Connor and Mike Nourse, and Frank Reynolds scoring with Mike Baylis assisting.

After North had cut the gap to 4-2, Doug Concannon scored with Chenette assisting and Provenzano wound up the scoring with Marc Abboud having an assist.

"Monahan was the surprise of the night," said Quincy assistant coach Jack Crowley. "He did so well because of his sheer athletic ability." Monahan had four outstanding saves on North breakaways.

"The breaks just went our way tonight," said Sylvia. "You play this game long enough and things will always even out."

The win could be costly, however, as Walsh, a top defenseman, was taken to the hospital with a wrist injury. Earlier this year another fine defenseman, Ed Boyle, was lost for the season with a broken leg.

Earlier last week Quincy bounced back from a 5-2 deficit to tie Brockton, but the Boxers scored in the final minute to hand the Presidents a heartbreaking 6-5 setback.

Quincy took a 2-1 lead in the opening period on goals by Steve English (assists for Concannon and Chenette) and Concannon (assist Greg Keefe).

Quincy then went cold as Brockton scored four straight goals in the middle period before the Presidents got untracked.

First Nourse scored with Keefe and Bill Campbell assisting, Chenette scored with Walsh and Concannon having assists and Concannon scored with just 50 seconds left to tie the score.

Twice Quincy players hit the post and the final period was scoreless until 1:13 remaining when Steve Valley scored for the Boxers.

"This was a game we definitely deserved to win," Sylvia said. "Even though you lose, the positives outweigh the negatives. It's just unfair to come out of a game like this without a point."

Raiders Up For Newton Down For Presidents

After turning in an outstanding performance against Newton North, rated the top team in the Suburban League, the North Quincy hockey team lost a frustrating 6-2 decision to Quincy last Saturday to drop its record to 1-2.

The Raiders will host Waltham Saturday at 7:50 at the Youth Arena.

"I was very disappointed in our play against Quincy," said first-year coach Kevin Jago. "Four times we had clean breakaways but couldn't score. Rick Monahan played a tremendous game in goal for Quincy, but we should have scored on those breakaways."

"The boys played about as well as anyone could against Newton (last second 3-2 loss), but overall we haven't played as well as I thought we would."

Quincy had a 4-0 lead before the Raiders could score in the final period. They cut the gap to 4-2 on goals by Mike Cullen (assist for Glen McGlame) and Scott Messina (assist for Kevin White), but Quincy came back with two late goals to clinch the win.

Earlier in the week North made a fine showing against Newton, which earlier had beaten Quincy, 8-4.

Bill Cahill played very well in goal and the Raiders battled back from a 2-0 deficit.

Keith Smith cut Newton's lead to 2-1 in the second period, with Steve Denelsbeck and Dean Phillips assisting, and Messina scored the tying goal with five minutes left in the game with Rich Horrigan and Dick Tapper assisting.

"This was a really tough one to lose and the boys played well against a very strong team," Jago said. "The defense has been playing well but we haven't been able to put the puck in the net."

"I've been very pleased with the work of freshman Glen McGlame and sophomore Peter Furtado. Cahill has looked good in goal and Shawn Cunningham did well in the final period against Quincy. We just have to generate some offense."

North Girls Rebound, Breeze By Waltham

The North Quincy girls' track team, which had its 30-meet unbeaten streak ended the previous week, rebounded last night to roll over Waltham, 63-21, to make its record 2-1.

The Raiderettes faced Brookline Tuesday and will be idle until Jan. 21 when they meet Weymouth North at 5:30 at Newton North.

"Our younger girls continue to do well for us and against Waltham 41 points were scored by our ninth and 10th graders," said Coach Lou Tozzi.

The North girls won eight of the nine events with no one winning more than one event.

Lisa Fitzgerald won the 300 with Georgia Traficante second, Juli Alibrandi won the 600 with Lisa Reynolds third, Meg Leary won the 1000, Tracey Corrigan won the mile with freshman Laura Barrett second, Mary Ann Kelleher won the two-mile with freshman Sharon Barrett second and Nancy Wildes third, Maria McGurl won the hurdles with Lori Magrath second, Traficante won the high jump with Fitzgerald second, Noreen Connelly won the shot put with Jean O'Hare second and the mile relay team of Alibrandi, Fitzgerald, Donna Gelsomini and Zdzankowski also won.

The only event won by Waltham was the 50 in which Zdzankowski finished second and O'Hare third.

Tozzi announces that members of the North Quincy boys and girls' track teams of the past 10 years are invited to a 10th anniversary reunion Friday night from 7 to midnight at the North Quincy K. of C. Hall.

All alumni, parents and friends of North Quincy track are invited to join the former track stars. Music will be provided by A Touch of Class.

Tickets can be purchased from Jeff Hennessy (472-5537), Paul Doherty (472-3296), Mary Kate Kennedy (328-3121) or Tozzi (837-5185).

Quincy Girls Lose First 2, But Finnegan Encouraged

By TOM SULLIVAN

Marty Finnegan, who coached the boys' teams for 14 years, has taken over as Quincy girls' basketball coach this season and, although his club has lost its first two games, he is pleased with their performances and their attitude.

The First Ladies will host Waltham Friday night at 8 o'clock and will play at Brookline Tuesday at 5 o'clock.

The Quincy girls turned in an excellent performance last Friday night and outscored Newton North from the floor but lost the game at the foul line, 49-47.

"The girls did an excellent job but fouls beat us," Finnegan said. "They went to the line 21 times and we had only seven foul shots."

Cindy Morrill had 14 points for Quincy. Katy Dunn came off the bench to score 11 and Ellen Deady had 10. Michelle Miller had six points, seven assists and five steals. Sue Dacey came off the bench and played fine defense.

Earlier in the week, playing their first game, the Quincy girls lost to undefeated North Quincy, which already had played four games, 34-24.

"North has a very fine team and it was tough playing our first game against them," Finnegan said. "Their high scorer (Chris) Choukas could be playing college ball right now. She is outstanding. If we could have had a couple of games under our belt, we might have done a little better."

It was Quincy's first loss in three years to North. Quincy did a fine job defensively and held the Raiderettes to their lowest score of the year.

Choukas had 19 of North's 34 points as the First Ladies double teamed Karen Bridges and held her to one basket.

Morrill and Deady had eight points each to pace the Quincy attack.

"We are pretty much in a rebuilding year," Finnegan said. "Quincy won the Suburban League title and went to the semifinals of the South Sectional playoffs last year but two of those stars, Nancy MacDonald and Mary Kamb, are now playing college ball. And Mary Ann Agness, who starred on that team would have been one of our key players, is out for the season following a knee operation."

Morrill, Deady and Dara Morris are Quincy's forwards, Tricia Munroe and Dunn are the centers and Miller, Carolyn Leonard and Sue Morrison are the guards.

Sue Dacey is playing both forward and guard and Nancy Hamel, Karla Robertson and Wendy Parry round out the squad.

Quincy Wins, 2-0, On Grogan, Monahan Goals

Joe Monahan scored in the second minute of play and Ed Grogan got the second goal in the dying moments as the Quincy High School hockey team beat favored Needham, 2-0, for its first Bay State League win at Boston Arena.

Goalie Bud Gavazza had the shutout for the Presidents, who were directed from the bench by Tom Hoey, filling in for ailing Coach Ken Hudson.

The Quincy lineup included: Gavazza, goal; Ordway, Grogan, Shearer, Fallon, defense; Monahan, Coleman, Malvesti, McKenna, Pyne, Langdon, Hurley, forwards.

NORTH DRUBS WEYMOUTH

The North Quincy High School basketball team, led by Te Mitchell's 11 points, blew out to a 19-4 lead at halftime and then coasted to a 42-17 victory over Weymouth in the Weymouth gym.

The North Quincy lineup included: Bryan, Fisher, Leadbetter, Reilly, Cooke, David, forwards; Mitchell, McLeod, centers; Ryan, Nelson, Cody, Joly, Edson, guards.

POINT BOYS IN UPSET

A wet field that made footing uncertain helped the Quincy Point Boys Club soccer team to hold the favored Bird and Sons team to a scoreless tie in a State Cup third round game in East Walpole.

The Quincy Point lineup included: Swift, goal; Cosgrove, Desmond, backs; Jensen, Logan, Hampsey, halfbacks; Quinn, Jepson, Ralston, Ritchie, Crighton, McAuley, McGuire, forwards.

WATERTOWN SMOTHERED

Coach Jimmy LeCain alternated his senior and junior teams on the floor as the Quincy High School basketball team smothered Watertown, 38-11, with Oliver Kangas scoring 10 points.

The Quincy lineup included: Nousio, Martin, Winsor, Dobbey, Almstrom, Paul, forwards; Kangas, Kapsis, centers; Asnes, DiGravio, Broderick, Dunn, McCollum, guards.

SHUCCO MOVES IN

Light heavyweight boxing contender Tony Shucco and a bevy of sparring partners moved into Quincy to complete training at Boston's Gym for his scheduled 10-round bout with Al Rodrigues of Quincy Jan. 23 at Quincy Arena.

'Y' WHIPS FALL RIVER

Big Bill O'Connell and Bones Greenhalgh, the big guns of the Quincy YMCA basketball team, scored 12 and 11 points respectively as the Granite City team whipped the Fall River YMCA, 49-16.

The Quincy lineup included: Mattson, Winslip, Greenhalgh, forwards; O'Connell, center; Pierce, Reid, Comparato, guards.

MERRYMOUNT WINS

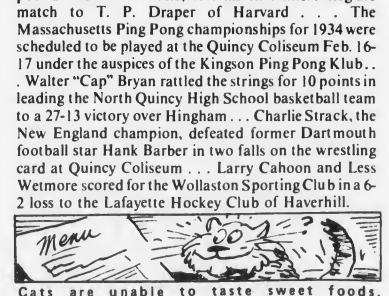

Bud Beausang scored the winning goal in the second overtime session to lift the Merrymount Hockey Club to a 5-4 victory over the Baintree Black Hawks in a penalty-filled game on the Hawks' rink.

QUINCY NIPS MILTON

Eric "Swede" Almstrom and Howard Martin came through with last minute baskets to lead the Quincy High School basketball team to a 20-18 victory over an upset-minded Milton team.

ALL INSURANCE AGENTS ARE ALIKE, RIGHT?
WRONG! The way we see it, there are two basic types. There's the kind who works for an insurance company . . . and the kind who works for you, like the BIG GUYS at KALAFATAS INSURANCE.
Your BIG I Agent is different. He's someone you can get to know. In fact, you may already know him, as a fellow member of your PTA, church or civic group. He may even live next door to you!
Your BIG I Agent doesn't work for a company. He lives and works in the community he serves, helping his neighbors pick the right coverage at the right price, choosing the best from several strong, reliable companies. And, he keeps his customers informed on changing economic factors that effect their coverage needs.
So, if you think on insurance agent is a company salesman who calls once a year at renewal time, talk to the BIG I GUYS at KALAFATAS INSURANCE. You'll see that there is a BIG difference!

North Defeats Quincy, Bows To Waltham

The North Quincy boys' basketball team, after rolling to an easy win over Quincy last week, found Waltham too big last Friday and lost, 74-65, dropping its record to 2-3.

The Raiders, who played Brookline Tuesday, will host Brockton Friday night at 8 and next Tuesday will be home to Newton North at 3:30.

"Waltham was just too big for us and we couldn't get inside," coach Ed Miller said. "We were forced into committing several fouls."

Chris Bunker, who has had an outstanding season, paced North with 13 points and sophomore Ken Runge had an excellent game and added 11 points.

North's defense was too much for Quincy as the Presidents were held to 20 points in the first three periods and North went on to a 70-46 victory.

"Defense is the name of the game for us," said Miller. "We knew we'd be a little quicker than them and that created a lot of opportunities, defensively, which we turned into easy baskets."

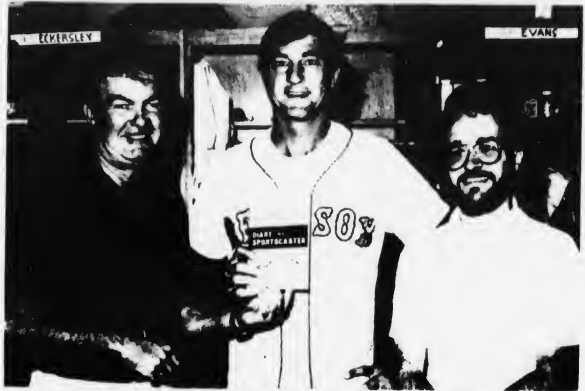

The Raiders, who had dropped a last second heartbreaker to Somerville in their previous game, showed no ill effects from that game and roared to 38-9 lead which they increased to 54-20 early in the final period.

The Ryan brothers, Tim and Paul, played tight defense and held Quincy's big scorers, Paul Gilbody and Bob Mudge, to just seven points between them for three quarters.

Paul Ryan had 16 points to lead the Raiders and he also had seven steals. Bunker had 13 points and Pat McDonough contributed 10.

Quincy Hopes To Regain Form

The Quincy boys' basketball team, which had looked impressive in its only win over Arlington lost two games last week to drop its record to 1-4.

The Presidents will play at Waltham Friday night at 8 p.m. and will host Brookline next Tuesday at 8.

Last Friday night Newton North stymied Quincy with a game-long full-court press that forced the Presidents into numerous turnovers and fouls and handed Quincy its worst setback in some time, 78-28.

Bob Mudge had 13 points for Quincy and Paul Gilbody had eight points and 12 rebounds.

Newton's Mark Coppola scored 15 points and Jerry Phillips led the effective full-court press.

Earlier in the week North Quincy held Gilbody and Mudge, the Presidents' big scorers, to seven points in three quarters and went on to pound Quincy, 70-46.

North broke out to a 28-9 lead and early in the fourth quarter had a huge 54-20 lead.

"We've gotten away from the team concept," Coach Joe Amoroso said.

"We're at the point where one or two people feel they have to carry the team. Our veterans have not played to the level I thought they would perform to and we have to get our younger players involved."

Amoroso was pleased with the work of Mike Flynn and Dennis Downing. Mudge finished up with 13 points and Gilbody with 12.

Quincy Wrestlers Pin Newton N. For 6th Win

The Quincy wrestling team improved its record to 6-0 last week with an easy 42-14 victory over Newton North in a Suburban League meet at Mike Notarangelo, Bill Rollins, Jamie Gravalesse and Kevin Cabezas all remained undefeated.

Ken Coleman Turns Author

Ken Coleman, formerly of North Quincy, radio voice of the Boston Red Sox, has authored "Diary of a Sportscaster" with collaboration from freelance writer Dan Valenti. The "Diary" is a day-to-day chronicle of the 1981 Boston baseball season, beginning in spring training, continuing through the baseball strike, and following the Red Sox in their drive for the division title to season's end.

The 176-page "Diary" offers a unique look at the

This is the second book by Coleman, who is also executive director of the Jimmy Fund of the Sidney Faber Cancer Institute in Boston. "So You Want to be a Sportscaster?" was published in 1973.

North Track Team On Comeback Road

Despite a 0-3 record, the North Quincy boys' track team appears on the way back after several lean years.

The Raiders, coached by former North and Cornell star Brad Petracca, met Brookline Tuesday and will be idle until they face Weymouth North Friday, Jan. 21, at 3:30 at Newton North.

Leading the North team is two-year veteran, senior Bobby O'Brien, who placed fifth in last year's state Class C meet and is undefeated this season. He is one of the fastest 300-yarders in the state and should do well in this season's state meet.

The strength of the squad is in the juniors. Leading the "junior alliance" are Jim Kennedy and Jeff Stryker.

Kennedy, who has already run a fine 2:27 100-yards against Don Bosco, plans to run the mile in the state meet. Stryker, after running an excellent 1:19 600-yards at Commonwealth Army, came back with a first-time 2:28 in the 1000 against Weymouth North, winning both races.

"Jeff's first indoor season is progressing very well, I never expected such rapid improvement," Petracca said. "He will run in the 1000 in the states and should place well."

Another junior, Bill Donnelly, is improving all the time and hopes to qualify for the states.

Sophomore Scott Coyne has an excellent 2:31 1000 and is a consistent scorer and is also pointing towards the big meets.

North has a depth problem, especially in the distance events. Behind Kennedy in the mile is junior Tim Sullivan. In the two-mile freshmen Harry Morash, Heath Petracca and Mark Bilton are excellent prospects who will give the Raiders distance strength in the future.

The middle distances are North's strongest area with Tom Kearney and Arthur Collins leading the 600. Both are part of the Raiders' unbeaten relay team with Stryker and Kennedy. Kearney was a member of the mile relay which took fourth place last year in Class C. Collins is in his first indoor season and shows great promise.

In the sprints behind O'Brien, senior Doug Gutro, junior Kevin Kelly and sophomores Joe Bangs, Steve Kelly and Tom Wildes are steadily improving.

In the hurdles and high jump juniors Jaime Paz and John Delappe are veterans pointing to the state meet and the six-foot barrier in the high jump.

Several shot put standouts graduated and this year's hopes fall upon sophomore John Foley and freshman Chris Ricciuti.

"All in all, despite some weak areas, the boys' team is improving all the time," said Petracca. "With just five seniors, next year's team will be even stronger. We managed sixth place in Class C last year and this year should be even better."

"A lot of the credit must go to my assistants, Lou Tozzi and Jeff Hennessy, who have helped out a great deal."

Run Streak To 6 Raiderettes Defeat Quincy, Waltham

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, following four non-league wins, opened its Suburban League season last week with victories over Quincy and Waltham to improve its record to 6-0.

The Raiderettes, off to their best start ever, played Brookline Tuesday, will play at Brockton Friday at 5 o'clock and will be at Newton North Tuesday at 5.

Last Friday, after its offense had been pretty well shackled by Quincy, North rolled over Waltham, 53-33.

The Raiderettes were down, 6-4, with four minutes left in the first quarter but went on a 25-4 tear to take a 29-10 halftime lead. Chris Choukas, who finished with a game-high 20 points, had 12 in that spurt while Mary Holleran, who played a fine game, keyed the defense with several steals and six first-half points. Also instrumental in the spurt were Michelle White and Debbie Cavanaugh with four points each.

Karen Bridges dominated the third quarter with eight of her 10 points as North increased its lead to 45-19. Junior forward Chris Donovan played a strong third quarter with some fine inside play in relief of Choukas.

Choukas finished with nine for 10 from the floor and two for two from the foul line. She also had three assists, two steals and two blocked shots. Holleran had eight points, four assists and five steals. Joanne Keenan played a fine floor game and had two steals and Eileen Crehan was effective in the final quarter as she pulled down five rebounds and added a steal.

In defeating Quincy earlier in the week for the first time in three years, the Raiderettes found their inside game pretty well shut off by Quincy's collapsing zone, but won, 34-24.

Both teams appeared tight in the opening quarter with Quincy, playing its first game, holding a 9-8 edge after the quarter. North's Choukas, who finished with 19 points, high for the game, hit for five first quarter points. Quincy effectively stopped Bridges, who managed just one basket, but left Choukas open to continue her high scoring.

White played a strong game and made several steals as well as hitting two key foul shots. Choukas scored all the North points in the third quarter as North took a narrow 22-20 lead into the final quarter.

The Raiderettes' defense, which has been strong all season, held Quincy to one basket in the second half. Holleran, who again keyed the defense with six steals, also added six fourth quarter points, including four pressure foul shots with less than two minutes to play to allow North some breathing room. Holleran added eight rebounds and two assists with a tremendous all-around effort. Cavanaugh played a fine game and had three steals and Karen Boutillier had three steals and played an excellent floor game.

Choukas is averaging 18.3 points a game and Bridges 10 a game. Both are being pursued by several colleges.

QJC Edges Blue Hills, 89-86

The Quincy Junior College basketball team improved its record to 11-4 last week with an 89-86 victory over Blue Hills Technical.

Center Jim Conboy scored 21 of his 27 points in the second half as the Jaguars escaped with a hard-fought win. Paul Gill had 16 points, Steve Belcastro 14, Ken Mann nine and Fran McEachern eight.

Coach Brian Buckley was pleased with his bench. "In the first half we were down by 10 points and I put in five fresh players," he said. "Keith Realini, Tom Deegan, Fran McEachern, Tom Pound and Brian Connolly did a great job on man-to-man defense to get us back in the game."

Quincy's Peter Papile scored 14 points for Blue Hills.

Point Panthers Present Awards

The Quincy Point Panthers, runnersup in the Quincy Youth Football League, recently held their annual awards night at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Trophies were presented to all team members and cheerleaders, along with the following awards:

Swimming, Diving Courses At Hancock

Recreation Director Barry Welch, announces that the Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration for two mini-courses conducted at the Pool in Lincoln Hancock Community School.

The first course is a program for adult non-swimmers. The program is held Wednesdays at 6 p.m. and features small class size so that individual attention is given to adult non-swimmers.

The second course is a beginner diving course held Wednesdays at 6 p.m.

Participants should be 8-12 years old and have no previous diving instruction. Participants must be capable of swimming one length of the Pool.

Registration for these courses can be made in person at the Pool Office beginning immediately. Registration is done on a first come first serve basis and enrollment is limited. All programs start Wednesday, Jan. 26, and will continue for five weeks. Additional information is available by contacting the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, Ext. 204.

WEEK OF: JANUARY 13

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Hosing is your chief task and pleasure this week, it's worth the effort to arrange unique touches. Trips taken or planned now may include unexpected attractions.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Differences of opinion wait to your favor if you learn something from the opposition. Romance perks up a little. Financial arrangements should be clarified early on.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Dip in self-confidence early in the period, then you're on top of the world. Promotions, bonuses, and/or news of a celebration contribute to your positive outlook.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Social life soars — a sign of a year that finds you often in the limelight. Balance is all-important: balance spending with restraint, rest with travel and activity.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Dates may be rescheduled — but there are some blessings in disguise. A superb week for expressing your feelings, publicly or privately. New romantic opportunity may beckon now.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Week is favorable for acquisitions — anything from a special antique to a luxury item that you can't live without. Hurdles on the job may prove more difficult than first imagined.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Finances improve after the weekend, thanks to previous fiscal decisions. Love signs are hidden — it's your present job to seek them out. Creativity is strong.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Financial matters become increasingly complicated, but alert Virgians can find new money-making opportunities. In personal life, listen for hidden messages. Romance is on the upswing.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Championing a cause takes more time than planned, but brings unexpected rewards. Partner needs gentle but steady encouragement. Modest speculation is favored through the week.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Neighborhood friction eases and social life is on the quiet side. For students of all disciplines, this is a week for proving your point and displaying your special gifts.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Good time to get away from it all, even if 'away' is fairly close to home. Don't take financial good fortune for granted. Avoid controversial topics with older friends.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Accent is on budgeting and rearranging your spending patterns. Friendships with members of the opposite sex are highlighted. Colleague's jealousy may be more serious than you suspect.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Determined, predictable, an achiever — you're a born businessperson, and a true friend. Being less vulnerable to criticism helps you advance to the head of the pack. Travel dreams can come true by the end of the year.

BORN THIS WEEK
January 13th, dancer Gwen Verdon, 14th, singer Loretta Lynn; 15th, actor Lloyd Bridges; 16th, singer Ethel Merman; 17th, actor James Earl Jones; 18th, actor Cary Grant; 19th, singer Dolly Parton

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that the last will of said decedent be proved and allowed and that LAURA G. FRIEBERG of Quincy in the County of Norfolk be appointed executrix named in the will without surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before ten o'clock in the forenoon on February 9, 1983.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving the specific grounds therefor, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) otherwise the Court may upon its own motion or on motion by the petitioner, the guardian ad litem, (if any), or any person whose appearance is on file (with notice to any person whose appearance is on file and, if applicable, the guardian and petitioner), order the appearance struck.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the twenty-fourth day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighty-two.

Capt. Golden Awarded Medal

Capt. Richard D. Golden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Golden of 143 Lansdowne

St., Squantum, was recently awarded the Defense Meritorious Service Medal.

The award was presented upon Golden's separation from active duty at the Army National Guard, Third Brigade Headquarters.

Golden served as brigade equal opportunity officer at Westover Air Force Base, Chicopee.

The award was for "exceptionally meritorious service for the armed forces of the United States."

In part, the citation read, "Capt. Golden displayed extraordinary professional competence, skillful diplomacy, acute perception, penetrating analysis, far-seeing judgement, dynamic leadership and selfless dedication in all matters pertaining to interface with state and local governments."

Golden, a North Quincy High School and U. Mass-Amherst graduate, hopes to move back to Quincy soon with his wife, Rita, and daughter, Laura. He is pursuing a master's degree in public administration

Creedon Denies Pollard School Stripped

By JOHN NOONAN
School Supt., Dr.

Lawrence Creedon denies the vacant Pollard School has been stripped of furniture and equipment since being turned over to the city for final disposition.

Creedon told the School Committee last week that some plumbing fixtures, classroom clocks, ceiling acoustical tiles, and a large curtain have been removed for safekeeping or use in other school buildings.

Creedon said nothing has been taken from the school since Nov. 22 when a letter transferring the school building officially to the city was sent by the school department to Mayor Francis McCauley.

"We haven't removed anything from the Pollard school since Nov. 22 and I fail to see what this is all about," said Creedon in answer to recent queries and criticism raised by some city councillors and others.

Creedon reported that all flushometers at Pollard had been removed for safe keeping and prevention against possible damage by vandals or thieves.

Flushometers are intricate parts of toilet plumbing. These parts have been removed to safeguard against possible freezing because of lack of heat or damage by vandals. Some flushometers have been used in other school buildings but the majority have been placed in storage, Creedon said.

He denied that any toilets have been removed from Pollard School.

A stage curtain, worth several thousand dollars, has been taken down and stored as a precautionary measure, Creedon said.

Acoustical tiles, serving as a dividing ceiling, to lower the original ceiling, have been removed in four school rooms with such ceilings. The tiles have been stored or used in other school buildings, he said.

Clocks, which according to Creedon, are not always in synchronization with the correct time, have also been removed for repair, storage, or use in other school buildings.

Removal of these materials by school personnel took place prior to turning the building over to the city, he said.

Stop Smoking Clinic At Manet Health Center

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association and the Manet Community Health Center are cooperating in the presentation of a four-session stop-smoking clinic beginning Monday, Jan. 17, at 8 p.m.

Sessions will continue January 19, 24, and 26 at the Manet Community Health Center, 1193 Sea St., Quincy.

Size of the group will be limited to 20 participants.

Mercury Stolen

Robert U. McMahon of Setuante reported to police Monday that his 1976 Mercury Montego station wagon was stolen from the North Quincy MBTA station.

Sessions are designed to offer support and improve the odds of people being able to quit smoking.

According to Ruth Johnstone, program director of the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, and Cynthia Roche-Cotter, nurse-clinician at the Manet Community Health Center, "smokers attending should be helped to understand their smoking habit better."

"Strategies for coping without cigarettes and specific activities will be spelled out. Smokers need to remember that their own motivation plays an important part."

To register, contact Cynthia Roche-Cotter at 471-8683 or Ruth Johnstone at 668-6729.

Communications Center

City Eyes Multi-Million 'Teleport'

By TOM HENSHAW

Planning Director James Lydon will be off to New York next week to attend a conference on "teleports," multi-million dollar communications facilities, one of which Mayor Francis X. McCauley hopes to land for Quincy.

A teleport is described as a communications center that receives signals and transmits them to business and industrial subscribers over a wide area.

The concept is so new that there is not yet a teleport in operation, although Merrill Lynch, Western Union and the New York Port Authority are planning one on 350 acres in the New York City area.

The projected cost is $250 million.

Lydon said he plans to attend the conference, which starts Monday, Jan. 24 and runs for two days, "to investigate the possibility of attracting something like this to Quincy."

He said a teleport serving the Greater Boston area could be located on one of several large tracts of available land in the city, including the Boston Harbor Marina and Quarry

St.

"Quincy is the only city in the Boston area that has shown any interest as far as I know," said Lydon. "It's so early in the game that nobody really knows what it's all about."

"If we go into the thing with a site and a plan in mind we would be six jumps ahead of everybody else."

Lydon said such companies as IBM, Wang Laboratories of Lowell and Isacom are exploring the teleport field.

Isacom operates what may be called a mini-teleport with a dish antenna atop the Monarch III building in North Quincy. The dish is an integral part of a teleport.

Lydon said a teleport in Quincy would encourage more development in the city as well as provide a new industry in the high tech field.

Jerome G. Lucas, chairman of the teleport conference in New York, said the teleport holds the same promise for development in the next 100 years as did the railroad station and the airport over the past 100 years.

"Cities were built around railroad stations," he said. "Hotels, motels and distribution facilities grew up around airports. Shopping centers developed around major highways and intersections."

"A teleport couples telecommunications and information processing with real estate development to create special services for office parks or buildings."

David Keefe, former general manager of Quincy Cable Systems and now regional director for American Cable systems, will accompany Lydon to New York.

Nicastro City Solicitor

Atty. Dean Nicastro has been named city solicitor of Quincy, effective Feb. 7, succeeding William B. Golden, who resigned to return to private practice.

Appointment of the 30-year-old Nicastro, who has been assistant city solicitor since February, 1982, was announced Tuesday by Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

At the same time, McCauley announced that he was moving the city's equal employment administrator, Joseph A. "Jay" MacRitchie, into Nicastro's old post of assistant.

The city solicitor's job pays $28,264, the assistant's post $23,501.

DEAN NICASTRO

McCauley said Nicastro has his choice for the top legal position right from the start. There was no search for other qualified candidates.

"Unless he turned down the job, there was no reason to go outside," said the mayor.

Nicastro, a summa cum laude graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, served from 1978 to 1982 as a trial attorney in the eminent domain and utilities division of the attorney general's office.

"Atty. Nicastro is a very bright and capable attorney," said McCauley. "He has a broad and impressive background in the practice of law, both in the public and private sectors."

City Tries Again For Pound Law Exemption

A legislative petition to exempt the Quincy dog pound from the provisions of state law requiring stray dogs be turned over to research facilities for experimental purposes was referred by the City Council to its Ordinance Committee Monday night.

The petition, introduced for the second year in a row by councillor James Sheets, gives specific exemption to the city from the state law provisions. Similar legislation was introduced last year but failed to pass through the state legislature.

Under the petition introduced by Sheets, available impounded animals within Quincy could not be turned over to any institution for scientific investigation, experimentation, instruction, or testing of drugs or medicine.

Attempts at outright repeal of the so-called state dog pound law have been made in recent years. Some communities including Quincy have sought exemption through the home rule petition.

PICKETS from the Department of Social Services in Quincy demonstrated in front of their offices at 1419 Hancock St., Quincy Center. The group protested over the amount of paper work, responsibility for cases and limited time to meet with families.

GD Wins $409-M Contract But Yard May Lose Jobs

General Dynamics Shipyard won a $409 million, three-ship Navy contract last week but enthusiasm was dulled when it was learned that some of the work is going to be farmed out to Canada and Sweden.

Jonathan Brandow, president of the Shipyard Workers Local 5, said it was first expected that all the work would be performed at Fore River. He said 75-100 jobs are involved.

"With the ripple effect," said Brandow, "this will cost the South Shore community about 300 additional jobs."

The $409 million three ship contract means that the yard now has orders worth $681 million to build five TAKX cargo ships for the Navy's Rapid Deployment Force.

If all the work were done at the Quincy facility, it was expected that the work force would increase to 5,000 by the fall of 1984 with the buildup in jobs starting next summer.

Now, at least 75-100 of those jobs are going out of the country, according to Brandow.

Brandow said one subcontract for design and lofting representing 60,000 man hours of work is being given to Port Weller, a firm in Canada.

"I understand," he said, "that they will have to hire more people in Canada to do the work."

"The company claims that the supply of trained workers here is inadequate to do the job. We have been after them for years to train people."

Brandow said a second subcontract, with close to 40,000 man hours of work, is going to the MacGregor Co., a Swedish firm, to supply hydraulic and movable parts of the ships.

"All the work by politicians and the community to get these contracts was not done so that they could be subcontracted to foreign countries," he said.

"Workers in Canada and Sweden have just as much right to jobs as we do, but not at the expense of the American taxpayer."

The shipyard received a

$212 million Navy contract for construction of two of the 671-foot ships. Four of the cargo ships, which will serve as floating storehouses, are to be delivered in 1985, the fifth in 1986.

The contracts should keep the yard busy, said Cong. Brian Donnelly, while more work in the Navy's expansion program is sought.

The shipyard, whose workforce has dropped to about 2,100, has already begun work on the first two ships. According to a shipyard spokesman, management will try to speed up construction to accelerate recall of laid off workers and build up the necessary work force for the contracts.

General Dynamics will own the ships when they are completed, and will charter them to the Navy for 25 years. The Navy has the right to buy the ships or terminate the contract every five years by paying a cancellation fee to General Dynamics.

$4,700 Raise Proposed For Koch

A recommendation that the salary of Richard J. Koch Sr., executive director of Park, Forestry and Cemetery be increased from $26,478 to $31,240 and included in the 1983-84 city budget was referred to the City Council's Ordinance Committee Monday night.

The salary increase was made in a letter from Christopher Kennedy, Chairman, in behalf of the Park Department Board of Commissioners, to Mayor Francis McCauley who in turn sent the recommendation to the council.

In his letter to the Mayor, Kennedy wrote "at its regular meeting on January 3, 1983, and in view of the recently increased responsibilities of Richard J. Koch, Executive Secretary of the Park and Recreation Board, the Park and Recreation Board voted unanimously to recommend to you that his salary be augmented in proportion to his extra duties."

The letter further stated that "the Board felt Mr. Koch has long been doing and is doing now an outstanding job in fulfilling all his responsibilities."

"The fact that he was chosen to make the city cemeteries clean and attractive again - a long standing and serious problem - is a tribute to his ability and his leadership,"

Kennedy wrote.

The Park board recommended that the raise be included in the 1983-84 budget and that it should be taken from the cemetery budget.

In a related matter an appropriation request to cover the salary increase for Koch from Feb. 1, 1983 through June 30, 1983 in the amount of $1,985 was referred by the council to the finance committee.

PROPOSED PILGRIM PLAZA at Scammell St. and Quincy Ave., Quincy Center.

$1,885 Million Revenue Bond Sought For Pilgrim Plaza

The Pilgrim Plaza $1,885,000 industrial revenue bond which would be used to finance a new mini-mall at the corner of Quincy Ave. and Scammell St. was referred by the City Council to its Finance Committee Monday night.

Approval of the City Council would enable the developers, a Boston group including Harold Brown, Michael Suker and Robert Samia to borrow funds at below market rates since financial lenders can collect interest on the bonds free of federal taxes. Both city and state approval of such bonds are necessary.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley made the request for the bond approval in a letter to the city council following approval of the city's Industrial Development Financing Authority.

Developers plan to construct 23,000 square feet of retail space for shops, a convenience store, a drive-in bank and a restaurant.

Council Gets Condo Bill

By JOHN NOONAN

The same condominium conversion legislation that died in the state legislature last year was reintroduced at the City Council meeting Monday night by Councilor Stephen J. McGrath.

The legislation, which is in the form of a home rule petition permitting the city to restrict condo conversion, was sent to the Ordinance Committee.

Actually, the bill was sent to the Council by Mayor Francis X. McCauley but his offering failed to include amendments that were later added to last year's legislative proposal.

Tools Taken

A side window on a 1972 Ford van owned by Michael Kish of Seitate was broken while it was parked at the California Disco Sunday night and an assortment of tools was taken.

NQ Girl Seriously Hurt By Hit-Run Car

Police are seeking an apparent hit-run driver whose car seriously injured a 12-year-old North Quincy girl, Monday on Whitwell St.

Colleen Oldham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oldham of 289 East Squantum St., was in satisfactory condition at Quincy City Hospital with a fractured pelvis, possible internal injuries and multiple bruises.

The girl's mother, Mary

Oldham, said they had just left the hospital where Colleen had been treated for a dog bite, when the car roared down Whitwell St., knocking the little girl into a snow bank.

Colleen was taken back to the hospital in a station wagon that stopped to pick her up.

Police said they had no description of the car or its driver except that the auto was large and gray and had a spare tire on the trunk.

Pizza Hut Break

Thieves broke into the Pizza Hut at 627 Washington St., Quincy Point, during the weekend and made off with a case of Miller beer. Entry was gained by breaking a side door window.

Fake Bill Passed

A counterfeit $10 bill was reported passed at the Quincy Oil station on Southern Artery during the weekend by a motorist who used it to pay for gasoline.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

If You Are Sexually Assaulted

If you are sexually assaulted:
Get to a safe place as soon as possible.
Call the police immediately. The sooner you make a report the greater the chances that your assailant will be caught.

Do not shower, bathe or destroy any of the clothing you were wearing at the time of the assault. Do not destroy anything in the area where the assault occurred. It is important to preserve all physical evidence.

Go to a hospital emergency room for medical care.
Even if you do not think you have any physical injuries, you should be examined. You also need to be evaluated for the possibility of pregnancy or venereal disease.

Call a friend or a family member to be with you.
Write down as much as you can remember about the circumstances surrounding the assault and the description of the assailant.

Seek the counselling service and assistance of a rape treatment or a crisis center. They are best suited to help you deal with the aftermath of the assault.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions win T-shirts. The next two win bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What are the names of the three members of the Quincy Board of Assessors?
 2. The nickname of the Quincy Junior College athletic teams is: the Wildcats? the Jaguars? the Predators?
 3. What well-known Quincy business establishment is located at 1043 Hancock St.?
 4. True or false: The youngest member of the Quincy City Council is Richard J. Koch Jr.
 5. Vassall St. is located in what section of the city?
- Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:*
1. Jeanne Reardon is the Quincy City Council's clerk of committees.
 2. Russell Bates never served as mayor of Quincy.
 3. The Island Restaurant is located at 308 Quincy Ave.
 4. False, Congregational Ahavath Achim was the first synagogue in Quincy, formed in 1890.
 5. Eugene B. Daley Square is located in the South
Quincy section of the city.

Gillis Not Running

City Clerk John Gillis is not going to run for mayor.
Not this year anyway.

Gillis will soon officially announce that he is sitting 1983 out as a mayoral contender.

"It isn't my time," he has told close friends.

He has personal reasons he feels makes this year not the right time.

And politically, it may not be his time — or anyone else's for that matter.

GILLIS

McCAULEY

Incumbent Frank McCauley who is running for a second term in case you haven't heard, is hardly a pushover. The average Quincy voter is willing to give a first-term mayor a second term as long as he has shown he is trying, has some common sense and is honest.

McCauley certainly fills the bill.
Unless something unforeseen develops between now and November, McCauley will be raising his right hand again in January, 1984.

Well if Gillis isn't going to challenge McCauley, is there anyone willing?

One name mentioned, if you like speculation, is that of Councillor James Sheets.

But he would rather be president of Quincy Junior College.

Another name that keeps coming up: Joseph LaRaia.

LaRaia, whose two years as mayor was somewhat turbulent, to say the least, would like nothing better than to make it all the way back to the mayor's office.

He would have run in 1981 if McCauley hadn't jumped into the ring early, taking everyone — including LaRaia — by surprise.

SHEETS

LaRAIA

But whether someone like Sheets, LaRaia or someone else actually runs remains to be seen. Right now it's just speculation.

And right now, a good many political observers consider McCauley unbeatable this year.

SPEAKING OF SPECULATION, there's been some lately that Richard Koch, Jr. might not seek re-election as a city councillor at-large.

Well, apparently no one has told Koch.

The Committee to Re-elect him is sponsoring a fundraiser Friday,
Feb. 25 at 8 p.m. at Morrisette Legion Post. Tickets $5 each.

MAYOR Francis McCauley will be back on WUMB-FM (91.9) tonight (Thursday) to talk to — and listen to — Quincy constituents.

McCauley is returning to the "From The Source" program hosted by former Quincy Sun writer Keith Westerman. Starting at 6:30 p.m., McCauley, will take telephone calls from listeners on issues affecting the city. You can talk to him by calling 929-7930.

PHOEURK PHANN, who came to this country with his family last spring after escaping from his native Cambodia, seems to be not only adapting to his new homeland but flourishing as well. According to Charles Sullivan of Hancock Bank, a deacon at St. John's Church who helped sponsor the family, Phoeurk recently graduated first in his class at the CETA Skills Center as a machinist. He also recently acquired a driver's license. And the Buddhist family, living in Quincy, also enjoyed another first — they attended midnight Mass Christmas Eve at St. John's and enjoyed Christmas Day at the Sullivan's home in Scituate.

Nicastro Named City Solicitor

(Cont'd from Page 1)

"He is eminently qualified to continue on with the important work of the solicitor's office with the same high standards set by Solicitor Golden."

McCauley said Golden will aid Nicastro in the transition from now until Feb. 7 and will make himself available to help with pending cases such as the General Dynamics and MDC law suits.

Nicastro, a graduate of St.
Joseph's School and Boston College High School, lives at 66 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph S.
Nicastro.

MacRitchie, who passed the Massachusetts Bar only last summer, has served as the city's equal employment administrator since March, 1982, during which time he revised the city's equal opportunity employment plan and the minority business enterprise plan.

Most recently he has been working with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination to revise the city's fair housing plan. He is a member of the Mayor's

Task Force on Housing.

MacRitchie is a graduate of North Quincy High School and holds a degree in criminal justice from Northeastern. He is also a cum laude graduate of the New England School of Law.

He lives with his wife, Betty Ann, and their two children at 246 Bellevue Rd.,
Scituate.

Tax Money Insufficient For Education

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We the parents of Quincy Public School students feel it necessary to inform you, the citizens and elected officials of the City of Quincy, that the tax money allocated to the school system is insufficient to provide the basic essentials of education.

The cut of one-third of all teaching staff and 50 per cent of high school course offerings has resulted in larger class sizes and fewer course choices. Our students are lacking textbooks, workbooks, visual and auditory supplements.

typewriters, and other equipment. PTO funds, where available, and originally intended for enrichment, are now being used to provide the essentials for our students.
The clerical staff is inadequate. The nursing staff is inadequate.

The Quincy Public Schools cannot suffer any further deprivation! We must consider the importance of the educational process to our students' future.

A Tribute To Fr. John McMahon

REV. JOHN J. McMAHON of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, was honored at a testimonial Mass and dinner Saturday in observance of his 40th anniversary as a Catholic priest. From left, are Fr. James Lanergan of the South End; Most Rev. Thomas V. Daily, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Boston and Chancellor of the Archdiocese; Fr. McMahon; Fr. Francis J. Griffin and Fr. Richard Lennon, of St. Mary's. More than 450 attended.

MAYOR FRANCIS McCAULEY presented a plaque to Fr. McMahon and cited him for "his great interest in people". Fr. McMahon has been assigned to St. Mary's since 1964. He was named pastor four years later.

SEN. PAUL D. HAROLD, shown consulting Fr. McMahon, spoke of his accomplishments as a member of the Housing Authority, honorary chaplain of Morrisette Legion Post, and service in other capacities.

THE MULLARKEY FAMILY, from left, seated, Nora, Monsignor John Mullarkey, and Margaret, chat with Fr. McMahon during the testimonial dinner. The two sisters and a brother donated their 10-room home to St. Mary's, and the church hall is named after them. They live at Marion Manor Nursing Home, South Boston.

JAMES SHEETS, Ward 4 Councillor, awarded Fr. McMahon a commendation from the City Council and called it, "a humble tribute to a noble man."

Muir Hits 'Meddling' In Schools

School Supt. James N. Muir, in his annual report for 1943, lashed out at what he called "political meddling" in the Quincy Public Schools.

"The schools are strengthened or weakened in proportion to your permitting meddlers to interfere with the job the citizens of Quincy have entrusted to you," he told the School Committee.

"They are strengthened or weakened in proportion to your views or lack of views on school problems, in proportion to your adherence or lack of adherence to every political wind that blows.

"Parents are not fully aware the seriousness of the constant meddling in the work of the schools, which interferes with their children's programs. It is an endless chain."

The report was accepted by the School Committee without comment, except for this question posed by member Carter Lee:

"Was that a report or a lecture?"

RAISE $600,000 IN BONDS

Movie actress Frances Dee and actor Allan Marshall appeared at a war bond dinner held by the Quincy Merchants Association at the Neighborhood Club and sold more than $600,000 in bonds.

Also at the head table was Army Air Corps Lt. Clark Nichols, son of former mayor of Boston, who had participated in a dozen bombing missions over Europe.

"We are fighting a ruthless enemy," said Lt. Nichols. "He is cruel and despises us utterly. He'll fight to the last ditch. I consider it an honor for me to bring this message to you from the millions who are fighting for what they know is right."

Today's Beauty Hints present special types of manicures: ELECTRIC, OIL, MEN'S manicures. All the implements used in the plain manicure, such as the emery board, the cuticle pusher, cuticle brush and cuticle buffer can be adapted for use with a portable device operated by a small motor. This is called an ELECTRIC manicure. Attachments include the emery wheel, the cuticle pusher, the cuticle brush and buffer.

If you have brittle nails and dry cuticles, try an OIL manicure. Heat vegetable oil, or a commercial preparation in an electric heater. Use this preparation in place of the fingerbowl filled with warm soapy water. Cuticle remover, oil and creams are not necessary for this type of manicure. Complete areas for a PLUVI manicure. For a MEN'S manicure, file the nails either round or square. Apply dry instead of liquid polish and use the same implements, materials and supplies as for a PLUVI manicure. Buff the nail with paste polish to increase the circulation of the blood to the fingertips, remove all residue from the nails by washing and drying the fingertips and apply enamel as in the PLUVI manicure.

Mrs. Mary Doyle Celebrates 75th Birthday

Mrs. Mary Doyle of 125 Granite St., Quincy Center was honored at a 75th Birthday Party at the Weymouth Heights Club, North Weymouth.

Mrs. Doyle had lived in Alaska but came to Quincy as the bride of the late David F. Doyle in June, 1925.

They were parents of five children: Mrs. Walter S. George (Anne) of North Weymouth; Mrs. Eugene Murray (Sheila) of North Weymouth; David F. Doyle, Jr. of Hull; Daniel J. Doyle of Mission Viejo, Calif.; Gregory W. Doyle of Quincy.

Many friends and relatives attended from Quincy, Weymouth, Hull, Brockton, Milford, South Boston, Raynham, Cape Cod and New Hampshire.

Other good wishes and floral bouquets were received from friends and relatives in California, Florida, Maine, New Jersey and Colorado.

Mrs. Doyle, who was born Jan. 8, 1908, was presented with a corsage of red and white flowers coordinated with the red and white decorations at the hall.

A pictorial display of "This is your Life" showed Mrs. Doyle from birth to the present.

Entertainment and music was provided by Jennifer, Christine and Marianne George, three of her many grandchildren. A buffet supper was served.

Mrs. Doyle is active in several senior citizen groups including St. John's, Penn's Hill and St. Mary's.

"THE WELCH THAT STOLE CHRISTMAS"

Honour: reputation, good name, glory, fame, distinction, a gesture of respect, nobility of mind, integrity, dignity, a code of pride.

PERSONAL INTEGRITY MAINTAINED WITHOUT LEGAL OR OTHER OBLIGATION

Welch: to swindle a person by not paying a debt or wager, to fail to fulfill an obligation

The definitions are found in the "American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language." This dictionary was approved by the School Committee for use at the secondary level.

The School Committee is on the threshold of both words. Their real and actual intent will determine the direction the School Committee chooses. There is history to the 1979 pay raise and there are facts.

Let us not forget it was the School Committee that insisted that "subject to funding" be inserted in the 1979 Contract.

The Young vs. Worcester Case of 1956 clearly stated that a city council could not be compelled to fund a supplemental budget. Certainly the battery of expensive lawyers employed by the School Committee were aware of this decision. The M.T.A. negotiators were aware of this.

Consequently, the leadership of the Quincy Education Association holds the School Committee responsible for the raise that never was. The School Committee should face its responsibility and recognize that their signature on the 1979 Contract is binding. If the School Committee could not afford to pay the 1979 raise, then they should not have entered into the contract.

Let us further remind the School Committee that there are no laws in this state or this nation preventing them from paying this raise. This 1979 pay issue has never been a legal case for the courts to decide. The issue has always been one of reputation.

The School Committee must decide to honour their signature lest the raise that never was be remembered forever as "the welch that stole Christmas".

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

As people grow older and group themselves with other older people, the subject of children's behavior often captures the conversation. This ageless topic seems to attach itself to aging. The virtues or vices of the children of today are compared with the children of yesteryear. Quite often the hazy recollections of yesteryear are clouded by the passing of time. Please read the following quote. We think it is quite interesting...

"Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority. They show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Who said this? When was it said? Was it recently? Care to guess? ... The quote is from Socrates in the 5th Century, B.C. ... We guess it proves kids will be kids; always have been and always will be...

Grottoes Grand Monarch To Visit Quincy

Robert L. Atkins, grand monarch of the Grottoes of North America, will pay an official visit to Quincy beginning with a reception tonight (Thursday).

Atkins has selected Taleb Grotto of Quincy for his single, official visitation to the New England and Connecticut Grotto jurisdiction.

Arthur E. Johnson, past monarch of Taleb Grotto and grand master of ceremonies of the supreme council, and his wife Barbara will give the reception tonight for the grand monarch and his wife Berniece.

Mayor Francis McCauley will extend greetings of the city to Atkins and the Supreme Council Representatives Friday at 11 a.m. in the city council chambers.

The group will then receive a tour of Adams Academy by Herbert Holmes, corresponding secretary for Taleb Grotto and a member of the Quincy Historical Society, and Mrs. Doris Oberg, society president.

The grand marshal's luncheon will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. at Sherry's, Southern Artery.

Concluding the grand monarch's tour, wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John and John Quincy Adams, at 1:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church.

A pre-banquet fraternal reception is scheduled for 6 p.m., according to Taleb Grotto monarch Wallace Wymot.

The annual memorial service will follow the banquet and the fraternal receiving of the grand monarch into Taleb Grotto.

Memorial service chairman past monarch Donald M. Deware and his committee of past monarch of Taleb Grotto Robert Littlewood and Taleb Prophet Donald S. Deware have prepared a special format.

Installing officer for the evening will be past monarch of Taleb Grotto Kenneth P. Lodge, grand treasurer of the Grottoes M.O.U.P.E.R. of North America. He will be assisted by past monarchs of Taleb Grotto who will install the elected officers.

Officers for 1983 are Emery A. Swanson of Quincy, monarch; Stanley C. Trask Jr., of Quincy, chief justice; Richard W. Poore of Quincy, master of ceremonies; Robert W. Whitehead of Quincy, treasurer; P. M. Michael Pecoraro of Halifax, secretary; Myles Marsh of Rockland, venerable prophet; James A. Gibson of Quincy, orator; Frank C. Engrassia of Milton, captain of guard.

A special ceremony of presentations to the grand monarch and to prophets of Taleb Grotto will conclude the formal ceremonies.

The Quincy Historic District Commission will hold a public hearing today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall on proposed changes in the former Shop and Save Supermarket at 20 Independence Ave., South Quincy.

The supermarket is being replaced by a CVS Pharmacy which is moving there from Hancock St., in Quincy Center.

Robert Luongo of the Planning Department said the hearing is necessary into proposed changes in the outer facade of the building because it is located in the Adams Birthplaces Historic District.

He said plans call for CVS to occupy the old Shop and Save store while the liquor store that shares the building will remain. Work is expected to get underway in February, he said.

TIE-DOWN TERROR

Vacation travelers usually tie down a mass of junk on the roofs of their cars. This could prove fatal to the driver behind if the job is done poorly. Actual case:

You're starting out from home on vacation. You've left the rear of the station wagon pretty clear for unobstructed visibility and a place for the kids to nap during the long drive. The top carrier, though, is loaded with assorted gear and two or three suitcases. As a precaution against rain you've covered the top with an improvised tarp, actually a discarded plastic shower curtain tied down with wrapping twine.

Unknown to you, a tie down snaps from the whipping power of the windstream - and then another. The wind gets under the plastic and suddenly it rips loose and plasters itself across the windshield of the car behind. The instantly-blinded driver hits the brakes in panic, spins out and smashes into a concrete abutment. The father, mother and three kids are killed. A five-year old boy is the only survivor.

Squantum Church Celebrates Dr. King's Life, Work

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum celebrated the life and work of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Sunday morning at both worship services.

Last Saturday was the birthday of the slain civil rights leader who was also a Protestant minister.

During the first service, the congregation discussed the topic, "What Shall We Do About the Race Problem?" Text for the sermon-discussion was from the book of Luke: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me . . . to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

Guitarists Steven Williams, Andrew Ogilvie and Mary Ruth Scott also taught the congregation some new hymns on that theme. Ann Lombardi and Sarah Mildram were ushers. Cal and Gretchen Bumpus hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

The second service began with a medley of gospel hymns played in the style of the black church by Mary Ruth Scott on the piano. The Junior Choir sang a song entitled "Martin Luther King" by Theresa Fulbright.

As an offertory the Chancel Choir sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by William Steffe and Julia Ward Howe.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin spoke to the children on the subject, "How Rev. King Fought Without Hurting." His sermon for the adults in the second service was "Loving Your Enemies", a sermon originally written by Dr. King.

Hymns used during the service were "Not Alone for Mighty Empire", "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life", "In Christ There Is No East or West" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Greeters for the morning were Adelaide Nelson and Renee Johnson. Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Marie Reister and Sue Sullivan.

Last night, (Wednesday) the Faith Group studied the topic, "Christ and Buddhism." The group meets most Wednesdays from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

On Friday, Jan. 21, the congregation will hold its Annual Meeting in Fellowship Hall at 7:30 p.m. This meeting will follow a covered dish supper at 6:30 p.m.

There will be two services next Sunday at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. The installation of church officers will be held during the second service. All new and present church officers have been asked to attend.

Bloodmobile Jan. 24

At Point Congregational

An American Red Cross bloodmobile will be held Monday, Jan. 24, 10 to 6 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Anyone who is between the ages of 17 and 65, is in general good health, has never had hepatitis, weighs at least 110 pounds, and has not given blood in the past eight weeks may donate.

Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross office at 471-5440.

Adoption Opportunities

Topic At PSSB Jan. 25

Adoption opportunities for both single persons and couples will be discussed Tuesday, Jan. 25, at 7:30 p.m. by the adoption services staff at the Protestant Social Service Bureau, 776 Hancock St., Quincy.

Margaret Davidson, director of the adoption program, said that 234 children have been placed in permanent homes by the agency since 1975, which is one of the 12 outstanding adoption programs in the nation.

Information is available by calling 773-6203.

The agency serves both the South Shore and all of southeastern Massachusetts.

Raiders Bow To Brockton, Brookline

Last week was not a good one for the North Quincy boys' basketball team, which lost two games to drop its record to 2-5.

Ed Miller's Raiders hoped to end a three-game losing streak Tuesday when it met Newton North. They will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 o'clock.

North stayed with undefeated Brockton much of the way last Friday but the taller Boxers pulled away in the final quarter for an easy 94-63 victory.

The Raiders got off to a good start and, shooting well from the outside, trailed by only four, 20-16. But Brockton pulled away to a 48-36 lead at halftime. The Raiders, pulling down their share of rebounds despite Brockton's greater height, played the winners on even terms in the third quarter and trailed, 63-50, going into the finale.

With six minutes in the game North trailed by 16 points but Brockton outlasted the Raiders the rest of the way to make the game a rout.

"They were awesome tonight," Miller said. "They were just too big for us and they shot very well."

Chris Bunker had 17 points to spark North, while John Purland added 14.

Earlier in the week North fought back, after trailing, 32-24, at the half, but fell to Brookline, 65-61.

Purland and Tim Ryan paced the Raiders with 12 points each.

First Ladies Look Good But Lose In Overtime

The Quincy girls' basketball team continues to play fine ball but had nothing to show for it after three games following a 44-43 overtime loss to Waltham last week, dropping its record to 0-3.

Marty Finnegan's girls played at Brookline Tuesday, will host Brockton Friday at 5 p.m. and will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday at 5.

Darra Morris sent the Waltham game into overtime with a last minute basket and the First Ladies apparently scored the winning basket with time running out but time had been called by the officials, nullifying it.

Waltham scored the first three points in overtime and Carolyn Leonard's basket merely cut the final margin to a point.

Cindy Morrill had another outstanding night for Quincy with 12 points, 12 rebounds and six steals. Katy Dunn played another outstanding game, Morris came off the bench and played an excellent game when Quincy ran into foul trouble, Ellen Deady, who sat out a good part of the game with fouls, had eight rebounds and Sue Dacey, Michelle Miller and Leonard all played well.

QJC Bombs Bunker Hill, 102-86

The Quincy Junior College basketball team started the second half of its Greater Boston Small College Conference schedule with a 102-86 victory over Bunker Hill Community College. QJC is 9-1 in the conference and 12-4 overall.

The Jaguars built a five-point halftime lead, 54-49, by using a variety of defenses and a fast break offense. In the second half Bunker Hill's half court press proved ineffective against QJC's balanced attack.

"Our players really put it together tonight," said a pleased coach Brian Buckley. "The bench came through once again and we were able to wear them down."

Steve Belcastro paced QJC with 27 points. "He played a great game," said Buckley. "He looked real good on the break and he rebounded well."

Jim Conboy scored 23 points. Paul Gill and Gary DiNardo 12.

Last weekend's game with Massasoit Community College was postponed due to the snow and will be played Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. at Massasoit in Brockton.

Quincy Bows Again To Size, Experience

Things continue to go badly for the Quincy High School boys' basketball team which was wallowed by Waltham, 87-44, last Friday night to drop its record to one win and six losses.

The Presidents continued to find the going tough against bigger and more experience opposition but hoped for better things Tuesday when they met Brookline.

Quincy will play at Brockton Friday at 8 p.m. and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

North Track Team Defeats Waltham

The North Quincy boys' track team defeated Waltham, 49-36, last week for its first win after two defeats. The Raiders continue to show improvement in every meet.

Bart Petracca's North team will face Weymouth North Friday at 3:30 at Newton.

Junior Jim Kennedy turned in the best time of the year in the Suburban League, winning the mile in 4:41.2, to spark the Raiders.

For North, Steve Kelly won the dash, Bobby O'Brien won the 300, Arthur Collins won the 600 with Tom Kearney second, Jeff Stryker won the 1000 with Scott Coyne third, Harry Morash was second and Heath Petracca third in the two-mile, John Delappe was second in the hurdles and won the high jump with Jaime Paz second. North won the relay with Kennedy, Kearney, Coyne and O'Brien.

Last Saturday the Raiders entered the state coaches' meet and made an incredible showing in the two-mile relay, placing second just two seconds off the all-class record.

Leadoff runner Stryker ran a personal best 2:02, Collins ran a 2:07, Kearney a 2:06 and anchor Kennedy a sizzling 2:00 for a total time of 8:18.

"To get second in this meet is truly an honor, considering that all Massachusetts schools compete," said Petracca. Kearney and Collins had never run an 880 before and all four runners are juniors and will be back next year to go for the win and the record."

71 Years Ago

Quincy 115, Worcester 0!!

By TOM HENSHAW

There aren't many people around now who recall the occasion but Wednesday, Jan. 26, is the 71st anniversary of one of the most unusual games ever played by a Quincy High School basketball team.

It was that day in 1912 when Quincy defeated Worcester High School by the uncommon score of 115-0.

The anniversary may have passed unnoticed once again had it not been for Arthur F. Whitehead of 12 Briggs St., Wollaston, who forwarded a clipping from the game from his scrapbook.

"Thought the particulars of this game might be interesting as well as unbelievable to your readers," wrote Mr. Whitehead. That was a bit of understatement.

George Finlay, the Quincy right forward, scored a school record 32 baskets for 64 points and Harry Trask, the center, tallied 32 points. The Quincy captain, Bootus Chapman, had 11 points.

"Only five times did the visitors get a chance to try for baskets," the faded clipping from the Quincy Patriot recorded, "and the only time they came even near scoring was when Shea tried for a goal from foul.

"It seemed as though the ball was about to go through the basket, as it rolled around the rim three or four times, but it finally fell to the ground, amidst wild outbursts of enthusiasm on the part of the spectators."

The Quincy team played another unusual game that year — a 16-16 tie with Newton — and finished up with a record of 15-6-1 after winning the first eight in a row.

One of the losses came at the hands of Salem

Normal, now Salem State College, 28-18, and later in the season the high schoolers upset the collegians by the same score.

The 115-0 score was even more incredible in 1912, when scores of 12-10 and 15-14 were the norm, largely because the ball was brought out for a center jump after every basket.

But even at that those who claimed a record for the Quincy High boys had to give it back a couple of weeks later when Rock Ridge School of Wellesley defeated University Prep, 126-4.

North Outswims Cambridge, Westwood

The North Quincy swim team, already assured of its best season, defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Westwood last week to improve its record to 5-0 (2-0 in the Suburban League).

Bill Walker's Raiders faced Brookline Tuesday, will host Blue Hills today (Thursday) at 3:30 at the Lincoln Hancock pool and next Tuesday will be home to Brockton at 3:30 at the same site.

In a 104-63 victory over Cambridge, Brad Martin won the 200 freestyle in 1:59.8, becoming the first North swimmer to break the two-minute barrier, also won the 500 freestyle and swam the anchor leg for the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team. Robert Weikel, Bob Dunn and Ralph Santosuosso joined Martin on the winning team.

North's Jim Boudreau also won two events, breaking the league record in the 50 freestyle (24.7) and winning the 100 freestyle.

Bob Waterman won the diving competition, Dan Moriarty was second in the 200 free medley relay and diving. Santosuosso was second in the 200 individual medley and 100 backstroke, and Mark Wilkins was second in the 50 freestyle and 100 freestyle.

In a 115-49 victory over Westwood, Martin again won the 200 and 500 freestyles and anchored the winning 400 freestyle relay team, which also had David Stockless, Dan O'Sullivan and Weikel.

Senior Hockey

Fowler Wins Pair, Ties Kane's, 3-3

The Fowler House defeated Kelly's Pub & Grub, 6-3, in the Quincy Youth Arena Senior Hockey League.

John Norton sparked the winners with four goals and Bob Boyle and Danny Gorman had one each. Jim Donovan, Phil DiCarlo and Bill Mulligan scored for Kelly's.

Washington Tap and Joe's Pub & Grub tied, 2-2, with Bruce Hodges and Bob Shields scoring for Washington and Frank Guest and Tom Lester for Joe's.

Fowler House rolled over Washington, 8-0, as Lou Matthews had two goals and Bob Brennan, Boyle, Jack Campbell, Paul Mac-Donald, Norton and Peter James one each.

Kane's Place wallowed Kelly's, 9-4, with John Ryan and Mark Paolucci having two goals apiece and Tom Cahill, Steve Cronin, Paul Duggan and Mike Colon one each.

Kane's and Fowler House tied, 3-3, with Cahill having two goals and Cronin one for Kane's and Campbell, Norton and Peter Janis scoring for Fowler House.

Esquire Neckwear topped Washington, 6-3, with Dave Gendreau having two goals and Dave Hasenfuss, Mark Kelly, Danny Flaherty and Sean Murphy one each. Bruce Hodges, Shields and John Gibbons scored for Washington.

Joe's and Kelly's tied, 2-2, with Kevin Murphy and Paul Messina scoring for Kelly's and McCune and Bunopuary for Joe's.

Games are played every Wednesday night at 10:10 and Friday night at 7:50 and 9.

Adams Topples Beau's, 6-3

In a battle for first place, Adams Sports defeated Beau's Place, 6-3, Monday night in Executive Hockey League action at the Youth Arena.

Bibby Lewis and Paul Bausemere had two goals and an assist apiece for Adams. Paul O'Brien a goal and an assist, Dennis O'Connell a goal and Bob Simonelli an assist. Jack Hurley, Charlie Chambers and Larry O'Connor scored for Beau's with assists for Chambers and O'Connor.

Ed Lenihan and Bob Martell had two goals each to lead Luke's Lounge over Budget Rent-A-Car, 5-2. Rich Gibbs had the other goal. Kevin Sullivan had two assists and Lee Staskywiez, Al McKay, Gibbs and Ed Grogan one each. Steve Marini and Charlie Watts scored for Budget with Ted Ahola, Dave Towle and Art Boyle having assists.

Grogan's Business Machine topped Dynasty Place, 5-2, with Ralph Gibbs scoring twice. Tom Roberts, Paul Carey and Marly Tolson had the other goals. John Emmott had two assists and Paul Hannon, Ed Dwyer, Carey and Folsom one each. Dick McCabe and Doug McLean scored unassisted goals for Dayce's.

In the previous set of games Don Costa had a hat trick and an assist to lead Beau's to a 6-3 win over Budget. Steve Dymant had two goals and Jack Aldred one. Aldred had three assists, Chambers two and O'Connor, Hurley and Paul Gallivan one each. Chet Brunstrom, Boyle and Harry Bertoni scored for Budget with assists for Watts, Boyle, Joe Verlicco and Chuck Behenna.

Dick Wilson posted the shutout as Adams blanked Dayce's, 3-0. Lewis, O'Connell and O'Brien scored the goals and Bausemere and Simonelli had assists.

Grogan edged Luke's, 2-1, with Carey scoring both goals. Paul Hannon assisted on each. McKay scored for Luke's with Lenihan assisting.

North Overruns Weymouth, 26-10

Coach Curley Rogers North Quincy High School basketball team permitted Weymouth to score the first basket of the game and then ran away with a 26-10 victory over the Maroons in the North gym.

The Raiders, paced by high-scorer Tom Meade's eight points, led by 9-2 after one quarter, 16-3 at the half, and 24-4 at the three quarter mark before Rogers emptied his bench.

The North Quincy lineup included: J. White, C. White, Clem, MacDonald, Whitelaw, Fitzgerald, forwards; Meade, Levoroni, Burke, centers; Creedon, Humphries, Gillis, W. Reid, G. Reid, Plumb, guards.

QUINCY WINS THIRD

Led by Ossie Honkalehto, Norm Young and Buddy Page, who had 28 points among them, the Quincy High School basketball team whipped Hingham, 39-21, for its third victory of the season at the Quincy gym.

The Presidents, leading by a score of 30-12, stumbled momentarily in the fourth period when Page fouled out of the game but they recovered and were pulling away at the final buzzer.

POINT CONGO WINS

Jack Hillier, with 11 points, and Vic DiGravio, with eight, led Quincy Point Congregational to a 29-25 victory over Sacred Heart to move to within two games of Church League-leading St. John's.

The Point Congo lineup included: Hillier, Adam Hart, forwards; DiGravio, center; Archie Hart, Graham, guards.

The Sacred Heart lineup included: McDonald, Humphrey, forwards; Meade, McNally, centers; Creedon, Melanson, guards.

SOUTH RETAINS LEAD

Bobby McKinnon scored 11 points to lead Coach Ray Sterling's South basketball team to a 27-13 victory over Point and take a firm grip on first place in the Junior High School basketball league.

The South lineup included: Honkalehto, R. McKinnon, Jackson, Marini, forwards; Leone, center; Carson, Hiltz, guards.

DOUBLEHEADER WIN

Coach Dick Hunter's Wollaston Methodist basketball team performed the rare feat of winning a doubleheader, defeating the Clapp Memorial Alphas, 79-33, and Sacred Heart, 44-40, on the same night.

The Wollaston lineup included: Edson, Ellison, forwards; Walker, Morrison, centers; Hall, Kausrud, Johns, guards.

THIRD BOUT

Welterweights Ralph Zannelli of Providence and Izzy Jannazzo of Brooklyn signed to meet for the third time in the 10-round feature bout on the Goodwin AC card at Boston Garden.

NORTH WINS FILL IN

Tom Meades scored 11 points and Jack White had 10 as the North Quincy High School basketball team filled in an open date at the last minute and wallopped Wellesley, 50-16.

FIVE STRAIGHT LOSSES

Upset by the news that Capt. Dit Clapper was eligible for immediate induction into the Army, the Boston Bruins lost to the Detroit Red Wings, 6-3, for their fifth straight loss, their most disastrous streak in 19 years.

SACRED HEART WINS

Sid Cedrone and Gil Melanson split scoring honors with 10 points each as the Sacred Heart CYO basketball team demolished St. Mary's of West Quincy, 47-10, in the North Quincy gym.

BRAVES CHANGE HANDS

Casey Stengel's job as manager was reported in jeopardy as the Boston Braves were sold to three Boston contractors, Louis R. Perini, and Guido L. Rugo of Milton and Joseph Maney of Cambridge.

BROCKTON WINS

Coach Bill Bowyer's Quincy High School basketball team fell behind 12-5 in the first period and never could recover in a 23-19 loss to Brockton in the Brockton Armory.

DODDS IN EASY WIN

Besppectacle miler Gil Dodds, who was voted the athlete of the year in 1943, ran a two-mile handicap field into the boards in winning the event in 9:43.6 at Boston YMCA games.

Still Undefeated

Quincy Wrestlers Win 9th

The undefeated Quincy wrestling team rolled to three cinch victories last week to improve its record to 9-0 as several of the Presidents remained undefeated.

Quincy faced Reading yesterday (Wednesday), will meet Waltham and Lowell Saturday at 1 o'clock at Waltham and next Wednesday will be at Scituate for a 7:30 p.m. meet.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents polished off Weymouth North, 50-8, and Weymouth South, 51-7, last Saturday in a quadrangular meet as eight of them won in both meets. North Quincy was the fourth team in the meet.

Against Weymouth North Dave Coulter won by pin at 100 pounds, Mike Notarangelo won by forfeit at 114, Bill Marston won, 2-0, at 121; Paul Miller won by pin at 128; Joe Madden won by pin at 134, John DePolio drew at 140, Darrin DeCoste won, 8-4, at 147; Mario Venturini won, 3-2, at 157; Kevin Cabezes won, 8-6, at 169; Bob Willard won by pin at 187 and Jamie Gravales won by forfeit in the Heavyweight class.

In the Weymouth South meet Coulter won by pin. Notarangelo won, 9-0; Marston won, 113; Miller won by pin, Shawn Wynn won by pin at 134; John Cacciatore won by pin at 140, DeCoste won by pin. Cabezes won, 11-0; Willard won, 9-4, and Gravales won by forfeit.

Earlier in the week Quincy had rolled by Brookline, 58-6, as Notarangelo, DePolio, Cabezes and Gravales all remained undefeated.

Notarangelo and Gravales are both 9-0 on the season. Cabezes is 7-0. Coulter is 8-0-1, DeCoste 4-0-1, Marston 6-0-1, DePolio

6-0-1 and Bill Rollins 6-0. Miller was appearing in his first two varsity matches in the Weymouth meets and Willard also is having an outstanding season with an 8-1 mark.

The Presidents made outstanding showings in two recent tournaments, finishing second in a 28-team field at Lowell and fourth in an 18-team field at Sanford, Maine.

Meanwhile, North Quincy, despite a 3-6 record, has been turning in some good performances with Terry Stark, who won both bouts last Saturday in losses to Weymouth South (36-20) and Weymouth North (36-24), having a fine year with a 6-1-2 record.

The Raiders received a major blow last week when they lost one of their outstanding wrestlers, John Kozlowski, for the season with torn neck ligaments.

In addition to Stark, Pat Marcham and Capt. Jay Pillard have had fine seasons.

In the meet against Weymouth South Scott Fitzgerald won 6-5, at 100; John Palma won 14-0, at 128; Stark won by pin at 134 and Pillard won by pin at 140.

Against Weymouth North Don Greenwood won by pin at 114, Stark won, 10-0, at 134, Rich Ragusa won by pin at 187 and Al DiBella won by forfeit in the heavyweight class.

Earlier in the week North had easily defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 47-16, winning the first nine matches, five by pins.

North will host Hingham tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock and next Wednesday will be home to Norwood at 7.

MARY COSTA of Quincy was a member of the Suffolk University women's cross country team. She is a sophomore and a 1980 graduate of Quincy High.

North Girls Drop First

The North Quincy girls' basketball team suffered its first loss last week at Brockton to drop its record to 7-1, and the Raiderettes hoped to rebound Tuesday at Newton North.

The North girls will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 o'clock.

Brockton defeated the Raiderettes, 45-35, in a battle of unbeaten teams.

North jumped off to a 7-2 lead as Debbie Cavanaugh hit two jumpers to spark the spurt but Brockton scored seven points and the quarter ended tied at 9. North again spurred as Chris Choukas hit for eight of the 11 points in the quarter and the Raiderettes led at halftime, 20-17.

Choukas hit for the first two points of the second half but Brockton scored 13 unanswered points as a result of sloppy ball handling and passing by North.

North entered the final quarter trailing by six points and Brockton widened its lead to 13. Mary Holleran hit for six fourth quarter points as the Raiderettes fought back and Choukas added five.

Choukas, averaging 17.8 points a game, again led North with 17 points, 12 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Holleran had her best game scoring 11 points and taking down six rebounds.

Earlier in the week the North girls, ranked sixth in the Eastern Mass. coaches' pool, defeated No. 8 Brookline, 43-34, thanks to a fine all-around team effort and some outstanding defense.

North trailed, 9-7, after a quarter, as Joanne Keenan ran the offense and played excellent defense and Cavanaugh hit for two big baskets, one the result of a spectacular save on a ball going out of bounds by Holleran.

Trailing by five in the second quarter, the Raiderettes appeared to be in trouble as 6-foot-1 Karen Bridges picked up her fourth foul early. However, junior Chris Donovan came in to play an excellent game both ways. Holleran sparked a 10-2 North surge which gave it a 21-17 lead at halftime. During that stretch, Holleran had two baskets, Cavanaugh a jumper, Donovan two foul shots and Karen Boutilier two foul shots.

The third quarter saw Choukas hit for seven of North's nine points, a Cavanaugh jumper gave North an 11-point lead and Michelle White was a key defensive player in limiting Brookline to four points in the quarter.

The fourth quarter was tense as both teams traded early baskets. Donovan made two big plays, hitting a foul line jumper and hitting two foul shots, both times stemming Brookline runs. Choukas made a big steal for a breakaway layup.

However, the biggest play of the game was made by the smallest player on the floor, 5-foot-1 Boutilier. With less than two minutes left and North up, 38-34, she hit an 18-foot jumper with four seconds left on the shot clock and hit a foul shot 30 seconds later.

Choukas had 15 points, eight rebounds and three steals, Cavanaugh finished with eight points, Donovan six points and seven rebounds, Boutilier five points and five assists and Holleran 12 rebounds and three assists.

Philharmonic Orchestra Concert At 1000 S.A.

The Southeastern Philharmonic Orchestra, Robert C. Babb, conductor, will give a concert for residents of 1000 Southern Artery Sunday, Jan. 30 at 3 p.m.

Selections included on the program are Irving Berlin -

"A Symphonic Portrait," "American Folk Rhapsody," "Bugler's Holiday" by Leroy Anderson, "The Rainbow Connection," "Stars and Stripes Forever" and "The Dream of Olwen" by Charles Williams.

The orchestra will be joined by a guest piano soloist for a portion of the program.

The Southeastern Philharmonic has been performing annually at Southern Artery since 1975.

Italian Festival At SOI To Benefit CP

The Sons of Italy lodge in Quincy will sponsor an Italian Festival to benefit the United Cerebral Palsy Association Sunday, 1 to 7 p.m. at the lodge, 120 Quarry St., West Quincy.

The festival is one of UCP's fund raising events scheduled during the weekend of their national telethon.

UCP's annual "Weekend with the Stars" telethon will begin 10 p.m. Saturday and will continue until 7 p.m. Sunday on Channel 7 in Boston.

The Sons of Italy's Italian festival will feature Italian food, Italian music, and other events. Admission is free. All profits will be donated to the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Portions of the festival will be taped so that they may be aired later on the "Weekend with the Stars" telethon.

Sons of Italy is a community group which has been active in their fund raising efforts for United Cerebral Palsy.

Besides the Italian festival, they will also be sponsoring a brunch in Woburn, and a brunch in Watertown.

They have also done extensive volunteer work on UCP's phonathon.

Cerebral Palsy is the nation's number one lifelong disabling condition. All money that UCP raises goes to support vital research and services that help thousands of children and adults with disabilities.

A non-profit organization, it depends on the support of the public for its success.

Marshall Sponsoring Benefit Dance For Leukemia

Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall, honorary chairman of Norfolk County's Fight Against Leukemia, is sponsoring a dance Saturday, Feb. 5 to raise funds for Leukemia Research.

WEEK OF: JANUARY 20, 1983

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

Your best arguments may not win points, experiment with more creative tactics. Good week for sorting out money matters with partner and for launching home-improvement schemes.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

Doubts over friend's loyalty are put to rest, and a distant family member can become a staunch ally. Local travel is highlighted, but be sure that dress is appropriate.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Remember that the long way is often the short way. In setting forth goals and launching projects, spend ample time preparing the foundations. Romantic intrigue is accentuated on weekend.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

Troublesome and perhaps costly obligation will be shared, much to your relief. Try a compromise approach to health and recreation concerns — avoid tendency to do too much too soon.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Variety is the week's big word. Experiment with new concepts, consider new areas of interest. Acquaintances may surprise you with revelations about a mutual friend.

CANCER — June 22-July 22

Conflict with a Pisces or Capricorn can be resolved, but timing is critical. Partnership ventures bring handsome rewards if both parties are willing to put in overtime.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Week is off to a bright start, with the accent on romantic reconciliations. A bolder approach helps you sell your ideas; modesty is hardly your style now.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

Leadership role is yours this week, with superiors noting your performance. Health worries should be investigated, no matter how trivial they seem. Old friend is unexpectedly stubborn.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

Avoid tendency to underestimate your achievements — positive thinking is critical. Friend may be carried away with his image. Relative sees your side in a difficult family matter.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Financial news is generally bright, but collecting outstanding debts requires a firmer approach. Romantic situation does not coast — it takes work, and dialogue, and honesty.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22

Career project comes to a standstill, but a flurry of activity takes place by the end of the period. Stuffy relationship becomes less formal. Faraway news requires follow-up.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20

You're the center of attraction, and a role-model for youngsters. Loved ones can be moody. Teamwork leads to a combination of personal and financial success by Wednesday.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Compassionate, sensitive to the needs of others, and interested in making material gains. Long-range projects conclude by midyear and a major career plan can be launched early in the fall. Throughout the year, take time out to work on your social life.

BORN THIS WEEK

January 20th, actress Patricia Neal, 21st, singer Placido Domingo; 22nd, singer William Warfield; 23rd, actor Randolph Scott; 24th, singer Neil Diamond; 25th, actor Dean Jones, 26th, singer Eartha Kitt.

Somersault Gym Teams Improve

The Somersault Gymnastics Center of North Quincy will hold an in-school meet next Wednesday and Thursday open to the public free of charge.

The center is starting a new session Jan. 31 with registration now going on.

The center's teams are showing improvement every week and the boys' and girls' Class III and IV teams have been busy.

The boys' teams had their first home meet against the Academy of Stoughton and all boys showed marked improvement. The Class IV team has come along way under the coaching of John Hill.

Dennis Lawrence made the best showing in Class IV with a second in all-around three firsts in individual events. It was the first competition for the 7-year-olds.

Paul Coska placed fourth in all-around with thirds in vaulting and high bar. Chris Fontecchio placed fourth in vaulting. Joe Hayes took second on rings and Mike Moody was fifth on rings. Jim Delancy had a third on side horse and a fourth on floor exercise.

The Class III team looked good under the strict discipline of Coach Noble.

Nat Goodale won on horse and rings. Joe Haran took second on rings and high bar and Rob Feely, in his first meet and first try at Class III, scored 37 points.

The girls' Class III team finally entered a USGF qualifying meet and showed much improvement over the previous meet.

Kathy Johnson was the top scorer and did well in three events. Allyson Lawrence took third on bars and was second all-around. Sally Donovan placed fourth in floor exercise and was third all-around, and Marianne Janik and Carolyn Janik continued to show improvement.

The previous week the Class III girls' team competed against the Springwind Gymnastics School and continued to show improvement.

The girls are 10-12 years of age and this is their first year as USGF gymnasts.

The top all-around performer was Sally Donovan, who improved her total to 29 points. Katie Doyle placed second in all-around with 28.15 points. She was the top scorer on balance beam at 7.5.

Allison Lawrence kept up her fine performances on uneven bars and placed first with 7.4 points and scored 28 points in all-around. Kathy Johnson had the best vault of the day, although her score did not reflect it. Marianne Janik also looked good in vaulting and scored 26.65 in all-around. Carolyn Janik has her beam routine down and scored 7.0. She finished with 25.4 in all-around.

The specialists, those who did not do every event, are getting better but still have problems with the uneven bar routine.

Lori Breen drew first up in each event. She performed her handspring vault by her self for the first time and is improving every week. Debbie McArdle and Joanne Ryan are looking much better. Amy Johnson excels on floor and needs more work on bars.

Bantam B's Blank Randolph

Quincy's Bantam B hockey team defeated Randolph, 6-0, for its 20th win and remained unbeaten in B competition. The game was the first in the state

Johnston's 120 Paces Merchants

Ron Johnston leads the South Shore Merchants Bowling Legue with a 120 average, followed by Bob Donahue's 117.

QEA May Continue Suit for 1979 Raise

Henry Pasquarella, president of the 700-member Quincy Education Association, says the QEA may bring another suit against the School Committee to get a 5 per cent raise for teachers negotiated in 1979 but never funded.

"I have asked the Massachusetts Teachers Association to review that case," said Pasquarella. "If there is an avenue to sue the School Committee and they find it we'll do it. I think we deserve the money."

Pasquarella, an English teacher at Quincy High School for 20 years and president of the QEA since last June, was interviewed on the program "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems Channel 3.

Pasquarella said it is unlikely that the membership of his union would ratify another contract containing a "subject to funding" clause like the 1979 contract.

"We were burned once by 'subject to funding,'" he said. "We waited three years for a court to decide that we were not entitled to the funds. I don't see how they can expect us to sign two such contracts in a row."

"Our position right now is that the School Committee is obligated to pay that raise. They lost fiscal autonomy but they haven't lost complete control over their budget. They have a budget and they can appropriate the money."

Pasquarella said that if he was "a young, bright college graduate looking to get into teaching" he would probably skip Quincy.

"I would be looking at a school system that was responsible to the teaching staff," he said.

"It's a selfish way of looking at it but I'm going to make a career out of teaching I'd be looking at those school systems that I thought were going to be more responsible toward my career."

"I don't believe I would be looking at a school system that, at the end of 20 or 25 years, is going to offer me nothing but frustration."

"I've been here 20 years. If you had asked me five years ago if I would leave I would have said, 'No way, I'll stay right here in Quincy.' Now, if I had a job offer in another city, I'd consider it."

Pasquarella said he has nothing personal against any of the six members of the School Committee.

"Individually, they're nice people," he said. "but collectively they're the opponent. Our main line of opposition is when they sit down at the negotiating table."

"I don't think they do a bad job representing what the people of Quincy want in education. That might be the rub. Maybe the city itself does not want to pay for the best education."

Pasquarella said he does not want to see Quincy follow the path of Detroit a few years ago.

"Detroit was a city that just about lost its educational direction," he said. "There was a time when Detroit couldn't get a teacher to go into the system."

"It's going to be difficult now to get students from high schools to dedicate themselves to four years of education with some of the tuitions the colleges are looking at and then come into a teaching profession that pays minimum."

He said that there are teachers who have been in the Quincy system for 25 years who have four or five children, are making $25,500 a year and "are $400 below the poverty level."

Pasquarella was interviewed by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA, and Ray McEachern, a reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Budget Meetings

It's budget time again at City Hall, this time for fiscal 1984.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday he has received budget proposals from all small and medium departments and plans to start conferences on them tomorrow (Friday).

Small and medium departments mean all except Police, Fire and Public Works.

"I have had a quick look at them," said McCauley, "and most of them have come in level-funded as I asked the department heads."

Meetings will be held tomorrow on the wire, plumbing and gas fitting, weights and measures, building inspection, zoning board of appeals and rent grievance budgets.

Conferences are scheduled for Saturday on the auditor, assessors, treasurer and tax collector, personnel, recreation, park, forestry and cemetery, and purchasing and parking budgets.

The mayor has until April 3, three months after the start of his second year in office, to submit the municipal budget to the City Council.

In recent years, however, the state legislature has granted extensions of that time and it is likely to do so again this year.

QEA Expected To Vote 'Work-To-Rule' Plan

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Frustrated with stalled contract talks with the School Committee, the representative council of the Quincy Education Association was scheduled to approve a "work-to-rule" plan yesterday (Wednesday).

Work to rule means that "no member will perform any action outside of regular school hours unless that member is paid," said Herman (Hank) Pasquerella, QEA president. The plan, effective immediately would affect all activities after school hours such as extra help for students, detentions, plays, concerts, chaperoning of dances, according to Pasquerella.

"We're not going to give services for nothing anymore," said Pasquerella, "it has been traditional, almost like missionary work."

"I hope our actions bring our case to the public. What we're looking for is a one year contract with guaranteed money, not multi-year subject to funding.

"We went that way in 1979," said Pasquerella, referring to raises that were never refunded.

Pasquerella said that he finds work-to-rule "very distasteful personally" as do many teachers.

"We feel forced to take some kind of action, we have no alternatives."

The QEA's expected action reiterates Pasquerella's contention that the organization is considering legal action - not a strike - to resolve contract disputes.

After a "hot and heavy and lengthy" meeting recently by the QEA action committee, Pasquerella reported, "we did not contemplate anything illegal."

"We discussed appropriate legal actions. The law doesn't give us much. We can't strike or having binding arbitration. That doesn't leave us with much."

Meanwhile, School Committee vice chairman Mary Collins reminded teachers regarding earlier strike talk, "it's against the law, teachers do not have the right to strike."

"It's grounds for dismissal if they do."

She supported the QEA's right to its 5% increase which was approved in 1979 "subject to funding" and never paid. The teachers recently lost a round in court trying to get it.

"Of course they're entitled to the 1979 raise," said Mrs. Collins. "We spent a lot of time negotiating. It's unfair what happened."

Mrs. Collins said the school committee has agreed to join in on the QEA's appeal of the case.

Enlarged City Council Office Aids Constituents

"It has made the Council much more responsive to constituents," said City Council President John J. Lydon, Jr., showing a visitor around the Council's offices on the second floor of the old City Hall.

It didn't used to be that way.

As far as physical facilities were concerned, the City Council had always been sort of a stepchild of city government until Lydon became council president last January.

Over the past year, under Lydon's direction, the Council has taken over the five offices that used to house the mayor and his staff and increased the Council staff from one and a half to two workers plus a part-time student and a part-time senior citizen.

The expansion of the Council's physical plant and staff drew criticism from Councilor Richard J. Koch Jr. during the first Council meeting of the season when he refused to vote for Lydon for a second year as president.

"I feel that we on the Council are not showing the same fiscal restraint that has been imposed on the other city departments," said Koch. "We have much to elaborate setup on the Council."

The setup includes the aforementioned five offices, which includes one for the Council president, another a conference room and a third with desks shared by the individual councilors.

The staff now consists of Louise Brabazon, the longtime Council secretary; Jeanne Reardon, the clerk of committees, whose job was raised from part-time to full-time during the past year.

Also Carol Koelsch, a work study student from Aquinas Junior College in Milton, who works 20 hours a week, and Mrs. Francis Logan of 1000 Southern Artery, a senior citizen who comes in one day a week.

There is also Jackie Quirk, who is actually an aide to Councilor James A. Sheets but who helps out in

Baharian Bows Out As Planning Board Chairman

By TOM HENSHAW

The Rev. Bedros Baharian has asked Mayor Francis X. McCauley not to reappoint him to another five year term on the Quincy Planning Board.

He has been chairman of the board for 17 years.

"I'm getting older," said the 67-year-old Baharian, who is pastor emeritus of the Quincy Point Congregational Church and director of the 1000 Southern Artery senior citizens housing complex.

"I am starting to wind down. This seems like a good time to bow out. The Planning Department is in good shape. With a new administration, it's a good idea to change direction."

Baharian made his intentions known in a Jan. 20 letter to Mayor McCauley, who made the announcement at a news conference Tuesday. He said he has no successor in mind.

McCauley and Baharian both denied that there was any pressure or suggestion by the McCauley administration that Baharian was not going to be reappointed and should go quietly.

Rev. BEDROS BAHARIAN

Baharian is a close friend and supporter of McCauley's predecessor, former Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

"I was not pushed," said Baharian. "It was my idea. I never discussed the possibility of my reappointment with Mayor McCauley."

"To the best of my knowledge, none of us here discussed the job with him," said McCauley. "People retire all the time."

In the Tobin administration, Baharian had also held the post of Citywide Development Coordinator at $1 a year. That job was abolished by McCauley and its remaining duties taken over by Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative aide.

"I have been a strong

February Meeting On $12M GD Repayment

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday it will be sometime in February before he will sit down with officials from General Dynamics to work out details of a court-ordered tax repayment of $12.1 million to the city's largest taxpayer.

The State Supreme Court last week affirmed a lower court ruling that Quincy overassessed the Fore River Shipyard by many millions of dollars for the fiscal years 1977 through 1980. For practical purposes the decision is not appealable.

"There is no question that when we pay the money back there will be an adverse effect on city finances for many years," said McCauley. "It will impact everyone in the city, including the case that the city workers have for a raise in pay."

McCauley said he understands that the court now has 30 days in which to enter its judgement, after which the city will have 120 days in which to make arrangements for the repayment. That would place the deadline in late May.

"Our attorneys are looking at the thing now," said McCauley in reference to the 22-page Supreme Court decision that was written by Justice Herbert P. Wilkins. "Then we will have to get a feel of what General Dynamics wants to do."

The mayor said two methods of repayment appear to be open to the city.

One would be to obtain legislative permission to float a bond issue for the $12.1 million, like Boston did in the Tregor case. It would be expensive since Quincy's bond rating is Baa, the lowest of any city in the state.

Or, said McCauley, the city could arrange with General Dynamics to waive future taxes on the yard until the repayment is made up, also a belt tightening proposition since General Dynamics accounts for 7.5 percent of the city's tax levy.

The Mayor declined to place the blame on any previous administration or board of assessors for the valuation that was shot

1 A.M. Closing For Entertainment, Too

The Quincy License Board wants local liquor establishments to stop their entertainment at the same time that they stop serving liquor.

The board unanimously approved a motion

Tuesday morning which calls for "all liquor establishments in the City of Quincy to cease all types of entertainment" when they stop serving liquor at 1 a.m.

It is effective immediately.

License Granted For Donut Shop

Quincy Point residents in the vicinity of Quincy Ave., will soon have a new donut shop in their midst.

The License Board granted a common victualer license Tuesday morning to Yiannis Davos of 111 Tosca Drive, Brockton, for Supreme Coffee and Donuts, 275 Quincy Ave. Davos said hours would be 5 a.m. to 1 a.m.

As a restriction of the license, the hours can be reduced if there are problems. A standing sign and other signs are to be approved by the Building Inspector.

Land owner Joseph Bates told the board that sewer connections would be cut into existing connections on Circuit Road. Bates also land would be moved back to a fenced-in area about one quarter of a mile from Quincy Ave.

The donut shop will be located on a section of subdivided land to the right

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

• Granted a one-day alcoholic license to the Houghs Neck Community Council, Inc., for a dance Saturday, Feb. 12, 8 p.m. to midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

• Granted a one-day all alcoholic license to the North Quincy High School Track Boosters Club to be used in conjunction with a Las Vegas Night Friday, Feb. 11, 7 p.m. to midnight at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

• Continued for one week, a hearing to show cause why William E. Powers' common victualer license for Dutch Treat, 388 East Squantum St., should not be revoked for maintaining an illegal sign in violation of zoning ordinance and board requirements. Atty. Robert Fleming, representing Powers, said that the moving sign will be taken down.

• Granted a six-month common victualer (take out only) license to Mrs. Anne L. Lindberg of 264 Pine St. for Duck's Soup, Inc., at 698 Hancock St. Mrs. Lindberg said she will offer items such as Lasagna, Chicken Kiev, soups and salads. The temporary license was issued to give the board time to observe the traffic impact.

• Continued for one week a request from Mrs. Cheryl J. Hamel, 5 Louisburg Square, for a common victualer (take out only) license for Mama's Kitchen, 3 Walker St., North Quincy.

The board requested a letter from Rev. Arthur Curtis of nearby Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church stating his opinion of the proposed shop which would offer items such as lasagna, chicken cacciatore, spaghetti and meatballs.

Boxing Club Seeks Liquor License At Armory

A request from the Shoreside Boxing Club for an all alcoholic license for amateur boxing shows at the Quincy Armory was continued to Feb. 1, by the license Board Tuesday.

The request, continued for routine police checks, is for every second Saturday throughout the Spring or Summer beginning Feb. 19.

Joseph Ciralo, representing the club, said the shows will help defray expenses for the Shoreside Gym in its planned youth boxing program.

Ciralo said he hopes to attract 800-1000 people to the shows.

Acting Police Chief Roy Cavicchi, sitting in for Police Chief Francis Finn who is recovering from quadruple heart bypass surgery, questioned whether an all alcoholic license was necessary.

"Even in the (Boston) Garden," said Cavicchi, "its mostly beer."

Gray Lincoln Sought As Hit And Run Car

Police are sorting through a number of tips in their efforts to find a hit-run automobile that struck and seriously injured a 12-year-old North Quincy girl on Whitwell St. Jan. 17.

The girl, Colleen Oldham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oldham of 289 East Squantum St., was in satisfactory condition at Quincy City Hospital with a fractured pelvis, multiple bruises and internal injuries.

Police said their problem is that they lack a detailed description of the car that struck the girl. It was described only as large and gray, possibly a Lincoln Continental.

They have had scores of tips on the car but thus far all have been fruitless.

The girl and her mother, Mary Oldham, had just left Quincy City Hospital where she was treated for a dog bite when the car roared down Whitwell St. and knocked Colleen into a snow bank.

Toland: City Has 'Moral Obligation' To Pay Teachers

City Councillor Patricia Toland says she feels the city has "a moral obligation" to pay school teachers the 5 per cent raise that was negotiated in 1979 but never funded by the city.

"The City Council and the Mayor are really the guardians of the education of the children of Quincy now because they have the bottom line approval of the budget," she said.

"Even though they do not make out the budget, they do have an obligation to pay their people. The teachers and school staff are employees of the city as much as the people on the city side."

She appeared on the interview program "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems' Channel 3.

Mrs. Toland, who was a member of the School Committee when the teachers' raise was negotiated in 1979, explained that the Committee could have "hidden" the raise in its budget that year but didn't think it necessary.

"What happened at that time," she said, "was that the School Committee passed a zero growth budget anticipating that the raises would make up the extra 4 per cent that was the tax cap at the time."

"The city side of the government used the 4 per cent that really belonged to the School Department budget. Instead of 104 per cent budget for the schools, a 100 per cent budget went over."

"Had we known that was going to happen we would have included a 5 per cent raise in the budget and hidden it away as has been the practice in other cities and towns for years."

"Quincy never did that because the school's supplementary budget of negotiated raises had always been honored when it was sent over at a later date."

Mrs. Toland noted that the School Committee is currently negotiating with the teachers' union on another contract and she said she is "saddened" that some teachers have been talking strike.

"Right now," she said, "I think there is time for more discussion and more dialogue between the School Committee and the negotiating team."

"There is a raise being offered them for this year and hopefully they will look upon that as some kind of recompense for their services.

"Whatever the School Committee sends over in its budget I will support."

Mrs. Toland said she is in favor of a salary increase for the Mayor "but there hasn't been any talk about a new proposal since the last pay raise went down."

"I think the Mayor's position deserves to have a salary increase," she said. "It does not make sense that a city of this size has a chief executive only making a salary of $25,000."

"I am not averse to a pay raise for city councillors, either, but it's a little presumptuous of me to think about a pay raise because I am pretty new. I don't have the full flavor of the work involved."

Mrs. Toland was interviewed on the show by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, a reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

'Consumer Volcano'

Hancock Bank President Hits New Interest Law

Bank customers, savers and investors will love some $1.5 billion nationwide beginning July 1 under a new federal law requiring banks and other financial institutions to withhold 10 percent of interest and dividend payments notes William E. Kelley, President of Hancock Bank.

Kelley called the new withholding provision "a consumer volcano that's about to erupt."

The loss will be incurred largely because interest earnings will be withheld rather than reported on federal tax returns. This means savers and investors will not "have" this interest income to generate more money up until the time they file their federal tax returns.

"People are just beginning to realize that the widely-publicized 10 percent tax cut next July will be accompanied by the government's withholding 10 percent of their savings and investments," Kelley said.

Kelley said he also fears banks may be erroneously blamed for the new law because they will be stuck with the job of mailing out the withholding statements with the 10 percent deducted.

"I hat prospect troubles me," Kelley said. "Banks might wind up with an unwarranted black eye. I want to make it clear that the government will require us to withhold the 10 percent. It is not something banks want to do or would do if this new law had never passed. The fact is, it is as much a burden on banks as it is on bank customers."

Perhaps more so."

Kelley said the new law is doubly unfair to banks because they will have to pay for something they never wanted to begin with. "No mention is made of what this will cost banks in terms of postage, envelopes and clerical costs," Kelley said.

And Kelley is not alone in his opinion of the new law. "Bankers across the state feel much the same way, and rightly so," Kelley said.

"I'm concerned that a misconception might arise. I hope the thousands of banking customers in Massachusetts will realize this is the federal government's handiwork not ours. Banks want no part of it, but will have no choice but compliance unless the law is repealed."

Kelley noted a repeal drive is underway in Washington, spearheaded by the American Bankers Association, Association President William Kennedy Jr. earlier this month applauded repeal legislation which has been introduced in Congress. But Kennedy also warned that only a grass roots effort will succeed.

"Banks alone will be unable to repeal this law," Kennedy said. "Only when people speak out will there be a chance for success."

A recent IRS study, meanwhile, indicates voluntary compliance is already extremely high among taxpayers reporting dividend and interest earnings on their federal returns. For the period studied, compliance was 96.7% (in 1975) and 97.3% (in 1976).

Toland Sees Woman Mayor

City Councilor Patricia Toland isn't about to toss her bonnet into the ring, but she thinks Quincy could have a woman mayor this decade.

This year, she's running for reelection to a second term on the City Council. That's definite.

But would she run for mayor somewhere down the road?

During a recent interview on "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems Ch. 3 she was asked that question and replied:

"My yardstick has been for any job that if I think I can do it better than the person who is doing it, at least as well, or better than the person who's doing it, then I would run for the job."

"Right now, I think that is not the case in any other position other than the one I have. I don't know what's going to happen in the future."

"I think it's hard for politicians to say what they're going to do in two or four years because a lot of factors play before an opening arises. Or, some particular issue is there that somebody makes a lot of points with their constituency on."

"So, I think a great deal of the basis for a decision like that (running for mayor) depends on what happens over the next couple of years."

Well, does she think there is a woman mayor in

TOLAND

Quincy's near future?

"I think a woman mayor is possible in the '80's. I think that the city of Quincy, to its credit, would elect a woman mayor if they thought the woman who was the candidate was better than the opposition."

"I don't think there's a problem with sex. I think that Quincy really looks at its people and assesses the people on the basis of their qualifications as they are perceived by the voters."

"I don't think there's a problem with sex. I think it's a matter of qualifications."

Shoplifting: You Pay For It

This year nearly 10 million people will create a multi-billion dollar crisis in our economy, yours and mine.

By shoplifting more than $40 million worth of merchandise each day, these otherwise law-abiding citizens will "earn" more in two days than most bank robbers steal in an entire year.

Honest consumers share the cost to the merchants of this shoplifting in the forms of higher prices, unemployment due to business losses and failures and a higher cost of living.

All kinds of people shoplift — men and women, young and old, black and white, businessmen and students and others.

Young people under the age of 18 make up more than half of all shoplifters. Girls greatly outnumber boys and most come from middle-income suburban homes.

Most people do not steal because of need. Many have better than average jobs and incomes.

Your women frequently "stretch" their budgets by shoplifting luxury items and extras.

Professional shoplifters steal "on order" goods that they sell to their own "customers" at bargain prices. But this group is a small percentage of all shoplifters.

Shoplifting is stealing and, in this state, it is punishable as larceny.

If you see it, report it. You and other shoppers end up paying for what the shoplifter takes.

factor on the board, far beyond the duties of the job," said Baharian.

"In some ways, the kids in the department are Baharian's angels. They are like a family to me. But at this point they don't need me any longer. I have been easing out of it day by day. Now the time has come to walk away."

Baharian said he also plans to retire as director of 1000 Southern Artery at the end of the year and will spend next winter in Florida.

"A five-year appointment I don't need," he said.

Baharian also noted that he had retired "involuntarily" from the board of directors of the South Shore Bank last year, a post he lost when he backed the wrong side in a proxy battle for control of the bank's holding company.

He was reported to have been the dissident stockholders' choice for president of the bank.

McCauley, who was a bank president before he became mayor, said that he had written to Baharian to thank him for his years of service to the city.

"I have always had very harmonious relations with Bedros," he said.

During his time as chairman of the Planning Board, the big State Street South Complex in North Quincy and the 10-story Quincy Center Plaza building in downtown Quincy were negotiated and built.

The mayor said he had no one in mind to fill the vacancy which will exist after Feb. 7 when Baharian's term expires.

"It is an important job and I want to fill it as soon as possible," said McCauley. "Although Jim Lydon (the planning director) does a lot of the work that Bedros used to do."

"I'd like to have someone who has a positive outlook on development, shares my philosophy of a good business climate and is also able to listen to neighborhood groups."

He indicated that he would lean toward someone with a planning or an engineering background. He asked that applicants forward their resumes to his office.

Current members of the Planning Board are John Barron and Sam Tuttle, both real estate men, Robert Foley, a telephone company executive, and David Rafferty, a lawyer.

Tuttle is McCauley's lone appointment to the board.

Over 10,000 Apply For Jobs At GD Shipyard

More than 10,500 men applied for work at the soon-to-be reopened Fore River Shipyard during a four-day application period at the State Division of Employment Security office at 160 Parkingway.

The Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics, the new owner of the shipyard, announced that it would be hiring several hundred workers initially for the reopening of the yard which was expected in two weeks.

The Bethlehem Steel Co. ceased operating the shipyard on Dec. 31 and sold it to General Dynamics. Many of those in the employment line had worked at the yard before and expected improved conditions under the new owner.

"I hear it's a progressive company," said James Moses of Hyde Park, who had worked as a welder at the yard for 11 years before being laid off in December.

Meanwhile, the Fore River Metal Trades Council opened an office at 23 Chestnut St. in a drive to organize the workers, who had been represented by the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers under Bethlehem.

WORLDS FAIR EXHIBIT

City Historian William C. Edwards was making a cost study of a proposal to sponsor a Quincy historical exhibit at the New York World's Fair which was scheduled to open in April.

The proposal was made by Rep. Joseph E. Brett and would include a replica of one of the cars that was used on the first commercial railroad in West Quincy.

RAPID TRANSIT OPPOSED

Felix C. Favorite, executive secretary of the Quincy Home and Property Owners Association, said his board of directors had voted to oppose an extension of the Boston rapid transit system to Quincy.

Reasonable estimates were that the MTA deficit would add at least $6 to the Quincy tax rate, he said, "an unjustified amount for homeowners to pay for the transportation of less than 3 per cent of the population of Quincy."

down by the court.

"It seemed to me that what was done in 1976 was proper," he said. "The yard had spent a lot of money on the property and the assessors properly raised the assessment. We took the case as far as we could."

One of the key rulings by Superior Court Judge Hiller B. Zobel was that the projected earnings of the shipyard should be taken into consideration when calculating its value, a departure from the normally accepted methods of evaluating property.

That, said City Solicitor William B. Golden, made it an almost impossible case for his office and the city's special attorney, John M. Lynch of Cuddy and Lynch, Boston, to handle effectively.

"The court took an assessment method that no one ever saw before and said that the assessors should have used it in 1977," he said. "You can't anticipate anything like that. It's like criticizing a person for going to a baseball game and not bringing a football with him."

The city had hoped that Judge Zobel's unique method of assessing property would be found to be too great a departure and thus an error in law and an abuse of judge's discretion, the only matters on which the Supreme Court could rule.

Golden said that the case could be appealed to the federal courts only on matters of constitutionality, and "given the issues in this case it is not likely that such an appeal would be viable."

Golden found one bright spot in Judge Zobel's decision and its confirmation by the Supreme Court.

"This may not be to the ultimate benefit of General Dynamics," he said. "If the company has a busy shipyard down there Quincy may make out better than before if its earnings go up."

"The burden of the past may be on the city but the burden of the future may be on General Dynamics."

the office.

At the start of the year, Mrs. Brabazon was alone in the office.

"It's much more efficient now," she says, "particularly when it comes to phone calls. People think of us as an information service. We get calls asking, 'Who is the U.S. Senator?' or 'Who is my city councillor?'"

There are probably 25 to 30 such calls a day.

The chief purpose of the Council office is to get out letters from the councillors and take emergency calls for them during the day. They can handle their own at night.

"You'd be surprised how many don't realize that the councillors are part-time," said Mrs. Brabazon. "When they're not available, their people call us."

One day recently the Council office staff had to get out some 10,000 letters announcing a Community Development Block Grant meeting. Four more senior citizen volunteers came in for that one.

"We have a very active City Council," said Lydon. "And we have a very active Council office."

QHA To Retain Security Agency For Housing Protection

The Quincy Housing Authority has authorized John Comer, executive administrator, to prepare specifications and bids for retaining a private security agency to protect QHA housing facilities.

City Councillor Stephen McGrath told the board he supported the security measure. McGrath said the city has a responsibility to protect the residents of those facilities plagued by vandals.

Comer indicated that bids for a single shift, one security guard in each of five high rise housing facilities, with a roving automobile guard for family units, will be considered initially.

The funding for security guards and patrol would be sought through the federal government with the approval of the Economic Office of Community Development.

Recently city councillor Patricia Toland with the support of the city council filed a bill with the state legislature seeking state funds for security at such housing facilities.

This week's topic is NAIL REPAIR. NAIL REPAIR falls into three general categories: CIPPING fragile tips, REPAIRING partially broken or split nails, and REPAIRING tips that are broken off completely. NAIL REPAIR is usually done just before applying the base coat to the nails.

To CIP FRAGILE TIP, tear a wedge-shaped piece of mending tissue the width of the nail at one end and a little wider at the other end. I rim the wide end to fit the nail tip. After saturating the patch with mending liquid, lay it flat on the nail. Turn the palm upward and apply additional mending tissue to the exposed edges of the tissue. With a small orangewood stick dipped in polish remover, turn the tissue inward over the nail edge and press firmly to the inner surface of the nail. Allow the cap to dry.

To REPAIR A SPLIT NAIL, use the emery board to lightly file the split portion of the nail. With a piece of mending tissue, saturated in mending liquid, place the tissue over the split area. With the orangewood stick, tuck the tissue under the nail. Moisten a finger in polish remover and smooth away the patch from the nail edge. Allow the patch to dry.

QUICK WHO'S YOUR INSURANCE AGENT?

Not your company, your agent. Anybody can name his insurance company, but lots of folks have trouble remembering the name of their agent. Is that strange? Your agent is the guy who's supposed to handle your claims, advise you on prices and policies, keep you informed on important changes in your coverage needs. Of course, it is hard to really know someone who only pops out of the woodwork each renewal time each year.

That's where your BIGI Agent is different. He represents several strong, reliable companies. But he doesn't work for any of them. He works for you, —right in your town. So, he can give you personal unbiased help choosing the right coverage at the right price from the right company. So, when you're with the BIGI GUYS at KALAFATAS INSURANCE it's easy to remember your agent. He's the one who remembers you!

Koch Club Gives Help To Pine St. Inn, Rosie's Place

The Koch Club Charity Committee continued its projects on behalf of the needy.

Dozens of new bath towels, pillow cases, and socks were delivered to the Pine Street Inn while toiletries and first aid supplies were provided for Rosie's Place, both Boston based halfway houses.

The articles purchased and donated were in response to the request of the staff and the needs of the persons serviced by the agencies.

Richard J. Koch, executive director, said that more than 5,000 new and used toys were collected, refurbished, packaged and delivered through Jan. 6 in the Quincy, South Shore and Greater Boston areas for needy boys and girls.

Hundreds of articles of used clean clothing were also collected and distributed to social service agencies for presentation to adults and children in need of assistance.

At Christmas time, 51 baskets of food including turkeys, fresh fruits and vegetables and canned goods were distributed through church and community organizations to families in Quincy.

Koch stressed the fact that the major charitable endeavors of the Koch Club could not be accomplished without the cooperation of dozens of organizations, groups and individuals who aid the Christmas Charitable Committee in its many projects on behalf of the needy.

He commended the students of Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, the Parker School, St. Joseph's School, Woodward School For Girls as well as the North Quincy Catholic Women's Club, employees of Otis Elevator, the Early Childhood Club of Quincy Junior College, Christian Education Children of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston and students of the 4th Grade of Highland School in Braintree.

Also assisting were the Hancock Bank & Trust Co., Thomas Shank Chapter and Neponset Chapter Telephone Pioneers, the South Quincy Social Club, the Koch Club Men and Women's Bowling Leagues, Webelos Pack No. 27 Cub Scouts, the Granite City Grange and the Bryan Post VFW Ladies Auxiliary.

Several dozen families and friends each year provide contributions to the Christmas Charity endeavors in the purchase of food and gifts for the extensive program.

350 Local Volunteers For Mothers March

The Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation announces that a record number of local volunteers have signed up for the Jan. 23-30, 1983 Mothers March.

Over 350 men and women of all ages will march for the March of Dimes in Quincy. Theme for this year's Mothers March will be "A Family Tradition." While the original March of Dimes Mothers March in 1953 was done primarily by women, today's Mothers Marchers are men and women of all ages, grandparents, as well as teenagers.

The Mothers March, sponsored by Stop & Shop Supermarkets Co., is the Mass. Bay Chapter's largest volunteer effort. Local marchers will be part of a team of some 15,000

Mothers Marchers in 54 greater Boston communities.

Each marcher will pass out free educational material.

Advanced Life Saving Course At Lincoln Hancock

City Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces that the City Recreation Department will conduct an Advanced Life Saving Course as part of its swimming program at the Lincoln Hancock Community School.

The program is taught in accordance to the standards of the American National Red Cross and successful completion results in Red Cross certification in Advanced Life Saving.

This is the last time the course will be offered by the Recreation Department prior to the summer swimming season. Persons who are interested in summer employment as life guards are encouraged to enroll in this class.

Persons are eligible who are 15 years of age, and are able to pass a swimming prerequisite under supervision of the Recreation Dept. swimming staff. The course will meet Wednesday evenings, from 7-10 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock Comm. School Pool. Registration can be done in person beginning immediately at the pool office during any Recreation Dept. swim program. The course will start Wednesday, Jan. 26.

Registration is limited and participants will be taken on first come, first serve basis. A fee is charged, and non residents may enroll for this course if sufficient openings are available. For additional information call the Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

You know what's best.

Our new ///SUPER///NOW
and
///EXCELLARATE///PLUS
Great ways to earn money market rates
at Quincy Savings Bank.

You make the choice.

You have some money to invest. Maybe a few thousand.

Perhaps a lot more.

You want to earn money market rates, locally, where you can get more personal service. Where you have a wide choice of insured investment alternatives. And where you can take care of other financial needs as well.

You know better than anyone what's important to you, what your investment strategy is.

That's why Quincy Savings now is offering its new Super NOW account, along with Excellerate Plus.

Our Super NOW is an excellent way to earn high money market interest while you enjoy the convenience of unlimited checking and access to your money all of the time at convenient locations, with no penalties for withdrawals.

You can open a Super NOW at Quincy Savings for as little as $2500, with the knowledge that your account is fully insured by the FDIC and the Deposit Insurance Fund of Massachusetts.

You earn a competitive money market rate on every dollar in your Super NOW account above $2500 and 5 1/4 % interest on balances below that level.

There are no restrictions on the number of checks you can write or the dollar amount. And the minimum fee is just $1.00 a month, or 15¢ a check. (If you're 65 years of age or older, or have a direct deposit plan here, your Super NOW account is free.)

Our Super NOW also entitles you to a REDI-CASH Card which you can use 24 hours a day at all of our handy automated teller machines and at more than 100 other bank and supermarket locations in eastern Massachusetts.

Reintroducing ///EXCELLARATE///PLUS

Now that you know about our new Super NOW, you should also know about our Excellerate Plus and Excellerate accounts, which also earn money market rates.

Excellerate Plus is our new insured money market deposit account. You can open yours for $2500 and until February 1 we will guarantee a rate of 10% on the entire balance, as long as you maintain the required minimum of $2500.

Excellerate Plus has no management fees. As an insured investment account, it allows you to write up to three checks per month, plus three transfers, or a total of six transactions.

... and ///EXCELLARATE

Simply stated, you can open an Excellerate account for as little as $10, the minimum balance to earn our 5 1/4 % checking account rate. But when your Excellerate balance exceeds $2,000, we automatically invest the money over that amount into a repurchase agreement* which pays you a money market rate equal to the Donoghue Money Fund 30-Day Average.TM

You need all the help you can get

Deciding which of these Quincy Savings accounts is best for you takes some study. The best way to start is to call us at 471-3500, or fill out and mail the coupon below. Our experienced staff will help answer your questions. You know you have a much wider choice of money market accounts at Quincy Savings, and you know what's best for you.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Everyone at one time or another, especially in childhood, has been guilty of misbehavior. Many people believe bad conduct in childhood years was changed to good behavior when discipline was enforced by parental punishment (quite often in the wood shed). For adults in those years gone by, deceit, falsehood, malice, violence and other undisciplined behavior was dealt with by authorities that held a person was responsible for his actions. These former attitudes and actions dealing with misbehavior seem almost quaint today!

Explanations for the increasing misbehavior are plentiful. But bad behavior continues. Before a behavioral change can occur for those who badly misbehave, examples of good behavior in others will have to multiply. People do not improve when they see others misbehave. Can anyone dispute better behavior will be seen ONLY when more people echo the teachings and at least try to emulate the behavior of the ONE PERFECT EXAMPLE? . . .

Bertha Munro, 95, ENC Founding Member, First Dean

More than 600 people attended funeral services Sunday for Bertha Munro, 95, of Wollaston, a founding member of the faculty for 49 years and first dean of Eastern Nazarene College.

Miss Munro died Jan. 19, at Friel Nursing Home, Wollaston.

During the service at Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, Miss Munro was described as "a living legend" by Dr. Edward S. Mann, president emeritus of the college.

A native of Cliftondale, Miss Munro was educated in Saugus public schools and was graduated from Boston University in 1907 as class valedictorian with a major in languages.

For three years, she taught foreign languages in the high schools of Middleboro and Needham, and then from 1910 to 1915 taught at the Pentecost Collegiate Institute of North Scituate, R.I.

In 1916, Professor Munro received an M.A. degree in English from Radcliffe College, and joined the English faculty of Taylor University in Upland, Indiana, where she taught for three years.

In September of 1919, Professor Munro accepted appointment as a founding faculty member at the newly-opened Eastern

BERTHA MUNRO

Nazarene College in Wollaston.

Dr. Fred J. Shields, first president of the college during that opening year, appointed Professor Munro as his administrative assistant. ENC's second president, Dr. Floyd W. Nease, appointed Professor Munro as Dean of the College.

Dean Munro served concurrently as professor of English and dean until she resigned her administrative post in 1957. She continued teaching full-time into the 1960's, when she continued teaching on a part-time basis until her retirement in 1968 during the presidency of Dr. Edward S. Mann.

In her autobiography, "The Years Teach," published in 1970 by Beacon Hill Press in Kansas City, Dean Munro said, "From 1919 on, the story of my life is in one sense the story of Eastern Nazarene College."

Except for a year's leave of absence for doctoral studies at Harvard in her first decade of teaching, Dean Munro was fully involved in establishing this young college founded by the Church of the Nazarene in Wollaston.

Since her retirement in 1968, including recent years of declining health, Dean Munro maintained a close interest in the life and work of the college.

President Stephen W. Nease said of her, "No other individual has shaped the academic and spiritual philosophy of Eastern Nazarene College more than Dean Bertha Munro. She epitomized Christian scholarship in teaching and administrative work."

The body of Dean Munro lay in state in Wollaston Church of the Nazarene Friday and Saturday evenings accompanied by an honor guard of faculty who were former students and colleagues of Miss Munro.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery. Memorial gifts are being received toward the Bertha Munro Chair of English Lit. at Eastern Nazarene College.

June Morrow-Long, 51, Home Health Aide

A funeral service for June S. (Warrington) Morrow-Long, 51, of Quincy, a home health aide for Catholic Charities, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston.

Mrs. Morrow-Long died Sunday at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

A life long Quincy resident, she was a 1950 graduate of Quincy High School.

She is survived by her husband, Verlin F. Long; a son, David L. Morrow of Quincy; two daughters, Nancy H. Campbell, USN, stationed in Japan, and Diane L. Morrow of Quincy; her mother, Doris E. (Rendle) Warrington-Walsh of Quincy; a brother, Howard F. Warrington of Rockland; and a grandson, John W. Campbell of Japan.

She was also the daughter of the late Mr. Frederick H. Warrington.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to St. Chrysostom's Church, 1 Linden St., or the charity of one's choice.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind . . .

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- Funeral and Interment Preferences
- Vital Statistics and Data
- Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- Pre-Arrangement Information
- Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

Koch Club To Commemorate 35th Anniversary

The Koch Club of Quincy will celebrate its 35th anniversary as a community service organization this year.

A series of events will commemorate the three and a half decades of activities with a dinner dance scheduled for Saturday, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the George F. Bryan VFW Hall, Broad St., Quincy.

Annual programs of the Koch Club conducted in May and June will be incorporated into the special events said Richard J. Koch, executive director and founder of the Quincy based group.

Established in May of 1948 with an intramural softball program at Cavanaugh Stadium in North Quincy, the Koch Club has continued to flourish for 35 years with its emphasis in sponsoring youth and adult recreation teams and leagues.

Since its inception in 1948, more than 100,000 children and adults have enjoyed the variety of athletic, social and charitable endeavors sponsored on behalf of Quincy residents.

The Koch Club has been an organization comprised entirely of volunteers with four geographical districts located in Quincy, the parent North Quincy District directed by Gary and Joan Demole, Broad Meadows District headed by Anthony and Gerry Delmonico, Montclair District led by Howard and Janet Crowley and West Quincy District guided by David and Margaret Donaghue.

Following the dinner dance of May 7, the sixth annual Memorial Mass for deceased members and friends will be held Thursday, May 26, at Our Lady's Chapel of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

On Tuesday, June 14, the 32nd annual Flag Day Parade will be held in Quincy Center at 6:30 p.m. The 35th annual Family Picnic will be Sunday, June 26 at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park.

A souvenir tabloid highlighting the Koch Club History in stories and pictures will also be available during the activities.

Former and present members of the organization are invited to participate in any of the scheduled events and are asked to contact Mr. Koch.

Program On Prayer At St. Joseph's

St. Joseph Church, Quincy Point, will continue its Spiritual Development Program Monday, Jan. 31 at 7:45 p.m. in the church.

Fr. William Devine, assistant pastor at Saint Mark's in Dorchester and formerly of Saint Joseph's, Quincy Point, will speak on "Prayer - Jesus As Our Model"

The worship service Sunday at 10 a.m. in Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Centre, will be conducted entirely by lay members of the congregation.

Two brief sermons will be preached by lay persons. "A View of Lay Ministry" will be presented by Marianna L. Fallon. "What's the Church Good For?" will be given by Robert W. McLain.

Other persons who will share in leading the worship are Kathleen Cronin as opening liturgist, and Russell D. Hodgkins who will give the comments on the church's life and work, and receive the offering.

Helene Crofts will offer the pastoral prayer. The Old Testament lesson will be read by James W. Ross, and the New Testament lesson by Lena M. Foster.

The closing prayer will be offered and the benediction pronounced by Fred C. Johnson.

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of organist Peter E. Krasinski, will present the anthem, "Come, Come, Ye Saints" by Spencer and Cromwell.

A men's quartet composed of Richard Pini, Thomas Newton, Win Bettinson, and Richard Phillips, will sing "Great Is Thy Faithfulness."

The senior pastor of Bethany, Rev. J. William Arnold, commented: "Laity Sunday is a significant event. It is one way of reaffirming one of the strong principles of our tradition, namely, the 'priesthood of all believers.'"

"By that is meant, all Christians, ordained and unordained alike, by virtue of their baptism in Christ's name and into his Church, share in the responsibility of being ministers of Jesus Christ both within the Church and out in the world."

The public is invited. A Fellowship Hour in the Allen Parlor will follow the service.

Laity Sunday At Bethany Church

Eva Martin Elected Deaconess Emeritus At Squantum Church

Members of the First Church of Squantum elected Eva Martin, a senior member of the church Deaconess Emeritus, last Friday night at the annual meeting of the church.

She will hold the title for the rest of her life.

"Mrs. Martin is being honored tonight for her years of Christian service as a mother and a member of this church as well as for her outstanding Christian character," said church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

Persons elected to this office in the church must be nominated by the Board of Deacons and elected by the members of the church.

At the first service Sunday morning, Dr. Langevin preached on the theme "The Secret of Authority and Power." His text was, "For with authority and power He commands the unclean spirits and they come out." (Luke 4:36b)

Ushers at that service were Diane Ahearn and Bonnie Adams.

During the second service, Dr. Langevin began a series of sermons on the theological ideas of St. Paul. The first in this series was entitled, "Living As A Redeemed People."

The text was, "He has... transferred us to the Kingdom of His beloved Son, in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins." (Colossians 1:13b-14)

For the offertory, the Chancel Choir sang "I Believe in Miracles" by Peterson. Greeters for that service were Joan and Katherine Hansen, a mother and daughter.

Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Gretchen Bumpus and Val Gorrell.

Next Sunday, there will be two services again at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

There will be a Pot Roast Supper at the First Church of Squantum Friday, Feb. 11, at 6:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall.

Tickets to the event, sponsored by the Evening Friendship Group, may be reserved by calling Barbara Frazer at 328-0502.

Faith Lutheran Church Approves $107,196 Budget

A record budget of $107,196 for 1983 was approved at a recent semi-annual congregational meeting of Faith Lutheran Church of Quincy.

A major factor, other than general increased costs, was the decision to call a part-time assistant pastor. This action was necessary due to the strong growth of the church and the increased workload for Rev. James Kimmell.

No decision was made concerning renovation or new construction of the facilities. In spite of the fact that Faith has two separate church structures in Quincy, the available spaces are not adequate for congregational needs.

A special presentation was given on Lutheran Lay Renewal, a two-day seminar and workshop for the congregation for faith renewal and fellowship.

The annual report was reviewed and election of officers was held. Pastor Kimmell offered thanks and praise to those members who give much of their time to the church. The progress of a member of Faith Lutheran Church, Matt Salomaa, in his pastoral internship was noted. Mr. Salomaa's ordination will take place in the near future.

The meeting was preceded by a spaghetti dinner served by members of the LYFE youth group. The next meeting will be held in May.

Animal League To Elect

MASTER OF ARTS IN PASTORAL COUNSELING

Cecil R. Paul, Ph.D., Instructor noted educator, psychologist and author who challenges his students to examine options and choices consistent with a Christian life style and examines with them the effectiveness of their ministry to others. His book, Passages of a Pastor, has been hailed as compassionately and non-judgmentally recognizing the tasks, needs, and crises of the minister and effectively assisting the pastor in dealing with his own personal psychosocial pilgrimage. His recently published book, Choices In Pursuit of Wholeness, co-authored with Janet Lanham, offers basic guidelines strong enough to provide Christian answers to today's complex questions, and challenges the reader to face the question of value.

Raiders Edge Newton, Bow To Cambridge

The North Quincy boys' basketball team edged Newton North for its third win last week but then ran into red hot Cambridge Rindge and Latin team Friday and was walloped, 93-55, dropping its record to 3-6.

Ed Miller's Raiders will play at Quincy Friday night at 8 p.m. and will host Waltham Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Cambridge, which had been a perennial Suburban League power, lost its first four Suburban League games this year but has improved greatly and the romp over North was its second win in a row.

Chris Bunker paced North with 17 points and Gary Brown added 11.

For Cambridge, Keith Hinderlie and John Evans combined for 29 points and 23 rebounds as the Cantabs took advantage of their height advantage.

Earlier in the week North had snapped a three-game losing streak by edging Newton North, 68-67.

CO-CAPT. John Phelan, the third brother to be a North captain, has been a steady performer for the North Quincy basketball team and will be a key man for the Raiders in Friday night's game at Quincy.

The Raiders led throughout the game but nearly lost a 10-point lead as Newton came on with a rush at the end.

Bunker again was North's top scorer with 20 points, John Purland had 17 points and 12 rebounds and Paul Ryan had 16 points.

Presidents Could Take Spoilers' Role

By TOM SULLIVAN
Although the Quincy boys' basketball team has only one win in eight games, it is showing steady improvement and Coach Joe Amoroso feels the Presidents could be spoilers over the second half of the season.

Quincy turned in its best effort of the year last week, giving Brookline (eight straight wins) one of its toughest games before bowing, 67-58, then gave Suburban League power Brockton trouble for a period and a half before going down, 76-49.

Quincy will host North Quincy Friday night at 8 and next Tuesday will play at Newton North at 3:30.

In the Brookline game the Presidents were down by only five (63-58) with 32 seconds to play but Brookline scored the final four points to avert what would have been a major upset.

Quincy led, 30-27, at halftime after outscoring Brookline, 21-8, in the second quarter. But Brookline's Fred Hill scored 14 of his game-high 26 points in the third quarter as Quincy was outscored, 26-14.

Paul Gilbody had 16 points and eight assists for the Presidents. Bob Mudge had 15 points, 10 rebounds and eight assists, sophomore Bill Shaughnessy had 14 points and Denis Downing had 11 rebounds.

Quincy started fast against Brockton, rated the class of the Suburban League, and led 15-14, after a period. The Presidents stayed with the Boxers until midway in the second quarter when Brockton began to pull away. Quincy trailed, 39-27, at halftime.

Quincy had four players in double figures, junior Jim Stasio leading the way with 13 points and five steals. Gilbody had 13 points and Mudge and Downing 10 each.

Brockton was led by Frank Kotopoulos with 21 points and Henry McCourt with 18.

"It has been rough going, but we are improving and the younger players are coming along well," Amoroso said. "Everyone is giving me 100 percent and I can't ask any more than that."

"The trouble is we are playing teams that are mainly senior clubs with much more size and experience than we have. I am using several juniors and sophomores. Brockton is awesome and has 12 excellent players."

"Gilbody and Mudge, both seniors, have been outstanding all season long. Stasio, who has a great night against Brockton, and Downing are juniors who are doing well and Shaughnessy, a sophomore, is doing a good job."

North Swimmers Defeat Blue Hills For 6th

The North Quincy swim team, in its best season ever, rebounded from its first loss of the season to overwhelm Blue Hills Regional, 116-49, last week to improve its record to 6-1.

Bill Walker's Raiders faced Brockton Tuesday and will host Waltham Friday at 6 o'clock at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

In the 200 medley relay against Blue Hills North's Vito Barresi, Dan Moriarty, Mike Melanson and Mark Williams won in 2:09.3.

Bob Dunn won the 200 freestyle and the 500 freestyle, Ken Burke won the 50 freestyle, Bob Waterman won the diving, Robert Plante won 100 butterfly, Wilkins won the 100 freestyle, Barresi won the 100 backstroke and the 400 freestyle relay team of Bob Weikel, Dave Stockless, Dunn and Wilkins also won.

Earlier in the week North bowed to undefeated Brookline, 104-68, despite several outstanding performances by the Raiders.

2 Coaches Appointed

The Quincy School Committee last week approved the appointments of Dennis Doherty as ninth

Brad Martin, who has had a brilliant season, won the 500 freestyle in 5:29.5, taking eight seconds off his best time and also set a school record in winning the 200 freestyle in 1:56.5.

In the 50 freestyle North's Jimmy Boudreau, Burke and Wilkins finished second, third and fourth respectively, while Jimmy Adams won the breaststroke in 1:20.2, taking six seconds off his best time.

Raiders Pin Hingham

The North Quincy wrestling team defeated Hingham, 36-21, last week to improve its record to 4-7.

The Raiders, who faced Norwood last night (Wednesday), will face Quincy Saturday at 6:30 at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym and next Wednesday will be at Brockton at 6:30.

North won two bouts by pins and added three wins due to forfeits.

Pat Marchman won, 5-3, at 107 pounds; Terry Stark won by forfeit at 134, Jay Pillard won by forfeit at 140, Jim White won, 8-2, at 147; John Webb won by pin at won by forfeit in the heavyweight bout.

North Girls Edge Newton N.

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, ranked sixth in Eastern Mass., topped Suburban League rivals Newton North, 44-41, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 52-51, last week to improve its record to 9-1 overall and 5-1 in the league. The Raiderettes are in second place in the league behind unbeaten Brockton.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes will host Quincy Friday at 5 o'clock, seeking their second win over the First Ladies, and Tuesday will be at Waltham at 5.

Chris Choukas, the league's topscorer, hit for 17 points against Newton North and Karen Bridges had 11 points, nine in the second quarter, before leaving with a hairline wrist fracture. Mary Holleran had eight points and Bregoli received fine efforts off the bench from Chris Donovan, Eileen Crehan and Joanna Keenan.

Although North never trailed, it didn't play one of its better games and turnovers plagued the Raiderettes throughout the game.

North led, 13-9, after a quarter as Choukas and Holleran combined for 11 points. Keenan came in early in the quarter and did excellent work.

North ran into foul trouble early in the second quarter as both Choukas and Holleran were saddled with three fouls each. But Crehan and Donovan came to play fine games. Bridges picked up the offensive slack scoring nine points before leaving with her wrist injury, which will keep her sidelined for a while.

With North leading, 24-20, at the half, Debbie Cavanaugh found her shooting touch and hit two long jumpers in crucial spots as the Raiderettes increased their lead to 36-30 after three quarters.

"Keenan, Donovan and Crehan all played great games," said Bregoli. "We will sorely miss Bridges as she is such a great player, but the girls showed true character by pulling together and giving a little extra."

Friday Choukas hit for 21 of her 27 points, including the winning free throw with eight seconds left as North came from seven points down to squeeze by Cambridge.

Cambridge took an early lead thanks to its superior rebounding. Donovan was a bright light for the Raiderettes, hitting her first three shots to help North stay close.

Trailing by seven, North went to a full-court man-to-man pressure defense and Keenan and Michelle White played the guard spots for most of the second quarter and were keys in limiting Cambridge to six points. Holleran and Cavanaugh took turns keeping the ball away from Cambridge's outstanding player, Delores Williams, holding her to six first half points. North was behind 19-17, at the half.

Both teams put on an offensive clinic in the third quarter as Williams heated up and scored 11 for Cambridge and Choukas and Holleran, combining for all of North's 35 second half points, also put on their own shooting exhibition.

Choukas had 13 and Holleran eight points.

North had a 38-36 edge going into the finale and increased it to five points. Tina West tied the game at 51 with eight seconds left for Cambridge. Choukas made a heads-up play by calling time out after the basket to allow North to set up a final play.

Holleran hit Choukas with a full-court pass and Choukas was fouled going into for a layup. She hit on one shot to pull out the win.

Cambridge had one more chance but Choukas deflected a full-court pass to Boutlier, who ran out the clock.

"The girls really pulled together after Bridges' injury and each girl dug down a little deeper and gave a bit more to make up for her absence," Bregoli said. "Keenan, White, Donovan and Crehan were especially instrumental in the two wins. Choukas and Holleran were spectacular defensively and Boutlier played her finest game of the year against Cambridge."

Gustavsen Leads Quincy To Lowell Win

Bob Gustavsen brought Lowell out of its zone defense with four quick outside baskets in the first period and the Quincy High School basketball team went on to an 89-42 victory in a Greater Boston League game.

Tom Gurney, with 19 points, and Gustavsen, with 16, paced the Presidents to a 45-18 lead at halftime and Coach Marty Finnegan cleared his bench of substitutes for the remainder of the game.

Winning the game proved a lot easier for the Quincy boys than getting home from Lowell. They arrived at the bus after the game to find a tire flattened by vandals and they didn't get to Quincy until 1:30 a.m.

ZINK SPARKS NORTH

Dave Zink, the 6-foot-5 sophomore center, scored 17 points, grabbed 32 rebounds and blocked five shots in leading the North Quincy High School basketball team to a 60-46 victory over Revere.

"Zink was tremendous," said Coach Ken Rickson, "He controlled both boards. He's only a sophomore but if we could get him to shoot a little more there wouldn't be any better."

Ted Stevenson led the scorers with 21 points as the Raiders were faced with the prospect of having to win all their remaining four games to qualify for the State Tournament.

The North Quincy lineup included: Kiley, Giachetti, Curran, Varney, forwards; Zink, center; Stevenson, D'Angelo, Greenlaw, Healey, guards.

NORTH SIX BOWS

Capt. Gary Leofanti of Quincy scored a goal and three assists but unfortunately he was playing for the Christopher Columbus High School hockey team which trampled North Quincy, 10-2.

Paul Smith scored both Raider goals less than a minute apart in the second period and goalie Phil Doten made a number of spectacular saves to keep Columbus from breaking the game open.

The North Quincy lineup included: Doten, goal; Lippens, P. Smith, defense; O'Malley, G. Smith, DeCoste, forwards; Brosnan, Connolly, Barry, Zona, Jakub, Stephensky, Doherty, Brennan, McConville, spares.

LETDOWN HURTS QUINCY

Coach Bill Hutchinson's Quincy High School hockey team suffered a letdown in the first six minutes of play in which it fell behind by five goals and went on to lose 7-3 to Met League-leading Malden.

The lost cost Quincy a chance to move to within two points of the league-leaders.

The Quincy lineup included: Westberg, goal; S. Marini, Carroll, defense; Brunstroth, Erickson, Haynes, forwards; R. Marini, Gillis, Craig, Lyons, Gilcoyne, Stuart, spares.

STREADWICK RETIRES

Blair Ames of the Quincy YMCA wrestling team won the title in the 125-pound class at the ninth annual open meet that marked the retirement of Joe Streadwick, coach of the Quincy team for the past 30 years.

Paul Mitchell, who won three and lost two matches, was awarded the Bill Fourtado Trophy as the outstanding wrestler from Quincy. His team finished third, nine points behind the winning Lawrence team.

SPORTS BITS '64

Bill DelGallo was the only North Quincy winner but the Raiders' gym team posted a 99.4-84.85 victory over Sharon to run its record to 3-0. . . Milt Schmidt, coach of the Boston Bruins, was reported to be in line to become the next coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs. . . Freshman guard Lloyd Shannon hit on seven out of eight field goal attempts in the second half to lead the Eastern Nazarene College basketball team to a 72-71 victory over Roberts Wesleyan in Canton, Ohio. . . Manager Johnny Pesky and pitchers Dick Radatz and Bill Monbouquette were head table guests at the Quincy Rotarians' annual salute to the Red Sox at the Neighborhood Club. . . Bill Martinson had nine points as the North Junior High School basketball team ended Central's six game winning streak with a 31-23 victory. . . Bill Munchiello's 13 points were not enough as St. Jerome's of Weymouth defeated Sacred Heart, 76-51, in a CYO Intermediate Division game.

Apaches Present Trophies At Banquet

The North Quincy Apaches' Youth Football League team held its annual banquet and trophy night recently at the Sons of Italy Hall.

All team members and cheerleaders received trophies.

The Apaches, who have been unbeaten in the past four years with a 39-0-3 record, won another league championship this fall under Coach Tom Carter, who received a special award from the parents for his 10 years of dedication to the league. His assistants this year were Paul Moody, Jack Brown, Billy Peters and Rick Higgins.

Danny McCarthy received the varsity's Most Valuable Player award, Chris Barry the Most Improved Player award and Brian Durgin the Unsung Hero award. Receiving all-star trophies were McCarthy, Barry, John Broadbent, Steve Miller, Jim Mulvey and Joe Shea.

The junior varsity trophies went to Ed Herman, MVP; Paul Moody, most improved, and Matt Norton, unsung hero.

Quincy Wrestlers Run Win Streak To 12

The Quincy wrestling team, the No. 1-ranked Div. I South Sectional team and apparently well on its way to a fifth successive Suburban League title, had a big week with three more wins to raise its record to 12-0.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents, who faced Scituate yesterday (Wednesday), will host North Quincy Saturday night at 8 at the Vo-Tech gym and next Wednesday will be home to Burlington at 6:30.

Last Saturday Quincy rolled over Waltham, 38-8, and Lowell, 41-14, in a tri meet at Waltham.

In the Waltham meet Dave Coulter won by major decision at 100 pounds, Joe Monahan won by decision at 114, Bill Marsden won by decision at 121, Paul Miller won by pin at 128, Joe Madden by decision at 134, John DePolo drew at 140, Darrin DeCoste won by decision at 147, Bill Rollins by decision at 157, Kevin Cabezas by decision at 169 and Jamie Gravalese by pin in the heavy-weight class.

In the Lowell meet the winners were Coulter by decision at 100, Marsden by decision at 121, Madden by pin at 134, DePolo by pin at 140, Rollins by pin at 157, Cabezas by superior decision at 169, Bob Willard by pin at 187 and Gravalese by forfeit in the heavy-weight division.

Earlier in the week the Presidents walloped Reading, 33-12, with Coulter winning by decision at 100, Matt Coby by decision at 107, Monahan by pin at 114, Mike Notarangelo by decision at 121, DePolo by decision at 140, Rollins by decision at 157, Willard by decision at 187 and Gravalese by decision in the heavyweight bout.

Rollins, Gravalese, Notarangelo, Coulter and DePolo remain undefeated.

CHECKS FOR $2,200, proceeds from the City of Presidents Cup races held in September, were recently presented to Civil Defense for the purchase of equipment. North Runners Barrett, Kennedy Undefeated

Sheila Barrett and Linda Kennedy remained undefeated in the mile and two-mile respectively last week as the North Quincy girls' track team topped Weymouth North, 51-35, to improve its record to 4-1.

Coach Lou Tozzi's Raiderettes faced Brockton Tuesday and will meet Newton North next Tuesday at 5:30 at Cambridge. Several of the girls will compete Saturday in the state coaches' meet at Harvard.

In the Weymouth North meet Barrett won the mile in 5:18, the second best time in the league this year, and Kennedy won the two-mile in 11:32, also the second best in the league. Tracey Corrigan was third in the two-mile.

Maria McGurl won the hurdles, Lisa Fitzgerald was second and Jean O'Hare third in the dash. Georgia Traficante was second and Lisa Reynolds third in the 300, Julie Alibrandi won the 600, Mary Ann Kelleher won the 1000 with Joanne Zdanowski third. Noreen Connelly was second and O'Hare third in the shot put and Traficante won the high jump at 5-2 with Fitzgerald third.

In the state coaches' meet Saturday, Barrett will run in the mile and Kennedy in the two-mile and Traficante will high jump. North also will enter mile and two-mile relay teams.

North Icemen Rack Up 2 Big Wins

North Quincy's hockey team is on a roll and last week picked up its two biggest wins in years to improve its record 3-2-1.

The Raiders, under first-year coach Kevin Jago, are unbeaten in their last three games and were solid favorites to defeat winless Cambridge Rindge and Latin last night (Wednesday). They will seek revenge for their first defeat of the year Saturday when they face Newton North at the Watertown rink at 3:30 and next Wednesday will try to avenge their other defeat when they face Quincy at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Last Saturday North defeated Brockton for the first time in four years, 5-2, at Brockton and handed the Boxers their first Suburban League loss.

"We are clicking on all eight cylinders now," said a happy Jago. "We are really playing as a team and not making the mistakes we had made earlier. Bill Cahill has been outstanding in goal, the entire defense is playing well and all lines are skating well."

Steve Dennesbeck put North on the board first in the opening period with Scott Messina assisting. It was the only goal of the period.

In the middle period Keith Smith scored twice with Dean Phillips and Dave DiCarlo assisting on each as North led, 3-0, after two.

After Brockton's Jim Peters scored on a rebound of a slapshot by Mark Peterson, North increased its margin to 5-1 on goals by Messina (from Rich Horriagan) and DiCarlo (from Glen McGilme and Phillips). Brockton scored a consolation goal with five minutes remaining.

"We lost Kevin White a fine defenseman, probably for the year and I have freshman Glen McGilme and sophomore Peter Furtado playing defense and they are doing an excellent job," said Jago.

Earlier in the week North also topped Brookline for the first time in four years, 6-1, as Cahill again was outstanding with 31 saves.

Furtado, Messina, Phillips and Horriagan scored to give the Raiders a 4-0 lead after a period and Dick Tapper added a second period goal and DiCarlo the final goal in the third period.

Smith and Messina had two assists apiece.

Earlier North had tied

Waltham, 4-4, on John McGilme's unassisted goal with 6:14 to play.

Each team scored three goals in the second period, Tapper having two of North's, both with assists for Dennesbeck, Messina had a goal and an assist and Horriagan two assists.

"Our only trouble now is penalties," Jago said. "We are having too many. We had eight at Brockton."

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

BLOWOUT TACTICS

Considering the great hazard of defective auto tires (a factor in about 15 thousand injuries and deaths last year) it's foolish to let your tires get in bad shape. However, if you experience a blowout at high speed it's too late to worry about prevention. It is then a matter of what to do to stay alive.

Made no mistake about it, a blowout is a terrifying experience. Take the case of a woman driver in Massachusetts whose right front tire blew out on a superhighway. The car bolted to the right across three lanes. She hit a curb, overcorrected and swung back over the median strip into oncoming traffic. She was killed.

In case of a blowout, maintain a superstrong grip to keep the car in a straight line. Hang on like a dying man until the car comes to a slow, safe stop. Slamming the brakes on at high speed can send you into an out-of-control spin.

McDonald Powers Squirt A's To Romp Over Dedham

Richie McDonald scored four goals and added two assists to lead Quincy's Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, to an 11-0 romp over Dedham in the quarterfinals of the qualification round of the state tournament.

Joey Fasano had two goals and Michael Baylis, Kevin Daly, Ken Staskywitz, Ronnie Last and Timmy Collins one each. Brian Zimmerman, Daly and Baylis had three assists apiece. Steve Carroll and Staskywitz two and Matt Kelly, Matt Smith, Michael Hughes and Dave Santousso one each. Goalie James Tiberio registered his sixth shutout.

Quincy topped Weymouth, 4-1, with Carroll having a goal and two assists. Last, Fasano and Collins had a goal each and Baylis, Staskywitz and Zimmerman had assists.

Last, Carroll, McDonald, Fasano and Daly each had two goals in a 13-0 breeze over Canton. Zimmerman, Collins and Santousso had goal each. Hughes had three assists, McDonald and Fasano two each and Santousso, Smith, Baylis, Carroll and Zimmerman one each. Tiberio earned his seventh shutout.

The Squirt A's are 23-2-1 overall and 15-0-1 in the South Shore Conference.

Regan, Brooks In 7th Shutouts For Squirt B's

The Quincy Squirt B hockey team continued to roll through the South Shore conference with a 5-0 win over the Scituate Seahawks.

It was the seventh shutout for goalies Freddie Regan and Richie Brooks.

The game winner was scored by Mike Lally, who played one shift at left wing and then returned to his defensive post to preserve the shutout.

Other goal scorers were Joey Bevilacqua from Jeff Freeman. Mark Kellcher from Greg Hohmann. John Witham from Bevilacqua Hohmann from Sal Mangano. Kelly Morris and Jimmy McCarthy were outstanding on defense.

In the first game of the state playdowns, Quincy bombed Medfield, 21-0.

Senior Hockey

Washington, Kane's Fowler In Wins

Washington Tap topped Kelly's Pub, 6-4, for its first win in the Quincy Youth Arena Senior Hockey League.

Kevin Craig had two goals and Mike Chenette, Rich Chenette, Paul Cornell and Zeke Gibbons one each. For Kelly's Phil DiCarlo, Jim Donovan, Frank McGinnis and Rich Ahola had the goals.

Kane's Place defeated Joe's Pub & Grub, 7-2, with Dave Peters and Dave Hurley having two goals apiece and Joe Kane, Paul Hurley and Tom Cahill one each. Frank Guest and Tom Lester scored for Joe's.

The Fowler House rolled over Esquire Neckwear, 10-1, as John Norton had four goals. Leo Graham had two and Jack Campbell, Steve DiGiovanni, Paul Macdonald and Peter Janis one each. Sean Murphy scored for Esquire.

First Ladies Upset Brookline

The Quincy girls' basketball team turned in two of its best performances last week but could get only a split as its record dropped to 1-4.

Marty Finnegan's team played Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, will play at North Quincy Friday at 5 p.m. and will host Newton North Tuesday at 5.

The First Ladies upset 10th-ranked Brookline, 46-35, led by Co-Capt. Theresa Munroe with 14 points and 16 rebounds and Co-Capt. Cindy Morrell with 10 points.

Ellen Deady had seven points and 10 rebounds and Michelle Miller had eight points, five assists and five steals. Katy Dunn, Sue Dacey and Dara Morris also made important contributions to the upset win.

Friday Quincy made an excellent showing against unbeaten and top-ranked Brookline but for the third time in four games, lost the game at the foul line, 41-34.

The teams were even on baskets but the Brookline girls had a seven-shot edge from the free throw line.

Morrell led Quincy with 10 points and nine rebounds. Miller had five points and five assists.

"The girls have been playing excellent ball but Lady Luck refuses to smile on them," Finnegan said. "In three games they have either outscored the opposition from the floor or been even, but have lost the games at the foul line."

QJC Wins 7th In Row

The Quincy Junior College basketball team won three games last week, defeating Bridgewater State College junior varsity, 81-73; Essex Aggies, 64-45; and Wentworth Institute, 76-66, to improve its overall record to 15-4 and its Greater Boston Small College Conference mark to 11-1.

The Jaguars have won seven games in a row.

"We have been consistent and played well against three different types of teams," said Coach Brian Buckley. "And two of the wins were on the road."

Against Wentworth the Quincy three-quarter court press sparked the Jaguars to some easy baskets early in the second half in building a 19-point lead. Steve Belcastro paced the attack with 22 points.

Against Essex Brian Connolly sparked QJC's defense as the Jaguars rolled to a 40-17 halftime lead. Ten players scored, led by Jim Conboy and Paul Gill with 12 points each.

In come-from-behind win over the Bridgewater State jayvees, six players scored in double figures as the Quincy team overcame a 35-33 halftime deficit to build a 21-point lead with four minutes left.

Conboy had 18 points, Belcastro 14 and Gill and Paul Forbes 12 each. Gary DiNardo and Ricky Anderson added 10 each.

After beating the Bridgewater Bears, Essex Bulls and Wentworth Leopards Buckley said, "I guess you could say the QJC Jaguars were King of the Jungle for the week."

Quincy has 11 games remaining, including four in the conference.

Fitzpatrick Holds Top, Riley Club Moves Up

Fitzpatrick Roofing held its two-point lead in the Pee Wee Division of St. Ann's Bowling League with a 3-1 victory over JDA. Chris Laforest had two goals and an assist, Jim Bryan a goal and two assists and Jim Carey an assist. Brian Kelly scored for JDA with Jeff Petrino assisting.

Runnerup Colonial Federal topped Dunkin Donuts of North Quincy, 3-1, with Paul McLellan, Derek Robinson and Mike Wood having the goals and McLellan, Robinson and Brian Wood having assists. Joel Derry scored for Donuts with Dan Duncan and Brian Campbell assisting.

Keohane's edged Ideal Elevator, 5-4, with Joey Tosone having a hat trick and David Edwards and Adam Fitzpatrick a goal each. Edwards, Fitzpatrick and Philip Johnston had assists. Scott Raptellis had two goals for Ideal and Mike Noonan and Mike Thomas one each. Noonan had three assists and Thomas and Brandon Farrell one each.

The standings: Fitzpatrick, 7-1-1; Colonial Federal, 6-2-1; Keohane's, 5-3-1; JDA, 4-5-0; Dunkin Donuts, 2-7-0; Ideal Elevator, 1-7-1.

In the Bantam Division the Riley Club moved to within two points of Plaza Olds by edging Plaza, 4-3. Bill Cappelis had a hat trick and Joe Callanan one goal. Leo McGrath had an assist. John Joseph, Bobby Climo and Jim Cahill scored for Plaza with assists for Climo and Jim Bent.

Bike 'n' Blade walloped Lydon Russell, 7-2, as Kevin Jay had a hat trick and Rick DiCarlo, Steve O'Connell, Howard Gordon and Mike Sprague one goal each. DiCarlo, O'Connell and Dan Murray had two assists apiece and Jay, Gordon, Sprague and Jim Gordon one each. Dan Robinson and Adam Swan scored for Lydon with assists for Paul Tosone and Matt Hurley.

The standings: Plaza Olds, 7-2-0; Riley Club, 6-3-0; Bike 'n' Blade, 5-4-0; Lydon Russell, 0-9-0.

Abp. Williams Hockey Having Good Season

Abp. Williams High School has one of the best hockey programs on the South Shore and both the varsity and junior varsity teams, with several Quincy players playing prominent roles, are enjoying excellent seasons.

The varsity, coached by Frank Quinn and assistant Don Marshall, has a 5-1-4 record, suffering its only loss last week to B.C. High. The Bishops handed Matignon its first loss, 2-1, last Saturday to move into first place in the Catholic Conference. It was Matignon's first conference loss in three years. That loss was also to the Bishops.

Goalie Tim O'Connell, one of six Quincy players on the squad, had an outstanding night against Matignon and had 24 saves.

The other Quincy players, most of whom came up through the Quincy Youth Hockey Association program, are forwards Dennis Croke, Dan Kelly, Brian Chase, Tim Barry and Jeff Murphy.

There are only five seniors on the varsity squad, O'Connell, Kevin Condon, Steve Cutting of Randolph, Steve Curtin of Braintree and Richard Igo of Hingham.

The Junior varsity squad, coached by Barry Cox, Brian Cox and Louis Depardo, have had an outstanding season and is breezing along with an 11-0-0 record.

The Quincy boys in the jayvees are Co-Capt. Sean McGinn, Chris Croke, brother of Dennis, Bob Galvin, Bill Glavin and Jim Milano.

Williams also has a fine freshman team, coached by Jack Edwards.

Alan Galotta is the school's athletic director, who oversees the excellent program.

Henry Adams Program Topic For Historical Society

Henry Adams will be the program topic tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at a meeting of the Quincy Historical Society at its Adams Academy Building.

The meeting is open to the public. Prof. Raymond H. Robinson of Northeastern University will speak on "The Three Historical Careers of Henry Adams." Henry Adams-historian, author and philosopher—was the most famous of the four prominent sons of Charles F. Adams, the Ambassador.

His "Mont-Saint-Michel" and "Chateau" and "The Education of Henry Adams," are American classics for which he is best remembered both here and abroad.

This topic may be interesting to Quincy area people since Henry Adams was not as well known here as his brothers because his activities were far less centered in Quincy.

Dr. Robinson was educated at Penn State University and received his doctorate at Harvard. He taught at Northwestern University before coming to Northeastern where he has been head of the History Department since 1961.

Logo Contest Judging To Be Completed Thursday

The Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission was to complete judging of its recent logo contest by today (Thursday).

Entrants will receive letters from the commission thanking them for participating and inviting them to a presentation ceremony Sunday, Feb. 27, 2 to 4 p.m. at new city hall.

From the 40 entries, four from each of the three categories (elementary, high school and college art students) were submitted to a blue ribbon panel of judges who are graphic artists from the Quincy and Boston areas.

First prize winner will receive $200; second prize, $100; and third prize, $50. Don McCarthy is contest chairman.

The program will be covered by the local media including cable TV.

The cultural commission will then use the logo to identify its activities as it begins to prepare spring and summer cultural programs.

Newly elected commission officers are former mayor and commission originator, Joseph LaRaia, President; educator and school committee member, Nicholas Veronis, vice president; president of the Woodward School's board of trustees Sandy Dennis, secretary and Beechwood Community Center board member; Gini Kurtzman, treasurer.

Town Brook House Holding Classes

Town Brook House, 45 Brackett St., Quincy Center,

Auditions Scheduled For C.P. Stage Production

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore will hold auditions Monday, Jan. 31, and Feb. 1, 7 to 9 p.m. for a stage production to be presented in the Quincy area in May.

Physically handicapped adults may audition 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School, Water St., South Quincy.

Mass. Council on the Arts and Humanities has awarded a $9,000 grant to Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore and its sponsoring agency, The Next Move Theatre of Boston, for the program.

Tom Zukauskas, associate director of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, stated, "The primary goal of the project is to provide a participatory theatre experience for physically disabled adults from the South Shore."

The program will involve six months of workshops, auditions and rehearsals that will result in a legitimate stage production.

Cable TV will tape two shows on the program, a documentary from the beginning to the end of the program, and on the finished product.

Anyone interested in participating in the program should call Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore area at 479-7443.

Julie O'Neil Winner In Oratorical Contest

Julie O'Neil was first place winner in the Norfolk County preliminary runoff of the oratorical contest of the American Legion held Sunday at Houghs Neck American Legion Post.

Stephen Epstein was runner-up. Both Miss O'Neil and Epstein were sponsored by Morrisette Legion Post of West Quincy. In third place was Rita Pandit, sponsored by the Houghs Neck Post.

They will compete in the zone contest Feb. 6 at Boston City Council Chambers.

Each contestant spoke on different aspects of the United States Constitution. The Norfolk County competition was conducted by Norfolk County Chaplain Ted Sprissler.

Judges were Norfolk County Past Commanders Edgar B. Foster and Robert Sprissler, along with Frank Finlay, a local businessman. Joseph Sprissler was timekeeper.

Massachusetts State finals will be held March 6 at Newton, with winners continuing on the regional contest.

NQHS Music Parents To Meet Feb. 1

WEEK OF: JANUARY 27

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

You see all sides of all situations - It's a hard week for making choices. Friends support your most offbeat schemes. Relatives go out of their way to rearrange your schedules.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Change of scene is probably better than a rest - and provides you with new sources of inspiration. Members of the opposite sex give you more respect - and more affection.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Truest friends help you over a personal hurdle - but only if you request assistance. Practical tasks rather than creative jobs are what you do best right now.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

People who have been inaccessible are now at your beck and call - take advantage of the situation. Workload diminishes, but builds again before you even realize it.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Lucky cycle continues till Monday - it's a key period for starting major jobs. Extra time required in looking after the welfare of favorite friends and relatives.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

People who have been inaccessible are now at your beck and call - take advantage of the situation. Workload diminishes, but builds again before you even realize it.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Changes are happening within the home, signalling a lively year for domestic matters. Good time to resume recently dropped project. Watch out for, lazy streak!

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

By being less possessive you can improve a tense relationship. Weekend activities can be more physically demanding than thought. Be wary of get-rich-quick programs.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Be meticulous when reviewing documents, and retain copies of all papers that bear your signature. Joint ventures are encouraged, but only if you know your partner's motives.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Thursday-Friday encourage academic expansion. Weekend accents shopping finds. Mystery person is revealed by Wednesday. New information answers a financial query.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Financial gains are spread over the week, but don't announce your fortunes to the world. Good period for job hunting; make sure your approach suits the position in question.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

A one-time business problem can resurface, but family is ready to help out. Loved one wants a little pampering. Friend's motives are nobler than they initially appear.

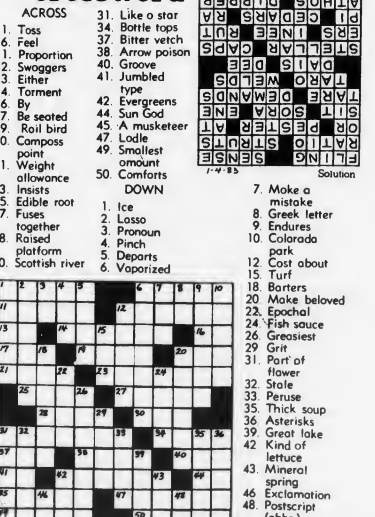

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Freedom-loving, a humanitarian, idealistic and hard to pin down. Ability to adapt helps you over an unpredictable late-winter period. Summer months offer a series of financial successes based on your creative expertise.

BORN THIS WEEK

January 27th, actress Donna Reed; 28th, actor Paul Newman; 29th, actor John Forsythe; 30th, actor Gene Hackman; 31st, actress Suzanne Pleshette; February 1st, actor Sherman Hemsley; 2nd, actor Gale Gordon.

That the revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows:

In Chapter 2, "Administration", Article 1, "In General", insert immediately after Section 6, "Execution of Leases, Conveyances, etc., in behalf of City," The following new section:

Section 6A. Selection Procedure for the Award of Certain Contracts for Design Services.

The Mayor is hereby authorized and directed to adopt in writing, prior to publication requesting applications, a selection procedure as required by Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 7, Section 30L, as from time to time in effect, for the award of such contracts for design services as are subject to said statute. Such adoption shall be by the issuance of rules and regulations, the content of which shall be guided, to the extent the Mayor deems to be in the best interests of the City, by the guidelines published pursuant to paragraph (b) of said statute by the Designer Selection Board of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the extent such guidelines are from time to time in force and effect. Such rules and regulations may be amended by the Mayor from time to time as he deems to be in the best interests of the City; such amendment may include without limitation the repeal, revocation or rescinding of individual rules and regulations, or portions thereof. The Mayor shall file with the City Clerk all rules and regulations and amendments thereof which he shall issue pursuant to this Section 6A.

City Gets $271,000 State Sewer Grant

Quincy has received a construction grant of $271,133 from the state for a project involving the planning and design or relief interceptor sewers, a pump station and a sewer system evaluation survey.

The remaining cost of the projects, $52,427, will be picked up by the city.

The grant, which will be administered by the State Division of Water Pollution Control, is made possible by the adoption by the city of a sewer user charge required by the state and federal governments.

The sewer system evaluation survey will be conducted in the Houghs Neck section.

Commissioner Anthony D. Cortese of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering said work under the grant will locate sources and estimate inflow in portions of the sanitary sewer collection.

The design study will focus on the reduction of sewerage overflows and surface water pollution the presently occurs.

QHA Approves $1.4 Million For 24 Family Units

The Quincy Housing Authority has given the go-ahead to funding loan plans for $1,400,217 to construct 24 new family scattered unit residential dwellings on Water St., South Quincy and Winter St., Quincy Point.

The project which has been in the planning stages for three and a half years will consist of 20 units on Winter St. and four on Water St.

John Comer, QHA executive administrator, said the QHA is ready to pass papers for the property on which the 24 units will be built.

Teachers Vote Green Light QEA Head To Call 'Work-To-Rule' Soon

Herman (Hank) Pasquarella, president of the Quincy Education Association, said Tuesday he will implement a "work-to-rule" policy for the city's teachers "very shortly" in an effort to break a deadlock in contract negotiations.

The membership of the teachers' union voted Tuesday afternoon to authorize Pasquarella to call a work-to-rule at his own discretion, although the teachers said they preferred to call it a "work-to-contract" policy.

Work-to-rule means that the teachers will perform only those duties that are specified in the contract and eschew such traditional but unpaid extra curricular activities as chaperoning dances and writing college recommendations.

"I will do it with great reluctance," said Pasquarella, "but I will implement work to rule. The law leaves teachers little room to maneuver in contract negotiations. If teachers don't get paid for it they won't do it."

Pasquarella said contract negotiations have foundered over the phase "subject to funding," proposed by the School Committee as a condition of granting raises to the teachers.

The phrase "subject to funding" was included in a 1979 contract negotiated by the QEA and the city did not pay the raise, a move that was backed by the court.

"We will not accept a multi-year contract with subject to funding language," said Pasquarella.

"If the two members (Joan Picard and Mary Collins) of the negotiating committee are bankrupt of new ideas and have nowhere to go, may be they should resign and allow two others to bring in a fresh approach."

Pasquarella, along with Mary Curtin of the union negotiating team and Robert Wilson of the Citywide Parents Council met with Mayor Francis X. McCauley Tuesday morning.

"The major part of the discussion was 'work to rule,'" said McCauley. "I strongly urged Mr. Pasquarella and the QEA not to do that. It was done in the past and it did not solve any problems."

The mayor said he also pointed out that, in the third year of Proposition 2½, "it is difficult to predict where we will be at during the life of the contract when we don't know what our financial situation will be."

'Interest Free Payment' To Group $220,000 Advance Cited In Ouster Of Lowenhagen

By TOM HENSHAW

Atty. Lawrence F. O'Donnell, chairman of the City Hospital Board of Managers, said Tuesday one of the reasons behind the ouster of Director James E. Lowenhagen involves a $220,000 interest-free advance payment made to a group of anesthesiologists.

"We are not saying it was illegal," said O'Donnell. "It's just the mere fact of doing it and the way it was done."

O'Donnell said the advance payment to the group is one of several reasons for Lowenhagen's ouster that will be listed in a statement by the Board of Managers scheduled for release late this week or early next week.

He explained the matter like this:

"On Aug. 2, 1982, a contract was signed by Quincy City Hospital and an anesthesiologist group wherein $220,000 was given as an advance to the group without interest. This was not brought to the attention of the Board of Managers until December.

"The dates of the advances were $110,000 on Aug. 6, four days after the contract was signed, and $110,000 on Sept. 15.

"We checked the industry and we found that this is not standard procedure nor is it something that we would have approved. There is a serious question that payments of other people's money can be made in that fashion."

Richard Corner, a member of the Board of Managers and chairman of its Finance Committee, said he "discovered the advance payment during a committee meeting in December.

"It is improper no matter what the contract with Hospital Corp. of America says," he said. "The Board of Managers is supposed to be the watchdogs of the mayor at the hospital. I look at this as a circumvention of that."

"Public monies were given away. The $220,000 or $30,000 in interest that the $220,000 would have drawn could have been used to purchase a new piece of life-saving equipment for the hospital."

"All of us on the board are concerned about the well-being of the City Hospital. We hated to see it come out in this fashion. But we couldn't let this thing go."

It was disclosed last week that the Board of Managers, after a Jan. 18 meeting in executive session, had asked Hospital Corp. of America, which operates City Hospital for the city, to remove Lowenhagen, who had been director for less than a year.

HCA complied, announcing in a belated press release dated Jan. 28 that Lowenhagen will be transferred April 1 to regional headquarters in Wellesley to coordinate HCA's takeover of a hospital in Newark, N.J.

Michael D. Kitchen, district vice president for HCA, called the transfer a "promotional opportunity" for Lowenhagen.

Meanwhile, City Councilors Joanne Condon and John J. Lydon Jr. formally requested an opinion from City Solicitor William Golden on the legality of executive sessions held by the Board of Managers on Dec. 21 and Jan. 18, at which Lowenhagen was discussed.

Golden said his office, which he will leave on Feb. 7, is in the process of obtaining factual information on the meeting and will have an opinion soon.

But O'Donnell said there is no doubt in his mind that the meetings were legal under the state's Open Meeting Law.

"James Lowenhagen was not an employee of Quincy City Hospital but an employee of Hospital Corp. of America and therefore not entitled to the 48 hours notice given to employees," he said.

"The very executive session that we are talking about (Jan. 18) was requested by Hospital Corp. of America in a letter to me stating that it would like an executive session to go over the matter. Michael Kitchen was present at the meeting."

O'Donnell said a full

Mayor To Meet With Unions On 'Lean Times'

Mayor Francis X. McCauley plans to meet with representatives of the city employees' union tomorrow (Friday) to "clear the air" on his reported statement of "lean times" ahead for municipal workers.

McCauley was quoted in the Patriot Ledger last week as warning that workers should brace for lean times following the city's $12.1 million court loss to General Dynamics in a tax abatement case.

Mary Ellen Wade, chairwoman of the Quincy City Employees Union, in a letter to McCauley, said the story "seems to indicate that you believe city employees should bear the burden of that unfortunate decision."

"It is our reaction that this is a community problem that all citizens must share," she went on.

"However, we do not seek to debate the issues in the newspapers but prefer to discuss them with you face-to-face and hopefully work cooperatively toward a solution based on broad community support and shared responsibility."

The Friday meeting will take place during a scheduled bargaining session with the employees' union that is to start at 1:30 p.m. but McCauley said he will not take part in the negotiations.

"I was not happy with the story myself," said McCauley. "The headline ('Mayor warns workers')"

Condon Says:

Decline In Police Calls After 1 A.M. Bar Closings

Ward Councillor Joanne Condon, who led the drive last year to roll back Quincy bar closing hours from 2 to 1 a.m., presented the License Board with police statistics Tuesday backing up her stand.

Mrs. Condon submitted a copy of the police statistics on liquor establishment calls after midnight for November and December, 1982, and for calls in November and December of 1981.

"There were five calls in November of 1982 as opposed to 23 calls in November of 1981 to establishments that had closed at 2 a.m.," stated Mrs. Condon.

JOANNE CONDON

"And there were seven calls in December of 1982 as opposed to 23 calls in December of 1981 to the same establishments.

"There has been a dramatic decline in calls which is obviously due to the decision of the Board of License Commissioners to roll back the closing hour from 2 a.m. to 1 a.m.," Mrs. Condon said.

Floating Restaurant Planned For Boston Marina

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Quincy residents should be able to enjoy a shipboard meal on a floating restaurant in the spring in North Quincy.

docked near the burned-out Port O'Call Restaurant in the Boston Harbor Marina. It will be operated as a restaurant with the Port O'Call's Common Victualer and all alcoholic license. If all goes according to schedule, the ship should be in place and ready for business by April 1, according to Atty. Richard Barry who represented applicant Gordon A. Robins, manager. Barry told the board that the Wanamaker, currently docked at 310 Congress St. near the Children's Museum in Boston and operated as a restaurant, has two interior decks and one exterior deck topside for dining and lounge areas. He said seating capacity is about 200 people for the Wanamaker which Barry said is not considered a vessel by the Coast Guard because it is not equipped for the high seas.

Barry said it would be considered a building and would be subject to requirements of the Quincy fire, police and other departments.

Explaining that negotiations were still going on, Barry did not give a price for the Wanamaker which he said will be towed to the Marina.

Former Mayor Walter Hannon of the Boston Harbor Marina said the pier area would have a tent and would be used to serve customers seasonally.

"This is not just going to be a booze boat," said

Hannon. "It will be a good restaurant."

Hannon said that extensive renovations are planned with regard to interior decorating and lighting on the iron-hulled ship.

City Clerk John Gillis and Fire Chief Edward Barry said the restaurant would be an asset to the city.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald agreed.

"It looks like a fairly classy operation," said MacDonald.

If the license is not exercised within nine months, it will be null and void.

Wollaston Woman, 76 Foils Flam Flam Try

Police reported an apparent attempt to flim flam Mrs. Hilda Lester, 76, of Wollaston failed last week when Mrs. Lester did what every citizen should do in that situation.

She checked the story before she bought it.

Police said Mrs. Lester, widow of a Quincy Water Department worker, received a telephone call from a man who identified himself as John Smith of the Water Department.

Her late husband's friends at the Water Department were planning to honor him with a plaque, he told her. Would she cooperate?

Mrs. Lester checked with the Water Department. No plaque. And no John Smith had ever worked for the Water Department within memory.

More Power Sought For Rent Board

By TOM HENSHAW
The Quincy Tenants Organization, deeply involved in fighting rent increases, is preparing a rough draft of legislation that would give subpoena powers to the Rent Grievance Board.

Atty. Diana Gondek, president of the tenants' group, said the draft should be ready for submission to the City Council in about a month.

"Hopefully," she said, "the Council will study and review the draft and form a committee, including tenants and landlords, to work out something that will be acceptable to all."

Two of the powers being considered for the Rent Grievance Board would be to compel landlords to appear at board hearings and to order them to bring their books.

"They are telling us how they suffer financially as owners of apartment houses," said Gondek. "If they don't have to show us their books then we just have to take the increases."

She noted that at a recent Rent Grievance Board hearing requested by tenants of Presidents Arms apartments, for whom she acts as attorney, the management firm did not show up.

"These two subpoena powers are important to start with," said Gondek.

Tenants of Presidents Arms finally got their meeting with agents of Presidents Realty Trust in the past couple of weeks but they reported no progress to the Rent Grievance Board last week.

Management stood firm on rent increases of up to $110 a month, said Gondek.

although they did agree to make some repairs to the building at the tenants' request.

Jane Reikard, executive secretary of the Rent Grievance Board, said she plans to send a letter of reprimand to the management firm and letters to elected officials asking their help.

"The tenants feel that they have their backs against the wall," said Reikard. "We are going to have to take matters into our own hands and tell elected officials how we feel."

"The tenants feel there should be some sort of control over these rent increases."

Both Gondek and Reikard stopped short of using the words "rent control."

2 Board Members Regret Baharian Departure

At least two members of the Planning Board have expressed regret over the coming loss of the Rev. Bedros Baharian as its chairman, a post he has held for 17 years.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announced last week that Baharian had sent him a letter asking that he not be reappointed to the another five-year term on the board.

"I would say we all have pretty much the same feeling," said board member

John Barron. "We have lost a valuable resource in Mr. Baharian. The guy has been around 17 years. These are things cities should hang onto."

"The Board is upset," said member Robert Foley. "He has been the Board's spokesman for years. He has more understanding of what is going on than anyone else I know."

McCauley denied a report that, shortly before Baharian sent him the letter, the mayor had called him and told him that he would not be reappointed. Baharian said it was his idea to bow out.

"I believe it was a matter that he did not think McCauley would keep him so he did not push to keep the job," said Foley. "The guy has got a lot of class. He did not want to put McCauley in a bad position."

"I think if he was asked he would have stayed for another year at least. I would like to have seen it."

"I know he (Baharian) was trying to wind down his affairs," said Barron. "But what, if anything, went on behind the scenes, I don't know. I'm not as tuned in as I used to be."

Cumberland Farms Won't Use Residential Streets For Trucks

In response to area complaints the Cumberland Farms area supervisor told the License Board Tuesday that delivery trucks will no longer use residential streets behind the 610 Hancock St. store.

Robert Clark of Cumberland Farms said that deliveries will now be made on Hancock St. He also said he will see about locking the dumpster at night to help keep the area clean.

Councillor Stephen McGrath told the board that delivery trucks using the residential streets honked their horns if there were cars parked in their way, struck trees, and ran over the sidewalk cracking it.

Several area residents attended the meeting to back up those claims.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that if Cumberland Farms damaged the sidewalk and trees, they should pay damages.

McGrath said that he would speak to the city solicitor about that possibility.

The matter was continued for six weeks.

ALL INSURANCE AGENTS ARE ALIKE, RIGHT?

WRONG! The way we see it, there are two basic types: There's the kind who works for an insurance company... and the kind who works for you, like the BIG GUYS at KALAFATAS INSURANCE.

Your BIG I Agent is different. He's someone you can get to know. In fact, you may already know him, as a fellow member of your PTA, church or civic group. He may even live next door to you!

Your BIG I Agent doesn't work for a company. He lives and works in the community he serves, helping his neighbors pick the right coverage of the right price, choosing the best from several strong, reliable companies. And, he keeps his customers informed on changing economic factors that effect their coverage needs.

So, if you think an insurance agent is a company salesman who calls once a year at renewal time, talk to the BIG I GUYS at KALAFATAS INSURANCE. You'll see that there is a BIG difference!

Train Children Early To Stay Out Of Trouble

The time to start training your children to stay out of trouble is when they are in the high chair.

It's never too early to tell them what not to do and who to avoid.

Fundamental rules should be impressed on a child, along with a sense of the dangers involved. For example, any approach by a stranger should be reported to you or to a school authority immediately.

A child should know his home address and phone number. He should know details of where his father and mother work, and where nearby relatives live.

Very young children should carry identification cards with home address and telephone number clearly indicated.

A child should be taught the following basic rules and guidelines for staying out of trouble:

- Do not accept favors from strangers.
- Never stand close to a car of a stranger who asks directions. Stand back several feet from it.
- Never hitchhike or accept a ride from a stranger.
- If a stranger takes a friend for a ride, write down the registration number of the car. Use chalk or a stone or scratch it in the dirt with a stick.
- Do not play alone in alleys or near empty or deserted buildings or in any out of the way place.
- Don't go into any buildings or rooms with strangers for any reason.
- Teen-agers must be told to avoid parking in deserted "lovers' lanes" or other secluded places.

Collins '99% Sure'

School Committee Vice-chairwoman Mary Collins has just about decided to run for the Ward 6 City Council seat.

Close friends say she's "99 per cent sure" she will challenge incumbent Joanne Condon this fall.

But Mrs. Collins, herself, isn't officially confirming or denying the report.

"I'm 99 per cent sure what I'm going to do," she says.

"But, she adds: "I'm not saying what I'm 99 per cent sure it will be.

Political observers can read whatever they want into that and they'll have to wonder awhile longer.

"I'm not making any announcement until March or April," she says.

But friends insist she's going to make the run — unless something unforeseen changes her mind in the next couple of months.

A Condon-Collins battle could steal the election spotlight this year. The mayor's race, which is usually the big bout, looks like the big sleep instead.

As the weeks fly by, it looks more and more like Mayor Frank McCauley will go unchallenged — at least as far as a name opponent is concerned. He could, of course, get some token or plain nuisance opposition.

Mrs. Collins no doubt would give Mrs. Condon a good run. She's a proven vote getter who topped both the preliminary and final School Committee fields last year. She also was No. 1 in the final race in 1978 — a year when there was no School Committee preliminary election.

COLLINS

Mrs. Condon, of course, has her legion of followers and is an effective campaigner.

It could be quite a battle.

"A real political hair-puller," as one observer puts it.

CONDON

TOM GILMARTIN, the fearless forecaster, has polished off his crystal ball and is having another go at it in the prediction department. On the national scene he says (1) Sen. Edward Kennedy will change his mind and run for President in 1984 after a convention stalemate. (2) President Ronald Reagan and Vice President George Bush won't be so close at the end of this year. (3) The price of eggs, milk, canned goods and poultry will drop.

SMILE DEPT: City Clerk John Gillis, interviewed on "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems' Ch. 3 was asked if anything humorous has happened to him in his long tenure. Gillis recalled this one:

"I had a lady of foreign descent come in about 10 years ago. She said, 'Johnny, everybody tells me you're a good boy.' I said, 'I hope so!' and we kept talking and she said 'I got a little favor.' She's a lady 64. She says, 'I want you to change my birth certificate.' I said, 'What's the problem?' She says, 'I want to be 65 for social security.' I said, 'I wish I could help you but you're only 64.' And she says, 'They always told me you were no good.'

A 'Thank You' For Handicapped Parking Help

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the officers and membership of The Disabled American Veterans, Department of Massachusetts, we wish to thank your newspaper for the cooperation we received with reference to the handicapped parking.

We have been surveying many shopping centers and found the spaces set aside for the handicapped parking were being used by the handicapped person or were vacant.

It is through newspapers like yours that we are able to help the handicapped, so they will have a place to park.

It was through your paper that we were able to alert the public as to the importance of the handicapped spaces; and through your paper, we would like to thank your readers for their observance of the handicapped parking spaces.

Gillis Still Thinking, But It Looks Like 'No' On Mayor Run

City Clerk John Gillis says he is still considering a run for mayor and will announce his decision sometime before Feb. 10.

He indicated that the decision will be "no."

Gillis, appearing on the interview show "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems Channel 3, said he has weighed the decision "very heavily."

"I've talked to many people in the city of Quincy," he said. "There has been a certain amount of favorable comment. But my prime reason for thinking this over so heavily is my family."

"Anybody who runs for political office should have his family united behind him. I've talked to my children and my wife and we'll come to a decision within two weeks. If they think I should run, I will."

But Gillis also described as "fairly close" to the mark a column written by Henry Bosworth in The Quincy Sun Jan. 20 predicting that Gillis would not run.

The longtime City Clerk said he has considered a run for mayor because "I think I could do things for the city the present mayor is not doing."

"My philosophies differ from his," he said. "I believe that government should start things rolling. The momentum should come from government. I don't think the present mayor believes that."

Gillis said he feels the present mayor, Francis X. McCauley, can be beaten.

"I think anybody is vulnerable if you get the right candidate," he said. "I think anybody has an opportunity to be mayor of this city if they can bring their plans and ideas over and the people accept it."

Candidates should make a decision whether or not to run by the middle of March, he said.

Gillis said that if he were mayor he would approve the controversial East-West Connector in downtown Quincy, which was rejected by Mayor McCauley.

"I think that was a devastating blow to the economy of downtown Quincy," said Gillis. "That was one place where we could have had a new start and new development."

"It's easy to say, because I'm not the mayor, but I think I'd boost and complement our police force by adding men to the department. Everybody knows crime on the streets is rampant."

Gillis said he disagrees with Mayor McCauley's decision not to reappoint the Rev. Bedros Baharian to the Planning Board, even though Baharian had requested that he not be appointed.

"He is the catalyst that has started much of the building in the city of Quincy," he said. "If I were mayor I would definitely refuse his resignation and hope that he'd stay on. In fact, I'd beg him to stay on."

Gillis said he also disagrees with the concept of validated parking that McCauley plans to introduce into the municipal parking areas in downtown Quincy.

"I don't know how it will be policed," he said. "I think the merchants will have a lot of problems with it."

"Saying I park in the Ross parking area for instance, I go into Remicks and I go across the street to Sawyers and I go into Caradonna's. Who's going to pay that 20 cents? Remicks? Sawyers? Caradonna's?"

"I don't believe a merchant should pay for anybody's parking to shop in a store in Quincy. They're taxed enough."

Gillis was interviewed by a panel of Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun, Herb Fontaine of WJDA and Ray McEachern of The Patriot Ledger.

Deegan Sees Tax Rate Cut From $53.80

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. told a Lions Club luncheon at the Fox and Hounds Grill that he hopes to be able to reduce Quincy's tax rate from last year's $53.80 because of the city's current favorable financial position.

He said the city has more than $1 million in reserve in the Excess and Deficiency fund, including $200,000 from increased hospital receipts and $371,000 more in state aid than was expected.

The following day, Deegan submitted to the City Council a record high $13,220,716.59 budget for 1953, an increase of $573,414 over 1952 which was actually more than offset by a boost of $654,000 in expected receipts.

'WOLLASTON MAYOR' DIES

Chester H. Smith, whose behind-the-scenes political power earned him the title "Mayor of Wollaston," died at his retirement home in Orleans at the age of 66. His daughter, Marjorie, was the wife of Howard D. Johnson, the restaurateur.

SNUG HARBOR ADDITION

City Manager Deegan asked the City Council for authority to appoint an architect to design a 12-room, $430,000 addition to the Snug Harbor School, which opened in September and already was projected to be overcrowded by September, 1957.

'RACE OF ANEMICS'

Sen. Charles W. Hedges denounced the state meals tax for making the price of food in restaurants so prohibitive that people are not ordering red meat and thus producing a "race of anemics."

McCauley Hopeful On Future Federal Aid

Mayor Francis X. McCauley returned from three days in Washington hopeful that major items in federal aid to Quincy will continue as before.

"The Community Development Block Grants, from which the city receives about $2,050,000 a year, appear to be at least level funded," said the mayor.

Little change is expected in the federal revenue sharing funds too. The city annually receives $2 million with which to supplement city funding of the Fire and Police Departments.

There is a lot of Urban Development Action Grant money available, said McCauley, but the economic conditions in the country have lessened the flow of private matching funds.

The mayor was accompanied to the mid-winter meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors by aide Arthur Foley, Planning Director James Lydon and City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath. They returned Friday.

Lydon said one of the facets of the trip that interested him most was a meeting with the Department of Health and Human Services on federal reimbursements for city cost of administration federal aid programs.

Lydon said he is putting together a plan for federal approval that would enable the city to deduct administrative costs from the grant and put the money into the general fund.

"This would be a receipt and thus could be taken off the tax levy," he said.

McCauley was a member of the Community Development, Housing and Economic Development Committee of the Conference.

The Quincy group also visited the White House where Edward Hickey, brother of Atty. William Hickey, legal counsel to the Quincy Police Department, is an aide to the President.

They had lunch at the White House, but not with President Reagan, who, said McCauley, was lunching with President Mubarak of Egypt at the time.

Ed Hickey, said the mayor, was the aide who arranged Reagan's brief pub crawl at the Elre Pub in Dorchester during his Boston visit. Hickey is a native of the area.

Mayor To Meet With Unions On 'Lean Times'

(Cont'd from Page 1) indicates a strident attitude toward the unions. This is not so at all.

"I want to talk to them about it. I want to clear the air on the subject."

In her letter to the mayor, Wade said members of the union also "are concerned about the prolonged contract negotiations that have gone on for a year now."

"City and school employees have approached the bargaining table with a moderate attitude because of the 'tight' fiscal situation," she said.

"While most neighboring communities with similar fiscal restraints have settled their contracts, Quincy seems reluctant to come to grips with employees modest and legitimate needs.

"While city and school employees are supportive of your efforts to put the city on sound fiscal footing, we are also entitled to be fairly compensated as the providers of service to the public."

PREVENTING HOME FIRES

Does a fire in your home fall into the "it can't happen to me" category?
Well, tragically, it can and does happen to families like yours every day. But if you're alert to the dangers,
it doesn't have to.

To help prevent home fires, the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) has just published a new 20-page booklet, "A Study of One- and Two-Family Dwelling Fires," that details how fire habits, safety precautions, evacuation plans, and living conditions can determine whether a home is fireproof and whether a family can survive a fire if one should start.

According to the NFPA,
the most common causes for sudden outbreaks of fire in private dwellings are smoking (most often in bed), poorly maintained electrical wiring, faulty heaters, and flammable liquids. Ways to eliminate these hazards are outlined in the booklet which can be obtained from the NFPA Publications Sales Department, 470 Atlantic Ave.,

Boston, Mass. 02210.

'You And Me, Baby' At S.S. YMCA

The Quincy and Community Services Divisions of the South Shore YMCA will introduce a new wellness and exercise program for mothers-to-be, new mothers and their infants beginning the week of Feb. 7.

The program, called "You and Me, Baby," is a medically approved exercise program.

Divided into three separate classes, it is set up as a series to take mothers-to-be through pregnancy to the baby's first birthday. Each class is an eight-week course.

Prenatal and postnatal classes are held twice a week for an hour each class. Baby classes meet once a week for a half hour.

Prenatal class is a proven safe isometric / isotonic exercise program for pregnant women two to eight months pregnant.

Postnatal class is a special cardiovascular exercise program to get recently delivered moms back into shape with emphasis on areas of the body stressed by pregnancy.

Fifteen minutes of each class is spent teaching baby exercises to moms and their babies, newborns to 3 months.

Baby class is for parent(s) and their 4 to 12 month old babies which helps reinforce proper techniques in sitting, crawling, standing and walking. The program also provides learning songs for each exercise and basic tumbling.

Prenatal classes are held Mondays - Wednesdays, 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. at the South Shore YMCA and East Congregational Church, Jackson Square, Weymouth.

Postnatal classes will be held at the South Shore YMCA Mondays-Wednesdays, 9:30-10:30 a.m. and at Trinity Church, Broad St., Weymouth, 10-11 a.m.

Baby classes are held at the South Shore YMCA Mondays-Wednesdays, 11-11:30 a.m., and at Trinity Church in Weymouth, Tuesdays - Thursdays, 11:15 - 11:45 a.m.

If parents are registering for the Weymouth Baby Class, as an option they may enroll their infants in a Water Babies Swim instruction program following the Baby Class, at the MDC Pool. Pre-registration and a fee is required for each class.

For further information, contact Anne Rosa at the South Shore YMCA. 479-8500.

Workshops For Teens At H.N. Center

The South Shore Council for Children is sponsoring a series of free workshops for teenagers beginning Feb. 7 at the Houghs Neck Community Center.

Workshops will be held Thursdays 3:30 - 5 p.m. until March 24.

The workshops presented by professionals in the area, will include aerobics, dieting, alcohol awareness, dating and friendship, make-up and fashion, ways to communicate with parents and tips on finding a first job.

They will be geared toward young teens of middle school age.

"We wanted to do something positive for teens" explains Maureen Sullivan, committee chairperson. "So much of what you hear about teens is negative."

The committee surveyed area teens to find out what types of workshops they'd be interested in attending.

"The focus is on helping teens build a positive self image, but we also wanted them to have an enjoyable afternoon", remarks committee member Ann McFadd.

For more information about the workshops or council, please call 848-6418.

Program For Alcoholics' Daughter

New Child Care Center Open At QJC

Dr. Linda Wilson, Quincy Junior College Dean of Students announces the official opening of the first QJC Child Care Center.

"This is another step that the college is taking to make it easier for people with children to attend college" she said. It is part of the college's mission to provide mechanisms for adults to return to school.

"For a number of years mothers of young children had to postpone their plans to further their education until their children were older. No longer.

"QJC has responded to the requests of our returning students" added Alicia Coletti, Women's Center Director and Child Care liaison.

"A special thanks goes to Quincy Mayor Francis X. McCauley who has assisted the College in securing space at the Kennedy Health Center on Hancock St.

which is within walking distance of the college," Dr. Wilson said.

"Without the support of the Mayor, the college would have had a difficult time in being able to open the Center this semester."

Students now will be able to leave their children at the Child Care Center while they attend classes at QJC, whether that be for three hours or 15 hours a week. Children from 2 years, 9 months to 6 are eligible at a cost of $2 an hour. Financial aid assistance is available for those eligible. The Child Care Center will be open from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., Mondays through Fridays.

Quincy Junior College is still taking applications for

A not-so-hidden free offer for smart money managers.

It's not every year you can start off with a bonus.

For a limited time, Quincy Savings is giving everyone who opens a new Individual Retirement account an exciting three-part bonus.

Here's what you get; if you act now.

- A full year's subscription to Kiplinger's Changing Times magazine.
- A helpful 184 page book called "How to Get More for Your Money"; and a
- "You and Your Taxes" booklet.

All told, this bonus package is an $18 retail value, a package that's yours absolutely free if you open an IRA at Quincy Savings before April 15, 1983. So act now.

You can open a variable rate IRA for as little as $100 or a fixed rate IRA for just $500.

Whenever you have the money, you can make additional contributions in any amount until you reach the maximum tax deduction allowed. There's no service charge and your account is fully insured.

You probably know why it's sensible to have an Individual Retirement Account. And you may well know all about the tax-saving benefits — not to mention the vast amount of money you can accumulate before you actually retire — with an IRA. But if you need more facts, just call 471-3500 or fill out and mail the coupon and we'll send you a free folder with an application.

To open your IRA, stop by our nearest office. The sooner you open your IRA the sooner you'll receive your free bonus and start saving taxes, too.

LET'S CLEAR THE AIR

The Quincy Education Association and the School Committee are entering the fifteenth month of negotiations with little progress made.

Admittedly, the Quincy Education Association, the teachers' union, is negotiating for a salary increase. It is well known that the Quincy School Committee has offered the teachers a 2% raise for the year 1982-83. This 2% raise is offered in spite of the fact that other cities and towns on the South Shore have offered their teachers 6% and 7% raises. The Quincy School Committee says a 2% salary increase is justified because the Quincy School Department has financial problems that other South Shore communities are not suffering. WHY is certainly an appropriate question to ask.

But, wait a minute, There is something more pressing that is the source of the stalemate between the teachers and the School Committee: "subject to funding" is its name.

In 1979 the School Committee insisted that the teachers accept a 5% salary increase subject to funding. The teachers never got the raise. The teachers went to court. The court ruled that cities could not be forced to pay subject to funding raises.

Now, the Quincy School Committee insists that the teachers sign another contract that is subject to funding. The teachers have refused to accept subject to funding raises in any future contracts. The School Committee wants to give the teachers a salary increase but not pay for the increase . . . sort of "eating your cake and having it too"!

The teachers would be proud to sign a contract with the School Committee if the School Committee will guarantee that its signature is binding, but it wasn't binding in 1979 and who is to say it will be now.

The teachers want a raise that is guaranteed. If the School Committee has money for only one year, then let's get down to business with a one year contract. Let the School Committee negotiate what it can guarantee. Is there a union person who would settle for less?

Good Shepherd Members To Attend Lutheran Gathering

Six Quincy and Braintree residents will be among the 1,000 Lutherans expected to gather in Hartford, Conn., Feb. 4-5 in the largest-ever gathering of Lutherans in New England.

Expected to attend are Pastor Larry Peterson, Karin Peterson, Pat Johnson, Marcia Larsen, Johanne Smith, Quincy, and Lorraine Blake, Braintree, of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, North Quincy.

This will be the first gathering of the four Lutheran denominations in the six New England states.

Members of the American Lutheran Church the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches and the Lutheran Church in America, which have voted to merge by 1988, will be joined by members of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod for the two-day event.

Titled "Together for Growth", the gathering includes workshops, panel discussions, and worship services celebrated in St. Joseph's Cathedral of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Hartford.

Church historian, the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, Chicago, Ill., church growth expert; the Rev. Ivle Schaller, Naperville, Ill.; and Lutheran bishops from Minnesota and Wisconsin are among the dozen luminaries slated to lead the eight workshops and three worship services.

"This is a precedent-setting event. We have never had so many national Lutheran leaders in New England at one time," points out "Together for Growth" planner, Pastor Jack Stevens of Natick.

"We hope that the Lutherans who gather in Hartford will not only sense unity, but also alert New Englanders to the fact that we're here," Stevens said.

"Even though we are the largest Protestant denomination world-wide, here in New England we're a religious minority that can be almost invisible!"

Those traveling to the Hartford area will be hosted overnight by local Lutheran families to encourage the fellowship of "our growing Lutheran unity and mission together," said the event's general chairperson, the Rev. Leslie Swenson of Needham.

The event, a year in the planning, marks the midpoint of a five-year stewardship and evangelism campaign among Lutherans in New England.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from Quincy Cavanaugh Chapter 79, Disabled American Veterans, to conduct a Forget-Me-Not Drive May 13, 14, 20 and 21. There is to be no soliciting at intersections.

- Granted a request from the Webster-Point PTA to hold a field day Saturday, May 21, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Point Webster Complex, 110 Lancaster St. The license is subject to approval by the school department. A copy of insurance forms for rides at the event is to be submitted to the board.

- Continued for two weeks a request from Westminster Realty Trust for a lodging house license for 191 Burgin Parkway. Council president John Lydon requested that applicant Daniel B. Dowling meet with him with area residents.

- Granted one day alcohol license to the Committee to Elect Stephen J. Durkin to the School Committee for a fundraiser Saturday, Feb. 26, 7 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Club House.

- Placed on file a hearing to show cause why the common victualer license of William E. Powers for Dutch Treat, 388 East Squantum St., should not be revoked for maintaining an illegal sign in violation of zoning ordinance and requirements of the board. According to Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, the illegal sign has been taken down.

- Granted a common victualer license to Mrs. Cheryl J. Hamel for Mama's Kitchen, 3 Walker St., North Quincy.

statement of the Board of Managers' reasons for asking Lowenhagen's ouster will be released "on or before Feb. 7."

Condon said he will appear before the City Council Monday, Feb. 7, to present a financial report that "will show that the hospital is doing well financially. There are, however, other aspects that bother us."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he plans "to take another look at the responsibilities of the Board of Managers and the Hospital Corp. of America at the hospital. We want to know where each one stands so that they don't tread on each other's toes."

"With the Board," he said, "it is a matter of information. They want to know more about the running of the hospital. I don't want to see them get involved in the day-to-day operation of the hospital. We want a harmonious relationship."

Councillor Condon said she and Lydon also have sent letters to members of the Board of Managers asking them to "reconsider any decisions of said executive sessions, more particularly those relating to the future and credibility of Quincy City Hospital."

"We have received calls from employees of the hospital asking us to save Jim Lowenhagen," she said. Mrs. Condon said she has been questioning the legality of the Board's executive sessions in October, December and January.

"We are concerned that the hospital is going backwards," she said, noting that prior to the coming of HCA the hospital was frequently the target of political charges.

"This is not a return to hospital politics on the part of the politicians. If the board does not like someone and gets rid of him I am concerned that it is overstepping its bounds."

"The Board of Managers is the mayor's watchdog at the hospital. But the board wants to call the shots on the everyday operation."

Mrs. Condon described Lowenhagen as "a down-to-earth administrator, no politician, a tough administrator. I talked to doctors at the hospital and I couldn't find anything that warranted the action that the Board of Manager took in his case."

In the HCA press release, which was ordered held at the hospital until requested by a specific newspaper or radio station. Kitchen said the Board "expressed a concern regarding Mr. Lowenhagen's working relationship with them."

The release said "the transfer was in no way related to Mr. Lowenhagen's job performance, which had been excellent, but it was the result of the Board's concern with some portions of his interrelationship with the Board."

It listed some of Lowenhagen's accomplishments as completion of a new outpatient department and pediatric unit, initiation of a primary care medical center in North Weymouth, completion of a determination of need application for a major building program.

Also a positive financial performance, reorganization of the administrative structure, attraction of a new group of anesthesiologists, maintenance of stable labor relations, and attraction of additional physicians to the medical staff.

Kitchen said a successor to Lowenhagen has not been named "but the process to identify a suitable candidate is underway." He added that the Board of Managers "will be involved in the selection process and will have final approval."

COMMUNITY SERVICE awards were recently presented to the local media by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. From left, are Richard Rand, National Conference regional director for 13 years and now a consultant; Henry Bosworth, publisher and editor of The Quincy Sun; Richard Allen, general manager of The Patriot Ledger; Stephen Marx, Quincy Cablestems' director of programming; South Shore chairman John R. Herbert, president and chairman of the board of Quincy Cooperative Bank; James Asher, WJDA president.

NCCJ Conference Honors Quincy News Media

The National Conference of Christians and Jews honored the Quincy News Media at an awards luncheon at the Neighborhood Club.

The Quincy Sun, The Patriot Ledger, Radio Station WJDA and Quincy Cablestems were presented Community Service Awards.

South Shore Chapter Chairman John R. Herbert, president and chairman of the board of Quincy Cooperative Bank, said "We are gathered here today, to say thank you to the media for its concern and its responsibility in telling the public what is going on without inflammatory words or pictures.

"We have had harassment of black families and we have had desecration of Jewish temples, and through all of these incidents we feel that the media in the area has handled the problems with great skill," said Herbert, a former newspaper editor.

Richard Rand, National Conference regional director for 13 years and now a consultant along with his wife, Arlene, who was program director, cited the media as the number two influence on young people.

Rand called on the media to pass on optimism to youths. He also noted that the organization's first award went to Rogers and Hammerstein for their song, "You've Got to be Taught to Hate" in "South Pacific"

In accepting his award, Sun publisher Henry Bosworth said he resented past stories calling Quincy "a racist city."

"I grew up in Quincy Point," said Bosworth, "it was a great melting pot. People were judged not by their nationality, but by the kind of boy or girl he or she was." He said he thought Quincy is still that kind of a city.

Bosworth also said he felt a responsibility to live up to the NCCJ award.

Richard Allen, general manager of The Patriot Ledger, said that his paper "believes in the principals of the National Conference"

Stephen Marx, Cablestems' director of programming, said that his task is to discover when things are going right and to publicize them "instead of waiting for when things go wrong."

Marx called on the public to "communicate with us."

Jay Asher, WJDA president, said that his radio station "always tried to take a positive outlook."

"Our slogan has been if you don't want the South Shore to know about it, don't do it," said Asher.

Speakers also included Herman Brown, National Conference consultant; Sen. Paul D. Harold, who has been involved with the organization since high school; and Peter Kenney, executive secretary to Mayor Francis McCauley.

Boy Scout Sunday At Squantum Church

Representatives of Boy Scout Troop 24 attended the first service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday in observance of Boy Scout Sunday.

The group included Richard Hutchins, scoutmaster; David Moore, assistant scoutmaster; Thomas Clashy, assistant scoutmaster; and Mardi Petrosino, scouting coordinator.

Troop 24 is sponsored by the First Church of Squantum.

During the first service, singing was led by guitarists Andrew Ogilvie, Steve Williams and Mary Ruth Scott.

Ushers were Ann Lombardi and Sarah Midram.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preached on the subject, "Will the Real 'Me' Please Stand Up"

The sermon during the second service was entitled, "The Only Way To Be Right With God." The text was taken from Romans 3:22.

"For a right relationship to God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe," This was the second in a series of sermons on the great themes of St. Paul.

The Chancel Choir sang "Beautiful Savior" as arranged by David Allen. Greeters for the morning were Ken and Millie Johnson.

Ushers were Don Frazer and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Dot Abbe and Vi Willner.

There will be two services again next Sunday morning, one at 8:30 a.m. and the other at 10:30 a.m.

'Journey To Jerusalem' At St. John's

"The Journey to Jerusalem . . . A Walk with Jesus," will be presented Sundays at 8 p.m. beginning Feb. 13, in the lower church of St. John's, Quincy Center.

The series, which ends

Palm Sunday, is being offered by the church's adult education committee as an opportunity for spiritual growth in preparation for the graces of Easter.

Sister Julie Harkins, CSJ, will give background on segments of St. Luke's Gospel.

Participants will be asked to reflect on the personal meanings of the Scripture, followed by reflective writing and small group sharing.

Boy Scout Sunday At St. Boniface

Boy Scout Troop 5 of St. Boniface Church, Germantown, will celebrate Boy Scout Sunday Feb. 6.

After the 10 a.m. Mass, a cake sale will be held in the church hall to benefit the troop. Food donations will be appreciated.

There will be regular troop meeting Monday, Feb. 7, at 7 p.m. in the church hall and Feb. 14, at 3 p.m.

The troop will go on its monthly weekend camping trip Feb. 25-27.

The annual scout dinner will be held Monday, Feb. 28, at 7 p.m.

North Squanders Lead, But Pulls Out Win

The North Quincy boys' basketball team lost an 11-point lead last Friday night but, after being tied after three quarters, pulled out a 51-48 victory over Quincy to improve its record to 4-6, while the Presidents fell to 1-9.

Ed Miller's Raiders played at Waltham Tuesday, will host Brookline Friday night at 8 and will play at Brockton Tuesday at 8.

Joe Amoroso's Presidents played at Newton North Tuesday, will be idle Friday and will host Waltham Tuesday night at 8.

As has happened in many of its games this season, Quincy gave North all it could handle for most of the game but ran out of steam at the end.

With only two seniors, and depending heavily on sophomores and juniors, the Presidents overcame an 11-point deficit to tie the Raiders, 40-40, going into the final quarter.

Chris Bunker, who has been North's leading scorer most of the season, had 20 points, while Quincy's Paul Gilbody had a big night with 18 points and 17 rebounds.

"Gilbody was just great tonight and his work on the boards was outstanding," said Amoroso.

Earlier in the week Quincy had played another excellent ball game and turned in an outstanding defensive performance as it held Cambridge Rindge and Latin to 55 points but lost, 55-44. Cambridge the previous week had scored 93 against North Quincy.

However, the Presidents' strong defense was offset by a cold night offensively as they shot only 24 percent from the floor and 50 percent from the foul line.

Quincy cut Cambridge's lead to six points midway in the fourth period.

Gilbody paced Quincy with 11 points and eight rebounds, junior Denis Downing had nine points and had 11 rebounds and Bob Mudge added nine points.

Quincy Wrestlers Win 14th In Row

Quincy's wrestling team improved its record to 14-0 last Saturday when it won every bout to whitewash North Quincy, 57-0. Although the Raiders failed to win a bout, several went to decisions.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents, closing in on their fifth straight Suburban League title, faced Burlington last night (Wednesday) and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Duffer Saturday at 10 a.m.

North, which faced unbeaten Brockton last night, will host Newton North at 10 a.m. Saturday and will be home to Stoughton next Wednesday night at 7.

In last Saturday's blanking of North, Quincy's Tony Souza defeated Scott Fitzgerald, 4-2 at 100 pounds; Matt Colby defeated Pat Marcham, 6-1 at 107; Mike Notarangelo pinned Dan Greenwood at 114; Bill Marston defeated Ed Chase, 12-0, at 121; Brian Mahon defeated Dan Dodd, 10-1, at 128; Joe Madden defeated Terry Stark, 16-0, at 134; John DePolo defeated Jay Pillard, 12-4, at 140; Glen Oriola defeated Jim White, 9-2, at 147; Darrin DeCoste pinned Scott Moore at 157; Bill Rollins pinned Tom Chenowich at 169. Bob Willard defeated Rich Ragusa by default at 187 and heavyweight Jamie Gravalesse pinned Al DeBella.

Earlier in the week Quincy rolled over Scituate, 54-6, winning all but two bouts and pinning six opponents.

Souza won, 23-1, at 100 pounds; Dave Coulter won, 10-2, at 107; Colby won by pin at 114. Notarangelo won, 8-2, at 121; Madden won by pin at 134; DePolo won by pin at 140; Oriola won by pin at 147; Rollins won by pin at 169. Willard for forfeit at 187 and Gravalesse won by pin in the heavyweight class.

Kiwanis Hockey Tourney Feb. 21

Relay Team Leads North To Weymouth Win

The mile relay team of Arthur Collings, Jeff Stryker, Tom Kearney and Jim Kennedy recorded a time of 3:48.8 to edge Weymouth North and give the North Quincy boys' track team a 45-41 victory to improve its record to 2-4.

The Raiders won only four events, including the relay, but had enough depth to tip over the Maroons.

Collings won the 600 with Kearney second, Stryker won the 1000 with Scott Coyne third and Kennedy won the mile with Tim Sullivan third.

Kevin Kelly was second and Steve Kelly third in the dash. Bob O'Brien was second and Joe Bangs third in the 300. Harry Morash was second and Mark Bilton third in the two-mile. John DeLappe was second and Jaime Paz third in the hurdles and Paz was second and DeLappe third in the high jump.

The Raiders, coached by former North and Cornell star Bart Petracca, have shown steady improvement and, with only five seniors, things look good for the Raiders next year.

QJC Edged By North Shore, 80-78

The Quincy Junior College basketball team suffered its second Greater Boston Small College Conference loss last week, a tough 80-78 overtime squeaker to North Shore Community College.

QJC, trailing by 13 points at halftime, came back to defeat Atlantic Union College, 63-58, in a non-league game.

QJC is 16-5 overall and 11-2 in the conference. Essex Community College leads the conference with a 9-1 record.

North Shore tied QJC with one second left in regulation time when 6-8 center George Merry hit a 17-foot jump shot. Earlier in the season the Jaguars had edged North Shore in overtime.

In the Atlantic game solid man-to-man defense, sparked by guards Ken Mann and Ricky Anderson, held Atlantic to just 22 points in the second half.

Jim Conboy had 21 points, Steve Belcastro 15 and Paul Gill 14.

Coach Brian Buckley was pleased with the come-from-behind win. "After losing such a tough game to North Shore, it was hard getting fired up for a non-league game," he said. "But our players showed they can play great defense and that's what won the game for us."

QJC has three more league games as well as six non-league contests. The conference playoffs will take place March 3, 4 and 5 at Quincy Vo-Tech.

Senior Boys Basketball League Underway

The Recreation Department all-city basketball league for senior high boys is underway at Broad Meadows Middle School on Saturday mornings.

The league comprises of participants from the city's recreation programs and is open to boys grades nine through 12 who do not play high school varsity basketball.

There are 10 teams in two divisions which will play a round robin schedule with the top teams involved in playoffs at the conclusion of the season.

Teams representing the Celtic Division are:

Montclair, coached by Jerry Pratt; Squantum, coached by Brian Flynn; Beechwood Knoll, coached by Bob Evans; Atherton Hough, coached by Fran Donovan; and Merry-mount, coached by Gary DiNardo.

Teams representing the 76er division are:

Snug Harbor, coached by Bob Uhlar; Atlantic, coached by George Dunn; Point, coached by John DiNardo; Central, coached by Dan Coughlin; and Sterling, coached by Bob Noble.

League games are played at 9:45 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. Saturdays. Spectators are welcome. There is no admission fee.

In action at Broad Meadows, Atherton Hough opened the season with a 49-47 upset win over last year's champ, Montclair. Vincent Sepus had 22 points and John McLoughlin 17 for the winners while Dan Baker had 21 and Steve Higgins 16 for Montclair.

In the season's first overtime, Beechwood Knoll defeated Squantum, 58-54 despite Squantum's Steve Dever leading all scorers with 21 points. Teammates Jack Bolster had 10 and Jim Martin had seven, while Jim Martin chipped in with excellent defense. For Beechwood, Bob Flynn had 18 followed by Dave Brown with 12 and Mike Kearn with seven.

YMCA Gym Team Wins 4th Straight

The South Shore YMCA Class 111 gymnastics team won its fourth straight meet, defeating Malden, 129.3-125.0.

Nicole Manton (33.2) and Jennifer Raftery (32.4) placed first and second in the all-around category.

South Shore swept the three top places in vaulting with Manton winning at 8.3, Raftery second at 8.1 and Anne O'Sullivan and Vanessa MacDonald tied for third at 7.4.

The teams were virtually tied after the uneven bars. Manton scored a 7.8 for South Shore. The meet would be decided on balance beams and floor exercise.

South Shore scored a 32.9 total on beam as Maureen Furey scored 8.6 for first place. Manton was a close second at 8.5 and O'Sullivan was third at 8.0.

In floor exercise Raftery scored a high 9.1 to clinch first and furey placed third at 8.8.

Deneen Leads North To Upset Win Over Brockton

George Deneen scored 10 of the Raiders' 24 points in the final period as the North Quincy High School basketball team upset Brockton, 61-56, for its sixth win against 10 losses.

Coach John Mullarkey's North Quincy boys jumped out to a fairly comfortable 32-25 lead at halftime but Brockton caught them early in the final period to set the stage of Deneen's heroics.

The North Quincy lineup included: Elkhill, Breigan, forwards; Deneen, Gilbody, Crowley, centers; Densmore, Higgins, guards.

BERRY STARS

Henry Berry upset Chelsea's zone defense with his ball handling and he scored 19 points as well to lead the Quincy High School basketball team to a 46-30 rout of the Red Devils.

The victory pulled Coach Munroe MacLean's team into a tie for second place in the Greater Boston League, a half game behind front-running Chelsea.

The Quincy lineup included: Berry, Hebert, Coleman, Weinstein, Prezioso, forwards; Williams, Barba, centers; Pompeo, Phelan, McDonald, Lewis, guards.

CELTICS WOM 'EM

Gene Conley, who can jump higher than any player in the National Basketball League, twice took passes while soaring in the air and dropped the ball through the basket during a Boston Celtics clinic at Quincy High School.

Bob Cousy, the game's greatest dribbler, showed how he protected the ball while dribbling and Ken Rollins demonstrated his defensive moves against the dribbler.

NORTH ICEMEN WIN

Lea Alberti and Dick Poirier scored the only goals of the game as the North Quincy High School hockey team defeated Whitman, 2-0, at the Pla-Mor Rink in East Bridgewater.

Goalie Ken Hayes turned his fourth shutout of the season in helping the Raiders add to their South Shore Hockey League lead.

The North lineup included: K. Hayes, goal; Bergamo, Meleedy, defense; Alberti, MacDonald, Poirer, forwards; B. Hayes, Gorham, McCarthy, Moran, Bolland, Hamel, spares.

REARDON SELECTED

Joseph Reardon of Milton, who fought out of Quincy as a professional featherweight boxer in the 1920s, was expected to be named boxing commissioner by new Gov. Christian A. Herter.

Reardon, who also coached boxing at several private schools and Harvard, said he recalled his first pro fight was with a Quincy fighter named Pangrazz at the old Quincy Coliseum.

NORTH TRACKMEN BOW

Jack Downey won the 1000, Bill Spencer the mile, Tom Bingay the 600 and Dave Church the high jump but the North Quincy High School track team was nosed out, 39-38, by Watertown in a Metropolitan League meet at the East Newton St. Armory, Boston.

SPORTS BITS '53

Rocky Marciano of Brockton was no more than an 8-5 favorite to defeat Jersey Joe Walcott April 10 in a return bout for the world's heavyweight boxing championship ... Dick Mazzola scored 12 points at the Quincy Police Boys Club, playing its first game under Coach Mike Barba, defeated the South End Bucces of Boston, 73-55 ... Capt. Anthony Pompeo's 16 points were not enough as the Quincy High School basketball team bowed to Somerville, 60-53 ... Dick Kelly, the lefthanded pitcher from Quincy, reported to the Boston Braves training camp in Bradentown, Fla. ... Eddie Sandford and Fleming Mackell of the Boston Bruins were the speakers at a meeting of the St. Ann's Holy Name Society at the Wollaston School ... North Quincy turned on a full court press to crush Thayer Academy, 62-50, as Pete Breingan scored 17 points ... Carl "Bobo" Olson of Hawaii insisted that the American middleweight title would be at stake in his 10-round bout with Norman Hayes of Boston in Boston Garden ... Bob Carr hit on 11 of his 13 tries from the floor for 22 points but the Quincy Clippers lost to the Lynn Jewish Community Center, 76-66.

Frustrations Forgotten

First Ladies Upset Raiderettes, 41-37

By TOM SULLIVAN

This has been a frustrating season for the Quincy High girls' basketball team.

The First Ladies have played well since the season opened and outplayed most opponents but have lost several close decisions, losing most games from the foul line.

But most of these frustrations were washed away last Friday when Marty Finnegan's team, with only one win in six previous games, went into the North Quincy gym and handed the favored Raiderettes their second loss in 11 games, 41-37.

Paul Bregoli's North girls, needing three wins in six games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the third straight year, faced Waltham Tuesday, will play at Brookline Friday at 5 and next Wednesday will try to avenge their only other loss when they host Brockton, the No. 1-ranked Div. 1 team, at 5.

Quincy, meanwhile, played Newton North Tuesday, will be off Friday and will play at Waltham Tuesday at 5.

"This was just a great win for us and I feel so good for the girls, who have played so well but have lost some awfully tough games," said Finnegan.

"We had lost to them by 11 points the first time and I was very concerned with two of our top starters, Theresa Munroe and Dara Morris, out of action. But the other girls were really up for this one and I'm very proud of every one of them."

Bregoli, whose team was 9-1 going into the game, was naturally disappointed.

JOANNE KEENAN of North Quincy dribbles toward the Quincy basket during last week's game. Quincy surprised the North girls, 41-37.

"We didn't play well at all today," he said. "Give Quincy plenty of credit. Marty did a fine job with them for this game and, with several key players out, they could have just packed it in, but instead, they came out flying and did a fine job."

"Our girls were never mentally in this game until it was too late. Ninety percent of this game is how you approach a game mentally and emotionally and we just were not ready to play. I hope the girls learned a lesson as they will have to be up for every game from now on."

Cindy Morrell hit two free throws for Quincy just 15 seconds into the game and the First Ladies never trailed as North shot a horrendous one for 13 from the floor and Quincy led 10-6, after a period.

Chris Choukas, the Suburban League's leading scorer who was held to a season's low of eight points, scored six in the second quarter and Mary Holleran scored four as Quincy held an 18-16 edge at the half.

Holleran hit her first four shots in the third quarter but that was all the offense North could muster. Meanwhile, Wendy Parry came off the bench to score five points for Quincy, replacing Morrell, who fouled out. Kathy Dunn had four points as The First Ladies widened their lead to 32-24 going into the fourth session.

Bregoli took his entire starting team in this quarter because of their lackluster play in favor of Karen Bridges (still kept out of regular action with a hairline wrist fracture), Joanne Kennan, Michelle White, Eileen Crehan and Ann Duggan.

Quincy increased its lead to 40-29 with four minutes left in the game as Parry and Carolyn Leonard scored key points. North then went on to outscore the First Ladies, 8-0, as Holleran and Karen Boutillier took care of the offense. The Raiderettes could have taken the lead but missed seven foul shots in the final quarter, many the first half of one-and-ones.

With 17 seconds left, North had a chance to pull within one but a Choukas basket was disallowed by a traveling call. Quincy inbounded to Michelle Miller, who dribbled out 12 seconds before hitting Dunn under the hoop for a layup attempt on which she was fouled. She hit one shot for the final score.

Holleran led all scorers with 20 points and had four steals. Dunn paced Quincy with 11 points, Ellen Deady had eight and Parry seven. The Raiderettes missed 15 foul shots in the game.

Earlier in the week Quincy played another fine game but bowed to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 47-43, as Cambridge's Delores Williams hit on 14 of 16 free throws and had 24 points.

Quincy led by a point in the third quarter when Deady was forced to leave with a dislocated finger after scoring eight points. Morrell paced the First Ladies with 12 points and Leonard added 10.

North Outswims Waltham

The North Quincy swim team rebounded from its second loss of the season to defeat Waltham, 93-79, and improve its record to 7-2.

Bill Walker's Raiders will end their Suburban League season Saturday when they face Quincy at 10 a.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool. The Raiders have never lost to the Presidents.

In the Waltham meet the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Ken Burke, Bob Dunn, Jim Boudreau and Brad Martin won in 3:47.21 the best time of the season in the league.

Martin won both the 200 and 500 freestyle events and Boudreau won both the 50 and 100 freestyles.

Earlier in the week undefeated Brockton defeated North, 105-66.

The 400 relay team of Mark Wilkins, Burke, Boudreau and Martin won in what was then the best time in the league, 3:50.21.

Bob Waterman won the diving with 142.50 points.

Boudreau took second in the 50 and 100 freestyles and Martin placed second in the 200 and 500-yard freestyle.

Quincy's undermanned team (0-3) lost to Waltham, 82-56, despite some fine individual performances.

Billy Mayo and Tom

Foley were double winners for the Presidents, Mayo winning the 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle and Foley taking the 50 and 100 freestyles. Mark Waterman, Foley, Jackie Kilrain and Steve Schow won the 400 relay for Quincy.

Quincy Icemen In Big Wins Over Brockton, Newton N.

Last week was the best of the season for the Quincy High hockey team, which took two big victories to improve its record to 6-3.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents met North Quincy last night (Wednesday), will play Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday at 3 o'clock at Harvard and next Wednesday will host Brookline at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Last Saturday Quincy avenged a last-second loss to Brockton when it blanked the Boxers, 5-0.

Rich Monahan, who has been outstanding in goal since being moved from forward, earned his first shutout and was given excellent support by Quincy's improving defense.

First period goals by Doug Concannon and Mike Nourse were all the Presidents needed. Mike Chenette and Steve Baylis assisted on Concannon's goal. Brockton had two power play chances in between the goals but couldn't capitalize.

Frank Reynolds scored in the second period to make it 3-0 and the last session Concannon scored his second goal on a power play and Mark Lamie rebounded home his own blast.

Baylis, Chenette and Brian Provenzano had two assists each for the Presidents.

Brockton's top line peppered Monahan early in the third period but he was equal to the task.

"This was an excellent two-way performance," Sylvia said. "We again skated well, our passing was good, the defense did a fine job and Monahan was great in goal."

Brockton coach Bob D'Arcy echoed Sylvia's pre-season valuation of the Presidents. They have the best forwards in the league. The only thing keeping them from being a power is goal tending." Quincy had no problems in goal last Saturday.

Earlier in the week Quincy again avenged an earlier defeat by edging Newton North's Suburban League leaders, 4-3.

Reynolds had a hat trick to lead the attack and Jim McSweeney had the other goal.

Brian Silcox had two assists and Baylis, Chenette and Bret Loud had one each. Monahan had another good night in goal with 23 saves and Greg Keefe and Ted Walsh played well on defense.

Newton Snaps North Streak

Newton North's hockey team, leading the Suburban League, has been a thorn in the side of North Quincy this season and last Saturday overcame a 3-1 deficit with three goals in the last period to end the Raiders' four-game unbeaten streak, 4-3, and drop North's record to 4-3-1. Earlier this year Newton scored with just eight seconds left to tip North, 3-2.

Kevin Jago's North team faced Quincy last night (Wednesday), will be off Saturday, and will play Waltham at the Watertown rink next Wednesday at 6 o'clock.

"This was a very frustrating loss," Jago said after the Newton game. "We have been playing excellent hockey and it looked good with a 3-1 lead after two periods. I just hope we can bounce back and get even for an earlier loss to Quincy."

Earlier last week the Raiders, getting off an amazing 74 shots, 54 in the first two periods, had rolled over winless Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 13-1.

Mike Cullen had a big night with five goals to spark the Raider barrage. Brothers Rich and Dave Tapper and Scott Messina had two goals each and Kevin Tenney and Dave Fasano had one each.

Jago gave his starting goalie, Bill Cahill, the night off and Shawn Cunningham played an excellent game in the nets.

Curtain Call Theatre To Present 'Virginia Woolf'

Curtain Call Theatre of Braintree will present "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" Feb. 10, 11 and 12 at 8 p.m. at Braintree High School.

The play chronicles one evening in the life of a middle-aged couple to be portrayed by Keith Knowles of Cohasset and Cathy Venti of Braintree and their younger guests (played by Frank Piekut of Brockton and Sally Herbert of Weymouth).

Before the evening is through, George, Martha and their unsuspecting guests are wrung through an emotional wringer.

Because their roles are so demanding, both physically and mentally, the four performers are participating in a rigid schedule of physical exercise.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" is Curtain Call's second production of their 1982-1983 season. It will be followed by the musical "Oliver" scheduled for May.

For reservations and information call 925-3639.

Acrylic Painting Program For Art Association

David Tandy will demonstrate painting with acrylics at a meeting of the Quincy Art Association Tuesday, Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Anet Paglierani, president, will preside.

Members' paintings will be judged for entry in the association's juried show March 10-24 in the conference room in City Hall.

19th Century Music At Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will present a concert of 19th Century Music by the vocal group Silver Fox Thursday, Feb. 10 at 1 p.m. in the society's headquarters in the Adams Academy Building.

The concert will recreate the charm and informality of a Sunday afternoon

Victorian parlor gathering with many old favorite songs and humorous recitations. Audience participation is encouraged.

The concert will augment the society's current exhibition of 19th Century Currier and Ives lithographs. It is open to the public free of charge.

WEEK OF: FEBRUARY 3

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Interesting tidbits reach your ears by the weekend — but they're strictly confidential. Good partying indicated through week with prospects of meeting enterprising companions.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

A sharing week in which it's best to pool ideas and opt for cooperative efforts. Some tension with older relatives; it may be wisest to stay in background on weekend.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Think again before discarding or selling anything — you're super eager to sweep everything clean now. May have to salvage a friend's injured relationship. You're diplomacy personified.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Home environment proves a source of warmth for friends and strangers alike. Social pressures are lightening up and it's suddenly easier to go about business as usual.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Week may find you making the most exciting decision of many months. You're in the limelight on the weekend, and added prestige is a definite possibility from Monday onward.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

You're somewhat glib — be super alert to con artists in your midst. Best ideas may be met with cool reserve; continue to refine them and promote them with imagination.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Week highlights travel and making new friends. In love and friendship, trust is the keyword. In money matters, recent tactics may not be so successful right now.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Romantically, a mellow period. Watch tendency to give in too much — standing up for your rights should be a habit. Travel plans may require postponement or adjustment.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

High-strung types can make you a little tense. Look for quiet retreats whenever possible. Overdue payment arrives by the weekend. Traveling can be hectic after Monday.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Time is lovely for major creative expression. Absentminded trend emerges by the weekend; be especially careful when working with numbers. You're spending more time with lovebirds friends.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Travel favored, as is an all-new travel companion. Health requirements should not be taken for granted. Speaking out for the rights of the underdog is your strength this week.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

A financially impressive week, but take the initiative more often. Doubts over a strained friendship start to diminish. Hobbies begun now can have personal and/or professional benefits.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Your sense of loyalty is unquestionable. Your intuitive strengths are powerful. Tact, however, is not a strong point. Next three months can be unusually productive both personally and professionally. Romance demands a down to earth approach.

BORN THIS WEEK

February 3rd, comic Shelley Berman; 4th, actor Conrad Bain; 5th, actor Red Buttons; 6th, actor Rip Torn; 7th, actor Buster Crabbe; 8th, actor Gary Coleman; 9th, singer Carole King

7-Eleven May Not Take C/V License

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Owners of the planned 7-Eleven at Franklin and Pearl Sts., South Quincy, were granted a common victualer license to serve coffee and donuts at a special License Board night meeting.

But according to their attorney, Peter Eeley, the owners are still deciding whether they will take the license which carries restricted hours of 6 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. rather than 24 hours. "We feel the board does not have the right to limit hours," said Eeley.

City Clerk John Gillis maintains that the board can place restrictions on a license, but if the store does not take the c/v license it can be open 24 hours.

The 24 hour operation, and concerns with noise, gangs and more area traffic from the store were among the concerns of the area residents at the meeting.

During the meeting, 7-Eleven offered to stop the c/v license at 1 a.m., according to Eeley who also said that his clients intend to meet with neighbors of the proposed store as well as the two other 7-Elevens in Quincy to iron out problems.

In Mass. Electric Case

$40,000 Spent In Advance To Save City Up To $3-M

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says his administration may have saved the city hundreds of thousands of dollars by spending some $40,000 before it was appropriated to fight a tax abatement case.

The City Law Department went before the City Council Monday night seeking $45,000 with which to pay lawyers and expert witnesses in a last minute defense of the case which could have cost $3 million.

The case involves Mass. Electric and New England Power Co. Councilors Leo J. Kelly and Joseph J. LaRaia expressed surprise that such a thing could have happened and at LaRaia's insistence the matter was tabled for that meeting.

"I'm dumbfounded to find that this money was spent before it was appropriated," said LaRaia. "I'd like to know more about the background of this case."

McCauley said he thought all the councilors knew the background of the case.

"Councilor LaRaia sat right here in my office and said it was the way to go," said the mayor. "I specifically asked him if he had any problem with it and he said, 'No.'"

McCauley said eight of the nine councilors agreed with him and the ninth, Kelly, told him he wanted time to think about it.

The mayor said the whole thing was a matter of having to defend a $3 million case at the last minute with no time to get a Council meeting together for the appropriation.

McCauley and former City Solicitor William Golden explained it like this:

The Massachusetts Electric and New England Power Cos. are seeking $3 million in abatements of taxes on their properties in Quincy for the years 1978, 1980, 1981 and 1982.

The assessors were about to settle the case for some $1.8 million when it was discovered that some of the figures that had been used in the analysis of the case "did not make sense."

The case was due for hearing before the State Tax Appellate Board momentarily.

Condo Conversion Bill Passes City Council

The State Legislature once again will be asked to permit Quincy to regulate conversion of apartment houses into condominiums.

The City Council Monday night passed for legislative approval a condo conversion home rule petition similar to the one that died in the 1982 session of the Legislature.

The Council's Ordinance Committee held a brief hearing on the petition prior to the Monday night meeting and quickly gave its approval after no landlords showed up to testify.

The landlords' organization has generally opposed some of the stringent controls contained in the petition.

One change was made in the penalty section of the petition at the insistence of Councilor James A. Sheets, who thought the $200 a day per unit fine for violation was unclear.

The Council changed the wording to read: "$200 a day per unit in violation."

Among the new rules proposed by condo conversion are nine months notice to tenants, two years notice to handicapped and elderly and restriction of rent hikes to 10 per cent.

"I hope this is the final time we will have to deal with this," said Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, who headed the committee that drew up the proposed ordinance.

Snow Storm Costs City $40,000

It cost the city at least $40,000 to clean up after the first major storm of the winter Monday on the fifth anniversary of the Blizzard of '78.

That brings the total so far this winter, with the three earlier storms, to about $110,000 according to officials.

David Colton, administrative assistant in the Sewer, Water and Drain Department, gave the following breakdown for the storm which dumped over six inches of snow in the area: hired equipment (plows), $15,000; sand, salt, $12,000; labor, $11,000; fuel, $2,000.

Colton said crews began working about 10 p.m.

Sunday and finished up Wednesday.

He said crews were able to keep up with the storm by following a three way attack.

All city equipment is utilized for the first few inches of snow, limited outside hired help is called in next, followed by hiring of

Package Stores Seek Expansion To House Empty Bottles

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Massachusetts Bottle Bill was enacted only a short time, but already its effects are being felt in Quincy.

Two retail package stores have applied to the License Board for expansion of the premises to house the returnable bottles.

Five more are expected to do the same, according to City Clerk John Gillis.

The board approved requests Tuesday for expansion of Morton's Liquor Store, 120 Granite St., Quincy Center, and McNiece's Inc., of Quincy, 205 West Squantum St., North Quincy.

Joseph J. Hennessey, manager of Morton's, told the board he will put a 600 square foot addition with two floors at the back of his building.

"This addition will be used primarily for storage of both full and empty beer containers," stated Hennessey, "the need for this space is as a result of the recently enacted Bottle Bill."

Robert J. McNiece, McNiece's manager, said he will increase his store's area by four feet and increase the cellar storage area for storage of bottles and cans.

Both requests must go to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission before they become final.

Creedon Asks $4-M Boost In School Budget

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon asked the School Committee last week to approve a $28.58 million budget for fiscal 1984, one that would include money for teachers' raises negotiated in 1979 but never paid.

Creedon's proposed budget, which would be up nearly $4 million or 16 per cent from that of fiscal 1983, also would include 17 new teaching positions and money for computers, books, typewriters and energy conservation.

The superintendent also proposed a level-funded alternative budget but he favored the increase, citing the fact that the School Department has born the brunt of city budget cuts due to Proposition 2½ over the past two years.

Robert Wilson, president of the Citywide Parents Association, said his group is prepared to lobby in favor of the increased budget.

Land Offered To City

Florence Weeks has offered a wedge shaped piece of property at 114 Brook Rd., South Quincy, to the city in lieu of taxes and interest totalling $2,979.59.

The City Council sent the offer to its Ordinance Committee.

The triangular plot of land is near the corner of Brook Rd. and Water St. and City Clerk John Gillis said it is likely the property could be resold to an abuttor.

Statues Stolen

Two Greek statues were reported stolen from the mantle of the home of Lillian McPhee, Sea St., Hough Neck, Saturday by thieves who entered through a rear dining room window.

Mayor Explains GD Loss To Workers

Mayor Francis X. McCauley met with representatives of the city employees' union Friday to explain what effect the General Dynamics tax decision might have on the city's policies regarding its workers.

The mayor told the union people that he is not warning anyone and that "General Dynamics will not be taken out of the hide of anyone." "Everybody will have to pitch in," the mayor said. McCauley met with the union people for about 15 minutes and he said they appeared to have been pleased that he showed up to explain his position.

City Council Rescinds Roosevelt Rd. Zoning

The City Council Monday night voted to rescind a Council order passed Dec. 1, 1980 rezoning 18-40 Roosevelt Rd., West Quincy, from Residence B to Residence A in order to ban multi-unit dwellings.

The earlier action by the Council was challenged in court, which ruled that it was illegal spot zoning.

Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald asked rescission of the 1980 ordinance so that maps and records in his department can return the area to Residence B.

McConville Replaces Baharian

Smaller Role For Planning Board In New Development

By TOM HENSHAW

The Planning Board, without the Rev. Bdrros Baharian directing things, will play a reduced role in the economic development of Quincy, Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday. "The thrust in economic development will be in the Planning Department where it belongs," he said. "The Planning Board will not be involved as much in development."

McCauley made the statement in announcing the appointment of Joseph F. McConville Jr. of 29 Chickatabot Rd., Merrymount, to a five-year term on the Board, replacing Baharian.

McConville, 52, is personnel manager of the Boston Gear-Incom International in North Quincy, and has served on several unpaid city committees under three different mayors.

"There were four people

Safe Too Tough

The safe at Wendy's restaurant, 191 Newport Ave., North Quincy, proved to be too much for burglars over the weekend.

They broke into the building through a sliding pickup window, tipped over the safe and attacked the door with prybars but were unable to get inside.

Police said a coin phone was removed from the wall of the restaurant.

JOSEPH F. McCONVILLE interested in the job," said McCauley. "I spoke to Mr. McConville first. His views on development were compatible with mine. He had a positive attitude toward economic development."

The mayor continued to deny that he or any member of his administration prompted the Rev. Baharian, director of the Planning Board of 17 years, to ask not to be reappointed.

"I will have no more comment on the Baharian affair," he said. "The matter is resolved. There is a full membership on the board now, which is the way it should be."

"The Rev. Baharian occupied a unique role in planning for the city of Quincy. When he came, the Planning Department was only a small department. He played an important role in its day-to-day affairs."

"Now, with increased involvement of federal and state funds, the Planning Department has come of age. The department has taken on the role of development. It belongs there with full time people."

"Development will be handled in the department in the future."

McConville, a lifelong resident of Quincy, is a graduate of North Quincy High School and Northeastern.

He has served on a Quincy Salary Survey Committee under Mayors McCauley, James R. McIntyre and Walter J. Hannon and is past chairman of the Professional Conditions Committee for the School Committee.

He and his wife, the former Barbara A. Donahue, have five children, Joseph III, a supervisor at the Foxboro Co.; Lt. James, an Army helicopter pilot; John, a cadet at Mass Maritime; Paul, a student at Providence College; and Mary, a student at Archbishop Williams High School.

Counterfeit Money Bilks Thousands

Thousands of citizens are victimized annually by the criminal who makes or passes counterfeit money.

The problem in controlling this illegal activity has been aggravated in recent years by technological advances in printing and by copying machines that enable persons with little or no skill to engage in counterfeiting.

Furthermore, the mobility of the modern criminal permits him to pass the counterfeit currency hundreds of miles away from its source.

Since 1879, United States currency has been printed on a special quality paper, manufactured by a process containing ingredients known only to the Department of the Treasury.

The red and blue fibres interwoven in the paper are characteristic of this process.

The mixture of paper and fibre is one of the deterrents to counterfeiting since counterfeiters have been unable to duplicate either material.

Some counterfeiters will attempt to simulate these fibres by printing red and blue lines on the paper. These marks can be removed merely by scratching or erasing the surface.

One of the surest methods of recognizing a counterfeit note is to compare it with a genuine bill of the same denomination and series. Good currency is made to exact standards.

Rubbing a bill will not prove whether it is genuine or counterfeit. Ink will rub off either note.

Check closely the texture of the paper and the ink coloring.

If you believe you have a counterfeit bill, notify your local police department. Counterfeiting is a federal offense and your local police will know who to contact.

Anselmo's Son Big In SIN

You might say that School Committeeman Frank Anselmo's son is big in SIN.

About $7 million big. Maybe bigger.

Rene Anselmo, 56, who lives in Connecticut has a net worth of $7 million and "in the great tradition of Greeley and Hearst, has made the money and now is going after power."

So reports Forbes, the weekly business magazine, in a recent issue.

SIN, of course, is not sin. It's the SIN National Spanish Television Network, the SIN being the acronym for Spanish Information Network, its original name.

SIN was founded in 1961 by Rene Anselmo to provide Spanish-language programming for some 20 million Americans who speak that language.

Jointly owned by Anselmo and Televisa, the Mexican television network, SIN had revenues of $50 million in 1981. It has more affiliates than NBC — five owned and operated stations, 33 low power UHF stations and 168 part time Spanish stations.

There is also a cable channel, Gala Vision, carried by 150 cable systems.

SIN, according to Forbes, was the first network to deliver its signal by satellite — in 1976 — two years ahead of Home Box Office.

"Anselmo fought hard in 1980 for permission to place SIN's local transmitter atop New York's World Center; most other broadcasters followed," says the magazine.

"And while ESPN and other sports channels cry about lack of adequate programming, SIN waltzed off with executive rights to the 1982 World Cup soccer matches from Spain and over $1 million in national advertising.

"It is a tribute to Anselmo's success that the Federal Communications Commission is looking at whether SIN's 77 per cent share of the Spanish market constitutes a stranglehold."

Anselmo, who studied economics and drama at the University of Chicago, is no stranger to show business. He helped found Chicago's famed Second City Comedy Workshop and was a guest director at the Pasadena Playhouse in California.

He and his wife, Mary, an actress, went on a vacation in Mexico and stayed 12 years to produce musical comedies, game shows and children's productions. He came back to the states as a salesman for Televisa in cities with large Spanish populations.

"Now," according to Forbes, "Anselmo, his net worth an estimated $7 million and his business reasonably secure can devote his time to promoting what he terms SIN's mission:

"Unite the Puerto Rican in New York, the Cuban in Miami, the Mexican in San Antonio and the Chicano in Los Angeles, through their common Spanish heritage. "Because he controls a medium uniquely able to reach a growing voter population, Anselmo is a valued friend of rising Hispanic politicians such as Mayor Henry Cisneros of San Antonio."

According to Frank Anselmo, the Forbes magazine article wasn't entirely accurate.

"He's worth more than $7 million," smiles proud Pop.

JOHN (BUTCH) MAHONEY, social health coordinator in the Quincy public schools, knows of one parent who got his son unhooked from marijuana very easily, very effectively.

The parent, according to Mahoney, found marijuana upstairs and brought it down to the kitchen.

"He took half of it and dumped it down the toilet," says Mahoney. "He took the other half and put Italian hot seeds and hot pepper — all kinds of things — and messed it all up and put it back."

"I guess the kid got very sick from it."

The father was there to help him when he got sick but never told him about spiking the joint.

"That's one way of curing them," says Mahoney.

AN INFECTION HAS forced postponement of heart surgery for Quincy's Tom McDonald, former state VFW commander. McDonald was at Carney Hospital waiting to be transferred to Brigham and Women's Hospital for the surgery around Feb. 1 when he developed the infection. He's home now and the surgery has been rescheduled for Feb. 24 at Brigham and Women's Hospital. He's in fine spirits.

INCIDENTALLY, the state VFW Loyalty Day parade in May, is scheduled to be held in Quincy. And, Tom, will be the chairman.

SEN. PAUL HAROLD will be a guest on UMass/Boston Chancellor Robert Corrigan's weekly phone in radio show Wednesday, Feb. 16 on WUMB-FM (91.9), the Harbor Campus radio station. The program runs from 6:30 p.m. to 7:45 p.m.

Harold, a graduate of UMass/Amherst and Suffolk Law School, will answer questions from constituents. The phone-in number is 929-7930.

SMILE DEPT: Observation from the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "Why can't life's big problems come when we are 20 and know everything?"

Council Again Moves For Pet Seizure Ban

The City Council Monday night passed a home rule petition to the Legislature asking that Quincy be exempted from the state's pound seizure law under which abandoned animals are sold for medical experimentation.

A similar bid for exemption died in the 1982 session of the General Court.

At the urging of Councilor James A. Sheets, the Council also passed a resolution asking Harvard Medical School to voluntarily stop buying dogs from the Quincy pound until the exemption is in effect.

Sheets called the use of stray dogs in medical experiments "a violation of people's consciences."

John McDuff, president of the Quincy Animal League, one of the backers of the home rule petition, told the Council "it is painful for animal lovers to sit by while unwanted pets are subjected to this."

The petition now goes to Mayor Francis X. McCauley and then to the 1983 session of the Legislature for passage.

'Very Strange Cases'

Some Youngsters 'Possessed,' Says School Health Coordinator

John (Butch) Mahoney, social health coordinator in the Quincy schools, says he is running into "some very strange cases of kids who are possessed by the devil or some other force" this year.

"I think drugs have something to do with it," he said.

Mahoney, who had handled drug problems in Quincy schools for the past 11 years, appeared on the interview show "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems Chan. 3.

"There are kids who put tattoos on their arms signifying a particular movement that possesses them," he said. "The acts they commit are very different. They do bizarre things."

"I'm thinking of cases now where a kid jumps up and says, 'I gotta get out of here before I kill someone,' and runs out of the classroom or he pulls a fire alarm and leads 10 kids out."

"They're getting in-involved with crazy things like carrying guns. They're doing things like burning crosses. The times contribute to it. TV obviously does. Drugs have something to do with it."

Mahoney said psychedelic drugs are so new that people don't fully understand what they can do.

"We didn't even have them until the late 50s or 60s," he said. "Kids don't see anything wrong with them. But they do affect their behavior and what they do."

"When people jump out of cars and stab each other, they're on speed. When people think they can walk on water or fly, they're on psychedelics. Marijuana is a psychedelic."

The drug scene in the schools hasn't received much publicity recently but Mahoney said that does not necessarily mean that the problem is any less.

"I think the ability to deal with it has lessened as a result of Proposition 2½," he said.

"I don't have as many people assisting me in patrolling the schools so naturally that has reduced the number of arrests and the ability to identify those people who are using drugs and selling drugs."

Mahoney said he is reluctant to arrest youngsters on drug charges but prefers to see them into the district attorney's juvenile diversion program.

"Locking up people is not the answer," he said. "If you want to carry that to an extreme what we ought to do is shoot all the pushers. We do these things out of frustration. We're not dealing with the issue."

"The issue is more than a behavioral problem. The issue is things like unemployment, poor housing, racism, all these things are reasons that contribute to drug use and abuse."

Mahoney said he feels that "drugs are going to be with us for the rest of our lives."

"There has to be an ongoing program," he said. "It has to be done the same way that we remind people not to drink and drive, the way we remind people from time to time to get their cars inspected."

"We have to remind them constantly from day one."

"I think that giving young people the correct information, without moralizing, then they'll make the right decisions. Unfortunately, I don't see enough of it."

Mahoney was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, city hall reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Squantum Oil Tanks Ruled Out At Victory Plant

Opponents of an oil tank farm proposed for the site of the old Victory plant in Squantum claimed a victory when the Navy Department agreed to transfer part of the 160-acre plot to the War Department for use as an airport.

The area in the southwesterly corner of the parcel was believed to be the location where the Victory Terminal Corp. had planned to construct its oil tanks.

Both William A. Clarke, president of the Atlantic Improvement Association, and Atty. Frank D. Coffman, counsel for opponents in the long controversy over the oil tanks, expressed confidence that the transfer precluded the tanks.

The agreement on the transfer was reached by Navy Secretary Curtis D. Wilbur and War Secretary Dwight F. Davis following a conference with President Calvin Collidge.

Nicastro Rules QCH Board Met Illegally

By TOM HENSHAW

New City Solicitor Dean Nicastro has ruled that the City Hospital Board of Managers was in violation of the Open Meeting Law at the time it requested the removal of James Lowenhagen as hospital director.

He requested that the Board invalidate the actions that were taken during executive session at the meetings of Dec. 21 and Jan. 18.

The opinion was requested by City Councillors Joanne Condon and John J. Lydon Jr. and a copy was forwarded to Lawrence F. O'Donnell, chairman of the Board of Managers.

O'Donnell was not available for comment.

Nicastro said his investigation of the Dec. 21 meeting indicated that the Board failed to comply with a provision of the Open Meeting Law which requires that accurate records be kept of the meeting.

"I offer no opinions as to the legality of what transpired at the Dec. 21 executive session because the Board has as yet not maintained an accurate record," he said.

He said he had received an "informal account" of the meeting and "it appears that there could have been additional violations. . . . specifically in the areas of written notification and affording individual rights."

O'Donnell has maintained that Lowenhagen, as an employee of Hospital Corp. of America and not the city, was not entitled to notification of the meeting.

Adequate records were kept of the Jan. 18 executive session, said Nicastro, and his reading of the law is that Lowenhagen was "entitled to the protections as to written notification and rights."

"If these protections were not provided," he said, "or were not lawfully and validly waived, a violation of the statute would have resulted."

"Because of one violation opined and the possible other violations," he said, "I am hereby requesting that the Board take whatever action is appropriate to bring its actions into compliance, including, where required, the maintenance of accurate records and the invalidating of actions terat taken."

Earlier, the Executive Committee of the Board of Managers charged that Lowenhagen "had repeatedly failed to recognize the legitimate role of the Board in formulating policy and carrying out its responsibility" at the Hospital.

That, said the four members of the committee, was one of the reasons that the Board asked HCA which operates the city-owned hospital, to transfer Lowenhagen out of the director's job.

The four who released the statement are O'Donnell, John Kane, Richard Corner and Arthur Good.

"Unfortunately," said the statement, "Some elected officials, either because they did not know all the facts or because of other reasons known only to them, have implied that 'political interference' may have been involved in the Board's request."

"The Board is committed to the de-politicization of City Hospital."

"At no time has the board attempted to interfere with the day to day operation and administration of the Hospital, nor has it attempted to interfere with those areas of responsibility that rightly belong to HCA and its employee, the director."

"Nevertheless, the Board of Managers has a duty to perform and responsibilities to shoulder and it intends to act to further the well-being of the Hospital."

The statement was issued to clarify what it called "an inaccurate and misleading description" in newspaper articles and by elected city officials of the circumstances leading to the reassignment of Lowenhagen.

"At no time was there any move or suggestion that Mr. Lowenhagen be ousted or fired but rather reassigned," the statement said. "The Board had lost confidence in Mr. Lowenhagen and requested to HCA that it reassign its employee."

O'Donnell said one of the reasons behind the request for Lowenhagen's transfer involves a $220,000 interest-free advance payment made to a group of anesthesiologists.

Koch Club 35th Anniversary Committee Meets Thursday

The Koch Club 35th anniversary committee will hold an organizational meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Richard J. Koch, founder and executive director of the community service organization, invites former leaders and members of the Koch Club to attend and participate in the planning of a series of special events during May and June to commemorate the three and one-half decades of recreational, social and charitable activities on behalf of Quincy adults and youth.

The program will be initiated with a dinner-dance Saturday, May 7, at the Bryan VFW Post Hall, Broad St., Quincy.

The dinner-dance will be chaired by James B. Moody with Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, ticket chairwoman and Thomas F. Nestor, treasurer.

Committee members include Mr. and Mrs. Anthony I. Delmonico, Mr.

and Mrs. Gary Demole, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donaghy, Paul A. Koch, Mrs. Mina Scanlan, Mrs. Anne Moody and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howes.

The Koch Club initiated a $5,000 permanent scholarship fund in the 1973 25th Anniversary Year that now totals over $12,000 in addition to the $10,000 total provided in annual scholarships and on the 30th year of the organization in 1978, founded a permanent Christmas charity fund of $5,000 to continue after the Koch Club has ceased to exist. It now exceeds $7,000.

The action of the Anniversary Committee assures that the charitable and scholarship tradition of the Koch Club will continue when its name is a memory.

An informative souvenir tabloid will be published during the 1983 celebration with the proceeds used in the Koch Club charitable endeavors.

Additional members of the committee are welcome and may contact Mrs. Koch for assignment.

PROTRUDING OBJECT PERIL

Most protruding objects around the house or at work are not potential dangers. But then there are those that are just begging for the human form to strike. Such as protruding pipes, hooks, towel racks, branches, shelf corners or open cabinet doors.

A photo in a medical journal provided gruesome evidence of how serious such an accident can be. It depicted an eye nearly torn from the socket by the projecting hook of a peg board.

The "run into" accident usually occurs unexpectedly. Your best defense is to get rid of the things that lie in wait for the unwary. Inspect your home for projecting menaces. A glass shelf over a sink is a sure trap for anyone bending over to rinse his face. Check your work bench and make sure that there is nothing you could strike as you bend over it. Also make sure that the lighting is adequate to give the potential victim an even shake.

Did You Try To Buy It Here At Home First?

Your dollar is always BIGGER at home!

It's a fact...33 cents of each dollar you spend goes into taxes and contributions that pay for our community's services and facilities.

When that dollar is spent here at home, you and we all can enjoy the benefits of better living and richer opportunities.

When we spend it elsewhere, in the nearest big city, then YOUR dollar pays for these advantages for SOMEBODY ELSE. And...to make it even worse, you still must pay those local taxes anyway.

Don't pay taxes twice...shop at home! It's the best money and time-saving habit we know.

Atty. Heslip E. Sutherland, 81, Bank Executive, Civic Leader

A memorial service for Atty. Heslip E. Sutherland, 81, of Quincy, former school committeeman, president and chairman of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, and long time civic leader, was held Saturday at Bethany Congregational Church.

Mr. Sutherland died Feb. 2.

He was a life-long Quincy resident.

Mr. Sutherland was graduated from Mount Hebron School in 1921 and was president of his class. He took pre-law studies at Boston University and was graduated from law school in 1925.

He was a member of the School Committee from 1936 to 1942, and served as vice chairman for three years. Mr. Sutherland was also chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals and Bethany moderator.

A member of the Massachusetts Bar since 1926, he was also a member of the American Bar Association, Massachusetts Bar Association, Boston Bar Association, and was senior past president and founder of the Quincy Bar Association.

HESLIP E. SUTHERLAND

Mr. Sutherland also served as chairman of the Republican City Committee and was a member of the Quincy Rent Control Board; chairman, Board of Managers, Public Burial Places; chairman, South Shore Transportation District; president, Norfolk County Health Association; president, Quincy Visiting Nurse Association; vice president, Republican Club of Massachusetts; chairman, Quincy Chapter, American Red Cross; president, Quincy Rotary Club; director, South Shore Transportation District; manager, Woodward School Donors' Fund.

He served as director of North Weymouth Cooperative Bank; director, president and chairman of Quincy Co-operative Bank; director, Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League, director, Homemakers Services of South Shore; trustee, Quincy Historical Society; director, Quincy Community Fund; director, South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Sutherland was a member of the Algonquin Club of Boston, Quincy Neighborhood Club, Wollaston Golf Club, Massachusetts Conveyors Society, Manet Lodge; and a member and moderator of Bethany Congregational Church.

He is survived by his wife of 53 years, Gladys Fletcher Sutherland; a daughter, Jane S. Harrington of Clifton Park, N.Y.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Interment after cremation was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to Bethany Congregational Church memorial fund, 18 Spear St., Quincy Center.

Herbert N. Colcord, Sr., Retired Jordan Marsh Manager

Born in Boston, she was employed at Gustin Kramer for 10 years before she retired in 1981.

Wife of the late Mr. Walter B. Gadsby, she is survived by three sons, Richard Gadsby of Norwood, Robert Gadsby of Taunton and Ronald Gadsby of Blackstone; 14 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral arrangements were by Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

'Myths On Aging' Lecture Topic At Hospital

The public is invited to attend the fourth lecture in the Quincy City Hospital's "Lunch and Learn Time" series Friday.

Participants may bring their own lunch or buy a sandwich and have coffee during the discussion.

The topic will be "Myths on Aging" presented by Linda Emerson, R.N., of the Nursing Department at Quincy City Hospital. There will be a short quiz on aging, and a discussion will be held on some of the problems and satisfactions of the aging process. "Age Pages," handouts from the National Institute on Aging, will be available. The program is free.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind . . .

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and needs of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- * Funeral and Interment Preferences
- * Vital Statistics and Data
- * Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- * Pre-Arrangement Information
- * Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Authors of fiction have never created a comparable character to capture the admiration and adulation reserved for Lincoln in history. Such memorialization has never happened before and probably will never happen again. Edwin M. Stanton certainly made a prophetic statement following Lincoln's death when he sadly said, "Now he belongs to the ages."

On Lincoln's birthday, we honor a man who rose from disheartening poverty to become one of the greatest and most revered men among men in history. His singular humility would prompt him to dislike the homage America gives him. Defeats and disappointments plagued him in his lifetime. Events and people gave him ample reason to be discouraged and resentful. He conquered discouragement, resisted resentment. A most fitting eulogy was expressed by Ralph Waldo Emerson - "His heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong." . . .

Marriage Vows To Be Renewed At St. John's Valentine Liturgy

Married couples may renew their marriage vows at a special Valentine liturgy Saturday, Feb. 12, at 7 p.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

The ceremony, to take place during the regular 7 p.m. Mass, will be followed by a social in the church hall. There will be music and dancing until 11 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

The Spiritual Development Commission of the Parish Council has planned the liturgy to honor the concept of devoted family life and to provide a source of sanctification for those parishioners who dedicate themselves to the married state.

The Valentine liturgy represents an opportunity for husbands and wives to renew their marriage vows collectively, to offer prayers of thanksgiving and ask the blessing of God upon their union, their homes and families.

It is suggested that the couple in attendance take seats in the center section of the church.

All are welcome, from newlyweds to diamond wedding anniversary celebrants.

There will be no charge for the entertainment to follow. Refreshments for the social will be sponsored by the Parish Activities Commission of the Parish Council.

St. Mary's Celebrates Catholic Schools Week

St. Mary's Elementary School, West Quincy, celebrated National Catholic Schools Week, with several activities based on the theme "In God We Trust... and Teach."

Rev. John McMahon

celebrated a special Mass with students and faculty participating. Following the Mass, parents, friends and parishioners were invited to an open house in the school where the students' work and projects were on display in the classrooms.

Special Presentation By Squantum Church Junior Choir

Members of the Junior Choir made a special musical presentation to the congregation of the First Church of Squantum Sunday morning during the first morning service.

They sang and danced a special version of "I'm Excited in the Lord" which they had choreographed themselves.

The group, directed by Mary Ruth Scott, included Blythe Bumpus, Kristen Reister, Amanda Young, Karin Reister, Michael Stamos, Melissa Stamos, Krista Olson, Kimberly Olson, and Lori Ogilvie.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preached a sermon entitled "Getting Yourself Together, using as his text Christ's call to His disciples, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." (Matthew 4:19b)

Michael Stamos and Andrew Ogilvie were ushers. Hazel Mayne and Bonnie Adams were in charge of refreshments.

During the second service, Adelaide Nelson and Renee Johnson were greeters. Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Kay Kelly and Fred MacMillan.

Dr. Langevin preached on the topic "Changing Enmity Into Partnership". This was the third in a series of sermons on the theology of the apostle Paul. Theme for Sunday was "Reconciliation".

The Chancel Choir sang "My Jesus, I Love Thee" by Gordon as the offertory.

Next Sunday, there will be no early service. The entire congregation will meet for worship at 10:30 a.m. The Lord's Supper will be observed. New church officers will be installed.

Before the service, at 9:15 a.m., there will be an all-church breakfast of orange juice, scrambled eggs, bacon, home fries, beverage and muffin.

Reservations can be made by calling the church office at 228-6649. Choir members can be served as early as 9 a.m.

Home Evening.

Elder Wright and Elder Fish will be going door-to-door and sharing these discussions with all who are interested.

North Continues Win Streak Over Quincy

Quincy and North Quincy High schools have had swimming for eight years and North has never lost to its cross-town rivals in boys' or girls' meets.

A look at the rosters gives a good idea of why Bill Walker's Raiders easily out swam the Presidents, coached by Eileen Cralley, 114-39, to finish with its best record, 8-2 (4-2 in the Suburban League). Quincy was winless (0-10 and 0-6 in the league.)

Walker had 26 swimmers and divers, while Cralley struggled with an eight-man squad. This has been the story throughout the eight-year series with Quincy outmanned in nearly every meet.

Both teams now prepare for Saturday's Suburban League championship meet at Brookline.

"This was a better season than we expected," Walker said. "The ninth and tenth graders have performed better than anticipated, and have pulled us through. We're not an individual powerhouse, but we are three-deep in every event. We can't take the firsts or seconds like Brockton and Brookline (the only teams to top North). We have to grind out each event. We are just a strong freestyle team."

North's Brad Martin won the 200 and 500 freestyle events, as he has done in most meets this year. His time of 53.2 for the first leg of the 400 freestyle relay cut two-tenths of a second off the team record set in 1979.

North sophomore Dan Moriarty won the diving and took second in the 100 breaststroke. Mark Wilkins won the 50 freestyle, Capt. Jim Boudreau won the 100 freestyle and Vito Barresi the 100 backstroke, all with their personal bests.

Other Raider winners were Ralph Santosuosso in the 200 individual medley, Jim Adams, 100 breaststroke, and the 200 medley relay team of Santosuosso, Adams, Mike Melanson and Bob Weikel.

Quincy's lone win came in the 400 freestyle relay with Jim Mayo, Tom Foley, Billy Milne and Billy Mayo making up the team.

Billy Mayo, the Presidents' only senior who was battling the flu, took seconds in the 200 and 500 freestyle events.

"Billy has encouraged other swimmers by setting a good example for his younger teammates," first-year coach Cralley said. "He's lost only four individual races all season and has a 16-4 record."

Six Quincy swimmers established new personal records, Bert Jenkins in the diving and 100 backstroke, Foley in the 50 and 100 freestyle, Steve Schow in the 100 breaststroke, Jim Mayo in the 100 freestyle, Jackie Kilrain in the 50 and 100 freestyle and Shawn Frenette in the 50 freestyle.

North Bows To Brookline, 79-73

The North Quincy boys' basketball team turned in one of its better performances last Friday but lost to Suburban League leader Brookline, 79-73, dropping its record to 4-8.

Ed Miller's Raiders played Brookline Tuesday, will be at Newton North Friday night at 8 and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday at 3:30.

North gave Brookline one of its toughest games before howing. John Purland had a big night for the Raiders with 23 points and 13 rebounds. Tim Ryan had 17 points and Chris Bunker added 15.

Brookline's Fred Hill, the league's leading scorer, had a game-high 26 points.

Earlier in the week North bowed to Waltham, 79-62, as it fell behind by an insurmountable 37-19 at the half.

Tim Ryan led North with 18 points. Paul Ryan had 12 and Steve Racene added 10.

Waltham's Doug Holter had a game-high 25 points.

Quincy Stubborn But Loses, 49-40

It was the same old story for the Quincy boys' basketball team last week as it gave Newton North a stubborn battle but lost, 49-40, dropping its record to 1-9.

Joe Amoroso's luckless Presidents played Waltham

Tuesday, will play at Brookline Friday night at 8 p.m. and will be host to Brookline Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

In the Newton game Quincy trailed by only 44-40 with 52 seconds left, but the Presidents missed a shot and Newton converted a three-pointer to seal the win.

Sophomore Bill Shaughnessy had a good night with 12 points, nine rebounds and six assists. Bob Mudge led the Presidents' scorers with 13 points.

Dunn, Morrell Lead Way

Quincy Girls Upset NewtonN.

The Quincy girls' basketball team, following its big win over North Quincy, upset Newton North, 43-38, last week for its second win in a row to improve its record to 2-5.

Marty Finnegan's First Ladies played Waltham Tuesday, will host Brookline Friday at 5 p.m. and will be at Suburban League-leading Brockton next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Senior Katie Dunn scored a game-high 18 points against Newton and Cindy Morrell added 10. Dunn also had nine rebounds.

Ellen Deady had eight points before being forced out early in the fourth quarter with an injury.

Michelle Miller, injured earlier in the game, came back to spur the team with four assists and three steals.

"This was another fine effort by the girls," Finnegan said. "They had lost some really tough games but these big wins over North Quincy and Newton should give them confidence the rest of the season."

Meanwhile, the Quincy junior varsity, coached by Chris Prendiville, evened its record at 4-4 with a 52-30 win over Newton North.

Terry McLoughlin was high scorer with seven points, followed by Joan Agres, Denise Loud, Mary-beth Marsters and Kathy McGregor, each with six.

In their previous game the Quincy jayvees lost to North Quincy, 47-35, as North's Christine Nagle held Agres to seven points. Quincy was plagued by poor foul shooting. In its previous game which North Quincy had won, 32-27.

In earlier Suburban League games Quincy had defeated Newton, 54-25, and Brookline, 35-25, lost to Waltham, 50-39; Brockton, 60-39, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 30-25. Like the varsity, the jayvees have been hurt at the foul line, outscoring some of the other teams from the floor, but losing on free throws.

The Quincy squad is made up by Tri-Captains Agres, Chris Cucinatta and McLoughlin;

Danielle Morris, Linda Mahoney, Laurie Fratolillo, Marlo LeVangie, Loud, McGregor, Colleen Craig, Karla Robertson, Kathy Thornton, Marsters, Colleen Philips and Nadia Derbes.

"The talent and potential of the young squad is endless," said Prendiville.

"We seldom use the same starting lineup, the talent is so widespread. The girls work extremely hard in practice. Using a 2-1-2 zone defense, man-to-man defense and a zone trap, the girls are taken seriously by each team in the Suburban League."

Scoreless Final Costs Quincy Game At Medford

The Medford High School basketball team rolled up 11 points in the final period while holding Quincy scoreless to overcome a one point deficit and take a 23-13 victory over the Presidents in the Medford gym.

Quincy, playing so cautiously that only four players had one basket from the floor apiece, led 10-8 at the half and 13-12 at the end of three periods. Hobie Chase was the leading scorer with four points while Henry Fisher had three.

The Quincy lineup included: Halloran, Mattson, Muir, forwards; L. Chase, center; H. Chase, Fisher, Christensen, Karlstrom, backs.

The Quincy second team, held scoreless through the second and third periods, bowed to the Medford jayvees, 11-9, in overtime. Bill Melville had four of his teams points, while McGuinness had three and Young two.

The lineup for the Quincy seconds included: Bassett, McGuinness, forwards; Young, center; Melville, Rougie, backs.

HAYNES DISCOVERED

The Quincy Trojans discovered a rising star in Francis Haynes, a 16-year-old Quincy High School sophomore, who threw in 11 points as the Trojans lost to the Atlantic TT, 40-20, in a City Amateur Basketball League game in the North Junior gym.

Biba Christensen and Joe Kelly had 14 points apiece to pace the Atlantic TT, who moved to within a half game of the loop leading Bruins. The Trojans were playing without the services of their captain, Gub Anderson.

The Atlantic TT lineup included: Christensen, Kelly, forwards; A. Chase, center; C. Chase, Whittum, guards.

QUINCY SIX BOWS

Milton Academy's Capt. Ned Wheeler had a three-goal hat trick in leading his team to a 7-0 victory over the Quincy High School hockey team on the Milton rink, the worst defeat of the year for the Presidents.

The Quincy record stood at two wins and four losses in the first season in which hockey was recognized as a letter sport.

The Quincy lineup included: MacDonald, goal; Pendergast, Lynch, defense; Grocott, Johnson, O'Connell, Bennett, Mullarkey, Hart, forwards.

QUINCY GIRLS WIN 2

Miss Bailey tossed in 15 baskets and a free throw as the Quincy Girls Club won a basketball doubleheader from the Somerville YMCA, 35-32 and 42-10, at Somerville. Capt. Philbrick had nine baskets and a foul and Miss Ochs had eight baskets.

The Quincy lineup included: Ochs, Philbrick, Bailey, forwards; Isadora Smith, center; Seller, Isabella Smith, jump centers; Coburn, Treco, backs.

FACULTY TRIUMPHS

Curly Rogers had 10 points and MacDonald added eight as the Quincy High School faculty basketball team came from behind to whip Braintree 34-27.

The Quincy faculty lineup included: Rogers, Alexander, forwards; Anderson, Sterling, centers; MacDonald, Kidder, Claxton, backs.

Raiderettes Zero In On Second

The North Quincy girls' track team virtually clinched second place in the Suburban League last week with a 52-33 win over Newton North to improve its record to 7-1. The teams had been tied for second place going into the meet.

Lou Tozzi's Raiderettes will complete their league season Friday when they face Quincy at 3:30 at Cambridge. They will then prepare for the state meet on Feb. 19.

In the Newton North meet the North girls won seven of the 10 events, including the relay.

Lisa Fitzgerald won the dash. Georgia Traficante was second and Jean O'Hare third in the 300. Julie Alibrandi was second and Lisa Reynolds third in the 600. Linda Kennedy won the 1000 with Joanne Zdanowski third, Sheila Barrett won the mile, Mary Ann Kelleher won the two-mile with Tracey Corrigan second, Maria McGurl won the hurdles. Traficante won the high jump with maximum potential. Toward this end it sponsors fun runs, two major races a year, bi-monthly meetings featuring guest speakers, films and videotapes.

QJC First To Win Tourney Berth

The Quincy Junior College men's basketball team became the first team in the Greater Boston Small College Conference to qualify for the conference playoffs when it defeated Northern Essex Community College, 76-67, last week.

The win put QJC in first place, dropping the Northern Essex Knights into second place. The Jaguars are now 18-5 overall and 12-2 in the conference.

Sparkling the win over Northern Essex were freshman guard Paul Gill and sophomore center Jim Conboy. Gill quarterbacked the attack and scored 17 points, while Conboy was outstanding on the boards and also scored 23 points. Paul Farby had 16 points and Steve Belcastro added 10.

Fourth-year coach Brian Buckley was enthusiastic about the win. "It was an extra-special win for us," he said. "Whenever you get a first place team in its own gym it requires a total team effort and that is what we received."

In a non-league game QJC defeated Bridgewater State College junior varsity, 79-74.

Gary DiNardo paced the offense with 20 points, 14 in the first half. Conboy had 18, Gill 11 and Forbes 10.

"The bench did a fine job and Keith Realini, Fran McEachern and the others filled in well as three of our players were out sick," Buckley said. "They contributed in areas that don't show up in the scorebook."

The Jaguars have seven games left before the playoffs. The next home game is next Thursday, Feb. 17, against Blue Hills Technical at 7 o'clock at the Vo-Tech gym.

The conference playoffs will be played at the Vo-Tech gym with the men's semifinals March 3 and the finals March 5.

Raiderettes Need 2 Wins To Make Tourney

The North Quincy girls' basketball team split last week and, with a 10-3 record, needs two wins in its last four games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. tournament for the third year in a row.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes faced Suburban League leading Brockton Tuesday, will host Newton North Friday at 5 p.m. and will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday at 5.

"North's job was made a good deal harder when high scorer, Chris Choukas, the league's number two scorer, was injured in last Friday's 42-38 loss to Brookline and is out indefinitely.

"Chris injured her knee when she made a jump shot with 53 seconds left and put us ahead, 38-36," Bregoli said. "We didn't score a point after that.

"Her loss is a serious one but the other girls have given a little extra and come through in the past when we have had injuries and I feel they will come through again."

Choukas had 18 points against Brookline, Mary Holleran scored eight, little Karen Boutillier six and Debbie Cavanaugh five.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes defeated Waltham, 44-31, exploding in the second period to clinch the decision.

Leading, 5-3, after a quarter, North rolled to a 22-9 halftime lead and never looked back.

Choukas had 15 points, Holleran had 11 and Boutillier, playing an outstanding game, had six points and played a fine floor game.

Quincy Girls Play In Montreal Tourney

Several Quincy and Greater Boston girls recently played volleyball international style in a tournament held at Legep Vanier in Montreal.

The tournament, sponsored by the IFVB and USVBA, was open to any U.S. or Canadian junior teams made up of players 19 and under.

The Massachusetts team was the only U.S. team entered in the event, dominated by Canadian junior college teams.

The team, coached by Ray Whitehouse, included Ellen Deady, Susan Beven, Christine Gallery, Colleen Dunn and Karen Marnell of Quincy; Michelle Quintaglie and Ginny Tom of Boston and Merle Solomon and Mary Lynch of Brockton.

Although the team didn't fare well in the win-lose column (1-9), the experience of playing in such a tournament was well worth the trip.

"The girls were not intimidated by the average height (6-foot) of their opponents and continually gave each game their best shot," said Whitehouse. "Deady and Gallery did a fine job blocking, while 16-year-olds Marnell and Dunn led the team in setting the ball. Tom did an outstanding job hitting backed by Beven."

The tournament winners was Hirordella de Jonguirere of Montreal, which easily beat the Mass team, 15-0, 15-0. The team's lone win came in a split with Bois deBoulogne, winning, 15-7, and losing, 10-15.

Quincy's Hopes Bright North's Now Dim

Quincy's hockey team is on a roll.

Two victories last week brought its record to 8-3 and vastly improved the Presidents' hopes of returning to the state tournament.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team, 6-3 in the Suburban League, played Brookline last night (Wednesday), will host Rockland in a non-league game at 7:50 p.m. at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will be home to Waltham at 6:40 p.m.

North Quincy, whose chances of making the tournament were dimmed last week when it lost to Quincy for the second time, dropping its record to 4-4-1, played Waltham last night, will play Brookline Saturday at 5:30 at Watertown and next Wednesday will play Brockton at the Askar rink at 6.

Last Saturday Quincy had no trouble downing winless Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 8-1, at Harvard, with Doug Concannon scoring two goals.

Mike Chenette, Steve Baylis, Jim McWeeney, Mike Nourse, Ed Boyle and Mark Lamic scored a goal apiece for the Presidents.

Earlier in the week Kevin Jago's North Quincy team took a 3-1 lead only to have Quincy come back with five unanswered goals to pull out a 6-4 victory.

While the win improved Quincy's chances to make the tournament, it makes things rough for the Raiders. The Presidents need five points in four games to qualify, while North has to win all three remaining games and hope for some upsets.

Baylis gave Quincy a quick lead 3:35 into the game with Chenette assisting. North then got rolling as Dean Phillips scored (from Dave DiCarlo and Keith Smith), Mike Cullen made it 2-1 (from Bob Reidy) and Smith gave the Raiders a two-goal lead (from John McGlame and Phillips). Concannon scored for Quincy (from Chenette and Baylis) and it was North, 3-2, at the end of the period.

The second period was all Quincy as Ted Walsh scored (from Concannon), Baylis put the Presidents ahead (from Chenette), Frank Reynolds scored (from McWeeney) and Concannon scored again (from Walsh).

DiCarlo scored the only goal of the third period as North goalie Bill Cahill was outstanding with 14 shots, Phillips and Steve Denelsbeck assisted on DiCarlo's goal.

Meeting Feb. 16 On Women's History Book At Woodward School

The Woodward School, which is coordinating a project that will lead to publication of a history of the women of the city, will hold a meeting Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the school, Quincy Center.

According to Woodward headmaster Robert L. Johnston, representatives of all Quincy groups, organizations and churches have been invited to the meeting.

Working with the school in the preparation for the book will be the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the Women's Center of Quincy Junior College and the Quincy Historical Society.

"Our goal is to make the book as inclusive as possible," Johnston states. "We want it to reflect contemporary women as well as those from the past."

Among the categories will be leaders in politics, education, religion, business and economics and what Johnston calls "lifestyle."

At the Feb. 16 session, Mrs. Doris Oberg, president of the Quincy Historical Society, will present an overview of Quincy women, a slide program she has been developing for many years.

Women who would be interested in helping with the project are invited to attend.

Woodward students will assist with the research as part of the school's educational program.

St. John's Parish Musical In Rehearsals

Rehearsals for the 10th Annual St. John's parish musical show are now being held Sunday afternoons in the school hall at 2:30 p.m.

Anyone, including youths from the ninth grade up, are cordially invited to participate by attending the rehearsals.

Theme of the show which will be presented March 25 and 26 at Archbishop Williams High School auditorium, will be a nostalgic look back at the nine past successful shows. The best songs and productions of those shows will be the features of the new show.

Once again the show will be under the direction of Fran Kelly and his assistants.

Patrons, sponsors, and program book supporters will be solicited to assist in defraying the costs of the show. Proceeds are to benefit the church maintenance and charity programs.

Antiques Show At Masonic Temple

Some $350,000 worth of antique furniture, china, accessories, dolls and jewelry will be featured Feb. 19-21 at the 28th annual South Shore at Quincy Antiques Show.

Hours will be 6 to 10 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 19, and 12 to 9 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 20 and Monday, Feb. 21 at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

Several new dealers have been added to the show which is the oldest show in continuous operation in Northern New England

Sponsor is the Wollaston Chapter #156, Order of the Eastern Star. The Ladies of the Star will operate a snack bar which opens one hour before the show each day.

The show is managed by Compass Antiques Show, Philip R. Balcom of Weymouth, coordinator.

At NQHS

QSO To Present Comic Opera Friday

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present Gian Carlo Menotti's comic one act opera, "The Old Maid and the Thief" at its second concert of the 1982-1983 season Friday.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. at North Quincy High School, Hancock and East Squantum Sts.

The program will also include Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D major. Guest conductor will be Paul J. D'Angelo.

Tickets and more information are available by calling 479-2408.

The performance of "The Old Maid and the Thief" is a first for the Quincy Symphony Orchestra since it is the first opera performed in the 29 year history of the QSO.

The comic opera, written and performed in English, tells the story of a town's old maid, her house maid, the village gossip and a vagrant.

Denise McMahon will sing the role of Miss Todd.

She has sung in productions of the Opera Company of Boston, the Boris Goldovsky Music Institute, Artists Internationale, the Providence Opera Theatre, and Opera à la Carte.

Loretta Noel Frateriggo, who sings the role of Laetitia has performed numerous roles in operatic and theatrical productions including Maria in Bernstein's "West Side Story", with Theatre Project of New Hampshire and Monica in Menotti's "The Medium" with the Vermont Opera Theatre.

Janice Del Sesto, who sings the role of Miss Pinkerton, made her professional debut at the age of 17 when she appeared in the world premiere of the musical version of "The Grass Harp" with the Trinity Repertory Theatre.

Philip Brown, who sings the role of Bos, is a graduate of North Quincy High School and attended Boston University's School of Music.

He was recipient of a Quincy Symphony Orchestra-Quincy Savings Bank Scholarship in 1979. Brown is a seven year member of the QSO viola section and a baritone soloist at the First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

A Quincy resident, he will sing the baritone solo for the Quincy Choral Society's performance of Brahms' "Requiem" in March.

H.N. Council To Hold

Sweethearts Dance Saturday

The Houghs Neck Community Council will hold a "Sweethearts" dance

Saturday at 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

Proceeds will go to the Houghs Neck Community Council Scholarship Fund.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsell

WEEK OF: FEBRUARY 10

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Jobs go off on tangents, making for a disorderly yet financially upbeat week. Thursday-Monday favor interviews and preparing resumes. Lovelorn look to you as number-one advisor.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Singles should mingle, marrieds should consider travel or making travel plans. A mobile week, you could find yourself moving about on the job or being given an out-of-town assignment.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Keyword now is experimentation, whether at home, at school, on the job. Health needs should be a priority. Good time to speak your mind — you're more objective, less emotional.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Be alert to new job options through the week. More time than planned required for educational activities, avoid last-minute efforts. Romance is suddenly very sweet.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Partnership arrangements improve after a solid review and perhaps an outside opinion. Psychic gifts are sharp. Financial transactions are delayed, don't be shy in planning your new spring look.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
You achieve high marks in the social arena, but in finance you might be vulnerable. Most compatible companions now include Librans, Geminis and fellow Cancerians.

LEO - July 23-August 22
A gentle touch is not your best technique, make your point clearly and loudly. Design sense is on target, a splendid week for dressing a room or planning your new spring look.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Family aggravation on Thursday-Friday, and you're nominated to play diplomat. Group adventures featured on the weekend. Capricorn or Pisces may step into the romantic picture.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Things run more smoothly at home than on the job — it's not the week to speak your mind. Valentine's Day emphasizes the sentimental side of your mate's personality.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
You win support of supervisor, but red tape becomes more trouble than ever. Relationship becomes more intense through the week. Public speaking is a strong point on weekend.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
A transition week, upward moves are indicated, and romance takes a new turn. Scientific and technical tasks are highlighted. Financial review should not be postponed.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Family disputes over shared finances benefit from a cooling-off period. Romance accents the intellectual side of your relationship. Arranging parties and meetings is present strength.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're caution personified, and kindness itself. You're also quite a bit ahead of your time. Springtime accents academic branching out and the discovery of new talents. Financial setbacks alternate with gains, and budgeting is critical through '83.

BORN THIS WEEK
February 10th, singer Roberta Flack. 11th, actor Burt Reynolds. 12th, actor Lorne Greene. 13th, actor George Segal. 14th, actress Florence Henderson. 15th, singer Melissa Manchester. 16th, singer Sonny Bono.

Billboard Proponents Promised Hearing On Ban

Representatives of the billboard industry will have a chance to register their opposition to a proposed ban on off premises signs at a future City Council meeting.

The Council held a public hearing on the proposal Monday night but inclement weather kept spokesmen from the industry from attending. There was no opposition.

The Council, however, had agreed to postpone any vote on the matter until the billboard side could be heard.

George A. Berman, counsel for Ackery, an outdoor advertising firm, wired the Council that there may be "substantial constitutional questions." "Attention to these issues," he said, "may lead to modification which will avoid unnecessary litigation."

There was little interest Monday night in a public hearing on an ordinance that would ban off-premises signs, better known as billboards, from the city.

Robert Luongo of the Planning Department, the only witness to testify at the hearing, called billboards "a blight on the city."

"Cities have a right to be beautiful," he said. Luongo told the Council that there are about 40 billboards in the city, most of them on the main streets.

Hancock St., Washington St. and Quincy Ave.

"The Planning Board has been trying to improve the business districts," he said, "but all this is to no avail if we keep the billboards. There is no other argument for a ban except esthetics."

Luongo explained that an ordinance passed in 1980 made significant restrictions on such signs but it was decided not to go for a complete ban until a later date.

"This," he said, "is the later date."

Rita The Meter Maid To Ticket With Valentines

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
If a voluptuous meter maid with long red hair roller skates up to your parked car in Quincy Sq. and leaves a ticket beginning on Friday, don't panic.

The meter maid isn't of the regular variety, and the ticket will win you a prize rather than cost you a fine.

Sandy Rounseville, owner of Beacon Fabrics in Quincy Sq. who brought you Paul Revere Rounseville and Comfortman, will debut as Rita the Meter Maid Friday at noon.

Rita, will sing a song written for the occasion to the tune of "The Impossible Dream" (Love A Meter Maid) in front of Rounseville's store, 1568 Hancock St.

Then it's off to her appointed rounds for Rita who will spend the next three to four hours, as well as Saturday and Monday, delivering red Valentine parking tickets signed, "Love, Rita".

Resplendent in a navy blue skirt, white hat and red party hose, she won't be hard to miss. If it's snowing, she'll wear snow shoes rather than roller skates.

Rita will make a guest appearance later that day on the Jerry Williams radio talk show.

Those who receive the Valentine shaped tickets can bring them to Beacon Fabrics and redeem a prize. You must be a licensed driver to participate.

Downtown merchants have donated prizes ranging from ice cream cones and cups of coffee to lottery tickets and dinners for two in Quincy restaurants.

"Everybody gets a prize," said Rounseville, "you can't lose."

No matter what Mother Nature has in store weather-wise, Rita the Meter Maid will patrol the streets and parking lots of Quincy Sq.

Rounseville promised, "Wind, rain or snow, Rita's always on the go."

all the equipment available in the third step.

Colton said this was the first time the department has reached the third step. "We were able to keep with the storm," said Colton, "There are always problems here and there, but we were able to solve them."

The storm caused cancellation of classes Monday and Tuesday in Quincy Public Schools. Several other schools, as well as social and other events, were also cancelled.

Scattered power outages were reported Monday night.

Beechwood Registration For 'Winter Specials'

Registration begins Monday, Feb. 14, for February vacation "Winter Specials" for children Feb. 22-25 at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Most classes have limited enrollment. Call the center at 471-5712 for more information.

The classes are:
Computer Programming - Grades 4-5 and Grades 6-8.
Hands on experience. Developing student's own programming project 1-3:30 p.m.

Silkscreen & Printing - Middle school students. Students will create and design their own stencil and be able to print on fabrics. Students will bring their tarily and then-assistant Solicitor Dean Nicastro asked for a 60-day continuance to contest it. The continuance was denied.

This was in mid-January and the hearing date was Feb. 2.

The city hired the Boston tax counselling firm of Cuddy and Lynch to represent it before the Board and hired expert witnesses Leon Spencer of Seattle, Wash., and Michael B. Meyer.

Spencer is an expert on regulated utility appraisals, and Meyer is an authority on regulated utility rates.

"There was no time to get a City Council appropriation," Golden told the Council. "Win, lose or draw, you have to call them as you see them."

"It would have been a dereliction of duty on the part of the Solicitor's office to have caved in based on faulty figures."

"We had the choice of swallowing an $1.8 million to $3 million judgement against the city or prepare an intelligent case for the Appellate Tax Board."

Golden said that, of the $45,000, about $39,000 would be paid to Cuddy and Lynch, including $10,000 in expert witness fees to Spencer and $4,000 to Meyer.

There would also be a $5,985.52 payment to Cuddy and Lynch for its work on the General Dynamics case.

Golden said there are a number of similar tax abatement cases pending against the city, including one by Boston Edison, which could cost the city a worst case $3.2 million, and another by Algonquin Gas.

"If we accepted the figures that were to be used in the Mass Electric settlement," he said, "then these other companies would come down heavily on us."

He said a decision by the Appellate Tax Board in the case may take several months.

Boxing Club Granted One-Day Beer License

Ciraolo said he hoped the shows would attract 800-1000 people.

This week, City Clerk John Gillis said that he'd like to give the show a chance. "I see nothing wrong with it (boxing), said Gillis, who boxed in his youth. "It's a way of life in this country."

Atherton Hough, Snug Harbor Students Learning About Animals

Students at the Atherton Hough and Snug Harbor Schools are learning about animals this month.

Teachers from the American Humane Education Society (Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) are presenting programs to help children appreciate other living things and become more aware of animal needs and behavior.

The mini courses, taught at grade level, will continue Feb. 14 at the Atherton Hough and Feb. 14 and 15 at Snug Harbor.

The courses emphasize humane treatment and suggest ways that children help wildlife and domestic animals.

HELP WANTED

ASSISTANT CLERK-MAGISTRATE

Immediate opening at Norfolk Division of the Superior Court Department of the Massachusetts Trial Court.

POSITION SUMMARY

This position involves responsible legal work of moderately complex difficulty and some supervisory responsibilities. The employees in this position assist the Clerk-Magistrate in performing the legal and administrative duties as set forth in state statutes and court rules. Responsibilities include the preparation and maintenance of all court papers and records and the performance of administrative tasks to ensure that cases move rapidly and smoothly to a determination by the court. Work is performed under the direction of the Clerk-Magistrate or First Assistant Clerk-Magistrate. Supervision is exercised over support personnel within the Clerk-Magistrate's Office.

POSITION REQUIREMENTS

Knowledge, skills and abilities acquired through four years of professional legal experience in an office of a Clerk-Magistrate or Register of Probate or a college degree from an accredited college or university.

All applicants must file resume plus standard Trial Court application form which is available at any courthouse.

SALARY: $24,000.00/yr.

Respond on or before February 16, 1983 to: Office of Clerk-Magistrate, Superior Court Dept. of the Trial Court, Norfolk Division, 650 High St., P.O. Box 229, Dedham, Ma 02026. Attention: Mildred C. Linehan.

Council Votes Ash St. Acceptance

The City Council has voted to accept Ash St., North Quincy, as a public way, mostly so that it can be resurfaced by the Public Works Department.

Councillor Joanne

Burgin Extension Parking Banned

The City Council Monday voted to ban parking on both sides of the Burgin Parkway Extension Condon explained that Ash St. is the access road to a small knot of homes on Walnut and Myrtle Sts. that were cut off by construction of the Newport Ave. Extension.

between Centre and Penn Sts., South Quincy, a section of street that has not yet been built.

She said residents were concerned that the resurfacing was planned, not for them, but for future developers. Condon added that a neighborhood meeting in December allayed those concerns.

No one showed up at a public hearing earlier Monday night to oppose the acceptance.

General Dynamics Wins $12.5-M Navy Contract

The U.S. Navy has announced the award of a $12.5 million contract to the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard from the overhaul of the 16,500-ton submarine USS Fulton.

It was estimated the contract will create 360 additional jobs at the yard when the Fulton, which is based at New London, Conn., arrives in Quincy sometime during the summer.

It is the third substantial military contract to be awarded to the Fore River shipyard in the past six months after the Navy had ignored the yard for the past 10 years.

Last August, a $272.6 million contract was received for two Navy cargo ships and another contract totaling $348.9 million for three cargo ships last month.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly called the repair contract "another important breakthrough for the Fore River Shipyard. This is the first major overhaul work Quincy has done for the Navy."

"It will provide critically needed jobs while the shipyard gears up for the construction of the five large cargo ships that have been ordered by the Military Sealift Command."

$1.8 Million Revenue Bond Approved For Pilgrim Shop Center

The City Council Monday night cleared the way for a $1,885,000 industrial revenue bond to construct Pilgrim Plaza, a nine-store shopping center at Quincy Ave. and Scamwell St.

Michael Zucker, general partner in the firm of Hamilton Realty of Allston,

Torino Taken

Ronald Ellison, 23 Shirley St., West Quincy, reported to police Monday that his 1972 Ford Torino was stolen from the home address.

to the Council if things go according to plan construction will start in April.

Part of the 1.3-acre site is now occupied by Jim's Diner, which will be razed, Zucker said. The stores will include a bank, a drug store and a cleaners, all local community shops.

Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro said a long list of restrictions have been agreed to, including that no store will be open after 11 p.m. and the plaza will have no coin-operated laundromat.

If Reval Not Delayed

Late Tax Bills Would Be Costly

Final figures for 100 per cent revaluation are expected to be ready by the end of this week but the process is not going fast enough to suit Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

McCauley has asked the State Department of Revenue to postpone implementation of revaluation for one more year so the program can be completed "with the least possible cost and least possible disruption."

At the rate the revaluation process is going, said the mayor, the city will not only miss the April 1 deadline for mailing second half fiscal 1983 tax bills but may go over into fiscal 1984.

"Municipal Appraisal Services of Fall River has pretty well assembled the figures now," he said. "They should be in here and ready to go to the Department of Revenue this week."

"Then we have to wait for state approval. Then we send out impact notices. Then we have to allow the people time to appeal if they don't agree with the new assessments."

"The key thing is the appeal period. It may take as long as two or three months. We don't want to rush people. We want to be able to take the time so the process will be done right."

Whatever happens, said McCauley, the tax levy for fiscal 1983 will be the same, $48,295,800, a 15 per cent cut from fiscal 1982 as demanded by Proposition 2½.

That would mean a tax rate of $175 per thousand, if the city is permitted to use the old values for one more year.

McCauley made his request for postponement of reval in a letter to Deputy Revenue Commissioner Edward J. Collins Jr. Feb. 9. He had no reply by Tuesday, he said, but he didn't expect one so quickly.

City Auditor Robert E. Foy estimates it will cost the city more than $3,800 a day in interest charges for short-

Gunmen Get Jewelry In Phase II Robbery

Two Spanish-speaking men, each carrying a hand gun, held up the Phase II jewelry store Tuesday and escaped with a quantity of gold chains and rings and other jewelry.

The men entered the store at 10:50 a.m., police said, and while one of them herded two woman clerks into a back room, the other forced a third clerk to open the display cases.

The store employees were then told to wait 10 minutes before calling the police and the men fled.

Detective Thomas Healy said the two men were seen in the area apparently casing the store on Monday and intended to rob it at 10 a.m. Tuesday but found the door locked. They returned 50 minutes later.

They were described as about 25 years old, wearing jackets and hats. They did not wear masks, Healy said, but wore glasses in an apparent attempt to disguise their features.

After Closed Door Session

McCauley Edict 'Settles' City Hospital Furor

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he feels he has settled the latest controversy at City Hospital with a directive defining the responsibilities of the Board of Managers and the Hospital Corp. of America.

The directive came out of a meeting behind closed doors among McCauley, three members of the Board of Managers, two representatives of HCA and City Solicitor Dean Nicastro.

Chief among the seven items in what McCauley called "Points of Agreement" is one that specifically gives HCA "the authority and responsibility to conduct, supervise and manage the day-to-day operation of the hospital."

The controversy started when the Board of Managers requested HCA to transfer Director James E. Lowenhagen, a move that some said smacked of the old days of politics at the hospital.

Another of McCauley's "Points of Agreement" specifies that HCA shall provide a hospital director "whose initial and continuing appointment shall be subject to the approval of the Board of Managers."

McCauley said Lowenhagen's situation was not discussed during the hour-long meeting with the Board and HCA.

The mayor said the "Points of Agreement" were drawn up to make sure that "all the parties involved know their responsibilities, and will not enter each others' domain."

Another point acknowledges that the Mayor is the "governing body" of the hospital, based on a legal opinion by former City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming, and he has the right to delegate some authority.

In a companion listing, dubbed by McCauley the "Delegation of Authority" letter, he gives the Board of Managers the responsibility of "contracts with physicians who provide independent contractor services in areas such as anesthesiology, etc."

One of the Board of Managers' charges against Lowenhagen was that he signed a contract giving a $220,000 advance payment to a group of anesthesiologists without consulting the Board.

The Board is also given approval of the hiring of four key operatives, in addition to the director — the controller and the directors of Patient Business Services, Nursing Services and Accounting.

McCauley noted that under state law the mayor has to approve all contracts over $2,000, which has not been done at the Hospital.

In a covering letter sent to all members of the Board of Managers, the mayor suggested that both "Points of Agreement" and "Delegation of Authority" be approved at the next Board meeting.

Work-To-Rule Spreads To Snug Harbor School

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
"Temporary but strict" work-to-rule began Tuesday at Snug Harbor elementary school which the president of the Quincy Education Association calls "a monument of benign neglect."

Snug Harbor teachers and staff joined those at Quincy High and Vocational Technical School in withholding any services outside of legal working hours.

"Snug Harbor is a physical disgrace," said Herman (Hank) Pasquella, QEA head. "Level funding can do nothing but continue this offense."

"Both students and staff are prisoners of graffiti and crumbling masonry that is the litter and debris of level funding and zero growth in the budget."

"It's the responsibility of the authorities to create an atmosphere conducive to education. We're asking the authorities to rectify the situation."

School Committee Vice Chairwoman Mary Collins commented, "I don't think work-to-rule is a very effective thing. It doesn't accomplish anything." "It penalizes the kids for not putting money in the budget."

MDC, Residents Discuss Pumping Station

Representatives of the MDC were scheduled to meet with local residents last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Germantown Community Center to discuss plans for the Braintree-Weymouth Interceptor and Pumping Station.

"This state project will have a major impact on our Germantown community," said City Councillor Leo J. Kelly, who arranged the meeting to give residents an opportunity to be heard.

"The first phase of the interceptor brought the sewer pipe under the Town River to the tip of the Germantown peninsula.

"The second phase is proposed to go from the tip of Germantown up to the circle, along Palmer St., to Empire St.

"At Empire St. it will go across to the dike and then to the proposed new Braintree - Weymouth Pumping Station that would replace the existing one."

The MDC has scheduled a public hearing on the project Wednesday Feb. 23, at 8 p.m. in the Weymouth Town Hall.

C-V License Granted New 'Third Rail' At Quincy Station

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A new "Third Rail," should be alive at the Quincy Center MBTA station by about May 1.

But instead of high voltage, this one will offer hot and cold meals.

The Quincy License Board granted a common victualer license Tuesday to William J. Rooney of Hanover for The Third Rail, "lunch counter type operation", at the former McGilvray's Drug.

Hours will be 5 a.m. to 8 p.m. six days a week. The property will be leased from The MBTA.

According to Atty. Richard Hynes, representing the applicant, the cafeteria style establishment will seat about 85 patrons at stools and booths.

Hynes said that cooking equipment will be located towards the back of the establishment, with seats towards the front so that patrons can watch for buses.

City Clerk John Gillis and other board members pointed out that there is a problem at that station with youths congregating.

"There's definitely a police problem," agreed Police Capt. Paul Nestor, "there's a drug and alcohol problem."

Board members and Nestor praised Quincy Patrolman Donald Pearson who polices the Quincy Station.

Nestor said the new establishment could provide an "escape place" for youths told to move on by MBTA or Quincy police.

"They can sit down and have some coffee and swap whatever they want," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

Hynes said that Rooney, a former MBTA police sergeant, is well aware of the problems because his wife manages B.J.'s Convenience Store, also at the Quincy MBTA station.

"He's not going in not knowing the facts of life," Hynes assured the board. "And he's got heavy capital involved."

"There will be constant supervision," said Hynes.

"It's up to you people to see that it doesn't become a hang-out and drug establishment," said Barry.

Hynes said that Rooney was a successful bidder for the property. Approval is needed now by the MBTA board of review which Governor Michael Dukakis has yet to appoint.

Hynes did not say how much the bid was for.

The license is subject to approval by the Fire, Health and Building Departments.

Budget Wiped Out Weekend Snow Costly For City

By TOM HENSHAW

The fact that the latest snow storm came on a weekend was both good news and bad news for Quincy.

The storm that dropped about a foot and a half of light powdery snow on the city arrived after commuter hours, which inconvenienced few people and made the cleanup job easier.

That's the good news.

Although the precise figures have not yet been calculated, the weekend storm cost more than normal in overtime pay for workers and will mean a big deficit in an already depleted $127,000 snow removal budget.

That's the bad news.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley had words of praise for "an excellent job" for the Public Works crews and hired equipment who kept major roads open and Civil Defense workers who carried out emergency work. Some 70 volunteers, including skin divers and operators of four-wheel drive vehicles and snowmobiles, answered the call to assist Civil Defense personnel, mostly in transporting key workers to jobs.

Mayor McCauley declared a state of snow emergency at 4:05 a.m. Saturday and the bans associated with the emergency remained in effect for some 18 hours, until midnight.

The critical spot in the city was on Palmer St., between Adams Shore and Germantown where, shortly after 4 a.m. Saturday, at least 40 vehicles were abandoned; and the street was impassable.

"If a fire were to have broken out, a life-threatening situation would have existed," said Anthony Siciliano, the auxiliary police chief who is also acting director of Civil Defense.

Extra tow trucks were pressed into service and 40 vehicles plus an MBTA bus were hauled out of the drifting snow.

Civil Defense workers transported an 5-day-old baby to the hospital through the snow and insulin was rushed to an elderly diabetic.

Some 18 nurses and other medical personnel were picked up in Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth and brought to City Hospital at 12:30 a.m. Sunday to relieve personnel still on duty.

The city was alerted to the coming storm early and the Civil Defense office was opened at 6:30 a.m. Friday.

Division heads, along with manpower and resources, were called in to CD headquarters at 8 p.m. Friday as the snow started to fall and 90 per cent of the personnel were dismissed at 12 noon Sunday.

CD personnel aided workers at WJDA and The Quincy Sun Cable News Channel 8 to get to their work places and distribute word of the storm to listeners and viewers.

"The Public Works Department got a good early start opening the roads," said Mayor McCauley, "and the crews kept up with it."

"Parked cars were still the biggest snow removal problem, I would urge in future storms that people park their cars in vacant lots, driveways, any place to get them off the streets."

McCauley said the city spent $90,000 on three minor snow storms earlier and $40,000 on the last major storm, which wiped out the $127,461 allotted for snow removal in the budget.

"What we spent on the weekend storm will be deficit," said the mayor, pointing out that deficits are not unusual and are made up in the following year's budget.

Last year the city's snow removal budget went into deficit by $219,000.

ENTHUSIASTIC team of shovelers was recruited to dig this car out of a snowbank on Hollis Ave., North Quincy.

Alertness Thwarts Pickpockets

There is a saying among pickpockets that "you can't steal a man's money if he has his mind on it."

Pickpockets time their thefts for the moment when their victims shift interest, say at a fire or an accident or while waiting in line at a market or theater.

The pickpocket may engage his victim in conversation, gain his confidence and then steal his wallet. Women are often their victims, too.

Here are some suggestions for protecting your wallet or purse from a pickpocket.

- Don't display large sums of money in public.
- Always be aware of your money or your purse while shopping or in any public place where there is a crowd around.
- Don't carry your wallet in a hip pocket. It's the easiest pocket to pick, even if you have it buttoned.
- Don't lay your handbag on the counter or on the floor of a store. Don't leave it in a shopping cart.
- When carrying an open or basket type of purse, don't have your money or your wallet visible.
- When carrying an armload of packages, keep your purse between your body and the packages.
- Don't carry loose bills or purses or wallets in your coat or sweater pockets when shopping.
- When a stranger starts a conversation with you, be aware of your wallet and your money.

Remember, you can't steal a man's money if he has his mind on it.

'The Wish List:' A Helping Hand

A good many communities are financially strapped by today's hard times and can no longer afford some of the "extras" that once made life a little easier and more enjoyable.

Not only here in Massachusetts under the restraints of Proposition 2½ but throughout the country as the recession continues, the economy sputters but doesn't spark and unemployment slightly dips but doesn't go down.

Some communities are, figuratively speaking, flat on their backs.

So maybe it's appropriate that Dave Ezickson, a teacher at the Daniel Webster School, came across a way to help while literally flat on his back.

EZICKSON

Mayor Francis McCauley and the City Council for consideration.

Not that Quincy is flat on its back. But, knowing how His Honor likes to pinch a penny and the City Council is in a belt-tightening mood, it might provide Quincy with a few of the little "extras" it no longer can afford.

In its article, "Make A Wish" (Feb. 7), Time gives a few examples of how some communities are getting some of the items and services they otherwise could not afford — donated gifts.

Like Athens, Tenn. (pop. 13,000) where unemployment has hit 14 per cent and inflation is galloping far ahead of tax revenue. So, everything is being cut back.

But, new trees have been planted in city parks, an exercise trail blazed through one and six new "Welcome to Athens" signs adorned with shrubbery have been erected. Total cost: $11,300.

Virtually all of it was donated by local residents and businesses. They picked the projects from a brochure. Even the brochure, costing $250 was paid for by donors: the City Council.

Cities from Baltimore to Oregon City, Ore., according to Time, are publishing "wish lists" of services and items they want but cannot afford.

"They are soliciting tax-deductible gifts, either in cash or services from private donors. Such items as park and sports equipment, typewriters, computers, film projectors and even pianos for community centers.

Baltimore took two newspaper pages to list 2,500 wishes and has received more than half of them including: duplicating machines, fumigation of schools, repainting of vans used to transport senior citizens. Even a four-story 19th century observatory was refurbished and seats at Memorial Stadium scrubbed clean. Estimated value of the goods and services: $10 million.

"The response was truly gratifying," says Mayor

The cover of Oregon City's pitch for help

William Schaefer, "an inspiration to carry on through hard times."

Detroit's gift catalogue, says Time, has brought in $300,000 for its parks and recreation facilities.

Phoenix's wish list has led to creation of three foundations to help boost the parks budget.

Lake Forest, Ill., an affluent Chicago suburb, is wishing higher than other communities. It's looking for a few things like a $30,000 artificial lake for its municipal golf course, a $2.5 million indoor pool and a $1.2 million indoor tennis facility.

Lake Forest is still waiting for them. But, meanwhile, it has received $104,000 in other donations since it printed its wish list last September. The items received include trees for the city's parkways, landscaping for city hall, an exercise trail in a park and an oak table for city council meetings.

Oregon City is asking for a new $120,000 fire engine, $7,000 rescue equipment, a $1,200 hydrocarbon meter to detect the presence of explosive gases and 40 new light poles costing $18,000 each.

Well, there must be a few things Quincy needs but cannot afford these days. And there may be donors — individual and business — who might be able to help get them as tax deductible gifts.

Mayor McCauley and the City Council might like to give it some thought.

The Quincy Sun would be willing to kick it off by donating two pages for a "Quincy Wish List."

CITY COUNCILLOR Patricia Toland is recuperating at her Wollaston home after surgery at Quincy City Hospital. She's doing fine. Best wishes and a speedy recovery, Pat.

New Ordinance Would Help Handicapped Parkers

The longest continuous and undefended frontier in the world is that between Canada and the U.S. which extends for 3,987 miles.

A city ordinance that would prohibit others from parking their cars in spaces reserved for handicapped persons has been forwarded to the state for its approval.

The ordinance was passed at the Jan. 17 meeting of the City Council at the urging of Councillor Theodore P.

DeCristofaro, who cited many abuses of the reserved parking spaces.

The order reads that no person may park a vehicle in a parking space reserved for the handicapped unless his or her car bears a distinctive number plate issued to a disabled veteran or handicapped person.

It also prohibits the parking of a vehicle in such a manner as to obstruct a curb ramp designed for use by handicapped persons as a means of getting onto a sidewalk.

The ordinance would apply to all public and private parking space in the city.

Why Udall Isn't Running

(Editor's note: The following was written by state Sen. Paul Harold (D-Quincy) who had a front row seat to Congressman Morris Udall's decision not to run for President.)

By PAUL HAROLD

Congressman Mo Udall's announcement last week that he would not be a candidate for President told as much about the system as the man.

Presidential politics has become so expensive and such an ordeal that starting two years in advance of the 1986 inauguration day is "too late".

Udall, who ran a consistent second to Jimmy Carter in the 1976 caucuses and primaries, agonized over his final decision for weeks. I was part of a key group who advised him in the final weeks. And last week I was invited to attend the National Press Club luncheon, to hear the end of what a month ago promised to be one of the hottest national campaigns. Actually, no one, not even his wife, Ella, knew in advance that those final words would be. Some of us "true believers" hoped he would leave the door open for a draft. He didn't.

Udall's Presidential star appeared on the national horizon Dec. 1, 1982 - the day Senator Edward Kennedy said he would not run. Within hours the Udall Campaign almost took off almost without the candidate. Plans were being made for an announcement in Washington and Boston. I was called upon to come up with a local site.

Initially, Udall wanted to address head on the questions of his health. Seven years ago he was diagnosed as having Parkinson's disease. Three of the top experts (two Republicans and one Independent, Udall noted) gave him a clean bill of health last month, and the story subsequently was leaked to the Washington Post.

But, in the end, Udall was able to answer questions other raised but not those lingering doubts in his own mind.

Still paying off his debt from 1976, Udall feared that unintentionally a Presidential bid this time might cast him in the role of a spoiler. A role he knew only too well.

In retrospect, political observers noted that had Senators Birch Bayh, Fred Harris and Sargent Shriver not split the progressive wing of the Democratic Party, Udall would have finished first in most of the primaries and knocked Carter out after the Massachusetts primary.

Despite the tuncal-type message he delivered Wednesday afternoon, Udall delighted the overflow crowd with his dry Arizona wit.

He told of his announcement for President eight years ago in New Hampshire, after which he stuck his head in a nearby barbershop.

"I'm Mo Udall and I'm running for President," he said. The proprietor turned and responded, "Yea, we were laughing about that this morning."

He went on to note that as a result of his unsuccessful campaign and that of his fellow Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater, that mothers in that state tell their children that they cannot grow up to become President.

While taking himself out of contention for 1986, Udall said he would serve as a national spokesman for the party and make the Reagan administration account for its stewardship.

Or to put it in Udall's familiar style: "I'm not afraid of the heat and I'm staying in the kitchen, to keep an eye on the chef."

Adams: 'No Future If Atomic Madness Goes On'

By KEN BORDEN

If this atomic madness goes on, there will be no future," said historian Thomas Boylston Adams in Quincy, Sunday while calling for the passage of a nuclear weapons freeze initiative in Congress.

Adams spoke before approximately 50 persons from the 11th District at historic United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., where his ancestors, Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives are entombed.

Adams noted that "accidents are bound to happen; and if trends are not controlled, they will happen."

The meeting was sponsored by the Committee for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze, a national organization dedicated to the passage of a nuclear freeze law prohibiting the testing, production, and deployment of all nuclear weapons, simultaneously, in the United States and the Soviet Union.

Similar meetings were held in all congressional districts throughout the United States Sunday in an effort to organize a grass roots coalition which will travel to Washington and lobby Congress.

Eighteen persons volunteered to represent the eleventh congressional district. Ten people are residents of Quincy. Congressman Donnelly has agreed to meet with the delegation on Tuesday, March 8.

Housing Authority To Manage Federal Projects

The City Council voted to create a Quincy Housing Authority composed of five members to supervise the construction and maintenance of a low income permanent federal housing project if the city chooses to build one.

Sentiment at a public hearing held prior to the Council meeting was so heavily weighted in favor of such a project that Councillor Frank Orcutt said the Council could not vote against it without giving up majority rule.

The only voice in opposition was sounded by William M. Edmonston, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, who said he favored the authority but he did not favor construction of the project.

Meanwhile, Mayor Charles A. Ross announced that a special committee had chosen three possible sites for the 150 temporary veterans' housing units that had been allocated to Quincy by the federal government.

They were on the north side of Pond St. between Washington St. and Southern Artery; in a parking lot between Cleverly Court and Chubbuck St., Quincy Point; and on a vacant lot between Canal and Brackett Sts.

GOP CALLED 'JOKE'

Ernest Wheeler Towne of Wollaston told fellow members of the Republican City Committee, that the GOP has become "a joke. Mention it and you get a smile. The reason is apparent. It has failed to be the opposition party."

"Under the control of the New Deal," said Towne, "the Democratic party has been the left wing party and has led us into National Socialism. The Republican party has been a cheap 'me too' party."

"We need youthful leadership. We must purge our ranks of all isms and ists. We must put the mark of Cain on all so-called liberals and send them out to work under true name, National Socialists."

5th Annual Red Cross Blizzard Ball Feb. 19

The South Shore Chapter of the American Red Cross will hold its fifth annual Blizzard Ball Saturday, Feb. 19, at the Lantana, Randolph.

The ball, which commemorates the 1978 blizzard, is the South Shore Chapter's major fundraiser for the year.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will serve as honorary chairman. Chapter Chairman John M. Corcoran, and Ball Chairman John Doyle, and their committee have planned a special evening with dinner and dancing to the music of the Casuals.

Proceeds from the ball will support Red Cross service programs administered throughout the South Shore area.

A volunteer organization which has always derived its strength from local people willing to devote time and energy to the Red Cross' efforts, the organization continues to provide relief in times of disasters, to provide courses in health and safety, to help people avoid emergencies, to prepare for those that cannot be avoided, and to cope with them when they do occur.

Those wishing to purchase tickets for the ball or to make a tax deductible contribution may do so by calling Betsy Clawson at the Red Cross (471-5440). Tickets are $60.00 per couple.

Introducing the new Chronological Spindles

The CHRONOLOGICAL SPINDLE is similar to the ordinary except that it has an eye in its tip...when the spindle is full and the papers are to be removed,

- 1 Thread the spindle with about 2ft. of double thread.
- 2 Draw the papers through the thread to about 1ft. free of the spindle.
- 3 Cut off thread near the eye...the ends together with a big knot

Then you have your papers tied together in the same sequence in which they were spindled regardless of their size or shape conveniently accessible for reference and/or copying

It's low price of only 59¢ ea. makes it an affordable aid for anyone that needs to keep a comprehensive record for tax or any other purpose.

Nearly add additional spindles to sectionalize or categorize for the expenses of food, rent, electricity, clothes, car, etc.

The base is made of carved wood...the beautiful, its indispensable...the cheap... its heavenly...leastwise when its in its normal position it always points that way. And this AND BONUS TWO FOR ONLY ONE!

QJC To Honor 4 On 25th Anniversary

The trustees of Quincy Junior College will present awards to four college and community leaders in recognition of the college's 25th anniversary.

Governor's Councillor Peter L. Eley, chairman of the Board of Trustees, announces the recipients will be former Quincy mayor and State senator James R. McIntyre; Quincy Savings Bank President Charles A. Pearce, Congressman Brian Donnelly and Ronald Kaufman, formerly of Quincy and currently director of political education for the Republican National Committee in Washington.

Citing Donnelly's record of support of education, Eley said he has seen our college in Quincy as a vital resource for our area residents.

The awards will be presented on Thursday, Feb. 24, at the Quincy Neighborhood Club at the 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. events.

McIntyre, now counsel to the Massachusetts State Senate, has served as a "driving force in the development of the college," Eley said. McIntyre will also serve as the honorary chairman of the college's 25th anniversary celebration this year.

"In choosing Charles Pearce," said Eley, "we are giving recognition to many years of community concern which he has given to Quincy and the South Shore." Pearce is currently heading a special committee of the trustees to set up a South Shore banking institute to be sponsored by the college.

The only Quincy Junior College graduate among those to be honored, Kaufman received a degree from the school in 1977. Active in local politics, he

A not-so-hidden free offer for smart money managers.

It's not every year you can start off with a bonus.

For a limited time, Quincy Savings is giving everyone who opens a new Individual Retirement account an exciting three-part bonus.

Here's what you get; if you act now.

- A full year's subscription to Kiplinger's Changing Times magazine.
- A helpful 184 page book called "How to Get More for Your Money"; and a
- "You and Your Taxes" booklet.

All told, this bonus package is an $18 retail value, a package that's yours absolutely free if you open an IRA at Quincy Savings before April 15, 1983. So act now.

You can open a variable rate IRA for as little as $100 or a fixed rate IRA for just $500.

Whenever you have the money, you can make additional contributions in any amount until you reach the maximum tax deduction allowed. There's no service charge and your account is fully insured.

You probably know why it's sensible to have an Individual Retirement Account. A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"If I was to be called upon to draw a picture of the times and of men from what I have seen, heard, and in part known, I should in one word say that idleness, dissipation and extravagance seems to have laid fast hold on most of them; that speculation, peculation, and an insatiable thirst for riches seems to have got the better of every order of men; that party disputes and personal quarrels are the great business of the day, while the momentous concerns of an empire - a great and accumulated debt, ruined finances, depreciated money, and want of credit (which in their consequences is the want of everything) - are but secondary considerations and postponed from day to day, from week to week, as if our affairs wear the most promising aspect. After drawing this picture, which from my soul I believe to be a true one, I need not repeat to you that I am alarmed and wish to see my countrymen aroused..."

Washington wrote those words on December 30, 1778... What do you suppose he would say if he knew his haunting alarm would have at least partial and somewhat similar significance almost two centuries later?

Caddy Detachment Donates $400 To Toys For Tots Program

The William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League of Quincy recently made a $400 donation to the Marine Toys for Tots program.

Commandant Joseph Zona made the check presentation to Col. James L. Green, commanding officer of Marine Detachment at South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

The money was derived from the detachment's yearly ad book proceeds. Past state commandant Leo Cardarelli was ad book chairman. Dick Walsh, senior vice commandant, assisted.

Contributors to the ad book are mostly local business people from surrounding communities.

The league sponsored a Christmas party Dec. 21 at the Veterans Hospital in Brockton. Santa presented each patient with at least six gifts.

Activities on Washington's Birthday will begin at 8 a.m. with wreaths being placed at the Cyril P. Morrisette and Boyd Graves, Morrisette and Boyd Squares, and West Quincy War Memorial.

Flag raising ceremonies will take place at 9 a.m. at the post grounds where the parade will form at 9:15 a.m.

Paul W. O'Neill, past commander, will be chief marshal of the parade, which will include a Quincy Police Detail and Colors, American Legion State and County Colors and Guards.

Honorary chaplains will be Fr. John J. McMahon, St. Mary's pastor; Rev. Keijo I. Aho, Rabbi Jacob Mann and post chaplain Edwin Boland.

Invited guests include Mayor Francis McCauley, state, county and city officials, Mass. Department commander of the American Legion and staff.

Chief of Staff will be past commander Joseph F. Greene.

Honored guests will be Gold Star Mothers and families of all deceased.

There will also be veterans organizations and their colors, Waltham American Legion Band, Morrisette Post Color Detail led by sergeant-at-arms Mario Ghilardi; Morrisette Post, led by Commander F. Adrian Carnali; Morrisette Drill Team, led by Ghilardi.

At 9:30 a.m., a wreath will be placed on the West Quincy Veterans Monument by Carnali and Mayor McCauley.

Rev. John J. McMahon will be celebrant of the Memorial Mass at 10 a.m. at St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy.

Rev. Lennon, who will give the sermon, has been assigned to St. Mary's Parish since June, 1982. He was ordained May 19, 1973 by Cardinal Humberto Medeiros at Holy Cross Cathedral.

Lectors will be past commanders Gino Giorgi and Joseph Greene.

Servers will be Daniel Shea and Joseph Gallant.

Readers will be past commanders Francis Mullen and James Lynch.

Past commanders Florentino M. Campitelli and Lawrence Doyle will light the candles.

Music will be by St. Mary's Choir under the direction of Mrs. Gay Sullivan, Jean Greene and Edwin Boland.

The boys of St. Mary's Parochial School and St. Mary's Scout Troop will receive Holy Communion in honor of departed comrades. Others are also encouraged to receive Communion.

There will be salute to the dead, "Taps" and singing of the National Anthem. The post will then hold an open house.

Novena Of Grace At St. John's

Area residents are invited to participate in the annual Novena of Grace of St. Francis Xavier Sunday, Feb. 27, to Monday, March 7, at St. John's Church, 44 School St., Quincy Center.

Fr. Francis J. Gilday, S.J., a long-time friend of the parish, will conduct the nine day novena services at parish Masses at 12:10 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Fr. Gilday is rector of Immaculate Conception Church, Boston.

St. Francis Xavier, a Jesuit missionary in the 1500s, is known as the apostle of the Indies. He was associated with Loyola in founding the international Society of Jesus.

As a priest, he traveled throughout areas of Asia and the Orient, converting thousands to Christianity and establishing missions, some of which stood for as long as 100 years. He was canonized in 1552, 70 years after his death.

The Novena of Grace owes its origin to the saint himself, who, it was revealed, promised that "all who would earnestly ask his intercession with God for nine days in honor of his canonization would infallibly experience the effects of his great power in heaven and would realize whatever they ask that would contribute to their salvation."

A novena of any kind is constituted of nine days of public or private devotion with prayer offered to obtain special favors or graces. The concept originated with the apostles of Christ, who were gathered together in prayer for nine days between Ascension Thursday and Pentecost.

United Methodist Congregations Meeting In Adams Shore

The four Quincy United Methodist congregations are meeting in the Adams Shore Community Church for the month of February.

Last Sunday, Pastor Walter Wnek gave his message on human relations based on the parable of the Good Samaritan.

A special offering was received to promote the work of human relations through providing funds for community developers, United Methodist Voluntary Services and Police-Community Relations.

Lay reader for the 9:30 a.m. service was Annie Ohman. John Whyte and Robert Gardiner served as ushers.

Lay reader for the 11 a.m. service was Russell Baritt. John Whyte and Robert Gardiner served as ushers. Hospitality for the coffee hour was provided by Grace Shields, Margaret McMullin and Sybil Whyte.

The choir anthem for the day was "Go Not Far From Me, O God" by Zingarelli with Marjorie McAllister at the organ.

The United Methodist

Youth Fellowship met recently at the Wollaston Church.

Planning progressed in raising funds for the April vacation New York trip and the Good Friday marathon fast for local and world hunger.

Officers of the group are: chairpersons, Amy Carolan and Michelle Honig; treasurer, Karin Eaton; secretary, Kevin Flaherty; attendance, Peter Preteroti.

The group finalized assignments for the Feb. 23 dance.

Transactional Analysis Course At Wollaston Methodist

The Rev. Walter Wnek will teach a six week course covering the fundamentals of Transactional Analysis, beginning Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at Wollaston United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

"T.A." is a therapy model developed by Dr. Eric Berne and popularized by Dr. Thomas Harris in his book, "I'm OK - You're OK".

The course will help persons understand why they think about themselves as they do, and how this impacts their relationships with others.

Material to be covered will include ego states, analyzing transactions, existential premature decisions, time/stroke structuring, games and script.

Pastor Wnek is a regular member of the International Transactional Analysis Association.

He has seminated with Dr. Thomas Harris and taught the continuing education course in "T/A" at Bristol Community College.

In addition, he took part as guest lecturer in the weekly clinical series at Taunton State Hospital and has been a speaker at service clubs.

Late Tax Bills Would Be Costly

term borrowing if tax bills go out late.

McCauley said by the time appraisal work is finished and state certification is obtained "it will be well into the month of March."

"I expect that hearings requested by property taxpayers concerned with their valuations will take an additional two or three months," he said.

"This time-line will bring us well beyond the April 1 deadline for mailing second half fiscal 1983 tax bills.

"In addition, due to the General Dynamics' case and several abatement cases pending before the Appellate Tax Board by utility companies, it will be difficult for the city to set full fair cash values for these properties for fiscal 1983.

"I feel that a delay in implementation until the fall is essential."

The city was supposed to have achieved full cash valuation in fiscal 1982 but a one year postponement was obtained when the first valuation company, P.R.C. Jacobs of Virginia, fell far behind.

Work-To-Rule Spreads To Snug Harbor

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Mrs. Collins also said work-to-rule would not affect stalled contract negotiations between the QEA and School Committee.

She said the two parties are scheduled to meet with a state mediator March 3 in Quincy.

Pasquerella said work-to-rule at the other two schools has been about 90 per cent effective. He said most teachers, although reluctant, feel obliged to support work-to-rule.

Those who don't, said Pasquerella, are encouraged to support the organization any way they can.

As for work-to-rule spreading to other Quincy schools, Pasquerella said, "it is the policy of the QEA to call work-to-rule wherever it is deemed necessary and fit.

"We have remained silent too long. It's time we took stock in the environment in which we are exposed to teach, and also consider the environment for students."

Council Asks Funds For Mosquito Control

The City Council has asked Mayor Francis X. McCauley to reconsider his action in removing $26,000 from the Health Department budget that was earmarked for mosquito control.

"During the summer season many areas of the city are deluged with mosquitos causing health problems and depriving citizens of peace and tranquility," said Councillor Leo J. Kelly.

Kelly suggested that the city also look into the feasibility of purchasing equipment necessary to clean the parallel trenches in the marshes which become breeding areas for mosquitos.

High School Scheduling Process For Students Starts

During February and March all students in grades 8 through 11 in Quincy's five middle schools and three high schools will be selecting courses in their instructional programs for next school year, announces Arthur S. Woodward, Director of Secondary Education.

The scheduling process involves the parents, too. All students will receive a copy of the 1983-84 Program of Studies and a course registration form. The Program of Studies is to be taken home and shared with parents. Parents and students should plan each student's program together. All parents are urged to sign the course registration forms, and see that the forms are returned to the student's current guidance counselor.

If, for some reason, changes are made in the courses, optional courses, or alternate courses selected, parents may expect to be consulted.

The Program of Studies booklet contains much vital information which parents and students should study carefully, Mr. Woodward noted.

Thieves Or Vandals?

A front door window to the Fashion Quality Cleaners, 67 Billings Rd., North Quincy, was smashed Saturday but it was not determined if it was the work of thieves or vandals.

TEN NEW MEMBERS were recently appointed to the Quincy Civil Defense. From left, Anthony Siciliano, acting director of the Quincy Civil Defense, Office of Emergency Preparedness, congratulates some of the new members Catherine Chetwynd, shelter department; John Chetwynd, Sr., John Chetwynd, Jr., shelter and communication; Paul Turowski, auxiliary police; James Duata, Emerson S. Civil Defense Seeking New Members, Equipment

"Civil Defense is always seeking new members for their volunteer programs," says Anthony Siciliano, acting director.

Siciliano said, there are eight divisions in Civil Defense with some 300 volunteers; auxiliary police, auxiliary fire, underwater recovery, rescue service, medical service, communications, shelter and civil air patrol.

"The transportation department, which is part of the civil defense shelter program, is requesting concerned citizens with 4-wheel drive and all terrain vehicles," said Siciliano.

"Organizations that have snowmobiles who would be able to volunteer their services are needed in case of natural and man-made disasters, severe snow storms, etc.," he said.

More information on Civil Defense is available by calling 472-6118.

Ten new members, all from Quincy, were recently appointed to the Quincy Civil Defense Agency by Mayor Francis McCauley, upon the recommendation of Police Chief and Civil Defense Director Francis Finn.

They are Paul Turowski, David Jacobs-Pratt, Paul Smith, auxiliary police; Ron Keenan, Maureen A'Micanelo, rescue service; John Chetwynd, Sr., John Chetwynd, Jr., shelter and communication; Catherine Chetwynd, James Duata, Emerson S. Younie, shelter department.

North Icemen Come From Behind To Edge Waltham

The NorthQuincy hockey team pulled out an important come-from-behind 6-5 victory over Waltham last week to improve its record to 5-4-1 and keep its flickering tournament hopes alive.

Last Saturday's game with Brookline was postponed because of the weather. Last night (Wednesday) the Raiders played at Brockton and the Brookline game will be rescheduled.

North overcame a two-goal deficit in the third period to overcome Waltham on Dean Phillips' goal with 4:38 left in the game.

"I call my players the cardiac kids the way they have been playing this year," said first-year coach Kevin Jago, who is leading the Raiders to their best season in several years. "We don't have any superstars and we have to battle for what we get. The boys have done a good job all season."

Dave DiCarlo scored

North's first two goals as the Raiders took an early 2-1 lead, but Waltham came back with a strong second period and took a 5-3 lead into the finale after Keith Smith had tied the game for North, 3-3.

"I said if we could score within 10 minutes of the last period we could win it and Scott Messina scored with 9:58 left," Jago said.

It was all North Quincy after that as Steve Denelsbeck tied the score on a power play and Phillips won it with a 40-foot slapshot. Rich Horrigan had assisted on Denelsbeck's tying goal.

Sophomore Matt Higgins played the entire game in goal for North and turned in a strong performance. "I decided to give our regular goalie, Bill Cahill, a rest and give Matt a chance and he came through well," Jago said. "He was a little nervous but he came up with some outstanding saves."

Quincy Jolted By Brookline

The Quincy hockey team's tournament hopes were given a jolt last week when the Presidents dropped a 6-5 squeaker to Brookline but Coach Bob Sylvia is still hopeful of qualifying.

The game with Rockland last Saturday was postponed because of the weather. The Presidents played Waltham last night (Wednesday).

The loss to Brookline was frustrating as Quincy outshot the winners, 40-21, but Brookline's Jim Shea was brilliant in goal with 35 saves. Quincy's Richie Monahan at 15.

The teams were tied for second place in the Suburban League going into the game two points behind Newton North. Quincy fell to 6-4 in the league and 8-4 overall and can probably make the tournament if it wins its last three games.

"We lost control of our destiny tonight," said

Sylvia, whose team lost a 3-1 lead. "Our objective is to make the tournament, but it's all if, if, if."

Brookline's Dave O'Brien, the league's leading scorer, had a hat trick and his first goal gave his team the lead just 58 seconds into the game.

The Presidents then moved into a 3-1 lead at the end of the opening period as Mike Chenette (from Doug Concannon and Mike Baylis) tied it up and Mike Nourse gave Quincy the lead three minutes later with Mike Hays assisting. Bill McSweeney made it 3-1, putting in a rebound of an Ed Boyle shot.

Brookline scored five unanswered goals, four in the second period. After Jim Friedman's goal early in the third period to make it 6-3, Quincy's McSweeney scored his second goal (from Frank Reynolds) and completed a hat trick with an unassisted goal.

Massasoit Too Strong For QJC Tie For 3rd Spot

The Quincy Junior College basketball team lost to a powerful Massasoit Community College team, 91-82, in a non-conference game last week, dropping its record to 19-6. Massasoit, one of the top community college clubs, is 18-3.

QJC fell behind early and trailed, 48-35, at the half. But, employed a three-quarter court press, the Jaguars moved into a 77-75 lead but fouls and some errant passing cost the team a win as Massasoit pulled away in the last minute.

Massasoit's only loss to an Eastern Mass. team was to Roxbury Community College, which is ranked 16th nationally.

QJC Coach Brian Buckley was pleased despite the loss.

"Massasoit is a very strong team that plays in a division above our conference," he said. "Our performance was a credit to our players and to our league (Greater Boston Small College Conference)."

Paul Forbes had 20 points and Steve Belcastro 18 for QJC.

In another non-conference game QJC rolled over Mass. College of Art, 103-68, as Belcastro scored 18 of his 24 points in the first half.

Paul Gill scored 14, Jim Conboy 10 and Paul Stevens 10 in the easy win.

QJC, with a 12-2 conference record, is preparing for the conference playoffs which will be played at Quincy Vo-Tech gym March 3 and 5.

The North Quincy swim team, which finished with an 8-2 record, tied for third place in the Suburban League meet last week, led by Brad Martin.

Martin teamed with Ralph Santosuosso, Ken Burke and Jim Boudreau to win the 400-yard freestyle relay and just missed winning the 200 freestyle, finishing one-thousandth of a second behind Brockton's Paul LaVie. Martin took third in the 500 freestyle.

Boudreau was third in the 100 freestyle and fifth in the 50 freestyle.

Mark Wilkins was fourth in the 50 freestyle, Dan Moriarty was fourth in the breaststroke, Bob Waterman was sixth in diving and Santosuosso sixth in the backstroke.

Quincy's best finisher was Bill Mayo, who took fourth in the 200 freestyle and sixth in the 500 freestyle.

Last Minute Freeze Seals N. Quincy Win

Coach John Mullarkey's North Quincy High School basketball team successfully froze the ball for the final minute of play to whip Quincy, 22-20. Bill Cahill had 10 points for the Raiders and Cookie Needel matched it for Quincy.

The North Quincy lineup included: Burke, Collins, Barrett, Sullivan, forwards; Cahill, center; Wilkinson, Cedrone, guards.

The Quincy lineup included: McKim, Needel forwards; Killilea, DiSantis, centers; Papile, McKinnon, guards.

The Raider second team also prevailed in a low-scoring contest, 14-13, with Morton topping the scorers with five points. Only Roy of Quincy had more than one field goal.

The North Jayvees lineup included: Strecker, Hines, forwards; DiBona, center; Bowen, Chambers, Morton, Brigham, guards.

The Quincy Jayvees lineup included: Jackson, Pasquale, Halligan, Cramand, Martorano, Laman, forwards; Vargus, Roy, Harvey, centers; Russo, Trifone, Bowyer, Honkalacho, Saidi, Merna, guards.

VARSITY CLUB WINS

Coach Harry Leonard, who was high for the game with 13 points, led a fourth period comeback that saw his Quincy Varsity Club overcome a 22-17 deficit and go on to a 33-26 victory over the Bayvees.

The Varsity Club lineup included: Tocci, Josephine, Lawson, forwards; Leonard, Fallon, centers; Salvati, Franchuk, Erickson, guards.

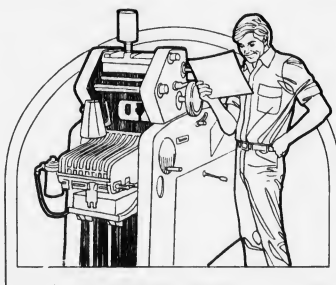

In the second game of the doubleheader in the North Quincy gym, the Naval Drydock team overpowered the Quincy Alumni, 40-32 on the strength of a 21-point final quarter.

Raiderettes Defeat Quincy Finish 7-1 In League

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team finished another outstanding Suburban League season last week when it rolled over winless Quincy, 67-10, to finish 7-1 in the league and 8-1 overall.

North finished second to unbeaten Weymouth South after winning the league crown the past two years.

North coach Lou Iozzi gave a number of his younger girls a chance against the First Ladies, who finished 0-8, and many of them scored.

"A lot of these kids didn't get much of a chance and this was an opportunity for them to get some recognition," Iozzi said. "As a result, every single girl on the squad played at least once this season."

"We had a lot of newcomers and the girls did an excellent job. Weymouth South had a really outstanding team and was the only team to beat us."

Quincy won just one event against North. Mary Lou Wirtz winning 50-yard dash with North's Elizabeth O'Brien second and Cheryl Sullivan third.

North swept the hurdles with Maria McGurl winning in her best time, 7:55. Janet Zdzankowski second and Laurie Magrath third.

The Raiderettes also swept the 300 with Lisa Reynolds first, Alice Reilly second and Cindy Olsen third.

North's Lisa Fitzgerald won the 600 with a time 1:36 in her first try at the distance. North's Cheryl McCarthy was second and Ann Sken of Quincy third.

Meg Leary of North won the 1000 with Quincy's Ann

Maloney second and North's Andrea Gelsomini third.

North's Joann Zdzankowski won the mile in 6:05, a good effort in her mile run. North's Frisia Leary was second and Quincy's Jean Carafalo third.

North swept the two-mile with Laura Barrett first, Nancy Wildes second and Sharon Barrett third.

It was the same story in the shot put with North's Jean O'Hare first, Michelle Palmer second and Missy Silkwood third.

The Raiderettes won the relay with Diane Flynn, Donna Gelsomini, Monica Reilly and Reynolds.

Iozzi, who has had amazing success with the North girls in winter and spring track and cross country, again paid tribute to his assistant coaches.

Mike Burke and Bart Petraca.

"They are very dedicated coaches and did a tremendous job," he said.

Jim Piccini has done a good job at Quincy against tremendous odds. There has been little interest in track and he has had to struggle along with a handful of competitors.

North Quincy will compete in Division I of the state meet Saturday at Harvard, which begins at 10 a.m.

McGurl will be in the hurdles, Fitzgerald and Julie Alibrandi in the 600, Lisa Kennedy in the 1000, Sheila Barrett in the mile, Mary Ann Kelleher and Tracey Corrigan in the 2-mile, Georgia Iralicante in the high jump and Noreen Connelly in the shot put.

Quincy Hopes To End Season On Positive Note

The Quincy boys' basketball team, with a 1-12 record, faced a tough assignment this week as it tried to finish the frustrating season on a positive note.

The Presidents, with only two seniors, faced two of the Suburban League's stronger teams, playing Brockton Tuesday and playing at Cambridge Rindge and Latin today (Thursday) at 5 o'clock.

The Presidents lost to Brookline, 84-70, last Friday despite an outstanding effort by sophomore Bill Shaughnessy, one of the bright lights this season, who led the attack with 21 points.

Earlier in the week Quincy howed to Waltham, 59-43, despite another outstanding effort by Paul Gilbody, one of the two seniors, who has been one of the steadiest performers in the league. Gilbody scored 21 points and added 14 rebounds to spark the Presidents.

Shaughnessy had another good game as he chipped in with nine points and six rebounds.

HN Legion Baseball Clinic Saturday

The Houghs Neck Legion Babe Ruth League baseball team coaching staff will hold its second annual clinic on Saturday, a pitching clinic for 10, 11 and 12 year olds from 9 a.m. to 10:30 and for 13-18 year olds from 10:30 to noon, and Saturday, Feb. 26, a hitting clinic for all ages from 10 a.m. to noon.

The coaching staff includes Dave MacMulan, Joe Timcoe and Ed Callahan.

North Edged By Newton N.

The North Quincy boys' basketball team lost a 49-47 squeaker to Newton North last Friday to drop its record to 4-10.

Eddie Miller's Raiders finished up their season Tuesday against Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

North trailed most of the way against Newton but had several chances to win in the waning minutes but missed some good shots.

"We had the shots but the ball just wouldn't go in,"

Miller said.

Chris Bunker had a good night for the Raiders with 15 points and 14 rebounds. Nick Gelsomini, who had played his first varsity game earlier in the week, scored six points and came up with some clutch rebounds late in the game to keep the team's hopes alive.

Earlier in the week Brockton had rolled over the Raiders, 97-66, scoring more than 90 points against North for the second time this year.

Paul Ryan had 18 points, Gelsomini had 13 in his varsity debut and John Purlan added 11.

42 Teams To Compete Kiwanis Hockey Tourney

Forty-two teams will compete in the Quincy Kiwanis Club's 10th annual Youth Hockey Tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena Feb. 21-27.

The Class A, AHA-sanctioned event will feature teams from Troy, N.Y., Middelfield, Conn., Milton, Scituate, Quincy, Neponset, Plymouth, Charlestown, Dedham, Brockton, Reading, Newton, Franklin, Brookline, Attleboro-Norton, Somerville, Wilmington and Belmont. Teams in four divisions: Bantams, Pee-

Wees, Mites and Squirts will be participating.

The first game is scheduled for 9:10 a.m. Monday, Feb. 21.

A pass good for all games is $4 and is available from Quincy Kiwanis members or at the door. Single admissions at the door are $2 for adults and $1 for students 12-18 years. Children under 12 are admitted free.

Proceeds are used to provide scholarships, camperships and other charitable endeavors sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Quincy.

Brookline Snaps Quincy Girls Streak

The Quincy girls' basketball team, which has been playing excellent ball most of the season, had a three-game win streak snapped last Friday when it bowed to Brookline, 41-31, and hoped to finish up with two wins this week.

However, The First Ladies faced a rough task as they met Suburban League-leading Brookline Tuesday and today (Thursday) they host the most improved team in the league, Cambridge Ridge and Latin, at 5 o'clock.

Quincy, after one of its finest performances of the season against Waltham (65-53 win), outscored Brookline from the floor, 13-12, but, as has happened in several games, Brookline won the game with 17 free throws.

"Brookline out-rebounded and out-ran us today," Coach Marty Finnegan said. "We had some key players out of action but this is not an excuse. We just didn't have enough to stay with them all the way."

Carolyn Leonard had 10 points and Cindy Morrell nine for Quincy.

Earlier in the week it was a different story as Cindy Morrell turned in a remarkable all-around performance to lead the First Ladies over Waltham, a team which had edged Quincy in overtime earlier in the season.

Morrell had 26 points to lead the offense. She was 12 for 16 from the floor and two for two from the foul line, she took down 16 rebounds, had seven assists and three steals.

"Cindy was remarkable today," said an elated

Finnegan. "She turned in a superlative performance. We shot well from the floor and foul line and everyone played well. Leonard had 16 points mostly on long shots. Katy Dunn and Teresa Munroe were outstanding and Michelle Miller, our floor general, had six points and seven assists. Also, our bench came through once again."

Quincy led by 10 at the half and, with Morrell scoring 12 points in the third quarter, the First Ladies expanded their lead to 50-33 and coasted in the final quarter.

North Girls Miss Choukas Bow To Newton, Brockton

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, playing without high scoring Chris Choukas, the No. 2 scorer in the Suburban League, lost two games last week to drop its record to 10-5 and Paul Gregoli's Raiderettes had to win their last two games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

The North girls played Cambridge Rindge and Latin, one of the most improved teams in the league, Tuesday, and will host Whitman-Hanson today (Thursday) at 5 o'clock in a non-league finale.

North dropped a 45-44 heartbreaker to Newton North last Friday as Karen Bridges, who had been outstanding in a loss to No. 1 Brockton earlier in the week, continued her stellar play.

North opened up a 14-10 first quarter lead as Bridges scored nine points, Mary Holleran was three for four from the foul line and Karen Boutlier had three assists.

North went up, 24-12, as Boutlier beat her man for six points in the second quarter and Bridges added four points.

Unfortunately two questionable foul calls on Bridges forced her to the bench with four minutes left in the half and North's lead shrunk to 27-22 at the half.

With Bridges back, North took a 32-26 lead after she hit on a three-point play and Boutlier hit a jumper on a nice pass from Debbie Cavanaugh. But Bridges was hit with her fourth foul with six minutes left in the quarter and the Tigers took advantage and took a 36-34 lead into the final quarter.

Newton increased its lead to six points but, with Bridges again keying the offense and scoring eight of the team's 10 points in the quarter, cut the lead to 45-43 on Holleran's jumper with a minute to play. Joanna Keenan came up with a key steal and was fouled. Her shot rolled off the rim but North made another steal, this one by Holleran, who went the length of the court for a layup. She was tripped but no call was made and Newton got possession. North got the ball back with seven seconds left and Bridges was fouled in the act of shooting with no time left on the clock. She made her first shot and the Newton bench tried to call a time out.

The officials, in the confusion, left Bridges standing alone at the foul line. Then, realizing the game was over, they let her take her second shot but, after the delay, she missed the tying point.

Bridges had a career-high 23 points and had 13 rebounds. Boutlier, who also had been outstanding against Brockton, had eight points and five assists and Holleran had eight points and 11 rebounds.

Earlier in the week league-leading Brockton romped to a 57-36 victory.

North slowed down the game and Bridges again took charge early as North took a 4-0 lead. But she picked up her third foul with two minutes left in the quarter and Brockton took an 8-6 lead after a quarter.

Brockton opened up a 12-point halftime lead despite the fine play of Holleran and Keenan.

Bridges returned in the second half and again made her presence felt as she hit for two three-point plays and Keenan and Cavanaugh made several fine passes to her.

North had several chances to cut the Brockton lead to less than seven points but missed a number of vital free throws. Brockton again moved 12 points ahead and gradually pulled out to a comfortable lead.

Bridges had 16 points and 10 rebounds, Holleran had eight points, six steals and three assists and Keenan played an outstanding floor game.

"The girls played their hearts out in both games," Gregoli said. "Karen Bridges was immense both ways. The officials did a job on us in the Newton game. Our kids will hang in there right to the end and try to pull out the last two wins to make the tournament again."

Historical Society Receives Shipbuilding Committee Records

The records of the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee which had been in storage at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, have been turned over to the Quincy Historical Society.

The records contain historical data on economic conditions and activities in the Quincy area and their relation to the national scene. Inventorying and cataloging of this material will start shortly.

The gift is timely since the inventorying and cataloging of the society's extensive collections of material relating to the Fore River shipyard from its founding to the present is nearly complete.

The Shipbuilding Committee was formed by the Quincy City Council in 1948 as the Save Shipbuilding Committee. The following year, it was reorganized as a Committee for the Advancement of the U.S. Merchant Marine, generally known as the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee.

The membership included leading shipbuilders, labor union officers, municipal officials, business executives, the Chamber of Commerce, civic leaders.

The last chairman of the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee, William A. O'Connell, has authorized transfer of the records to the Quincy Historical Society.

The work with the maritime materials is part of a effort by the Historical Society's Library Committee and Librarian Herbert H. Holmes to make the library more useful to researchers and other readers.

The library in the society's Adams Academy Building is open to the public Wednesdays 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturdays, 12:30 to 3:30 p.m., and by appointment.

Germantown Center To Begin Exercise Program

The Germantown Neighborhood Center will begin an eight week exercise program Feb. 22 for children ages 12 to 16 and adults.

Children's classes will be held 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. The adult class will be 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

This will be a combination of regular exercises and aerobics. Sign up is necessary.

Call Charlene Wentworth at 328-5733.

School Vacations Classes At Beechwood Center

The Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Feno St., Wollaston, will offer computer, art, photography and rhythm and movement classes for elementary and middle students during school vacation Feb. 22 to 25.

Girl Scout Troop 4159 will present an afternoon at the movies with a Walt Disney film and cartoons Thursday, Feb. 24, at 2 p.m.

A three week CPR course for adults will begin Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Advance registration is required for all classes, some of which have limited enrollment. To register, call the center at 471-5712.

Cartoons At Covenant Congregational at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell St.

There will be popcorn and beverages available.

Few Openings For N.H. Ski Trip

The Quincy Recreation Department has limited openings for its one-day ski trip that has been rescheduled for Sunday, because of the storm.

The trip to Alpine Ridge Ski Area in Gilford, N.H., is open to Quincy residents, and the price includes round trip coach bus transportation, and an all day lift ticket.

The fee is $15 for Youth, and $19 for Adults. Reduced rates for optional lessons and equipment rental can be arranged. The trip will be supervised by members of the recreation department staff.

Registration will be taken in the Recreation Department office weekdays from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. as long as openings exist. Additional information can be obtained by calling, 773-1380, ext. 204.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

BAMBI CAN BE DANGEROUS

Visitors to national parks are warned about the dangers of getting close to wild animals, but they continue to risk life and limb by feeding bears. Now, even the deer, usually thought of as the gentle Bambi of the animal kingdom, can be dangerous.

A man and his wife, driving near Baltimore, saw a deer standing on the highway. Thinking it might get hit by a car, the man got out and tried to show it into the woods. The deer, mistaking his intentions, charged and gored him. His wife rushed to his aid. The deer gored her too. A passing motorist attempted to drive his car between the deer and his victims. A more heroic driver grabbed the buck's bloody horns and tried to restrain it and found himself in danger too. The affair ended only when a hunter happened along and killed the deer.

The moral of this "gory" story should be fairly clear. Keep clear of wild animals. They may normally be harmless, but they cannot understand English and especially cannot read human minds.

WEEK OF: FEBRUARY 17

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Life on the homefront is unexpectedly carefree. An important romantic decision may have to be made in short order. Career rival may surprise you with his cooperative spirit.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Prestige increases, along with responsibilities - particularly those related to public relations. Volunteer assignment has a personal fringe benefit. Financial windfall arrives by Wednesday.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

You really shine in the areas of writing (fiction or nonfiction) and salesmanship. Reunions are highlighted through the weekend. Possible financial setback after Monday.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Enjoy moments of quiet relaxation when you can - they're becoming fewer and fewer as you enter one cycle of career/academic pressure, and another of intense romantic involvement.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Though you shouldn't throw caution to the winds, a more adventure-some approach brings satisfying romantic results. Be available to receive awaited information from faraway place.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Some minor career sacrifices but the payoff, by Wednesday, is well worth the trouble. Romance demands a more patient approach. Travel delays are punctuated through weekend.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Watch tendency to laugh off life's little problems; the key is to get to the root of any personal difficulty, and promptly. Financial news brightener arrives by Wednesday.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Creative juices are bubbling and the week could see you complete a major project. Some friction with relatives may result from differences over how you spend funds.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Busy Libra finds this a quiet week, yet it's an active time. Behind-the-scenes happenings - regarding travel or educational/career advancement - are taking place to your advantage.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Reunions are accented - you may discover new life in an old friend. Business opportunity emerges, but don't play all cards at once. In romance, make few assumptions.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

At work or in the neighborhood, you may be called on to serve as creative consultant. Healthwise, new group outlet proves invigorating but watch tendency to go to extremes.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Cautious optimism combines well with a financially sound plan. Bold touches in decor and wardrobe bring out the magnetic side of your personality - be prepared for the results.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Generous, sensitive, secretive, vague - and very much a humanitarian. Travel in conjunction with education is highlighted in '83. Sentimental streak surfaces late in the spring. It's easy to be disillusioned, though, so keep expectations on a realistic level.

BORN THIS WEEK

February 17th, actor Alan Bates, 18th, actor John Travolta, 19th, director John Frankenheimer, 20th, actor Sidney Poitier, 21st, singer Nina Simone, 22nd, actor John Mills, 23rd, actor Peter Fonda

The Presidents of First American Bank for Savings and Workmens Co-Operative Bank announce the two banks have entered into a combination agreement under which First American will acquire Workmens.

Robert G. Lee, president of First American, and John E. McDonald, president of Workmens, said the combination under First American's charter is expected to occur on or before April 30, after the necessary regulatory approvals have been given.

First American Bank for Savings, headquartered in Dorchester, has offices in Boston and the South Shore, and total assets of more than $290 million. Workmens Co-Operative Bank has offices in Boston and the North Shore. The total assets of Workmens Co-Operative Bank exceed $175 million.

Lee and McDonald said the board of trustees of First American and the board of directors of Workmens have approved the combination of the two banks.

Lee and McDonald said: "We are pleased that the two banks have agreed to combine. Together, our bank offices will reach from Winthrop on the North Shore to Quincy and Stoughton on the South Shore, and from downtown Boston to the neighborhoods of Dorchester, Roslindale, Mattapan and West Roxbury.

"Both banks have been traditionally aggressive mortgage and consumer loan lenders, and this combination will enable us to strengthen our ability to meet the credit needs of our communities, as well as to provide the most efficient banking services to our customers."

Whitey's Bakery Adds Home Kitchen

Whitey's Home Bakery in Weymouth Landing, which started 44 years ago as a donut shop in Avon, has added Whitey's Home Kitchen at 27 Washington St., also in Weymouth Landing.

According to owner Luis Casal, the Home Kitchen, "is an attempt to provide the landing with a clean, comfortable atmosphere in which its customers can enjoy their meals, as well as a delicious dessert from the neighboring bakery."

Whitey's and its employees invites their customers to visit both locations.

The Casal family has operated the business for nine years.

Under its original ownership, Whitey's started baking its own bakery products 42 years ago. A move to larger quarters in Randolph was followed by a more permanent move to Weymouth Landing in 1949.

In Weymouth, the business continued to grow, taking over a neighboring store and adding a frozen dessert business to its regular line of products.

LUIS CASAL

The Casals have followed Whitey's emphasis on quality and freshness.

Most people observe Thanksgiving Day on the last Thursday of November. Whitey's would like to celebrate Thanksgiving right now, by taking advantage of this opportunity to say "thank-you" for the many years of patronage of its many loyal customers.

Casal would also like to thank all of Whitey's employees, whose diligent work has made this success story possible.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a one-day all alcoholic license to the Woodward School for Girls to be used in conjunction with a Las Vegas Night Saturday, Feb. 26, 7 p.m. to midnight.

- Granted a request from Daniel B. Dowling of Westminster Realty Trust for a lodging house license for 191 Burgin Parkway. Council president John Lydon said that he, the Cranch Hill Association and abutters are in favor of the license, and that Dowling is the "type of individual we would like to see run the lodging house."

- Granted a repair shop license and permit for 200 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars at Almar Engine Rebuilding Co., 681-683 Southern Artery. There are to be no parked cars, flammable fluids or grease on the sidewalk, hours are to be 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., and abandoned cars and other material are to be removed from the area.

- Continued to March 29 a hearing on complaints of odors and spillage of oil at C. Y. Woodbury, 117 Quincy Ave. Board members will visit the site and check-out the situation.

S.S. Camera Club Scholarship Program Feb. 22

The South Shore Camera Club will hold a scholarship program, Tuesday, Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the club, 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

To WAUNETTA KETT and to all persons interested in the estate of WAUNETTA KETT of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and to the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health

NOTICE

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that JOSEPH MCARDLE of Quincy in the County of Norfolk be appointed Conservator of said estate with surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before ten o'clock in the forenoon March 16, 1983.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the second day of February in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighty-three.

Bellotti May Sue On 'Outside Sections'

Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti says he is probably going to have to sue the State Legislature over its failure to vote on a bill that would prohibit the addition of "outside sections" to the state budget.

"I haven't made that judgement yet but that's what I'll probably do," he told a panel of interviewers on the program "Quincy Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystems' Channel 3.

"They tried to bury it. We went out and got 66,000 certified signatures. It was voted on once and I think they put it under the sofa so nobody could see it. They reconsidered but they never voted on it.

"It is offensive to me that, by parliamentary maneuver, they could east aside the will of 66,000 registered voters who signed those petitions. That offends me and I don't intend to allow that to happen."

An outside section is a totally unrelated amendment that is tacked onto and passed along with the state budget, usually in the closing hours of the legislative session.

One such outside section that was passed by the 1982 session of the legislature was a bill forcing politicians to give leftover campaign contributions to the state for dispersal as local aid to the cities and towns.

Bellotti is strongly opposed to that statute.

"It's foolish," he said. "If I give somebody $500 as a campaign contribution, I don't expect it to end up in some mayor's budget so he can put his niece or his nephew on the payroll. That's insane."

Bellotti said he feels that the law violates the First Amendment rights of the contributor.

"If I give you $500 I do not expect that $500 to go into a local aid fund," he said. "If I want to do that I'll give them the money myself."

Bellotti said he probably would not take any of his campaign war chest with him when he leaves office for the last time.

"But that's not my point," he said. "My point is that it's stupid to act as though this is taxpayers' money. It is not. It's campaign contributions that were given to candidates."

"It will probably prohibit me from giving money to a candidate over again. I do not want my $200 or $300 to wind up in a local aid fund for someone to put his nephew on the payroll."

for it."

He said he feels that Solicitor General Joseph Barressi is doing a good job as watchdog over state corruption and he would not like to see a revival of the Ward Commission, which investigated such misdeeds a few years ago.

"I just don't believe in commissions," he said. "What you're doing is taking the authority that should belong to the elected officials who are accountable. Commissions are anonymous. They're not responsible to anyone."

Bellotti, who ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1964, said he has no "longings" for the chief executive's office any more.

"I'm a little old to have longings anymore," he said. He'll be 60 in May. "I generally do what I feel like doing."

"If you said to me this minute, 'You can have an even trade, you can be governor and Gov. Dukakis will be attorney general,' I wouldn't take the trade, even if I didn't have to run

"They don't accomplish a great deal. The Ward Commission was great for two and a half years. It's come, it's gone and we've had some legislation. Now they're pecking away at that legislation."

"Tell me really what lasting impact that had." Bellotti was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, City Hall reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Honor Sought For Houghs Neck Youths

The City Council has asked the Park and Recreation Board to designate the Chapel Hill Playground the "Gregory McKinnon Playground" and the ball field at Great Hill School the "John Brille Field." The Council resolve was filed by Councilor Leo J. Kelly to honor McKinnon and Brille, two Houghs Neck youths who died in tragic accidents in 1982.

Sure, It's 1983, But 1982 Taxes Still Can Be Cut

So, don't be hasty. Hold off filing your 1982 Federal tax return until you have considered an IRA.

An IRA (Individual Retirement Account) lets you deduct up to $2000 of your 1982 pay from your Federal taxable income.

This deduction lowers your Federal income tax directly, and can also put you in a lower tax bracket. The interest your IRA earns is also sheltered. You won't pay any tax on your IRA funds until you retire, unless you withdraw them early.

For details on how you can be richer when you retire and cut your taxes right now, visit any office of Quincy Cooperative Bank in Braintree, Cohasset, Hanover or Quincy.

An investment house isn't the best home for your money.

Introducing the Hancock Money Market Account.

Now there's no need to move your money out of town or out of the state to get the highest interest rates. Hancock Bank gives you the security of having your investment FDIC insured and guarantees you a high money market interest rate each month. An investment house can't do either. The Hancock Bank Money Market Account also saves you money on state income taxes. And you only have to invest a minimum of $2,500. For details call 773-0500 or stop into one of our 17 convenient offices throughout Norfolk and Plymouth counties. You'll discover the best home for your money isn't on Wall Street. It's right in your neighborhood.

Maximum deposit for Money Market account is $200,000.

Collins Returns Fire:

QEA Head Lashes Committee Pay Bid

Herman A. (Hank) Pasquarella, president of the Quincy Education Association, noted wryly this week that the School Committee "has budgeted $21,000 to cover a $3,000 stipend for each member of the committee not subject to funding."

One of the stumbling blocks that have stalled contract negotiations between the QEA and the School Committee is the phrase "subject to funding" attached to the pay raise proposals.

A 1979 raise that was "subject to funding" has never been paid to the teachers and a court has backed the phrase.

"Don't ever forget that the architects of the 1979 'subject to funding' fiasco are once again attempting to bury our economic future while promoting their own futures," said Pasquarella in a statement.

"Don't forget that this School Committee that is publicly announcing that it is worth $3,000 a year, making it the highest paid

School Committee in this state, is the same School Committee that is denying us and forcing students to pay a users' fee for athletics.

"The Randolph School Committee budgeted $300 for each of its members. What do our School Committee people contribute to education that makes them worth so much?"

Pasquarella charged that only two of the seven members of the School Committee "are not in conflict (of interest) and one of them is politically ambitious."

He chided Committee Vice Chairman Mary Collins, who reportedly is considering running for the City Council.

"You still have another three years to go as a School Committee member," he said. "Would you turn your back on the constituents who elected you for more ambitious goals?" he said.

"The vice chairperson must decide between personal ambition and loyalty to office. A political person who asks the voters for re-election should honor the commitment."

Mrs. Collins said, "When a situation gets to the point where we're at, people do things that they would not necessarily do, such as attacking the school committee personally, which accomplishes nothing."

"The entire school committee is in favor of giving teachers a raise. No one has a problem with that. We understand the current economic straits everyone is in. They deserve a raise."

"The problem is, we're stripped to the bone, and we can't afford more (teacher) layoffs. Forty to 60 would have to be laid off without "subject to funding" (language).

"If the mayor doesn't give us the money, then we would have to have massive layoffs."

She also said that the figure budgeted for member stipends is only $9,000, and the money would not be paid until January, 1984, a half year under the budget.

Owe $80,000 In Parking City Cracking Down On 1,000 Ticket Scofflaws

By TOM HENSHAW

The jig is up for parking scofflaws in Quincy -- or it soon will be.

Parking Clerk Robert F. Denvir Jr. is readying for the State Registry of Motor Vehicles a list of some 1,000 people who have more than 20,000 overdue parking tickets.

The list represents $80,000 in fines and penalties for the city of Quincy, not to mention a penalty of $5 per violation for the Registry, a little known facet of the law.

The Registry is the one with clout in the war on parking scofflaws since it is empowered not to renew the licenses and registrations of those who owe parking fines.

Denvir said he is not sure yet exactly when the list of 1,000 scofflaws is going to the Registry, adding, "we're going to give them the courtesy of notification first."

Some of the largest scofflaws include a company in downtown Quincy that has nearly 400 overdue tickets and a Milton family that has accumulated about 370 on its two cars.

"There are a lot in the 100 and up range," said Denvir. "These are not shoppers who pick up an occasional ticket in Quincy. These are people who don't give a damn."

Perhaps they will when the Registry gets through with them.

Denvir pointed out a little known section of the state law that enables the Registry to slap an extra $5 fine for itself on each violation.

For the chronic scofflaw with 100 overdue tickets at $5 for the fine, $5 for the city penalty and $5 for the Registry penalty, that adds up to a nice piece of change.

"We've got some very bad scofflaws in Quincy," said Denvir.

And some of them are not getting any better despite the drive that has been on to clean up a mighty backlog of tickets over the past year.

"Here's one who had 24 tickets in 1982," said Denvir, running a finger up and down the computer sheets that are used as the chief weapon in the hunt for scofflaws.

"Here's another with 36. And another with 28. You don't pick up that many tickets in a year unless you don't give a damn. Those are the people that we are after."

Most of the multi-ticketed cars follow a pattern.

"Here's a guy who used to get tickets on Presidents Lane," said Denvir. "Now he's settled in on Monroe Rd. since November. That tells me he parks there and commutes to Boston on the MBTA."

"Some of the worst offenders are young women. Here's one with Dérailment Blocks Quincy Ave.

A Fore River Railroad train went off the tracks in Quincy Point Tuesday afternoon, blocking vehicular traffic on busy Quincy Ave. and West Howard St., for several hours. No one was reported injured in the derailment, which occurred behind the Burger King Restaurant near the rail entrance to the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard. Only one lane of traffic on Quincy Ave. was open to traffic for three hours until the engine and one of the derailed cars were moved into the shipyard.

Gold, Ivory Taken In Antiques Theft

A large amount of valuable antiques, mostly gold and ivory items, were reported stolen Monday from the antique show at the Masonic Temple on Hancock St.

The value of the items were not determined immediately but police called it a "substantial loss."

Police said there was no indication of forced entry into the building and it was believed that the thieves secreted themselves inside until the show closed for the night Sunday.

McCauley Hits School Aid "Earmarking"

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has registered with Gov. Michael S. Dukakis his "strong opposition" to a proposal that would earmark a portion of the state's local aid to cities for education.

"It is my feeling that any decisions made on the disposition of local aid should be made at the local level," he said.

Earmarking local aid for education, he said, would require offsetting cuts in other municipal budgets.

"While I realize that the school departments have suffered heavily because of the imposition of Proposition 2½," said McCauley, "it is important that local officials retain the power over local aid distribution."

"In Quincy last year, some $400,000 in additional local aid was made available to the School Department.

"In addition, a $350,000 surplus in the fiscal 1982 school budget was made available for School Department expenditures in fiscal 1983.

"As mayor of Quincy I have demonstrated a sensitivity to the needs of public education and have seen that a portion of all additional local aid went to the School Department."

Crane's New Unclaimed Money List Due In March

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane plans to release in March the names of more than 42,000 residents of Massachusetts who are owed millions of dollars under the state's unclaimed money law.

The law is designed to insure that unclaimed bank accounts, uncashed payroll checks, gift certificates and insurance proceeds which have been inactive for five years are returned to their rightful owners.

Last year, Crane returned more than $18 million under the unclaimed money law.

The state treasurer is charged with forcing banks and other institutions to report unclaimed funds to the state. Recently, he sued Boston Edison, the First National Bank and Filene's for unclaimed money.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

• Granted a one-day auctioneer's license to Joan F. Caddigan for an auction Saturday, Feb. 26, at 9 Brook St., Wollaston, site of the former ice cream shop owned by Robert McFarland. Miss Caddigan told the board that McFarland will be liquidating some 250 items from his personal collection. Fire Chief Edward Barry, acting board chairman in the absence of City Clerk John Gillis, questioned why McFarland isn't using his own auctioneer's license.

• Continued to March 15, at the request of applicant Theodoros Sourmaidis a request for a common victualer license for Nick's Lunch, 57 Granite St., Quincy Center. The license was formerly held by Lampros Viglas.

• Continued for six months a hearing on alleged operation of an illegal rooming house at 57 Coddington St., Quincy Center. The board ruled that the house owned by Suresti DeVasia, originally from India, would probably not be considered a lodging house since there are only three paying tenants.

There must be four non-blood relations living in a dwelling to constitute a lodging house, according to Barry.

QHA Approves Westacres Gas Conversion

The Quincy Housing Authority has approved the conversion to gas for the 36-unit Westacres housing facility.

Each unit will cost $2,500. The total cost, $90,000, must now receive final approval of the Economic Office of Community Development, the state housing agency.

General Meeting March 2

Formal Hearing March 23 On MDC Pumping Station

At the request of Councillor Leo Kelly, the MDC has scheduled a formal public hearing in Quincy Wednesday, March 23, on the Braintree-Weymouth Interceptor and Pumping Station.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Germantown Community Center in the Snug Harbor School. Views expressed by area residents will be made an official part of the MDC records on the project. Prior to scheduling of this meeting, there was to be no formal hearing in Quincy.

The MDC, at the request of MDC Project Manager Jack Hamm, will also conduct a general meeting with Germantown residents Wednesday, March 2, in the Germantown Center. If needed, more such meetings will be scheduled.

Nearly 70 people expressed their opposition to the MDC plans at a meeting last week.

"This state project will have a major impact on our Germantown community," said Kelly who arranged the meeting.

An opponent of the MDC plans, Kelly feels the MDC "should look into the feasibility of constructing a treatment plant in Weymouth, Hingham or Braintree as opposed to what is currently being planned."

"My plan would alleviate the heavy flow of sewage into Nut Island from these communities and take away a great deal of pressure from the severely overburdened existing plant."

"It would also eliminate the proposed construction which would be extremely disruptive to the Germantown community and would eliminate the need to replace the 50-year-old Braintree-Weymouth pumping station with the feasibility of said pumping station being eventually phased out."

Donut King Hours Change Continued To March 15

At the request of Ward Councillor James Sheets, the License Board Tuesday continued to March 15 a hearing on requested change in hours at Donut King, Inc., 151 Copeland St., West Quincy.

The establishment is requesting a change in hours from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. to 4 a.m. to midnight.

"Many of the residents in the area have contacted me concerning the operation of this establishment at its present hours," stated Sheets.

"I feel that they should have the opportunity to address this board and make their feelings known."

During the hearing, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald told Joseph L. Melchione of Donut King that an illegal ground sign must be taken down.

Chiano, who is described as a drifter, was arraigned as a fugitive Tuesday in Claremont, N.H., District Court.

Chiano has been wanted by Quincy police since Jan. 5 when Mrs. Sanborn's body was found sprawled across a bed in Eddie's Motel on Quincy Ave., Quincy Point.

He was taken into custody in the small New Hampshire town Sunday afternoon when he approached a police officer in an effort to get a handout from a local charitable group.

"Therapy" for pigeon toes: roller skating. A New York doctor found the treatment effective for children who had not yet outgrown the condition, which is normal for infants.

To ease the heart's return to normal activity after open-heart surgery, doctors at Pennsylvania State University have created a "left ventricular assist device" that gradually lets the heart's chamber start pumping again.

New testing shows that propranolol — used against high blood pressure and angina — is even more effective against migraine than originally thought.

Hot hands — the skin irritation that comes from handling hot peppers for Tex-Mex or Szechuan cooking — can be relieved by soaking the affected area in vinegar. (Cold water won't work.) Be careful about touching eyes or nose.

New testing device can perform a blood count in 11 minutes right in the doctor's office. Desk-top blood analyzer is one of many types of diagnostic equipment now being made available to doctors.

Accurate testing is now available on a do-it-yourself basis. See the excellent devices at

10% WITHHOLDING

THAT'S NOT ALL

Beginning in 1983 the Federal Government will withhold 10% from all interest and dividends that you receive. That means not only bank interest but also credit unions, mutual funds, money market funds, corporations and federal, state and local governments. It's that simple... 10%.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL

Even disbursements from Individual Retirement Accounts, Keogh Retirement Accounts, other pension and profitsharing accounts cannot escape withholding unless you say otherwise.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL

Besides 10% withholding on interest you will lose the effect of compounded interest. You will lose time and privacy if you fill out exemption forms - and exemption depends on your age and your income. You will also lose because the cost of this plan will eventually be passed on to you.

BUT THAT'S NOT ALL

If you don't want this withholding on interest to take place, write or call your Senators and Congressman. Tell them you don't want 10% of your interest withheld. Tell them you want an incentive to save. Tell them to repeal this law.

Call us and we'll tell you where to write.

Police Alert

Quincy Police Dept.

Profile Of A Burglar

A composite picture of a residential burglar would show a man less than 25 years of age from a relatively low socio-economic group, probably unemployed or, at best, partially employed, with little education beyond the compulsory requirements.

He would probably have a prior arrest record as a juvenile delinquent and chances are he would have a history of experimentation with drugs or addiction.

Nationwide, persons under the age of 25 account for 83 per cent of all burglary arrests. In fact, more than half of all persons processed for burglary are referred to juvenile courts.

With some exceptions, the highly skilled professional burglar, over the age of 30 and with years of experience in his "trade," is not a factor in residential burglaries.

The pro burglar concentrates principally on commercial establishments or on the home of the extremely rich or well-known.

The "pot luck" burglar who has no idea what he will find that is valuable in the home he enters is almost inevitably an "amateur." But that does not mean that he lacks the talent to gain entry to your home.

In some cases, no talent is necessary at all since, in one out of every 10 burglaries, entry is made without force. The doors were left unlocked!

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Charles O'Donnell of 26 Mass Ave., Quincy Point, wins a T-shirt.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the hockey coach at Quincy High School?
2. Quincy's population in 1910 was about: 16,500? 32,500? 50,500?
3. What well-known Quincy landmark is located at 1170 Hancock St.?
4. True or false: The Woodward School for Girls is named for John Woodward, a colonist whose land-holdings once included most of Quincy Center.
5. Penn's Hill Rd. is located in what section of the city?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Joseph J. LaRaia and Leo J. Kelly are the members of the current City Council who are former members of the Council.
2. Joseph F. McConville is the newest member of the Quincy Planning Board.
3. Book Haven is located at 1552 Hancock St.
4. True. The Squantum School was opened in 1919, just after World War I.
5. Parmenter Place is located in the Quincy Point section of the city.

McIntyre-Tobin-LaRaia Political Alliance? Never!

John Gillis isn't running for mayor. Charlie Shea doesn't look like he is either.

Joe LaRaia just might. While others were insisting Gillis would be a mayoral candidate this year, we predicted here on Jan. 20 that he would not run.

A week later, on Quincy Cablesystems' "Newsmakers" program he was asked if he would run and said he would make an announcement in two or three weeks.

But he conceded the column came closer to being right than wrong.

He hasn't made that announcement yet. But when he does, it will be, "I'm not running."

But don't dismiss him for the future. Gillis would make a formidable candidate. He knows his city and city government, he's popular, he projects sincerity and he's a Democrat in a city where Democrats outnumber both Republicans and Independents.

In fact, Gillis would give Mayor Francis McCauley a good battle this year if he got into the race. But Gillis doesn't consider this year the right year for him politically or personally.

LaRaia

The column also observed that LaRaia, whose two-year tenure was one of the most turbulent in the city's history, wants to return to the mayor's office.

He still does. And of all the potential candidates being mentioned, he could be the most likely to make a bid. And as he drifts further away from McCauley he would make the most out of the fact he is a Democrat and McCauley is a Republican even though the city election is non-partisan.

Shea's name has been mentioned the past couple of weeks because of a remark he made at a party attended by past and current city officials and friends.

Shea, if you believe one report, indicated he would run himself to keep McCauley from having a free ride (no opposition) to re-election.

But, according to another source who was there, Shea actually said something like: "No one should get a free ride in an election."

And, according to the source, Shea never said if it came down to someone running to keep McCauley from getting a free ride, he would do it.

There are people urging him to run. They've been doing that for the past few weeks. He has resisted them so far. And reportedly is "99 per cent sure" he won't run.

Shea, former city councillor, auditor, purchasing agent and state representative, did run for mayor back in 1963. That was against incumbent Amelio Della Chiesa. Della Chiesa won.

Right now he's a consultant with a Bridgewater mobile home firm and quite happy. He doesn't look like a man who would rather take on all the burdens and headaches of being mayor of Quincy. Not at this time, anyway.

A recent suggestion that the political forces of former Mayors James McIntyre and Arthur Tobin might team with the LaRaia group to gang up on McCauley is producing a few belly laughs around political circles. Or, looks of astonishment.

As long as there's a single copy of LaRaia's book or even a single page of it in existence, Tobin and McIntyre wouldn't get together with LaRaia for a cup of coffee never mind a mayoral campaign alliance.

McCauley

If there's any kind of an unusual alliance in the making, it could come if LaRaia runs against McCauley. Then you might find the McIntyre and Tobin forces backing McCauley.

"We can live with Frank McCauley," the McIntyre-Tobin people said after he was elected.

But they can't and won't live with LaRaia.

MAGGIE BELLOTTI, wife of Atty. Gen. Frank Bellotti, will get a special award tonight from Quincy Junior College at ceremonies (5:30 to 7:30 p.m.) at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

The award will be a special recognition of the important role of Quincy Junior College in the lives of women.

Mrs. Bellotti, raised 12 children and managed to squeeze in college classes to graduate.

MAGGIE

MAN'S BEST FRIEND? Mayor McCauley was walking home from the Public Works garage after supervising with Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson the snow fighting efforts during the last big storm. On Babcock St., he was bitten by a dog.

The dog left its teeth marks in His Honor's leg. McCauley wound up at Quincy Hospital for a tetanus shot. (Fully recovered, McCauley marched in the Morrisette Legion Post Memorial Parade Monday.)

Now that the painful part is over, McCauley's wife, Sandra, when asked about the dog biting incident smiled: "The story around the Neck is the dog was mad because the city hadn't plowed his street yet."

Readers Forum

Opposes Parental Notification Regulation

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
We, the South Shore Teen Mother's group want to inform your readers about the effects of the proposed regulations requiring parental notification for minors visiting Family Planning clinics.

We are opposed to this regulation for many reasons. We feel that this will be an invasion of privacy and contribute to the rise in teen pregnancy.

It would be ignorant to believe that passing this parental notification regulation would decrease the amount of teen sex.

Now will it increase family communication. If family communication is already lacking, notification by mail of a minor's sexual activity will not improve it. If anything it could make the situation more difficult.

Would parents rather have their daughters suffer the trauma of an unwanted pregnancy or have birth control confidentially available? Not enough teens who need services are presently going to Family Planning clinics. We do not want to see any more teens have to cut off their school and career plans and be forced to go on welfare because of teen pregnancy.

Eleey Favors Death Penalty In Some Cases

Governor's Councillor Peter Eleey of Quincy says he feels that the death penalty is appropriate in "limited instances" under a "carefully drawn" statute.

"You have to be very careful how it is employed because the consequences are so great," he told interviewers on the Quincy Cahlesystems program "Newsmakers".

"A carefully drawn death penalty for first degree murder where somebody plots to commit a murder and carries it out would be appropriate," he said. "I would be very leery of expanding it to any other areas."

He said he feels it will be three or four years before the recently adopted death penalty law in Massachusetts has cleared legal challenges and can go into effect.

"It has to be involved if it is going to be a deterrent," he said.

"In the past couple of years, the public has increased the level of noise about crime and the way the courts are handling it.

"The Legislature has adopted mandatory sentencing in some areas and I think that's because they have felt that the courts have not complied with the people's wishes for stiffer sentencing.

"When the public feels that the laws are not being enforced and that a person is not properly punished, it leads to a frustration and a distrust of the system."

Eleey said that, in his slightly more than two years on the governor's council, he has come down hard on those convicted of crimes when they come before the council for pardons or commutations.

"I have voted against the majority of these," he said. "Generally, I have been the lone voice in those matters. I have felt the concern expressed by the families of the victims."

"When somebody commits an act such as murder it would have to be extraordinary circumstances before that act should be overlooked," regardless of the conduct of the person while he was incarcerated."

In other matters, Eleey told interviewers: "His political career has been aided by James R. McIntyre, the former mayor and state senator who is his uncle by marriage."

"He's been very helpful to me in setting direction. It's a balancing act. I have explored some areas myself and there are others where I have called upon the guidance of Mr. McIntyre or other people."

• It's too early to tell if former Gov. Edward J. King, whom Eleey backed for re-election, will make a comeback.

"At the time Gov. Dukakis lost I felt it would be difficult for him to come back but he certainly proved that was not the case so anything can happen in four years."

He said he feels that Gov. King's problem was "an inability to communicate his accomplishments through the media" and by the time he developed that skill it was too late.

• He has no plans to run for mayor of Quincy.

• Over the past several months I have heard my name mentioned for several offices. If the office of mayor were offered to me on a silver platter I'd have some concern. Right now I'm happy with the council."

Eleey was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, City Hall reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

State Police Barracks Urged For West Quincy

Brig. Gen. Otis M. Whitney, the state's commissioner of public safety, was reported to be "very much interested" in building a new state police barracks in West Quincy to serve the new superhighways, Routes 128 and 3.

Capt. Arthur T. O'Leary, adjutant, toured the site near the Granite Railway with Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and a group of business and civic leaders and indicated that, should the plan be approved, construction would start within the year.

"This appears to be a good location and would offer the state police a happy medium between the Foxboro and Norwell barracks in patrolling the new state highways," he said.

Capt. O'Leary said the new barracks would be a substation of Troop D which is headquartered in Middleboro, and would consist of 15 men, including a sergeant and two corporals.

Mayor Proclaims March As 'Special Needs Awareness Month'

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has proclaimed March as "Special Needs Awareness Month" to highlight the programs and services available to children with special needs and to increase the community's sensitivity to and awareness of persons with special needs.

The many events scheduled throughout the month have been planned, organized and sponsored by the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education, the Thomas Crane Public Library, and the Department of Special Education within the Quincy Public Schools.

Among the events is an Open House sponsored by the Department of Special Education on Wednesday, March 16, (snow date: March 18).

A bus will leave the parking lot of Quincy Vocational Technical School at 9 a.m. and take all interested persons to several of the special education programs in the school system.

The tour will include the Snug Harbor, Atherton Hough, and North Quincy High Schools.

At 11:45 a.m., lunch will be served at the Bowl and Board Restaurant, a restaurant run by special education students at North Quincy High School.

The bus will return to the Voc-Tech parking lot at 12:45 p.m. Louis Tozzi and Judith Paul will host the Open House.

Special Needs Athletic Night at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 23, will have students compete in relay races, volleyball, and basketball games in the North Quincy High School gymnasium.

The event will be arranged by Louis Tozzi, Coordinator of Special Education and Mary Pratt, adaptive physical educator. Jack Raymer will be the announcer.

Throughout the month, Jane Granstrom, Director of Children's Services at the Thomas Crane Public Library, will display books about special needs and distribute publications relevant to special needs.

Displays of the work of students with special needs and library resources on special needs can be seen in the windows of the South Shore National Bank, in the main lobby of the new City Hall, and in the administrative offices of the Quincy Public Schools.

For more information, contact the Department of Special Education at 786-8743. Schedules of events will be available at all public library units and at the Department of Special Education.

Morrissey Seeks Word Of Missing In Vietnam

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has written to President Reagan and the Vietnamese ambassador to the United States on behalf of the families of 2,500 servicemen still unaccounted for in Vietnam.

"These loyal American men went to fight in the service of their country," he said in the letter to Reagan. "The very least the United States owes them and their families is a final determination of their situation."

"The greatest sacrifice this country can ask for has been readily given by these men and they deserve far better than to be abandoned, unremembered."

Morrissey's letter to Ambassador Hoang Bich Son protested strongly what he called the Vietnamese government's "uncooperative handling" of the issue.

"It has been nearly 10 years since the Paris Peace Accords and still the United States has not received a full account of its American citizens listed as missing," he said.

"The uncooperative nature of the Vietnamese government is a disgrace and is certainly the major obstacle in the normalization between our two countries."

Morrissey urged others to send letters to Ambassador Hoang, whose address is: Ambassador Hoang Bich Son, SRV Mission to the United Nations, 21 Waterside Plaza, N.Y., N.Y., 10010.

Rielly 'Outstanding Neighbor'

Blizzard Ball Reminder: Be Ready For A Disaster

John E. Boyle, chairman of the Red Cross Blizzard Ball, cautioned last week that Quincy and the South Shore must always be ready should another disaster strike.

Boyle presided at the fifth annual Blizzard Ball at the Lantana in Randolph, at which funds were raised to help the Red Cross prepare for disasters on the South Shore.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, honorary chairman for the event, read a proclamation designating March as Red Cross month and encouraged all to give generously to the upcoming drive.

Regional Chairman John

M. Corcoran presented the outstanding neighbor of the year award to Gerald T. Reilly, founder and treasurer of the Gerald T. Reilly and Co., Inc., of Milton.

Members of the Blizzard Ball committee included Helen Shea, Edna Gilmore, Mary Valle, the Rev. William McCarthy, Albert Shechman, Peter Macdonald and Carter Caudle, all of Quincy.

Chamber To Honor McIntyre, Flatley

Former Mayor James R. McIntyre and developer Thomas J. Flatley, president of the Flatley Co. of Braintree, will be honored at the annual meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Friday, March 18, at the Lantana in Randolph.

McIntyre, now counsel for the State Senate, will receive the "statesman of the year" award, while Flatley, who lives in Milton, was chosen to get the "businessman of the year" award for his leadership in development on the South Shore.

D. Currey Pettus, chamber president and manager of Armstrong World Industries of Braintree, called McIntyre "one of the Commonwealth's most perceptive political leaders" during a political career that started in 1956 on the Quincy City Council.

He served as Council president, state representative, state senator and mayor from 1966 to 1972, when he retired from the hustings to become senate counsel.

"Because of Mr. McIntyre's recognition that the future of an older city such as Quincy depended upon an active revitalization effort, the city has attracted quality development that has given it a young and aggressive image," said Pettus.

THOMAS FLATLEY

He noted that McIntyre is credited with bringing the State Street South complex to Quincy and creating a positive atmosphere for business growth in the city.

"Quincy continues to benefit from his leadership as mayor and state senator," said Pettus. "We want to honor him because Quincy's current prosperity can be traced to his leadership."

Pettus pointed out that the Flatley Co. "has demonstrated the benefits of innovative business leadership to the community."

"The economic prosperity of the South Shore has been enhanced by such Flatley Co. developments as the expansion of the Sheraton Tara in Braintree, which now offers Boston-type hotel and convention accommodations and the Braintree Hill Office Park," said Pettus.

With over 800-beds in its skilled nursing care facilities, he added, the Flatley Co. is "contributing much to the quality of life here and throughout New England."

Special recognition will also be accorded to Eugene V. Roundtree, president of All-Stainless, Inc., of Hingham, president of the chamber in 1982.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Much has been said in recent years about inflation and recession. If the presumed knowledgeables - the politicians and economists who have said so much, had to eat their words, they would be obese - and overweight. During any recession the plight of the unemployed is a serious concern. But there is always a ray of optimism for them. They know theirs is only a temporary misfortune. The situation is entirely different for the elderly and the poor, especially those with fixed incomes. In today's economic picture, theirs is not a temporary misfortune. Inflationary prices mean they have to buy less and less. Worse yet, their lifetime savings, investments and pensions which they counted on are flowing to an ever widening seepage of damaged dreams of security. It is not this seepage one of the most serious problems we face today? ... We think so. If you agree, why not let your views be known ...

participating in a program entitled "Understanding Handicaps", sponsored by the Department of Pupil Personnel Services of the Quincy Public Schools.

Members of the Pupil Personnel Services staff who are leading the program include Lynn Rowe, William Mulcahy, Mary Ann Chase, Carol Shiffer, and Joyce Lebewohl.

With support from Mrs. Joan McDonald from the Volunteer Information Agency (VIA), the staff is teaching students about such handicaps as blindness, learning disabilities, physical disabilities, mental retardation and deafness.

Students sit in wheelchairs; walk with crutches; walk blindfolded with canes; experience the frustrations of the mentally retarded child in certain learning situations; learn about braille and sign language; and learn, through the use of puppets, books, and films about the world of the handicapped person.

Edward Baccari, principal, invited the group to present the "Understanding Handicaps" program at the Atherton-Hough School in recognition of March as "Special Needs Awareness Month in Quincy".

The program developed as part of the recognition of 1981 as the "International Year of the Disabled Person", has been presented to nine classes of fourth and fifth grade students during the past three years.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

'Crown Of Thorns' Bethany Lenten Topic

The mid-week Lenten service Wednesday, March 2, at 7 a.m. in the Bethany Congregational Church chapel will center on "Crown of Thorns".

The Lenten series, which has been held for the past four years, centers around the symbols of Jesus' suffering and crucifixion.

Symbols for the remaining services, which last 30 minutes each, will be: "The Nails", March 9; "The Crowning Rooster", March 16; "Robe and Dice", March 23; and "Sponge and Spear", March 30.

Participants are invited to remain after the service for a light breakfast.

Preachers for the series are Rev. J. William Arnold, Senior Minister; Rev. Joel E. Huntington, associate minister; and Rev. Elden Zuern, guest preacher.

Lay persons assist in leading the worship by reading the scriptures and offering prayer. All are welcome.

Board Of Deacons Leads Squantum Church Service

The 12 members of the Board of Deacons of the First Church of Squantum led the worship service Sunday morning as the new officers of the church were installed for the year.

Deacon Mary Ruth Scott began the service by playing "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte on the piano. Leon MacIntyre, as chairman of the Board of Deacons, gave the greeting and the call to worship.

Katherine Hansen, the Senior Deaconess, offered the opening prayer.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin charged the persons being installed as church officers, members of the church boards and committees and as church delegates. The installation prayer was given by Deacons Evelyn Ahearn, Dana Olson, Renee Johnson and Hazel Mayne.

Deacon Tom Williamson made the announcements and led the prayer of dedication. Ushers were Donald Frazer and Tore Wallin. The Chancel Choir sang "My Shepherd Will Supply My Need" by Marie Pooler.

Deacon Stewart Scott led the congregation in a responsive reading of scripture. Steve Williams, at age 19 the youngest deacon in the history of the church, preached a sermon entitled, "At One With God."

Mary Ruth Scott and Steve Williams were joined by Andrew Ogilvie in leading the communion hymn "Ain't Jesus Good?" with guitars.

Bloodmobile At Point Congregational

An American Red Cross bloodmobile will be held Monday, Feb. 28, 11:06 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Anyone between the ages of 16 and 65, is in general good health, has never had hepatitis, weighs at least 110 pounds, and has not given blood in the past eight weeks may donate.

Appointments may be made by calling the Red

Hendry, Board of Trustees; Stewart Scott, Katherine Hansen, Steven Williams, Mary Ruth Scott, Dane Olson, and Gretchen Bumpus.

New members on church committees were: Hazel Mayne, Janet Sumner, Susan Abbe, Flea Market; Ruth Swenson, Lorraine Josselyn, Janet Sumner, Gretchen Bumpus, Flower Committee; Joan Hansen, Hospitality Committee; May Lewis, Evelyn Ahearn, Ruth Swenson, Furnishings Committee; Marie Reister, Steven Williams, Music Committee; Cal Bumpus, Paul Paulson, Luther Swenson, James Stamos, Silas Porter, Dana Olson, Property Committee; Carl Anderson, Luther Swenson, Dana Olson, Security Committee; Barbara Anderson, Roy Hansen, Silas Porter, Luther Swenson, Helen Miller, Stewart Scott, Richard Hendry, Diane Lindblad, Gloria Cutler, Stewardship Committee; Barbara Fluhr, Renee Johnson, Hazel Mayne, Genevieve Todd, Lorraine Josselyn, Wedding Arrangements Committee.

On Wednesday nights, the series of Lenten suppers and programs continues. The menu Feb. 23 was spaghetti and salad bar.

The program was on "John Huss, Martin Luther, John Calvin and the Anabaptists." The suppers are always at 6:30 p.m. and the programs at 7:30 p.m.

Next Sunday, there will be two worship services, one at 8:30 a.m. and the other at 10:30 a.m.

Cross office at 471-5440.

HOUGHNS NECK LEGION POST color guard was among the veterans groups which marched in the parade as part of the Morrisette Post's 54th annual Memorial Mass at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy and activities. Marchers included former State Representative Joseph Brett; Senator Paul D. Harold; Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro; Councillor James Sheets, Sandra McCauley and Mayor Francis McCauley.

'What Is Lent' Topic At Adams Shore Church

The four Quincy United Methodist Congregations continue to meet at the Adams Shore Community Church for the month of February.

Last Sunday, The Rev. Dr. Theodore Romberg preached on "What Is Lent?" as the emphasis for the First Sunday in Lent.

Lay reader for the 9:30 a.m. service was Joanne Nolan. Ardy Peterson was lay reader at the 11 a.m. service.

Hospitality for the coffee hour was provided by Grace Shields, Margaret McMullin and Sybil Whyte. The Choir Anthem was "Go Not Far From Me, O God" by Zingarelli. Marjorie McAllister was organist.

Ushers for both morning services were John Whyte and Robert Gardiner.

The United Methodist Youth Fellowship met at the Quincy Centre Church recently. The fund-raising campaign for their April vacation New York trip is in full-swing.

The group is planning a "School's Out" dance for Feb. 23, and they will also be selling boxes of candy. It is hoped that all members of the parish will lend their support.

Christian Science Speaker At Point Congregational

As part of the continuing Lenten Wednesday programs at Quincy Point Congregational Church, Mrs. Irene Larrington C.S., from the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be the speaker March 2.

Larrington has been second Reader at her church, and is Sunday School Superintendent. She has been a campus counselor at Harvard and Tufts, and for many years active in the Church Women United.

The program at Quincy Point, to which the public is invited, begins at 6:30 with a bring-your-own brown bag supper.

A song fest and devotions are part of the program along with the discussion on what Christian Science is all about. The church is located at 444 Washington St., Quincy.

Fr. Dunn To Speak At St. Joseph's Monday

Raiders Bow To Cambridge

The North Quincy boys' basketball team lost to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 83-62, last week to finish the regular season with a 4-11 record, 3-9 in the Suburban League.

Ed Miller's Raiders this week are playing in the league's new double-elimination tournament in which all teams are entered. "This was a pretty rough season, but we have a lot of fine players returning next season and things look good," Miller said. "Most of the teams we played this year had more size and a lot more experience and we gave some of the top teams trouble before running out of gas."

Chris Bunker has 15 points to lead the North attack against Cambridge.

Bunker, a junior who averaged 16 points a game this season, will be back next year as will Paul Ryan, another junior who had some big games. Junior Nick Gelsomini, who played most of the season with the jayvees but started at center in the last four varsity games, is a fine player, and Ken Runge, a sophomore, played some with the varsity and is an excellent prospect.

CO-CAPT. John Purland has had an excellent season for the North Quincy basketball team.

Another returnee upon whom Miller will be depending next season is junior Steve Higgins, who played most junior varsity but saw some varsity action. "Steve stands 6-foot-2 now and is still growing," Miller said. "I think he might be about 6-4 next season and he will help us."

"I am happy with the way the boys played this year, they just didn't have the experience to stay with most of the teams all the way. They fought hard in every game. I hope we can make a good showing in the tournament, which will give the boys some added experience."

Amateur Boxing At Armory

The newly-organized Shoreline Boxing Club of Quincy will hold an all-star amateur boxing show Saturday night at 8 p.m. at the Quincy Armory.

Among those competing will be several who made good showings in the recent N.E. Golden Gloves competition in Lowell.

Among those who will be boxing will be the "fighting Murphy" of Houghts Neck, Scott and twins Tommy and Timmy.

Another will be Sal Lorenzani of Quincy Point, who lost a close decision to Dave Sullivan of Lowell, one of the top fighters in the tournament, in the Golden Gloves 160-pound class.

Don McCarthy of Roslindale, representing the Shoreline Club, lost a 135-pound decision to Lowell's Mike McCall in the Golden Gloves and won a silver medal.

N.E. AAU 147-pound champion Bobby Guiducci of Weymouth, won the division title in the Golden Gloves, gaining a unanimous decision over Harold Souther of Lowell and will represent N.E. in the national tournament in New Mexico.

Allen Yassen of Hull knocked out Don Ahearn of Lowell to win the novice heavyweight crown. His Hull neighbor, Tom Ileson, was stopped in the second round in a 105-pound bout and won the silver medal.

All of these young boxers are expected to appear on Saturday's Quincy Armory show.

Quincy Wrestlers Win Sectional Title

The Quincy wrestling team, which last week completed its first perfect season (19-0) and won its fifth straight Suburban League championship, won the South Sectional title last Saturday at North Quincy for the fifth time in six years.

The Presidents will be among the favorites in the state championships Friday and Saturday at the North Quincy gym at noon.

Quincy has had an amazing record since Coach Carmen Mariano revived the sport in 1975. Its record since then is 144-29-1 and since 1976 it is 129-10-1.

"Our team could not have performed better than it did in the sectionals as all 12 of our wrestlers placed," said Mariano. "Ten of them qualified for the states and the other two will be alternates. We had five sectional champs and six finalists."

Mike Notarangelo won at 114 pounds, Joe Madden at 134, Bill Rollins at 157, Kevin Cabezas at 169 and Jamie Gravales in the heavyweight class.

John DePolo was second at 140, Dave Coulter third at 101, Paul Miller third at 128, Matt Colby fourth at 107, Bob Willard fourth at 188, Bill Marston fifth at 121 and Mario Venturilli fifth at 147.

Quincy won with 220.5 points, followed by Brockton with 207, Norwood with 147.5, Marshfield with 137 and Plymouth-Carver with 103. North Quincy finished 14th with 20.5.

Madden was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler as Quincy hit a new high for finalists and champions.

"I have never coached a better team," Mariano said. "They all are outstanding athletes and outstanding young men. I am excited about their chances in the state championships but realize that it will take our best effort of the season to finish with the leaders."

The records of the Quincy wrestlers: Cabezas, 12-1-0; Coulter, 13-1-1; Darrin DeCoste, 7-1-1; DePolo, 13-0-2; Gravales, 17-1-0; Madden, 12-2-0; Marston, 10-1-1; Notarangelo, 16-0-0; Rollins, 13-0-0; Tony Souza, 8-2-0; Venturilli, 8-4-0; Willard, 15-2-0; Shaun Wynn, 4-1-0, and Colby, 8-6-0.

Brookline, Waltham Ruin Quincy's Hopes

Quincy's hockey team had high hopes of qualifying for the state tournament until last week when its final chance was ended after a couple of frustrating games.

The Presidents, after being tied by Brookline in the last 37 seconds of the game, got off to their worst start of the season against Waltham, trailing, 5-0, after a period and, despite a gallant comeback, lost, 7-6, to end its tournament hopes.

Waltham dominated the opening period as it scored five goals. The Hawks, in fact, had three goals before the Presidents got off their first shot.

"Before we had a chance to wake up, we were two or three goals down," said a disappointed Quincy coach

Bob Sylvia. "By the time we got our first goal, it was too late. We tried to relax the kids, get them to keep skating."

Quincy did just that and at 9:28 of the second period, on a power play, Bryan Provenzano took a pass from Mark Lamie and scored the first Quincy goal. Three minutes later Steve Baylis bounced one off goalie Mark Varanto's pads and Frank Reynolds put in the rebound to make it 5-2.

Waltham made it 6-2 before the period was over and the third period was all Quincy.

The Presidents sent 17 shots at Varanto while Waltham had only four shots in the period. At 6:10 of the period Reynolds slid the puck in front of Baylis and he scored. Jim Mc-

Sweeney also had an assist. A minute and a half later Provenzano scored his second goal with Lamie assisting and Mike Nourse's unassisted goal at 8:35 cut the Waltham lead to 6-5.

However, Waltham went back up by two eight seconds later and Doug Concannon's goal with 47 seconds left did nothing but again cut the gap to a goal.

The loss dropped Quincy's record to 8-5-1.

Earlier in the week Quincy appeared to have a 6-5 win over Brookline sewed up but Scott Carey scored with 37 seconds left to tie it up.

"Brookline hung tough," Sylvia said. "They got some breaks and took advantage of them."

The first period ended

2-2 as McSweeney (from Greg Keefe) and Ed Boyle (from Keefe) scored for the Presidents.

Quincy scored twice more in the second period to take a 4-2 lead into the third session. McSweeney scored his second (from Boyle) and Mike Chenette scored unassisted.

Richie Monahan made four fine stops with Quincy a man short in the middle period.

Brookline stormed back to tie the score with two goals in the first seven minutes of the finale. Keefe scored (from McSweeney and Boyle) at 7:52 but Brookline again tied it on the first of Carey's two goals. Boyle then scored (from McSweeney and Reynolds) at 11:58 and it looked good until Carey's tying goal at 14:23.

North Icemen Miss Out On Tourney Bid

North Quincy's hockey season came to a disappointing close last week as the Raiders lost to Brockton and lost a 5-1 lead in tying Brookline to end any hopes it had of making the state tournament.

North, under first-year coach Kevin Jago, failed to wind up with the school's first winning season in five years and only the third in 20 years, but it did finish with a .500 mark (5-5-2).

"I feel pretty good about finishing at .500, but we should have won a few more games as we lost three leads late in the game," said Jago. "The highlights of the season were earlier wins over Brockton and Brookline, North's first wins in four years over these teams."

The Raiders led Brookline, 5-1, with 1:16 left in the second period, only to have Brookline roar back with six goals to gain a wild 7-1 tie.

Scott Messina and Keith Smith, two of the Suburban League's top scorers, had two goals apiece as did Dave DiCarlo and John McGlame had the other.

Earlier in the week the Raiders started fast and outplayed Brockton for the first six minutes but when the Boxers' Mark Peterson intercepted a clearing pass and scored, it took the steam out of North and Brockton, taking a 2-1 first period lead, increased it to 6-1 after two and took a 6-2 victory.

"We just didn't play after that first Brockton goal," said Jago. "We threw everything at Brockton in those first five or six minutes but the puck just wouldn't go in. After that we stopped playing."

Smith scored the first

Raider goal late in the first period with Bob Reidy and John McGlame assisting and McGlame scored the other goal late in the game with Smith assisting.

"We are going to have a lot of fine players back next year," Jago said. "We played only four seniors most of the year. Sophomore Matt Higgins will be back and should be an excellent goalie next year. Messina and Smith also will be back and all of our defensemen will be returning. Things look bright for next season."

Mapp's OT Shot Eliminates QHS From Tech Tourney

Brockton's George Mapp hit on a jump shot with 10 seconds remaining in overtime to give the Shoemen a 69-68 victory over the Quincy High School basketball team and eliminate the Presidents from the Tech Tournament.

Eddie Dunham's driving layup with six seconds left in regulation time tied the game at 63-63 and sent it into overtime.

A bad first half from the foul line in which Quincy missed 11 of its first 15 free throws dug a hole from which the team was unable to emerge even when they hit on all 18 attempts from the foul line in the second half.

Mapp led all the scorers with 30 points while Dunham had 27 for Quincy and Alan Rapp had 16.

The Presidents were weakened considerably on the boards when Ralph Larson fouled out with two and a half minutes remaining in regulation time.

The Quincy lineup included: Denissen, Richards, Edwards, forwards; Larson, center; Dunham, Rapp, Connors, guards.

QUINCY ADVANCES

The Quincy High School hockey team, whose second place finish in the Metropolitan League gave it a back door invitation to the state tournament, beat Boston Latin, 2-0, on goals by Bob McCabe, to advance into the first round.

McCabe scored unassisted at 1:12 of the second period for the only goal Quincy needed and then added the clincher only eight seconds into the final session.

Earl Mooney, the Quincy goalkeeper, had only 11 saves in chalking up his third shutout of the season but five of them were rates as spectacular.

The Quincy lineup included: Wilson, McCabe, Morrell, forwards; Houghton, Chase, defense; Mooney, goal; Bina, Detoni, Gunning, spares.

Quincy bowed out of the tournament in the quarterfinal round, falling 3-0 before Walpole, the Bay State League champ.

NORTH ELIMINATED

Pete Frederickson had 22 points and Jim Baldwin added 12 but it was not enough as the North Quincy High School basketball team lost to Taunton, 61-55, and was eliminated in the quarterfinal round of the Bay State Tournament in Bridgewater.

The North Quincy lineup included: Baldwin, LaBreeque, forwards; Frederickson, center; Green, Scanlon, Landberg, Schumacher, guards.

MINISTER'S GOAL TIES

The Rev. Frank Anderson scored a goal at 4:15 of the third period to lift North Weymouth into a 4-4 tie with Wollaston in an Old Colony Hockey League game at the Weymouth Skating Club.

The Wollaston lineup included: Mills, Wheeler, Cattaneo, forwards; Small, Erickson, defense; LaPierre, goal; Beaton, Gullickson, McGahan, Condos, McCabe, spares.

QUINCY DOGS WINNERS

Just Breezing, Rudolf's Crown Jewel and Rudolf's Solitaire, greyhounds owned by Drs. Rudolph and Elsie Neustadt, 27 Avon Way, Quincy, won high honors during the 45th annual Eastern Dog Show at Mechanics Building, Boston.

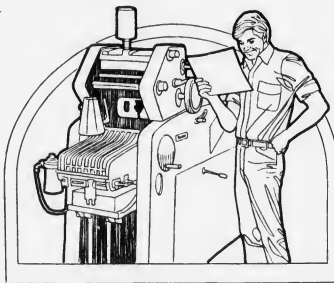

TENNIS CHAMP TO AUSTRALIA

Tom Raleigh, the Quincy Tennis Club singles champion, was picked by his employer, Price Waterhouse Co., to go on a five-month business trip to Australia, largely because of his tennis reputation.

SPORTS BITS '58

Former Welterweight boxing champion Tony DeMarco of Boston, was to be a guest at the sports night of the Five and One Club at the Atherton Hough School . . . George Burke scored a club record 77 points as the North Quincy Koeh Club overwhelmed the Plymouth Boys Club, 142-102, with 57 of his points coming in the second half . . . Archbishop William High School hockey team won the South Shore League title by playing Hingham to a scoreless tie through two overtimes behind the flawless goaltending of Don Short . . . Bill Russell scored 19 points and held the league's leading scorer, George Yardley, to 19 as the Boston Celtics clinched their second straight Eastern Division title with a 106-99 victory over the Detroit Pistons . . . Jack Kallis of the Baintree High Ski Club won the slalom in 26.4 seconds, edging Paul Hurley of the Quincy Recreation Commission in the ski races on the Furnace Brook slopes .

Conboy Scores 1000th Career Point For QJC

Playing his 50th game, Jim Conboy scored his 1000th career point last week in Quincy Junior College's 104-88 victory over Blue Hills Technical Institute.

Needing only two points going into the game, Conboy hit on a short jumper to his the record.

The referees, George Dunn and Paul Kelleher, stopped the game and Coach Brian Buckley presented Conboy with a plaque, donated by A. E. Goodhue. The Quincy fans gave Jim a three-minute standing ovation as his teammates and the Blue Hills players congratulated him. He finished with nine points.

After the game Conboy said, "I knew I was near 1000 but had no idea the presentation was planned. I was very nervous after that."

Steve Belcastro paced the Jaguars 21-7 overall and 13-2 in the Greater Boston Small College Conference with 22 points. Gary DiNardo and Paul Forbes had 12 each. Peter Papile of Quincy scored 15 points for Blue Hills.

Sophomore guard Fran McEachern scored all 11 of his points in two overtime periods as QJC outlasted Bunker Hill Community College, 116-110, in one of the season's most exciting games, to remain in first place in the conference.

DiNardo was eight-foot-eight from the foul line in the two extra periods.

QJC lost six players on fouls as the bench was called into action.

Buckley was extremely pleased with the double overtime win. "It was a great team effort in a strange game," he said. "There were 83 foul shots taken. In a situation like that it's going to be decided by the bench — and it was."

Forbes had 22 points. DiNardo 22, Conboy 21 and Gill 19 for the Jaguars.

Quincy Sparkles But Drops Finale

The Quincy boys' basketball team completed its regular season winless in the Suburban League (0-12) and with an overall 1-14 mark.

But the Presidents finished up with their heads high last Thursday with one of its best efforts as it bowed to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 60-54.

Joe Amoroso's Presidents will get a chance this week to get even for some of their defeats when they play in the new Suburban League double-elimination tournament.

Trailing by 13 points after three quarters, Quincy pulled to within two (56-54) with 1:16 left, but Cambridge scored the last four points.

Sophomore Bill Shaughnessy, one of the real bright spots this season, had 20 points to lead Quincy. Senior Paul Gilbody, who had an outstanding year, had 11 points, five assists and six rebounds, and the only other senior, Bob Mudge, had eight points, six assists and six rebounds. Junior Jim Stasio contributed nine points and three steals and junior Denis Downing had six points and seven rebounds.

Cambridge raced out to a 22-6 lead in the opening quarter as 6-9 Keith Hendrie scored eight of his 19 points.

Trailing, 54-46, the Presidents went on an 8-2 spurt with Stasio, Shaughnessy and Downing hitting a pair of free throws each before a Shaughnessy jumper made it 58-54. With Quincy in a full-court press, Hendrie found Rich Robinson underneath for a layup with 22 seconds left. Shaughnessy was fouled and missed the front end of a one-and-one with 16 seconds left and that was that.

Earlier in the week Quincy fell to Brockton, 88-53, despite 19 points and 14 rebounds for Gilbody.

Quincy played the Boxes to a 19-19 tie after the opening period but the bigger and more experienced Brockton club then ran away and clinched a tournament bid.

"These guys have been great," Amoroso said. "You wouldn't know we won just one game the way they cheer and clap hands during practice. They gave me 100 per cent and more all season."

"The future looks mighty bright with 25 of 27 varsity and sub-varsity players returning. Gilbody and Mudge, who are tremendous, are our only seniors."

Shaughnessy, Downing, Mike Flynn and Stasio should be outstanding next season. Darrin Tuckey came up from the sub-varsity and scored six points against Brookline. Freshman David Britt is another fine prospect.

MINIBIKE INJURY EPIDEMIC

The main danger with minibikes is that they are usually operated by "mini-people". This lack of driving experience can lead to all sorts of personal injury. According to a research study recently conducted at the DuPont Institute in Delaware, at least 10,000 accidents involving child or adolescent operators of minibikes occurred last summer. At least 1,000 of the youngsters involved will be handicapped for life.

"So many children have been injured in motorized minibike accidents that the problem has reached epidemic proportions", state the study researchers. Control of this epidemic can only come about through public education. People must be made aware of the fact that the operation of off-highway vehicles, in many cases, can have tragic results. Parents must make sure that their children are properly trained before presenting them with minibikes. Also, laws for regulating off-highway vehicles should be enacted in all of the states - not just some of the states.

First Ladies Close With Near Upset Over Cambridge

The Quincy girls' basketball team finished its season last Thursday with one of its best efforts of the year but just missed the upset of the season as Cambridge Rindge and Latin, the second place team in the Suburban League, took a 43-40 decision.

The First Ladies finished with a 4-8 record but four of the losses were by four points or less.

A slow Quincy start enabled Cambridge to take a 14-5 first quarter lead as league all-star Tina West had 10 of the visitors' points. Quincy narrowed the gap to six points at the half.

Fllen Deady led the way in the third quarter with seven points as the First Ladies tied the game at 30 going into the final session.

Cambridge's other all-star, Dolores Williams, scored 10 points as Rindge and Latin pulled out the victory.

West and Williams scored 17 and 21 points respectively to spark Cambridge.

Quincy was forced to play with all-star Cindy Morrell, who watched the game from the bench with her arm in a sling due to a shoulder injury suffered earlier in the week.

Deady led Quincy with 14 points, her high for the season, and Co-Capt. Theresa Munroe had eight points, nine rebounds and four steals. Dara Morris, filling in for the injured Morrell, had seven points and six rebounds.

"This was just another example of the team's conrage, character and determination," said Coach Marty Finnegan. "I guess every coach has regrets when the season ends, but I feel down more than any other year I've coached. It was such a pleasure to coach these young ladies. I feel sure that if we had Mary Aggress this year (out for the season), we would have made the tournament, as she was one of the best defensive players around. Quincy High is very proud of them."

Finnegan, who had coached the Quincy boys for 23 years as assistant and then head coach, when asked to compare the boys and the girls, said, "In my opinion, the girls play with just as much intensity, desire and determination."

Monti Sizzles With 388 In Koch Men's

Tony Monti led all scorers in the weekly "3200 Club" in the Koch Club Men's Bowling League firing a 388 three string total.

Others in the select group included Dan Walsh, 334; Dave Prescott, 332; Bob Woodman, Sr., 328 and Mark Hart, and Dan Brennan, 326 each.

Monti's 388, set a new three-string total for the season besting Walsh's previous high of 381. Mike Martinelli retained his 158 single string as Monti fell one shy in his three string feat with a 157 mark in one of the strings.

Monti also spearheaded his teammates to capture the league's three string team total mark of 1545 and best team single string of 565.

Dino Salvati, Dave Prescott, Paul Roy and Tom Koch shared the honors with Monti.

Jim Broadbent's team had held the title for most of the season with 1538 and 555 scores until the Monti upset.

The Monti team has moved into a slim lead in the second half competition with 35 wins and 7 losses while Jim Broadbent follows closely with 32-8. Behind them are Bob Woodman, Sr., 24-16; Al Mancuso, first half winner, 23-17; Jim Moody and Steve Mancuso are deadlocked with 14-26 records and Paul Koch and Mario Scorza are tied in the cellar with identical 10-30 marks.

Mike Martinelli is still the best individual performer with high average of 110.7. In the top 10 with him are Tony Monti, 107.7; Mike Doyle, 106.2; Larry McQue, 104.5; Dan Walsh, 103.7; Jim Broadbent, 103.2; Dave Prescott, 102.5; Steve Mancuso, 101.9; Al Mancuso, 99.6 and Tom Koch, 99.5.

North Girls Bow To Falmouth In Meet

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team, which has won three straight state championships, came within five minutes and two events of becoming the Cinderella team of 1983 last Saturday when it was edged by heavily-favored Falmouth, 40-37, in the Class A state meet at Harvard.

"This was just a wonderful showing and I can't begin to say how proud I am of these girls," said Coach Lou Tozzi, whose Raiderettes had finished 7-1 during the season and were second to unbeaten Weymouth South in the Suburban League.

"No one gave us a chance this year. We had one of the youngest teams in the meet with only two seniors and most of the other teams were loaded with seniors. Falmouth was supposed to be in Class B but requested and received permission from the MIAA to move up into Class A. If they hadn't moved up, we would have won our fourth straight state title.

"We were there for about four hours and led for three hours and fifty-five minutes, with just the high jump and relay left. And we barely missed pulling out the relay, which would have won the meet for us."

Beverly finished third with 32 points and Haverhill was fourth with 22 as 46 schools competed for the Class A crown.

The Falmouth boys also won the Class C title.

Linda Kennedy, one of Tozzi's two seniors, was North's only winner as she surprised heavily-favored Tricia Cullane of Falmouth to win the 1000-yard run in 2:41.0.

The only other senior, Sheila Barrett, placed sixth in the mile in 5:13.2.

North surprised everyone in the 600 as sophomore Lisa Fitzgerald finished third in 1:29.6, bettering her previous best time by seven seconds. Junior Julie Alibrandi was sixth in 1:31.6, bettering her previous best by four seconds.

In the two-mile Mary Ann Kelleher finished third in 11:09.2, bettering her best previous time by 40 seconds, and Tracey Corrigan improved on her best previous time by 33 seconds in placing sixth in 11:40.

Sophomore Georgia Traficante played third in the high jump at 5-2 and the mile relay team of Barrett, Kennedy, Alibrandi and Fitzgerald finished a close third in 4:10.1.

"Fitzgerald ran an outstanding 60.4 anchor leg and just missed pulling it out for us," Tozzi said. "I can't say enough for this team. It surpassed my expectations but the girls were just so determined to win. Losing only two of them makes the outlook for next year bright."

"Our success this season was due to the fine leadership of Barrett and Kennedy and the great desire of the younger girls. And my assistant coaches, Mike Burke and Jeff Hennessy, were just great. They are very dedicated coaches and did a wonderful job all season. This is a season I won't soon forget."

North Trackmen Wind Up Season

The North Quincy boys' track team wound up its season last Saturday by competing in the Class B state meet at Harvard.

Although not placing high among the many teams entered, several Raiders turned in noteworthy performances.

In the 300 senior Bob O'Brien placed sixth with his best time of 33.6, just missing the school indoor record of 33.1. Also in the 300 Tom Kearney ran a personal best of 35.2.

In the 600 junior Arthur Collins ran his best time of 17.6, just missing the top six.

In the 1000 junior Jeff

Stryker, although getting caught back in the pack, ran his way to an excellent 2:30.8; only four-tenths of a second off the school record and his best time. "Jeff has really improved this year," said Coach Bart Petracca. "He was undefeated in the 500 and 1000 in dual meets and in the state meet ran eight seconds faster than he has ever run before. He would have won the 1000 in Class A but in Class B the competition was incredible."

Also in the 1000, sophomore Scott Coyne ran his best time of 2:27.9, excellent for a sophomore.

In the mile junior Jim Kennedy, again incredible competition, placed fifth with an excellent time of 4:28.9, the third fastest ever at North. "Jim just didn't get out of the pack early enough," said Petracca. "He still needs experience in the mile but this spring he should be well below his indoor mile times."

The mile relay was the highlight of the meet for North as it placed second with a fine 3:32 timing. O'Brien led off with a 52.8, Stryker was second with 53.4, Kearney ran the third leg in 53.7 and Kennedy anchored with a fine 52.9 after just running the mile.

"The team, although not placing as high as last year, was in a very strong class," Petracca pointed out. "Everyone had a personal best and the best part is that everyone except O'Brien will be back next year. Things look bright for next season." —TOM SULLIVAN

Sun Regains Little Loop Lead

The Quincy Sun moved back into first place in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop by blanking Bryan Post VFW, 8-0, while the previous leader, the Dick Morrissey Club, dropped into third place when it lost, 8-0, to the Quincy Elks.

Atlantic Fuel Oil, 48-72 (14,943); Sen. Paul D. Harold Club, 42-78 (15,395).

Last week's other scores: Montclair 8, Atlantic 0; McIntyre 8, Bowldrome 0; Brett 8, Local 1451 0; Burke 6, Harold 2.

Matt Miceli of the Elks rolled the season's high single of 150 and the season's high three of 380.

The Elks also rolled a record 416 single and 1180 three.

The Top Ten: Neil

Hatfield, 104.9; John Broadbent, 101.1; Brian Flanagan, 100.1; Jim Saley, 99.7; Miceli, 96.9; John Outerbridge, 94.7; Jim Mignosa, 94.3; Mike Grimaldi, 92.8; Robby Weikel, 92.8; Rich Brooks, 92.5.

Bob Kovalski of the Sun leads in pledges for the muscular dystrophy bowlathon with 563, followed by Neil Hatfield of Morrissey Club with $46.71, and Marc Smith of the Brett Club with $36.88.

Halloran Wins NU Letter

Ken Halloran of Quincy recently received his first varsity letter as a member of the Northeastern University football team.

Halloran, a senior and a 1979 graduate of Boston College High School where he lettered in football and hockey, excelled in a reserve role at middle guard and played all nine games on the special teams last fall, earning the reputation of being one of the hardest hitters in New England.

scored in the last minute and a half of the game.

UCT squeezed by Harold, 2-1, on goals by Jeff Craig and Mike Flaherty. Flaherty and Steve O'Brien had assists. Aidan O'Donoghue scored for Harold with Jamie Schaeztl assisting. Goals John Bertrand of UCT and Brian Fitzgerald of Harold were outstanding.

The standings: Balducci's, 7-6-2; Lydon Russell, 6-5-4; Harold, 7-7-1; Bo Car Printing, 6-6-3; Feeney's, 5-5-2; UCT, 5-7-3.

Squirt A's Defeat Randolph In Semi-Finals

Quincy's Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, defeated Randolph, 5-1, in the semifinals of the state qualifying tournament.

Richy McDonald scored two goals and Kevin Daly, Michael Hughes and Joey Fasano one each.

Ronnie Last, Brian Zimmerman and Hughes had assists.

Daly's hat trick led the Squirt A's to a 5-0 win over Braintree in the South Shore Conference. Timmy Collins and Fasano had the other goals. Fasano had three assists, Matt Smith two and Zimmerman and Steve Carroll one each. Ken Staskwitz played a strong game on defense and goalie James Tiberio recorded his eighth shutout.

Quincy also romped over Milton, 16-0, in the conference, as Last had four goals and an assist. Fasno, Hughes and Michael Baylis had two goals each and Smith, Collins, Joe Bevilacqua, Dave Santuosso and McDonald one apiece. Bevilacqua had three assists, Hughes and Smith two apiece and Fasano, Zimmerman, McDonald, Collins and Matt Kelly one each.

Quincy's overall record is 28-2-1 and the team is leading the conference with an 18-0-1 mark.

Raiderettes Rebound To Win Finale

The North Quincy girls' basketball team wouldn't know until Tuesday's Wellesley-Brookline game was over if it will be in the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the third year in a row.

If Wellesley beat Brookline the Raiderettes would qualify, but they would lose out if Brookline, which had hurt North's chances earlier, won.

Paul Gregoli's North girls bounced back from their worst loss of the season (60-29) to Cambridge Rindge and Latin to win their season's finale, 59-45, over Whitman-Hanson last Thursday to finish 11-6, one win short of automatically qualifying for the tournament.

"We still have a chance because of a new rule this year which permits the tournament committee to select teams to fill a bracket of eight teams providing their percentage is 59% or better," said Gregoli. "We stand at .647 and a Brookline loss to Wellesley would also give them an 11-6 record, creating a tie for the eighth spot."

"We had lost two other chances to qualify when Brookline surprised Brockton and Martha's Vineyard, which had lost only once in seven years at home, was upset by New Bedford."

Karen Bridges, 6-1 center, paced North to its crucial win over Whitman-Hanson as she scored a school record-breaking 31 points in an awesome display.

North jumped off to a 16-12 first quarter lead thanks to Bridges and Chris Choukas, who scored all the points, eight apiece.

The Raiderettes' lead increased to 26-18 in the second quarter before W-H ran off nine straight points to take a 27-26 edge but North regained the lead, 30-27, at the half. Mary Holleran had six points in the quarter and Bridges had eight more.

Bridges and Choukas began asserting themselves on the offensive boards in the third quarter and scored three easy hoops in the first two minutes. North increased its lead to 15 points and never looked back.

Bridges was 12 for 16 from the floor and seven of eight from the foul line. She also took down 17 rebounds. Choukas had 12 points, eight rebounds, four assists and three blocks and Holleran had 12 points.

Debbie Cavanaugh, who was the key in the big third quarter with her tremendous defense, had five steals.

Earlier in the week a red-hot Cambridge team ran off 12 straight points to start the game and North never got any closer as the Suburban League's leading scorer, Dolores Williams, had 26 points and all-star teammate Tina West added 16.

Choukas, returning from a knee injury, scored 14 points for North playing only two quarters. Bridges had 12 rebounds and Holleran had four steals. The Raiderettes made things easy for Cambridge with 31 turnovers.

"If it weren't for our two major injuries to Choukas and Bridges, we'd be in the tournament now," said Gregoli. "It's been frustrating for the girls who were rolling along with a 10-2 record when Choukas went out with a knee injury and Bridges was not fully recovered from the wrist fracture. But, if we don't make it, the girls can look back on a good season."

"Bridges missed two games and Choukas also was out as we lost a game in overtime, then lost two others while Choukas was out. Then we lost a fourth in her first game back. She had been one of the league's leading scorers before her injury."

"We were limited to 17 games this season because of 'financial reasons.'" In the past we had 20 games. We could have qualified for the tournament with a 14-6 record and I feel we would have reached that record because we have never lost a non-league game in three years."

goals and Mike Noonan and Mike Thomas one each. Noonan, Thomas and Peter Zona had assists. Joe Tosone had two goals and Dave Johnson one for Keohane's. Eric Visocchi had two assists and Adam Fitzpatrick one.

The standings: Fitzpatrick, 10-2-1; Colonial Federal, 8-4-1; Keohane's, 6-6-1; JDA, 5-8-0; Ideal Elevator, 4-8-1; Dunkin Donuts, 4-9-0.

In the Bantam Division Plaza Olds widened its lead to five points by defeating Lydon Russell, 5-3. Jim Cahill had a hat trick and Bobby Climo and Bill Ward one goal each. Climo and Robbic Zompanti had assists. For winless Lydon Danny Robison, Adam Swan and Steve Doran had a goal each and Mike Cassetta and John Joseph had assists.

The Riley Club and Bike 'n' Blade tied, 2-2. Bill Capplis and Tom Gagnon scored for Riley with Jim Kilcommons and Matt Dehan having assists. Kevin Jay scored both goals for B 'n' B with Rick DiCarlo assisting on each.

The standings: Plaza Olds, 11-2-0; Riley Club, 8-4-1; Bike 'n' Blade, 6-6-1; Lydon Russell, 0-13-0.

'Mary Parker Follett' Topic For Historical Society Program

The life of a prominent Quincy woman whose name is not familiar to many local residents will be the program topic at a meeting of the Quincy Historical Society tonight (Thursday). The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the society's Adams Academy Building.

The public is invited. Mrs. Joan C. Tonn will speak on "Mary Parker Follett 1868-1933 A distinguished Pioneer of Modern Management Thought".

Miss Follett was born and brought up in Quincy, a member of a prominent local family. At a time when there were few women in management, she gained national and international fame in this field. She held important management positions, wrote two books on the subject, and lectured in England as well as in this country.

Mrs. Tonn lives in Quincy and is associate professor of management at the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

A graduate of the University of Minnesota, she received her PhD in psychology from the University of Michigan.

An admirer of Miss Follett, she is doing research for a biography of this pioneer of modern management thought.

Rehearsals To Begin For St. Joseph's Musical

Rehearsals for the fifth annual St. Joseph's Parish musical show will begin Tuesday, March 1, at 7 p.m. in St. Joseph's School Hall.

All parishioners are invited to participate in this year's show titled "Hallelujah Hollywood".

The production will be directed by Ed Rooney and presented April 16 and 17 at Atlantic Middle School.

Patrons and program book supporters will be solicited to assist in defraying the cost of the show. Proceeds are used to offset the cost of programs run by the Youth Activity Committee.

'Punch 'n' Judy' Show Friday At HN Congregational

A "Punch 'n' Judy" puppet show, featuring Bill Glover and his puppets, will be presented by Girl Scout Cadette Troop 4182 Friday, at 1:30 p.m. at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Manet Ave.

The show is a fund raiser for the troop's Pennsylvania Dutch Country trip in June. All are welcome. Popcorn and drinks will be available.

Louise Kalish Art In Boston Exhibit

Louise Kalish of Quincy is among 19 artists participating in an exhibition, "The Egg and Eye I" through Friday, at Boston City Hall main gallery.

Hours are Monday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The exhibit is by Women Exhibiting in Boston.

Miss Kalish a docent at Rose Art Museum at Brandeis, a teacher at the South Shore Art Center, and guides tours to galleries and museums.

She had demonstrated her technique at the Federal Reserve Bank, and her work is included in corporate and private collections.

Central Student Senate Entertains Local Residents

Central Middle School Student Senate recently entertained residents of Tobin Towers and the Executive House. As the winter project, the students presented a Pops Concert in the Learning Center. The chorus performed under the direction of Marion Clancy. The band played under the direction of Bernard Goldstein.

Student Senators who assisted with hospitality and refreshments were James Pheland, Derek Holt, Allison Sage, Donald Greene, Beth Ryan, Maura O'Gara, Kathy Gordon, Michael Mullaney, Kristin Gearin, Kathy Gralton, Jeffrey Campbell, and James DiCarli.

Senate advisors this year are principal Louis DiMartino and head counselor Mary Catherine Iannoni.

Refreshments were prepared by the home economics students under the supervision of Mrs. Lillian Balasalle.

Quincy Sun On 'Cable Talk' March 3

The Quincy Sun, will be a special feature of Quincy Cablesystems Ch. 3 "Cable Talk" program Thursday, March 3 at 9 p.m.

The program will be repeated Sunday, March 6 at 10 p.m. on Ch. 3.

Henry Bosworth, editor and publisher, and members of the Quincy Sun staff are highlighted as they prepare an edition of Quincy's only community weekly newspaper.

Bosworth and staff are shown as they prepare editorial copy, make-up and lay-out prior to printing of the paper. The program also shows the printing stages and distribution of the paper.

During an interview Bosworth describes the function and role of The Quincy Sun as Quincy's community newspaper. He also explains the workings of the Quincy Sun's Ch. 8, the 24-hour a day seven day a week all news television station devoted to news and happenings in Quincy as well as national and state news.

Bosworth notes that The Quincy Sun is oriented to promoting community service projects and programs. He cites in particular the more than a half million dollars over the past five years in behalf of the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

The telethon was telecast live for the first time over Ch. 8 with the cooperation of Quincy Cablesystems.

Bosworth feels The Sun and Ch. 8 station will play an increasingly important role in providing news to the residents of Quincy.

The special Quincy Sun Cable Talk program is made possible through the cooperation of Quincy Cablesystems and a volunteer workshop production crew. The crew is composed of Bob Gohl, Mike Greene, Kay Borek, Hugh MacLeod, Diane Solander, Steve Mitchell, John Noonan, and Tom Fahey, technical advisor.

Quincy Sun Ch. 8 News Schedule

The Quincy Sun offers around-the-clock Quincy, regional, national and world news on its Ch. 8 on Quincy Cablesystems.

The Quincy news is gathered by Quincy Sun staffers and the regional, national and world news by the Associated Press.

Ch. 8 is on 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The schedule:

National News: On the hour.

Quincy News: Ten past the hour.

Sports (Associated Press): Twenty-five past the hour.

Regional News: Half-past the hour.

Quincy Cable Calendar and other Quincy news: Twenty of each hour.

For the latest in Quincy, regional, national and world news watch Ch. 8.

Robert Gohl Named To Post At Haverhill Cable

Robert D. Gohl, access producer for Quincy Community Television, has been named program director for Times Mirror Cable Television in the Haverhill, Groveland and Georgetown area.

Gohl, who is the son of Donald Gohl, a executive of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, will have the task of setting up a community access program and training people to use lights, cameras and edit.

While with Quincy Cablesystems, Gohl produced and directed the popular program "Cable-talk."

NQHS Music Parents To Meet

The North Quincy High School Music Parents Group will meet Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the Choir Room at North Quincy High School.

Final plans for the fund-raising dance, to be held March 25, will be made.

Also plans for the annual awards banquet will be discussed. All parents are urged to attend.

Announcing the new Chronological Spindles

The CHRONOLOGICAL SPINDLE is easier to use than the ordinary calendar. It has an eye in its tip...when the spindle is full and the papers are to be removed;

- 1 Thread the spindle with about 2ft. of double thread.
- 2 Draw the papers through the thread to about 1ft. free of the spindle.
- 3 Cut off thread near the eye...the ends together with a WAX KNOT

These KNOTS have your papers tied together in the same sequence in which they were spindled. Records of their size or shape conveniently accessible for reference and/or copying

It's low price of only 99¢ ea. makes it an affordable must for anyone that needs to keep a comprehensive record for tax or any other purpose.

Merely add additional spindles to sectionalize or categorize for the expense of food, rent, electricity, clothes, car, etc.

The BASE is made of charred wood...its beautiful...its indispensable...its cheap...its heavenly...leastwise when its in its normal position it always points that way. ALL THIS AND BREAD TOO FOR ONLY 99¢!!

Mail or phone orders only 479-3674

Send CHRONOLOGICAL SPINDLES for 99¢ each plus 60¢ each for postage to (print)

by Clare Anniswell

WEEK OF: FEBRUARY 24

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Be sure that guarantees made now are authentic. More time than planned is spent sifting through legal documents. In romance, intuition is on your side - act from the heart

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Allow more time for long-range financial planning. Loved one has opportunity to step into the limelight, but is counting on your support. Communication network starts improving

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Accent is on earning power; perhaps you take on a second job now. Romantic entanglement needs further analysis. Younger friends provide surprisingly stimulating company

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Investigative work is your specialty now - at home or at work, you're everyone's favorite detective. More discipline is needed in areas of fitness, diet and self-improvement

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Home improvement accented, but bargain hunting is not a strong point; a deceptive trend is at work in this area. Friendship prospects brighten when you take a more optimistic approach

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Friends are supportive and you can ask for special favors. Dealings with teachers become less formal. Good week for job hunting. If moving or travelling, allow for delays

LEO - July 23-August 22

Education is accented, and you may be filling the roles of teacher as well as student. Calculated financial risk pays off by Tuesday. Romance operates on an intellectual plane

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Current emphasis is on ideas, but the trick is to put them to work. Money-making schemes are on the right track but require refinement. Don't rush into signing any documents

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Month ends on a romantically upbeat note, with loved one accepting your plans - or at least being willing to listen. Surprise expenses are offset somewhat by end-of-week windfall

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Staying on top of current events gives you the edge at a social or career function. Disputing groups each want you as supporter; look to the issues, not the personalities

SAGITTARIUS - November 23-December 22

Most trusted friends do not necessarily share your point of view. Financial clouds begin to clear, but don't rush into any new scheme. Local travel is a highlight of the week

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Try a subtle rather than overstated approach, especially in situations where strong personalities are involved. Be sure you know your new confidant(s) before revealing secrets

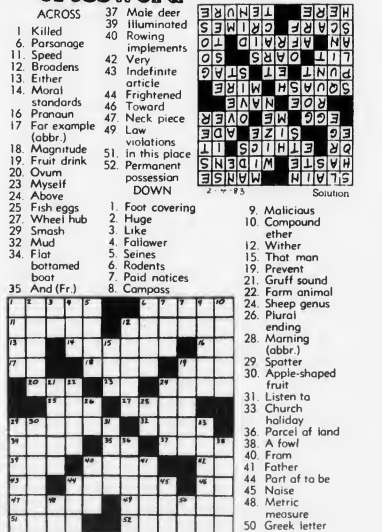

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Adaptable, unpredictable, creative, spiritual, imaginative, and vague. Your dreams are big, sometimes unrealistically so. Specialization is the key over the next six months - learn a lot about a little. Romantic uncertainties should clear by June

BORN THIS WEEK

February 24th, actor James Farentino; 25th, singer George Harrison; 26th, actor Tony Randall; 27th, actress Joanne Woodward; 28th, singer Bernadette Peters; March 1st, singer Harry Belafonte

McKee Chief Executive Officer

Herbert Retires As Quincy Cooperative President

John R. Herbert has retired after seven and a half years as president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, a period in which the bank's assets soared from less than $90 million to more than $160 million.

He will remain as chairman of the board and president of the Squanto Corp., the bank's leeway corporation.

Herbert will be succeeded as chief executive officer of the bank by Ronald A. McKee, senior vice president and treasurer, who joined the bank in 1971 as assistant treasurer.

"The time has come," said Herbert, "to give some of the younger officers a chance to be more deeply involved in the operational aspect of this institution."

"Mr. McKee has been with this bank since 1971 and he has been treasurer since 1973."

Herbert, who became a director of the bank in 1949 and was elected president in 1975, will continue his association with the bank management on a consulting basis.

"When I became president of this bank, we had assets of less than $90 million and today we are well over the $160 million mark," he said.

"Our bank is strong and growing well with our handsome new main office and five very active branches."

Banking was a second career for Herbert, who is a lifelong resident of Squantum.

He is a former executive editor of the Boston Herald Traveler and editor of the Patriot Ledger and founder and executive director of the Massachusetts Newspaper Publishers Association.

He is a director of the Massachusetts Cooperative Bank League, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Quincy Junior College and Plimoth Plantation.

He is South Shore chairman of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and a director of the parent body. He has honorary degrees from Boston University and Suffolk University.

McKee, who lives in Pembroke, started his banking career in 1959 with the National Bank of Plymouth and moved on to the Hyde Park Savings Bank where he rose to assistant treasurer.

He is a graduate of the American Institute of Banking and the Savings Bank School of Supervisory Personnel.

He is past president of the Quincy Kiwanis Club, president of the Silver Lake Hockey Boosters, commissioner of Pembroke Boys Baseball League and past treasurer of the Pembroke Youth Hockey Association.

New Appointments At Quincy Hospital

City Hospital Director James E. Lowenhagen has announced that a new controller and a new director of fiscal affairs have been named to join the five-member management team at the hospital.

Both Elliot L. Schwartz of Stoughton, the new controller, and Stephen J. Guimond of Attleboro, the director of fiscal affairs, are employees of Hospital Corp. of America, the management firm.

Our IRA pays off right away.

Sign up now, and keep the Cross pen.

Planning for a financially secure retirement and finding a way to reduce your taxes are growing concerns for everyone. Especially when you consider the state of our troubled Social Security system. But help is as close as your nearest Hancock Bank.

Our professionals have developed two Individual Retirement Account plans. Each lets you set aside up to $2,000 a year ($2,250 if you have a non-wage earning spouse) toward your retirement. That money comes right off of your total earned income for income tax purposes — reducing your taxable income and your tax obligation every year you put money in your IRA. It could even make the difference between paying the IRS and getting a refund!

Plus, the interest your IRA earns is deferred until you claim your account at retirement (when most people are in a lower tax bracket). Hancock Bank offers a choice of Fixed Rate or Variable Rate options. Call your Hancock Banker today at 773-0500 for the current interest rates.

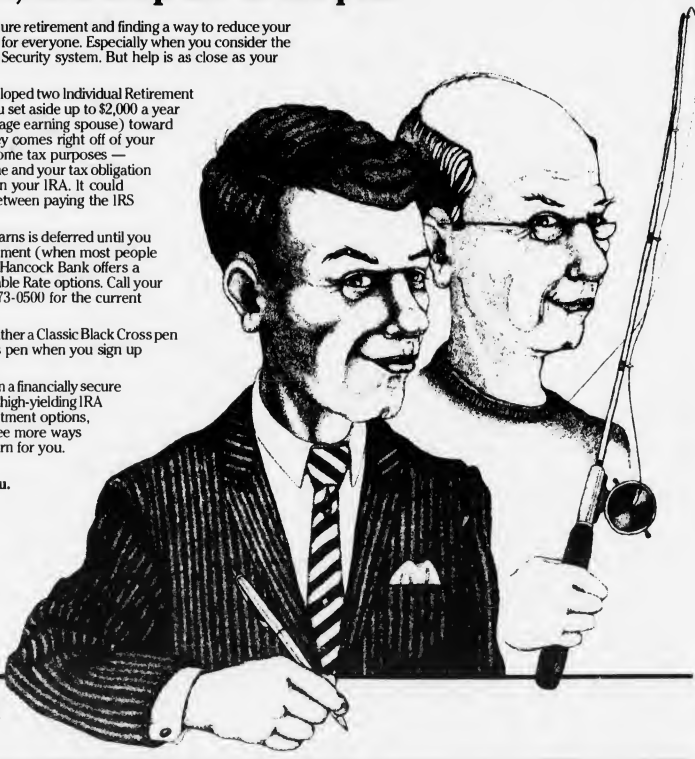

You have one more choice: either a Classic Black Cross pen or a beautiful Chrome Cross pen when you sign up and deposit your first $500.

Expert advice to help you plan a financially secure retirement, the flexibility of a high-yielding IRA with two tax-sheltered investment options, and a free Cross pen — three more ways we show our growing concern for you.

Donnelly Aims For Long-Range Federal Finance Charge

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly, in only his third term in the House, has become a key figure in attempts to make long range changes in the federal government's finances.

Donnelly has been appointed chairman of a House Budget Committee task force that will write more than half of the government's $848 billion spending program for 1984.

"The federal budget needs long-range reform, not band aids and quick fix solutions," said Donnelly in assuming his new post as chairman of the committee on "entitlement and uncontrollable expense."

The task force will be responsible for the budgets for programs that include health care, public assistance, Social Security and pensions for retired federal military and civilian employees.

The panel also supervises the budget for revenue sharing and interest on the public debt.

"These programs account for 55 per cent of the government's spending," Donnelly estimated.

"They have grown dramatically in the last 15 years because high inflation has required expensive cost-of-living adjustments, interest rates on the national debt have been at record high levels and benefits have been extended to more and more individuals.

"It is time to make structural changes in these programs to keep the costs from spiralling even higher. If we don't make major improvements now the problems will only get harder and harder to solve."

Donnelly said his task force will hold public hearings in Washington and Boston during the coming months "to search for the fairest ways to control government spending while protecting essential benefits."

RETIREMENT INDEPENDENCE FOR ALL AMERICANS.

At 1st American Bank we believe that every-one should be able to afford retirement independence. And with our Individual Retirement Account (IRA), we're doing something about it. Now almost every American is eligible. No matter what you do. Or how much you make. Even if you already belong to your company's retirement plan.

And we make your independence come easy. With a regular monthly installment plan that lets you save for a rosy tomorrow. Without putting you in the red today. You can contribute up to $2,000 per year ($4,000 if your spouse also works). And because our 18 month variable rate certificates are based on the Donoghue Money Fund 30 Day Average," you'll enjoy a return comparable to money market funds. Plus the safety of FDIC deposit insurance.

You get immediate tax benefits by deducting the amount you contribute to your IRA from your taxable income. And your interest accumulates tax free. You pay taxes only at retirement when your income figures to be a lot less.

Stop by any 1st American Bank office in Boston or the South Shore for more information on IRA's or call our Pension Plan department at 436-1500.

MENS ROOM in fieldhouse at Faxon Park was reduced to rubble by senseless vandals over the weekend.

(Quincy Photo Lab)

Vandals Ruin Faxon Park Rest Rooms

The embattled fieldhouse in Faxon Park, victim of a suspicious fire three years ago, was attacked by vandals again over the weekend and suffered about $1,000 damage to the rest rooms.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Board, said the damage "will require evaluation of funding to accomplish repairs" — meaning there may not be enough.

"The two years of decreased budget appropriations have restricted any additional costs above normal expenditures," he said. The rest room facilities are used by picnicking family groups.

The extensive damage was discovered Monday morning when Park Department workers arrived to clean snow from the roadway leading to the tennis courts.

The chainlink fence around the rest rooms was torn from its frame and the locks broken.

A large hole was punched through the wooden fascia board between the fieldstone walls and roof supports and large numbers of asphalt shingles had been ripped from the roof.

Porcelain toilet fixtures in both the ladies and mens rooms were not only smashed but pulverized with heavy objects.

The field house, which was originally built in 1935-36 as a federal WPA project, was gutted by a fire of suspicious origin on May 10, 1980. A new roof was put on in 1981.

The field house also housed the electric units servicing the lights at the adjacent tennis courts and the $1,335 needed to repair the damage is unavailable, Koch said.

Temple Member 'Fed Up' With Synagogue Damage

Vandals destroyed most of the women's wash room in the basement of Beth Israel Synagogue during the weekend and at least one member of the congregation said he is fed up with destruction at the house of worship in Quincy Point.

"I've had it with vandalism in this building," David Ezickson told The Quincy Sun. "We've been quiet about these things. We've repaired them and they've been broken again."

"It's not just the synagogue. I'm just tired of seeing buildings burned and torn apart. I remember the damage that was done to the mosque in Quincy Point a couple of years ago."

"We have to do something to stop this, through the schools, the churches, or what."

Ezickson said he contacted the Anti-Defamation League in Boston for an investigation.

However, Sol Kolack, director of the ADL, said the damage to the synagogue appeared to be a police matter since there were no anti-semitic slogans or swastikas in evidence.

"Of course we are concerned," said Kolack. "But we don't see any ADL involvement as necessary now. We feel it is a police matter. But we will do what we feel is necessary."

Extensive damage to the ladies wash room in Beth Israel was discovered Saturday morning. Toilet seats were smashed, mirrors broken and water from a faucet was left running.

Monday morning a custodian discovered that the same ladies room window had been forced open and a large bottle of orange soda had been poured on the carpet.

A gang was dispersed by police at the synagogue on Sunday and Monday evening a member of the congregation chased away a youngster about 12 years old who, he said, threatened to burn the synagogue down.

The Police Department's Juvenile Unit was investigating the threat as well as the vandalism.

"Groups congregated around the building and smoke pot and tear off the shingles," said Ezickson. "It makes me furious as a member of the congregation."

Tow Zones Also Sought Council To Get Validated Parking Plans

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is going to the City Council Monday night with a package of ordinance proposals designed to prepare the way for validated parking in downtown Quincy.

"We've been working on the problem of parking in downtown Quincy for nearly a year," said McCauley. "Now it is time for the City Council to take a look at what we've been doing."

Among the ordinances being prepared by City Solicitor Dean Nicastro is one based on a Traffic Commission recommendation that on-street parking be metered at a maximum of 25 cents an hour.

Another Traffic Commission recommendation on which the mayor looks with favor is the suggestion that tow zones be established on all downtown streets to support off-street parking.

"The tow zones are strictly for scofflaws," said McCauley. "We don't want to drive business out of Quincy. The thrust is to get those who pile up tickets and thumb their noses."

The Traffic Commission also recommended that 10-minute parking signs be removed from Chestnut St. but McCauley indicated that he does not favor that one.

"I have no position on that," he said. "There is a unique situation in that area with one store."

The 10-minute parking signs are at Montilio's Bakery, where shoppers, particularly late in the afternoon, like to dart in and out of the store for pastries.

Among the other orders McCauley will be sending to the Council Monday is one authorizing him to enter into a lease with Kinney Systems of Boston to manage off-street parking in Quincy Center.

"I hope that we will have a lease to present to the Council at the same time," said McCauley.

Last year, Kinney sent the city a sample lease, which was revised according to the city's needs and sent back to Kinney. The Boston firm is considering the proposed revisions now.

McCauley said he hopes that the lease will be finalized by the end of this week.

The mayor has said that parking fees in the off-street lots will be fixed at 25 cents an hour and the Traffic Commission recommended the same charge at meters on the streets.

McCauley concurred, noting that a survey of other eastern Massachusetts cities taken by his staff indicate that 25 cents an hour is a fair charge.

The survey showed that 25 cents an hour is the fee in Cambridge, Waltham, Newton, Chelsea and Everett plans to go to 25 cents an hour and Brockton just passed a similar ordinance.

Only Malden has validated parking, charging 15 cents for a half hour and 10 cents for the next 30 minutes.

Validated parking is also in the works for Quincy, with merchants being charged at the discount rate of 20 cents an hour for chits to be given out to their customers.

McCauley said off-street parking will also include a 15-minute grace period during which parkers will not be charged for quick trips to and from the store or bank.

The Traffic Commission's recommendations were presented to the City Council last week and were sent to the Downtown and Economic Development Committee for study.

Chairman Leo J. Kelly said he plans to hold a meeting on the recommendations later this month.

Full Belly Deli? Not In Quincy Sq.

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Full Belly Deli may be an attention-getting name, but the City License Board isn't going to bite.

The Board continued for one week a request for a common victualer license at the site of the former Blazing Salads, 1360 Hancock St., but insisted the name has got to go.

"There's no way you're going to hang that name on a historic building," Building Inspector Allan MacDonald told applicants Lawrence Russo of Rockland and Anthony DeLPrete, Jr., of Hanover.

"They've spent a half million dollars cleaning up the (Adams) building," explained MacDonald.

"You should come up with a name appropriate to Quincy Sq.," agreed Fire Chief Edward Barry, acting board chairman in the absence of City Clerk John Gillis, who pointed out the close proximity of historic Hancock Cemetery and First Parish Church.

"The name might be an attention-getter in any other area," said Barry.

The applicants applied for a seven day a week, 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. license for the family style restaurant which will serve breakfast, lunch and dinner, said Barry.

The sit down or take-out menu will include beverages, ice cream, pastries, cold cuts, soups, salads, hamburgers, and hot dogs according to the application, and one of the owners will be on the premises at all times.

Russo said that he operates another restaurant, Shakey's, in South Station.

The applicants were told to talk with architect Paul Donnelly who designed renovation of the Adams Building, submit a financial statement and floor plan, and have the premises inspected by the board's Joint Inspection Team.

Both applicants expressed a willingness to change the name of the restaurant.

In fact, they offered to let the board come up with a name. Board members declined.

Billboard Hearing April 4

The City Council will hold a hearing Monday, April 4, at 6:30 p.m. on an ordinance proposal that would ban off-premises signs, or billboards, from the city of Quincy.

of three other Quincy schools in adopting a work-to-rule policy Tuesday.

Quincy High School, Quincy Vocational-Technical School and Snug Harbor are already under a "work-to-contract" policy whereby teachers withhold any services outside of legal working hours.

The "temporary but strict" action was called by Quincy Education Association president Herman (Hank) Pasquerella after a meeting Friday called by the school committee. All they presented were more ultimatums. They attempted to subjugate the union to the bargaining endeavors of other unions (which have accepted "subject to funding"), said Pasquerella.

"The School Committee continues to insist on subject to funding clauses," said Pasquerella, "in spite of the knowledge that subject to funding means economic ruin for members of the Quincy Education Association."

"While the School Committee is persistent and adamant about subject to funding clauses, it merely whispers objection to level funding and zero growth budgets."

"The weakness of the School Committee merely accentuates the power of the Mayor. Level funding and zero growth budgets spell disaster for the Quincy Public Schools."

"Respected and honored assemblies of learning are asked to sacrifice for the expediency of level funding economics. Once married to these experiences, politicians will find it increasingly difficult to divorce such comfortable circumstance."

"Public education in Quincy will perish of cannibalization. The Quincy Education Association can not sit idly by while level funding and zero growth budgets and subject to funding become the watchwords in Quincy. The Quincy Education Association will not accept the keys to mediocrity."

Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from Joseph Zagami of Jim's Automatic and Marine Transmission Service, Inc., 635 Washington St., for a Motor II (used car) license, formerly held by James P. Hawes. The license was granted subject to the applicant's submitting a satisfactory financial statement within one week. The license is for two cars, which are to be parked in the front of the property, against the building.

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the North Quincy High School Music Parents for a dance Friday, March 25, 8 p.m. to midnight, at the Knights of Columbus Hall. The group is to check with the health department in regards to serving food.

Over 200 From Quincy Due Unclaimed Money

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane has released the names of 42,000 Massachusetts residents, including more than 200 from Quincy, who are due more than $17 million under the state's unclaimed money law.

The money comes from abandoned accounts, such as bank accounts, insurance proceeds, uncashed gift certificates, payroll checks, customer overpayments that have been inactive for five years.

Crane said he is satisfied that many companies, under pressure from the courts, are improving their compliance with the law but he is not totally satisfied.

"We have had to assume the role that rightfully belongs to banks, insurance companies and other institutions," he said. "It is apparent that less than a sincere effort is being made by some of these institutions to find the owners."

Crane said that, until they are claimed, all funds are kept in the state's general fund where they are invested for the benefit of all taxpayers in the state.

Those Quincy residents whose names appear on the following list should call or write to State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, 12th Floor, McCormack Office Building, 1 Ashburton Place, Boston, 02108.

The telephone number is 523-1042 or toll free 1-800-632-8027.

Ward 2 Meeting Set On Water St. Traffic

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has asked residents of Ward 2 to attend a meeting Tuesday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the lobby of the Quincy Cooperative Bank to discuss traffic problems.

One of them concerns the intersection of Water St., and Quincy Ave., while the second involves traffic to be generated on Water St., after completion of the Burgin Parkway Extension.

"There will be two off ramps near the Water St.

Bridge," said DeCristofaro. "This will mean the addition of thousands of automobiles on your streets."

The Water St. Bridge is slated for removal and reconstruction during the construction of the Burgin Parkway Extension.

DeCristofaro said City Planning Director James Lydon, a representative of the Quincy Cooperative Bank and consulting engineers will be at the March 8 meeting.

A meeting on the subject of traffic was held Feb. 10 at St. John's School but cold and snow cut down the attendance, said DeCristofaro.

Property List Can Foil Burglars

Realistically, homeowners must face the fact that, despite the most elaborate precautions, burglars may someday break into their homes.

If a burglary does occur you can greatly increase your chances of recovering your property if you compile an up-to-date inventory of your personal property.

Such a list not only helps to establish your loss with the insurance company but aids police in the recovery of your possessions.

Burglars steal property to convert it into cash. Seldom, if ever, do they retain it for their personal use.

In order to obtain cash, the burglars must sell their contraband at wholesale through an unscrupulous merchant called a "fence."

In many cases, police have strong suspicions about which individuals or merchants are acting as fences. But, in order to make a case against them, they must have proof that the goods the fence has in his possession are stolen. This is where your personal property inventory comes in.

With an accurate description of your stolen possessions, including serial and model numbers, the police stand a much better chance of recovering your property as well as putting the fence out of business.

For information on Operation Identification, contact the Quincy Police Crime Prevention Unit at 479-1212.

Burgin Remembers Nimitz

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin has completed about 70 per cent of his memoirs to be called, "Remembering Quincy — At 80".

The title comes from the fact the one-time boyish mayor (first elected in 1935 at age 33) is now 80. He'll turn 81 April 15 and would like to have the book completed by then.

The memoirs, covering eight 10-year periods from 1902 to 1982 (maybe a little of 1983) should be pretty much a Quincy history book. Burgin can remember things that happened 60 or 70 years ago as though it were really only yesterday.

BURGIN

Like the time he met Chester W. Nimitz here in Quincy in 1922. (This was two years before Burgin began a political career spanning four decades by being elected to the City Council at age 22.)

Nimitz, who went on to become commander of the U.S. fleet during World War II and the Navy's only five-star admiral, was then a young Naval lieutenant assigned to a submarine being built at the Fore River Shipyard. Nimitz, Burgin recalls, married a Quincy girl, Catherine Freeman of Wollaston, whose sister, Elizabeth, was a teacher at Quincy High School.

Burgin was a patient at Quincy City Hospital at the time and across the corridor from him, also a patient, was the Nimitz's young son.

"He was a red-haired boy," Burgin remembers. "And, do you know, he followed in his father's footsteps. He recently retired himself as a rear admiral."

Nimitz and his wife would stop in to chat with Burgin while visiting their son.

Burgin, himself, of course, was to enter the Navy some years later, resigning in 1942 as mayor to enter the service as a lieutenant. He became a lieutenant commander.

After World War II, Burgin re-entered politics served in the Plan E City Council and became the first mayor under that form of government.

And he went on to become state senator. (He served in the House of Representatives 1929-1930).

But there's more to the Nimitz story.

The recent deployment of the U.S. aircraft Nimitz (named after him) to the Gulf of Sidra off Libya rekindled memories for Burgin and sent him on a search of the house.

He found what he was looking for: a copy of the letter Nimitz wrote to him in 1953 when Burgin, as chairman of a Quincy Veterans Council committee, invited him to be the speaker at Memorial Day exercises here.

Burgin had hoped Nimitz would be on Cape Cod around that time and could easily drive up to Quincy. In his letter to Nimitz, Burgin recalled their meeting in 1922 and reminded Nimitz about all of the great ships built at Fore River.

But, back from Berkeley, Calif., where Nimitz lived came this letter:

"Dear Tom:

"I thank you very much for your letter of March 20 and for the invitation to participate in the annual Memorial Day Exercises in Quincy on Saturday, May 30, 1953.

"On that date I will be in California — or possibly considerably to the westward of California — and I regret very much that I cannot accept your nice invitation.

"Were Catherine and I to be in Wellfleet at that time I would come with pleasure. You are correct in remarking that I have good reason to have many pleasant memories of Quincy.

"Catherine joins me in best wishes and warmest regards to you and yours.

"Sincerely, C.W. Nimitz."

Burgin plans to put the letter in his book and then frame the original one along with his letter to Nimitz and present them both to the Quincy Historical Society.

Wonder how many people realized during World War II when Nimitz was one of the most famed names in the world that his wife was a former Quincy girl?

JOHN BARRON, former aide to Congressman Brian Donnelly, hasn't decided yet whether to run for the Ward 5 City Council seat.

BARRON

Barron, who lives on Albion Rd. and is now in the real estate business says: "I'm not a politician. But I never like to say I won't do something. I won't say I won't. A lot of people have asked me to get involved. It would be a business decision. The time involved would be costly to someone who is a self-employed businessman."

TOM McDONALD, former VFW state commander is "doing great" after heart surgery at Brigham and Women's Hospital. He had an aortic valve replaced. Tom sends along his thanks to readers of this column for "all your cards and prayers." (If you'd like to send a card the address is 75 Francis St., Boston, e o PC Unit.

'Fortunate QEA Has Been So Patient'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Ms. Collins' accusation that the teachers are penalizing the kids (through work-to-rule) is outrageous.

The school budget reflects the low priority education has in Quincy. Obviously, the children have already been penalized, and not by the teachers. It is unfair to insinuate that in looking for better wages and working conditions teachers hurt students.

Our society has a very hypocritical approach to people providing social services: We admit they are indispensable by denying them the right to strike, but we rarely provide them wages and working conditions that would satisfy people in the business sector. Apparently, those in social services are expected to be content with the intrinsic rewards of their work.

We have been fortunate that the QEA has been so patient. Work-to-rule is a statement in action that the teachers have every right to make; we in Quincy have shown them how meaningless statements made in words can be.

Health Commissioner Sees More Beach Closings

Public Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey says the city will face similar pollution problems next summer as it did last summer when the salt water beaches were closed for long periods of time.

"I'm not very optimistic," she said. "We may not be as bad as we were last summer but I think we're going to have a pollution problem out there."

Dr. Hussey was interviewed on the program "Newsmakers" which was telecast on Quincy Cable-systems Ch. 3.

She said the $8 million that the Metropolitan District Commission plans to spend to improve the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant is not enough to make up for years of neglect.

"The problem is really due to overpopulation," she said. "We're getting increases in population. We're getting increases in industries which utilize the water. We're getting leaky drains."

"Our problems are intensifying as time passes. We have not been putting back into the system the upkeep it needs."

"The $8 million will go a long way and I'm optimistic that now that we're starting to bring it to people's attention even more could be done and should be done."

Dr. Hussey said her department has been looking into the possibility of asbestos in the Quincy schools, which has been a problem in schools in other communities.

"We should look into some of our other buildings, too," she said.

"But I don't think we're in the great danger that others think, not like that episode at Fore River a number of years ago where people had been working and exposed to a lot of asbestos in the air."

"One thing we should not be hysterical about is removing all the asbestos. We should repair it where it is damaged. We can cover a great deal of it."

"You may even have it in DR. M. GRACE HUSSEY your own household, in the basement. Asbestos was used for a long time to cover pipes and various things because it was a fire retardant."

Dr. Hussey said, despite the restrictions of Proposition 2½, her department has three health inspectors checking the city's restaurants.

"We don't do it as a routine," she said. "We do it where there are complaints or if somebody gets sick in the restaurant or if we think we should just by looking at it."

She said her most difficult decision on the Licensing Board was voting on whether or not to roll back liquor licenses in the city from 2 a.m. to 1 a.m.

"I felt it was the right thing to do," she said, "yet I hesitated whether people would be put out of work and other human considerations when a business is hit that hard."

"I'm satisfied with what we have had come out of it. We promised to review it within a year and my personal feeling is I would not go back to 2 a.m. unless there was a very convincing reason that I don't know of at the present time."

Dr. Hussey was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA, and Ray McEachern, city hall reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Union Leader Arrives To Lead Drive At Shipyard

John Green, national president of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipyard Workers, arrived in Quincy and set up headquarters in the Point as the union began a new drive to organize workers at the Fore River Shipyard.

"The events of the Roosevelt administration regarding labor's charter of freedom and the raw decision of the National Labor Relations Board have educated the workers in the Fore River yard and in 1935 they may translate those lessons into action," he said.

"It is obvious to members of the industrial union in the Fore River yard that they will have to fight to win concessions necessary to a better standard of living. It will be no easy job to make the Bethlehem barons back down."

Meanwhile, David Clydesdale, who was trying to organize the shipyard for the AFL Machinists union, pledged to eat a dues book in Quincy Square if the workers joined his union and it failed to better wages and working conditions in six months.

HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION

Mayor Charles A. Ross asked the City Council for authority to borrow $300,000 so that construction of the badly needed new wing for North Quincy High School could get underway by the summer.

Ross said the request did not mean that the city had abandoned hope for federal funds which were delayed by the refusal of Congress to pass President Roosevelt's multi-million dollar work relief program.

The authorization to borrow would just be used as a backup should federal funding fail, said Ross.

NEW TRAFFIC SIGNAL

A new stop light went into operation at the intersection of Hancock, Willet and Woodbine Sts. in Wollaston, where a youngster recently was run over by a car. It brings to 12 the number of stop lights on Hancock St.

Women's History Week March 6-12

The Quincy Public Schools will celebrate Women's History Week the week of March 6 through 12.

Women's History Week was proclaimed by Congress to formally recognize the achievements of women in the history of the United States.

Quincy is one of five sites in the United States chosen to initiate a model program of equity in the schools. The program, called Project

Inter-Action, involves administrators, teachers, parents, and students in classroom activities, workshops and special events to increase equal opportunity for all students.

Judy Witter, of Hingham will tell stories with an equity theme Monday, March 7 to children in the Furnace Brook, Lincoln-Hancock, Parker, Montclair, and Atherton Hough Schools.

On Tuesday, March 8, International Women's Day, teachers will attend a workshop on the use of the equity material from the Women's Educational Equity Act Program.

Action Teams of teachers, students, and of parents from the Furnace Brook, Parker, Squantum, Atlantic, Broad Meadows, Voc-Tech, and North Quincy High Schools will attend an all-day training session

Wednesday, March 9, at the National Fire Protection Association Building in Quincy.

Most of the schools in Quincy will celebrate Women's History Week in their individual schools, with student-made displays, bulletin boards, and special events. Parents are invited to visit their local school to participate in the celebration.

Delmonico Named To Park-Rec Board

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named Anthony T. Delmonico, 66, of 35 Gannett Rd., Adams Shore, a retired Park Department stonemason, to a one year term on the Park and Recreation Board.

He replaces Francis W. Donovan, who has resigned.

During his 11 years with the Park Department, Delmonico has become known for his work in refurbishing the Abigail Adams Cairn and the John Winthrop blast furnace in West Quincy.

He also did the stone tribute to the Grossman family on Morrissey Blvd. near Black's Creek.

Delmonico and his wife, the former Geraldine Mc-Carthy, were recipients of the Outstanding Citizens Award by the Adams Shore Community Association in 1976.

They have four children,

Jeanne Reardon of Quincy, Barbara Hayes and Lynn Johnson of Weymouth and Thomas Delmonico of Quincy, and seven grandchildren.

Council To Get Parking Proposals

McCauley noted that Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia took a dim view of all parking regulations in the downtown area. He said he would welcome LaRaia's input into hearings on his proposals.

"As I see it," he said, "we can do one of three things. We can do nothing and leave matters as they are. I do not see that as satisfactory."

"We can clean the meters out and let people park where they want to for as long as they want. This would open us up to all-day parking by commuters going to Boston."

"Or we can do what we are trying to do — come down hard on the scofflaws and help the shoppers with validated tickets so that they will be able to shop at their leisure without fear of a ticket."

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

To learn your rights free of charge, or to bring an asbestos claim, contact:

Stay Alive!

TOO SLOW CAN KILL

Driving too slow can be just as dangerous as driving too fast. Here's an actual case to prove the point.

It's a beautiful Sunday in autumn. You and your spouse decide to drive into the countryside along one of those peaceful two-lane highways that wind through the hills, with maple, sycamore and oak in their showy colors all along the road. The speed limit is 55 but the beauty should be savored, so you're doing about 30. Before you know it, a line of cars is queued up behind you. They can't pass because of the hills and curves.

Finally a teenager in a souped-up, aging sedan gets impatient, pulls out of line and floors the gas pedal. He just makes it, but only because an auto approaching from around the next bend has to take to the ditch to avoid a head-on collision and rolls over. The injury toll is three dead and two seriously injured. The moral: don't drive too slow for conditions and if you have to sightsee, get off the road and enjoy the scenery.

A not-so-hidden free offer for smart money managers.

It's not every year you can start off with a bonus.

For a limited time, Quincy Savings is giving everyone who opens a new Individual Retirement account an exciting three-part bonus.

Here's what you get; if you act now.

- A full year's subscription to Kiplinger's Changing Times magazine.
- A helpful 184 page book called "How to Get More for Your Money"; and a
- "You and Your Taxes" booklet.

All told, this bonus package is an $18 retail value, a package that's yours absolutely free if you open an IRA at Quincy Savings before April 15, 1983. So act now.

You can open a variable rate IRA for as little as $100 or a fixed rate IRA for just $500.

Whenever you have the money, you can make additional contributions in any amount until you reach the maximum tax deduction allowed. There's no service charge and your account is fully insured.

You probably know why it's sensible to have an Individual Retirement Account. And you may well know all about the tax-saving benefits — not to mention the vast amount of money you can accumulate before you actually retire — with an IRA. But if you need more facts, just call 471-3500 or fill out and mail the coupon and we'll send you a free folder with an application.

To open your IRA, stop by our nearest office. The sooner you open your IRA the sooner you'll receive your free bonus and start saving taxes, too.

Dr. Robert O. Gilmore, 86, Quincy Physician Over 50 Years

A funeral Mass will be celebrated tomorrow (Friday) at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, for Dr. Robert O. Gilmore, well known eye, ear, nose and throat specialist who practiced in Quincy and the South Shore for more than half a century.

Dr. Gilmore died Sunday at the age of 86.

Born in Brockton, son of the late Cong. and Mrs. Edward P. Gilmore, he received his early education in the Brockton schools.

In high school he was president of the Class of 1917 at Brockton High and a member of the varsity football and baseball teams.

Previously, while in Washington with his father, he was a page in the U.S. House of Representatives and head page in the United States Senate.

He was graduated from Holy Cross College in 1921 and Boston University Medical School in 1926, with post graduate study at Harvard and Cincinnati Medical Schools.

He was elected Class Marshall of both his college and medical school graduating classes.

In 1930, he was appointed to the faculty of Boston University Medical School, Department of Ophthalmology.

During World War I, he served as a lieutenant, after graduating from the Naval Officers Material School at Harvard College.

After the war, he was an officer on the USS Frederick, the ship that transported the American athletes to the 1920 Olympic Games in Antwerp, and was a guest of the Belgian government during the games.

For many years Dr. Gilmore was chief of the department of ophthalmology and otolaryngology at the Milton and Quincy City Hospitals, and served also on the staffs of the South Shore, Brockton and Carney Hospitals.

He received his training in facial plastic and reconstructive surgery in New York and was a fellow of the American Academy of Rhinoplastic Surgery.

He was a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, the American Association of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, a diplomate of the American Board of Otolaryngology, and a member of the Pan-American Ophthalmology Society, the New England Otorhinolaryngological Society, and the Massachusetts and American Medical Societies.

An enthusiastic golfer, he was an active member of the Wollaston Golf Club, the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, the Clover Club, and the Kiwanis Club of Quincy, of which he was past president.

He is survived by his wife, Edna (Ryan) Gilmore, and two daughters, Adele Simonds of Brookline, and Mildred (Cissie) Ix of Greenwich, Conn., and eight grandchildren.

Visiting hours were from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) and will be from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Sweeney Brothers Funeral Home, Independence Ave.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Brockton.

Capt. William D. Daley, 59, Police Officer For 32 Years

CAPT. WILLIAM DALEY

A funeral Mass for Capt. William D. Daley, 59, of Quincy, a member of the Quincy Police Department for 32 years, will be held today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

He died Sunday at the Massachusetts General Hospital Chelsea Unit after an apparent heart attack.

Born in Somerville, Capt. Daley had lived in Quincy since his high school days and was graduated from Quincy High School.

A World War II Army veteran who served in the European Campaign, he was a patrolman for about eight years and was promoted to sergeant in 1957. In 1961, he became a lieutenant, in 1974, captain.

In 1968, Capt. Daley was appointed community service officer for the department. He spoke fluent Spanish and served as an interpreter in court.

Capt. Daley was a member of the Massachusetts Police Relief Association, past president of the Quincy Police Relief Association and the Mass. Prosecutors Association.

He was also a member of the Bryan VFW Post, Quincy Legion and the Braintree DAV Chapter.

He is survived by his wife, Mary P. (McCarthy) Daley; four sons, Philip J. Daley of Quincy, Paul M. Daley of Quincy, a Quincy firefighter; Peter W. Daley of Hanson, a Hanson firefighter; and William D. Daley Jr. of Quincy; three daughters, Patricia Pinchee of Stoughton, Paula E. Vignoni and Mary Turowski of Quincy; two sisters, Ruth Ahearn of Everett and Eileen Lutkemeier of San Diego, Calif., and 13 grandchildren.

Visiting hours were scheduled for 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) at Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Fund, 375 Westgate Drive, Brockton, 02401.

Martha Wright, 76, QHS Retired Teacher

Funeral services for Martha (Tikkanen) Wright, 76, of Weymouth, a retired teacher who taught at Quincy High School for 35 years, were held yesterday (Wednesday) in Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mrs. Wright died Saturday at South Shore Hospital.

A Weymouth resident for the last 12 years, she was born and raised in Quincy.

Mrs. Wright was the daughter of the late Konstant Tikkanen, a Finnish settler and owner of a granite business in Quincy.

A graduate of Quincy High School and Smith College, she retired in 1975.

Mrs. Wright was a member of the Quincy Retired Teachers Association, the National Retired Teachers Association, the South Shore Smith Club, and the 1000 Southern Artery Senior Citizens.

She is survived by her husband, Maynard E. Wright; a daughter, Dr. Marsha Wright of Cambridge and Brewster.

Rev. James Kimmell of Faith Lutheran Church officiated at the services. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Quincy Retired Teachers Scholarship Fund.

Alice B. Melvin, 70

A funeral Mass for Alice B. (Bishop) Melvin, 70, of Squantum, a former Howard Johnson's factory employee, will be held today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at Star of the Sea Church.

Mrs. Melvin died Monday in Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a long illness.

She was born in Quincy and had lived in Squantum all her life.

Wife of the late Mr. Charles A. Melvin, she is survived by a son, Peter Melvin of Canton; a daughter, Janet Coughlin of Squantum; a brother, Arthur T. Bishop of Dennis; a sister, Helen B. Fallon of South Yarmouth; and six grandchildren.

Visiting hours were scheduled for 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) at the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the charity of one's choice.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Is there such a thing as a "born" leader? Indeed not! Qualities of leadership, good or bad, must be developed. It is not an outright gift at birth to any one.

Leadership requires certain abilities. Reasoning power is probably the most important. Man is born with a power to reason. Therefore, first of all, to be a good leader, it is obvious that one must learn to live in obedience to reason... Other abilities are also needed. Talent, skill, aptitude, (and some mysterious qualities!) all these, and more are individualities that must be developed and acquired. In acquiring these abilities, an important factor is an attitude toward time, new ideas and innovations. Leadership requires a knack to overcome time pressures. A man who is continually fighting time fractures his potential for leadership. Good leaders budget part of their time every day for constructive ideas and innovations. Some call it self improvement.

Squantum Church 'Disruption' Re-enacts Bible Story

There was a disruption Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum in the hallway outside Fellowship Hall where church pastor Dr. Gene Langevin was beginning his sermon.

Since the talking in the hall was distracting the congregation, Dr. Langevin asked one of the young people present to go out and quiet it down. That teenager went out and himself became involved in the din.

When Dr. Langevin asked a second person to go out to quiet the noise, four boisterous teenagers came into the room carrying another teenager over their heads.

They brought the youth carried through the congregation to the front of the room where they laid him on the floor at the pastor's feet.

Then the pastor and these young people re-enacted the Bible story of Jesus healing the paralytic who was lowered through the roof of his four friends.

It was the opening part of a sermon on Christian friendship entitled, "What Are Friends For?"

The paralytic was played by Robert Dixey; his four friends were David Williams, David Scott, Chris Dixey and Steve Williams. Mary Ruth Scott spoke for the scribes and the whole congregation was the crowd.

"Now I know what the people in the crowd felt like that day," said one worshipper. "I just wanted the people in the back to be quiet so I could hear the sermon. But God had other plans: He was there to do some healing."

Another person who saw the play said, "It showed me how easy it is to fall into the routine and the forms of the Christian faith and to forget that caring and healing is what it's all about."

Earlier in that same service the congregation had seen another play presented by some of the children in The Sunday School class taught by Louise Randall.

The play was entitled "The Riddle of The Bible." Participating were Lori Ogilvie, Blythe Bumpus, Melissa Stamos, Amanda Young, Ruth Adams, Kim Galvin, Kim Olson and Michael Stamos.

The sermon in the second service was "Victory

Through Jesus" based on the text from 1 Corinthians: "But Thanks be to God, who gives us the Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (15:57)

The Chancel Choir sang John Starnes' "God So Loved The World" as the offertory anthem.

Greeters for the morning were Harry Holmes and Dick Hendry. Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin. Lee Sindelar and Hazel Wayne hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

Next Sunday there will be only one service at 10:30 a.m. Active members of the congregation are asked to renew their commitment to Christ and to affirm their loyalty to the church by reading the church covenant together at the Lord's table.

A "Covenant Sunday" breakfast will precede the service at 9:15 a.m. The menu will be French toast, ham, orange juice, hash browned potatoes and beverage. Reservations can be made by calling the church office at 328-6649.

The Lenten dinners and programs continue on Wednesday evenings with dinner at 6:30 and the program at 7:30 p.m.

A LITURGICAL DANCE by Anita Horne of Quincy was featured at the 11 a.m. folk Mass recently at St. John's Church, Quincy Center. The dance, an interpretation to the hymn "Here I Am Lord" by the St. Louis Jesuits, was a form of prayer and a gift to the catechumens who were welcomed into the church through the rite of election. They will become full members of the church at the Easter Vigil. From left, seated are Fr. Thomas J. Synan, Fr. William McCarthy, pastor, and Fr. Daniel Graham who said that the dance was very well received.

Salvation Army Officer Lenten Program Speaker At Point Congregational

As part of the Lenten Wednesday series at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Capt. Gerald L. Stephens, commanding officer of the Quincy Temple Corps, will be the speaker March 9.

Capt. and Mrs. Stephens were assigned to the Quincy post in July, 1981, coming here from Troy, N.Y. Both Stephens and wife, Kathleen, were ordained and commissioned from the Officers Training School in N.Y.

Stephens also attended the University of Buffalo, Luther College, and took courses at Princeton and Asbury Theological Seminaries.

Before coming an officer with the Salvation Army, Stephens had a varied career as a licensed insurance agent and mutual fund broker, airport service manager with American Airlines, and his own commercial photography business.

Helping people in the business world lead the foundation which laid to his present career.

Capt. and Mrs. Stephens will attend the Lenten Wednesday program with a number of people from their musical forces. The evening starts with a "bring-your-own brown-bag" supper at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed with a song fest and musical program at 7 p.m.

Capt. Stephens remarks will be followed by closing devotions led by the host pastor, Rev. Winston E. Clark.

The program is open to the public, any unable to attend with their supper are invited to come at 7 p.m.

'Religion And Healing' Series Sunday At Wollaston Methodist

Rev. Maureen Young, director of Pastoral Counseling at Quincy City Hospital, will be the first speaker in the "Religion and Healing" series beginning Sunday at Wollaston United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

Rev. Young is in the process of completing her PhD at Boston University in the field of pastoral psychology and counseling. She is a certified acting supervisor in clinical pastoral education with extensive experience at Boston City Hospital.

The program starts at 5 p.m. with a light supper. For reservations, call 328-1264.

Sunday, March 13, the series will be held at Wollaston Congregational Church. Rev. William Burritt, first Protestant chaplain at Carney Hospital, will be the speaker. Everyone is welcome.

ATTENTION ELDERLY & HANDICAPPED PERSONS

Hancock Court Associates proudly announces that applications for elderly and handicapped housing at Hancock Court Apartments, 25 School Street, Quincy, MA will be taken on March 17, 18, 19, 1983 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. through the offices of O'Connell Management Co., Inc., 45 School Street, Quincy, MA.

Residents who make application during the application period will be selected on a basis of need not on a "first-come-first served basis." This approach to tenant selection was chosen because of its fairness.

Rents for the selected residents will be 30% of their income. The maximum income levels for one person is $15,250.00 and for two people $17,400.00. If your income exceeds these limits you would not be eligible. The minimum age for residence is 62 (this requirement is waived if the applicant is handicapped or disabled.)

Funded by Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency. Please channel all inquiries through the O'Connell Management Co., Inc. at 328-0055.

HANCOCK COURT is an "Equal Housing Opportunity" Residence.

Quincy blanked Dedham, 7-0, with Fasano having a hat trick. Mike Haynes had two goals and Bill McArdle and Pat Feeney one each. Marshall had three assists, Tapper, Simonelli and Hartford two each and Fasano one.

In a 6-1 victory over Brockton, P.J. Hussey had two goals and Fasano, Chris Doyle and Tapper one each.

Marshall had three assists, Simonelli two and McArdle, Hussey and Doyle one each.

Quincy moved into the finals by defeating Franklin, 4-1, on goals by Feeney, Haynes, Hussey and Tapper. McArdle, Hussey, Doyle, Fasano and Greg McGlame had assists.

A First: Quincy Team Wins All

For the first time, Quincy teams won every division championship in last week's 10th annual Quincy Kiwanis Club Youth Hockey Tournament at the Youth Arena.

The Quincy Squirts, Pee

Wee's, Mites and Bantams all came away with division crowns.

Forty-two teams from Troy, N.Y., Midfairfield, Conn. Milton, Scituate, Quincy, Neponset, Plymouth, Charlestown, Dedham, Brockton, Reading, Newton, Franklin, Brookline, Attleboro-Norton, Somerville, Wilmington and Belmont competed in the tournament, which drew fine crowds and had some close and interesting competition.

Quincy Squirts Scuttle Scituate For Title

Quincy's Squirt team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, edged Scituate, 3-2, to win the division title.

Quincy jumped off to a quick 3-0 lead on long shots by Ken Staskywitz, Brian Zimmerman and Michael Hughes and hung on for the win.

Scituate scored two power play goals and continued to apply the pressure until the final buzzer. Matt Smith, Matt Kelly, Ronnie Last, Michael Baylis, Steve Carroll, Timmy Collins, Richy McDonald and Kevin Daly all played strong defense and James Tiberio continued to shine in goal. He allowed only five goals in the tournament.

Quincy opened with a 7-1 romp over Reading as Smith had a hat trick and three assists, Daly two goals and two assists, Joey Fasano a goal and an assist and Carroll a goal. Staskywitz, Kelly, Last and Zimmerman shone on defense.

MICHAEL BAYLIS (11) and another Quincy Squirt player move in on Scituate goalie. (Quincy Sun photo by Jerry Welch)

Quincy then blasted Milton, 16-0, as Daly exploded for five goals and had two assists, Fasano, Smith, Baylis, McDonald and Collins had two goals apiece and Dave Santosuo one. Hughes was credited with five assists. Kelly four, Staskywitz three, Fasano, Baylis, Santosuo and Carroll two apiece and Zimmerman, Smith, McDonald and Collins one each. Tiberio recorded his 11th shutout of the year.

In the quarterfinals Quincy edged Troy, N.Y., 2-1, after falling behind, 1-0. Collins tied the score in the second period with Carroll assisting and Carroll scored the winner early in the third period, picking the far corner from a scramble in front. Collins and Santosuo assisted. Smith, Zimmerman, Kelly, Staskywitz, and Last were outstanding on defense.

Quincy made the finals with a 5-1 win over Mid Fairfield, Conn., in one of the roughest games of the season. Quincy again fell behind but tied it on Daly's tip-in of a Fasano shot and Last also assisted. Hughes scored the game-winner with a beautiful top corner shot on a feed from Baylis and McDonald.

Smith then took over and scored the prettiest goal of the year as he intercepted a clearing shot just inside the blue line and fired a shot the goalie still hasn't seen. Five minutes later Smith skated through three defenders and fed Daly in front, Daly pushing it into the open side. Last then skated through the entire Connecticut team and deked the goalie for an unassisted goal. Staskywitz was brilliant on defense and Tiberio again was strong in goal.

Fowler, Kane's, Joe's Win In Senior Loop

The Fowler House edged Washington Tap, 3-2, in the Quincy Youth Arena Senior Hockey League. Mike Furey, Lou Matthews and John Norton scored for Fowler House and Kevin Craig and Bruce Hodges for Washington.

Kane's Place walloped Kelly's Pub & Grub, 8-3, with Steve Cronin and Dave Peters having two goals apiece and Tom Cahill, Dave Perdios, Paul Hurley and John Ryan one each. Mike Smith had two goals and Phil DeCarlo one for Kelly's.

Joe's Pub & Grub topped Esquire Neckwear, 5-4, with Bill Shea, Richard Cox, Jeff McCune, Tom Lester and Steve Laffin having the goals. John Hasenfuss had two goals and Dave Gendreau and Mark Kelly one each for Esquire.

• Midget House

Fire, Suburban Win

Fire Extinguisher Service held its one-point lead in the Midget House League with a 7-0 victory over Rogan Hennessy, as goalie Tim Collins earned the shutout.

Jim McSweeney had two goals and Jeff Burn, Gerry Coughlin, Billy Heeney, Billy Campbell and Frank Mortell one each. Campbell had two assists and A. J. Pugliese, McSweeney and Mortell one each.

Suburban Disposal rolled over Caddy Marine, 12-1, as Chris Hurley had a fantastic game with seven goals. John O'Connor had two goals and Paul Coyman, Bob Carty and Jim McSweeney one each. McSweeney had five assists, O'Connor three, Peter Quinn and Larry Mahoney two apiece and Carty and Coyman one each. Chip Griffin scored for Caddy.

Quincy Fire Dept. defeated the Co Co Club, 9-5, as Billy Campbell and Bill Lawless had hat tricks. Bob McCabe had two goals and Mike Novak one. McCabe had four assists, Lawless three, Campbell two and Ron Conway one. For Co Co A.J. Pugliese had two goals and Rich Horrigan, Paul Belanger and Joe Mastroianni one each. Jay DeAngelis, Mastroianni and Pugliese had assists.

The standings: Fire Extinguisher, 11-7-4; Suburban, 11-8-3; Quincy Fire Dept., 10-8-4; Co Co Club, 10-9-3; Rogan Hennessy, 9-10-3; Caddy Marine, 4-13-5.

Pee Wee B's Romp

Quincy's Pee Wee B Hockey team romped to a 9-0 decision over Braintree in a state playoff game.

Brian Kelly had two goals and Jonathan Brosnan, Bob Kane, Jim Lamparelli, Paul McGrath, Hank Miller, Mike Toland and Tom Roberts one each. Sean Doherty and Brian Mosher had two assists apiece and Toland, Kane, Bill Dineen, Tom Roberts, Mike Leonard, Bob Carroll, Miller and Brosnan one each. Scott Cunningham and Jeff McClory stood out in goal.

The Pee Wee B's reached the finals of the Randolph Valentine Tournament, bowing to Somerset, 10-4, in the title game. Quincy moved into the finals by defeating Somerset, 6-3; Dedham, 3-1; Braintree, 2-1, and Randolph, 4-1.

Quincy Pee Wees Stop Newton For Title

The Pee Wee team, sponsored by the Quincy Elks, copped the division crown with a 5-2 victory over Newton in the finals.

Billy Connolly scored to give Quincy an early lead but Newton came back two minutes later to tie it up. Jeff MacDonald scored midway in the second period only to have Newton tie it again. Quincy's big break came when Bobby Roche broke up a Newton rush and weaved through the defense to score the game winner. MacDonald iced the game with two third period short-handed goals, completing a hat trick for the second time in the tournament. Paul Scola, Shawn O'Neil, Charlie Chambers, Sean Hunter and Bill Connolly had assists.

Quincy opened up with a 2-1 victory over Troy, N.Y., with Eddie Ryan kicking out numerous shots early in the game. Jay Rodriguez scored the first Quincy goal, banging home an Eric Seamans pass from the corner. Troy tied it in the third period but Quincy bounced back soon after with Bobby Roche feeding MacDonald, who scored the game winner late in the game.

Quincy blanked Neponset, 5-0, with Roche and MacDonald having two goals each and Connolly one. Jon Bertoni, Kirk MacDonald, Hunter, Tony Pece and Wayne Chambers had assists.

They came a 5-0 win over Brockton, as Brian Mahoney was outstanding in goal.

In the semi-finals Quincy topped Troy, N.Y., again, 3-2, jumping off to a 3-0 lead on two goals by MacDonald and one by Seamans.

Rodriguez, Kirk MacDonald, Mike McClory, Collins and Rich Golden had assists.

Quincy's defense was excellent throughout the tournament. Mahoney and Ryan did a fine job in goal and Bertoni, Kirk MacDonald, O'Neil, Hunter, McClory and Collins were strong in defense.

Quincy Wrestlers Second In State Championships

The Quincy High wrestling team, which finished 19-0 during the regular season, winning its fifth straight Suburban League championship, and winning its fourth South Sectional title in five years, made its best showing ever in the state championships last Friday and Saturday at North Quincy, finishing second at Billerica.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents, forced, to compete without their undefeated heavyweight, Jamie Gravalese, who suffered a knee injury in the sectionals, scored 99 points, just 19 behind Billerica's 118.

"This is the best we've ever done and it is a real tribute to the boys' determination and hard work," said Mariano.

Quincy had two second-place finishers. Mike Notarangelo lost his only bout of the season to defending state champ Joe Belaner of Greater Lawrence, at 115 pounds.

Bill Rollins also took second at 158 when he lost to Wayne Hardy of Newton North, despite a fine comeback.

"It was unusual for Bill to get caught early with a hip throw or a pancake, but he came back well," said Mariano. "I couldn't have asked any more from him. He made one mistake but he didn't give up." Rollins, trailed, 5-0, but came back to make it 5-4 before time ran out.

Taking third places were Dave Coulter, at 101 who lost a 9-6 decision to Brockton's Mark St. Onge, but came back to defeat Chelmsford's Scott McArthur for third, and John Depolo at 141, who lost a tough match to Ken O'Connor of Waltham, then came back to win his next four matches.

Kevin Cabezas (170) and Joe Madden (135) each finished fourth to round out the Presidents' scoring.

Raiders Come Close

Quincy, North Bow Out Of Tourney

The Quincy and North Quincy boys' basketball teams ended their seasons last week when they were eliminated from the Suburban League's first-ever double elimination tournament.

The highlight of the week was North's third win of the year over Quincy, 65-42, the Raiders turning in one of their top performances of the season.

Ed Miller's North team, defeated earlier by Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 67-52, missed by one second of pulling an upset following the Quincy game when it lost for the third time to Waltham, 71-62, in overtime.

Joe Amoroso's Quincy team, which finished winless in the league, lost both its tournament games, losing to Brockton, 56-39, prior to the loss to North Quincy.

"That was the best game we've played in some time," said Miller after the Quincy game. "We played well for a half at Cambridge but this was our first complete game in quite a while."

"We had only two seniors and both, Paul Glibody and Bob Mudge, gave everything they could possibly give to this program," said Amoroso. "We have to develop some big men."

John Purland had one of his best games of the year to lead North with 20 points, while Chris Bunker, high scorer most of the year, added 12.

North led Waltham most of the way and had a two-point lead with eight seconds to play. But Waltham tied it with a second left and outscored the Raiders, 13-4, in the extra period.

Nick Gelsomini had 16 points, and six rebounds, Purland 15 points and eight rebounds and Bunker 11 points and four assists.

Sophomore Bill Shaughnessy, a bright spot for Quincy all season, led the Presidents with eight points against Brockton.

North Quincy finished 5-13 on the season, while Quincy was 1-16.

Worcester Eliminates Quincy In Tech

It took the Quincy High School basketball team a full period to solve the problem of Big Chet Jaworski and by then it was too late as Worcester Commerce ran up a 10-point lead and went on to win 31-21 and eliminate the Presidents from the Tech Tournament.

Jaworski scored eight of his game-high 14 points from underneath the basket in the first period as Quincy's zone defense fell apart and the team from the heart of the Commonwealth spurred out to a 12-2 lead in the MIT Hangar gym.

Eddie Dunn, who was voted a spot on the tournament first all star team, led Quincy with 11 points and teammate Jim McCollom was named to the second all star team.

The Quincy lineup included: Dunn, Appel, Gladwin, Pearson, Ollila, forwards; Kapsis, Almstrom, Crimp, centers; McCollom, DiTullio, DiGravio, Avery, guards.

In the quarterfinal round, Quincy opened up a 22-11 lead at the end of the third period on the shooting of Dunn and then hung on through a scoreless fourth period to a 22-21 victory over Lynn Classical. Dunn had 13 points.

'Y' TEAM WINS TITLE

Freddy Comparato scored 17 points and Big Bill O'Connell had 15 to lead the Quincy YMCA basketball team to an easy 58-33 victory over Providence at Lowell to win the Two State Tournament title for the second year in a row.

The victory qualified Coach Gilbert (Crum) Crofts' five for the national YMCA tournament, in which the Quincy boys finished third the previous year.

The Quincy lineup included: Winslip, Collins, Martin, forwards; O'Connell, center; Kramer, Comparato, Pierce, guards.

The Quincy Y second team bowed to Lynn, 28-27, in the finals of the second team tournament despite 12 points by Hal Mulligan. It was the second loss in a row in the finals for the second team, which lost to West Springfield in 1934.

KARHU GIRLS WIN

Gertrude Murphy intercepted a pass and dribbled in to score the winning basket with seconds to go in the overtime period as the Karhu girls from Quincy defeated the Alpha girls from Abington, 19-18, in the South Shore girls' basketball tournament in Plymouth.

The Karhu lineup included: Murphy, Shea, forwards; Von Berg, center; Hokkanen, Pynny, guards.

The Karhus played without their stars, Sylvia and Bertha Knutunen, who were unable to reach Plymouth in time for the game.

BASEBALLERS REPORT

Battery candidates for the Quincy High School baseball team, led by veteran pitchers George Pearson and Larry Spillane, reported to Coach George S. Clark for the opening practice of the 1935 season in the high school gym.

Capt. Nick Malvesti said the team will be gunning for the spot granted to Norfolk County in the first official state schoolboy title game in Fenway Park.

SPORTS BITS '35

The Barry brothers, Roger and Preston, chipped in 14 points between them as the Clapp Memorial basketball team defeated the Quincy Aces, 54-13. . . . Forrest (Bus) Pease, former Quincy High School football star, lost his match in the 155-pound division but his Brown wrestling team tied Tufts. . . . David Kramer had 18 points to lead the Quincy YMCA basketball team to a 50-34 victory over Westfield. . . . North Quincy High School's first hockey team completed its season with a 2-1-1 record after beating Braintree 3-2 for the second time in the season. . . . Battista in the 118-pound class and McDonough in the 126-pound class won their matches but Coach Leland H. Anderson's Quincy High School wrestling team lost to Exeter, 21-10. . . . Promoter Newman Savage of the Quincy Arena announced an attractive wrestling card that had led Germaine of South Boston facing Doctor Altschuler and Wah Hoo, the Oklahoma Indian, meeting Cobra the Purple Serpent. . . . The Bethany Church basketball team led all the way until the final seconds when a basket by H. Williams gave the Braintree Congregational Church a 26-25 victory and the championship of the Greater Quincy Church League.

QJC Wraps Up Conference Title

The Quincy Junior College basketball team clinched the Greater Boston Small College Conference championship last week with a 89-76 win over Emerson and will be the top seed in the conference playoffs today (Thursday). Friday and Saturday at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

QJC will play Bunker Hill Community College tonight at 8 in the opening round. The Jaguars finished 14-2 in the conference and 22-8 overall. They were unbeaten (8-0) at home in conference games.

Against Emerson the QJC full-court press was effective as it led by 13 points at the half. Jim Conboy hit 14 of his 20 points in the first half.

In the second half

Emerson double-teamed Conboy, which left forwards Steve Belcastro and Paul Forbes open for jump shots and the two combined for 27 points. Belcastro finished with a game-high 21 Forbes had 16, Carty DiNardo 16 and Paul Gill 13.

QJC won the King of the Jungle Award. This trophy is given to the winner of the QJC Jaguar - Emerson Lions games. It is the second straight year QJC won it.

In the opener tonight Northern Essex (12-2) will play North Shore Community College (10-5) at 6 o'clock.

There is certain to be a new champion as Hellenic, the two-time defending champion, moved up to Div. 3 this year.

The women will play

Friday beginning at 6 with Northern Essex (8-0) facing Mass. College of Pharmacy (4-6) and at 8 Hellenic (7-3) meeting North Shore Community College (6-4). Northern Essex is the defending women's champ and top seed.

The women's title game will be at 1 Saturday and the men's final at 3.

Immediately following the men's game, the conference awards will be presented. The awards include all-star, MVP and regular season championship awards.

Admission to the games is $2 for adults and $1 for students. Further information can be obtained by calling tournament chairman Brian Buckley at 773-1380, Extension 204.

Abp. Williams In State Hockey Tourney

The Abp. Williams hockey team, coached by veteran Frank Quinn and rookie assistant Don Marshall, has had one of its most successful seasons and this week is playing in the state tournament.

The Bishops, with a 10-3-4 record, finished third in the Catholic Conference. Friday night at 8 p.m. they will play Braintree (3-2-1) of the Bay State League at Gallo Arena in Bourne.

The Bishops, who won six of their last eight games, have several Quincy players on the squad, all of whom contributed to the success of the team. Senior goalie Tim O'Connell of Quincy has been spectacular all season.

Other Quincy players are Dennis Croke and Jeff Murphy, who have been outstanding forwards; Dan Kelly, Brian Chase and Tim Barry.

Capt. Rick Igo of Hingham leads the defense, which also includes Tom Healy, Frank Ryan, Dave Rennie, Ted Willet and Steve Curtin.

The first line of Steve Cutting, Brian Noonan and Mark Brown has had a great year with Noonan having his best season ever, leading the scorers with 32 points (19 goals, 13 assists).

One of the most pleasant surprises has been the play of sophomores Dave Dorrer, Vinnie McDermott and Paul Howley.

In addition to O'Connell, the Bishops have three other fine goalies, Brian Boudreau, Dan Stackpole and Kevin Condon, all of whom have done well when called upon.

The winner of Abp. Williams-Braintree will play the St. John's Prep-Gloucester-Watertown winner next Tuesday at Boston Garden in the Division 1 quarter finals.

Amateur Boxing Draws Over 400

The first amateur boxing show presented by the newly-organized Shoreside Boxing Club of Quincy attracted more than 400 fight fans, including Mayor Frank McCauley and his wife, last Saturday night at the Quincy Armory.

Bob Guidice of Weymouth, the N.E. Golden Gloves and AAU 147-pound champion, was scheduled to fight in a tuneup before leaving for the nationals later this month in Albuquerque, N.M. but the fans were denied a chance to watch him as a suitable opponent couldn't be found.

Steve Miranda of New Bedford, the Golden Gloves 118-pound champion, decided South Boston's John "Red" Shea in an action-packed repeat of their Golden Gloves bout earlier in the week.

Other winners were Barry Strom of New Bedford, Rich Hannigan of Somerville, Bill Coily of Somerville, Steve Savage of Roslindale, Tyrone Hutchinson of Springfield and Mike Bonislowski of the Cambridge Boys' Club.

Five Junior Olympic bouts, featuring three members of the South Shore YMCA team were held. There are no decisions in these bouts which was a break for the judges, who would have had a difficult time awarding decisions in the fast-paced bouts.

Scott Murphy, the oldest of Houghs Neck's fighting Murphy Brothers, and Tommy Ross of Cambridge had one of the night's best bouts. Eddie Anderson of the Y met Juan Barrette of Lawrence and Paul Wilson, another South Shore Y fighter, had an interesting bout with Jose Padilla of Springfield. Also appearing in the Junior Olympic bouts were Earl Miranda of New Bedford, Ricardo Ortiz of Springfield, Robert Gurley of Connolly's gym and Bob Hardy of Revere.

The next Shoreside show will be held March 19 and if the action in that show comes anywhere near matching last weeks, fight fans should be in for another big night.

and those 12-15 in the major league.

Girls' softball is a competitive learning league for girls 10-15.

Further information can be obtained by calling Bob Giordano at 328-8392.

Squantum Baseball, Softball

Registration for boys' baseball and girls' softball will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. March 5 at the Squantum Community Center. The cost to register is $12 per child or $20 per family.

Squantum Youth Sports holds no tryouts and everyone who registers is eligible to play.

Boys' baseball is divided into two competitive learning leagues. Boys 8-11 play in the minor league

Executive League

Budget, Luke, Beau's In Wins

Ted Ahola scored twice and had two assists and Steve Marini scored twice and had an assist to lead Budget Rent-A-Car to a 9-4 victory over Adams Sports in Executive Hockey League action Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Chuck Behenna also had two goals and Jim Horner, Art Boyle and Mark Bertoni one each. Horner had three assists, Joe Veriocco two and Charlie Watts, Jim Milano and Bertoni one each. For Adams Bob Murray had two goals and Bob Simonelli and Dennis O'Connell one each. Paul O'Brien had two assists and Pete Lynch and Murray one each.

Goalie Ralph DiMattia posted the shutout as Luke's Lounge topped Dayce's Place, 5-0. Bob Martell had two goals and Ed Lenihan, Rich Gibbs and Kevin Sullivan one apiece. Gibbs and Sullivan had two assists apiece and Ed O'Riordan and Martell one each.

Don Costa had a hat trick as Beau's Place defeated Grogan's Business Machines, 5-4. Bob Galligan and Ken Gardiner had the other goals. Galligan had three assists, Ken Noone and Costa two each and Gardiner and Jack Hurley one apiece. Bernie Toland had two goals and Hank Dondero and Chet Brunstrom one each for Grogan's. Tom Roberts had two assists and Brunstrom one.

$200 Prize

Jennifer Seamans Winner In Cultural Logo Contest

Jennifer Seamans of Quincy won first prize of $200 in the South Shore Cultural Commission's logo contest.

The logo will now identify the activities of the commission.

Also awarded prizes during ceremonies at New City Hall were Alice Kavanagh, second prize, $100; John O'Hea, third prize, $50.

Honorable mention ribbons and certificates were awarded to Melanie Ann Kovalski, Marilyn Fredey, John Ferrara, Shui Wong Choi, and Guiliana Falco.

Master of ceremonies was commission president Joseph J. LaRaia. Don McCarthy, logo committee co-chairman, presented the certificates and awards. Garry Brennan was also co-chairman.

Rev. Dr. Riley Shirley of Parkway Methodist Church, Milton, gave the invocation. Mayor Francis X. McCauley extended greetings from the city.

Rev. Alicia Corea of Houghs Neck Congregational Church gave the closing prayer.

Music was provided by commission member Isabelle Naples, accompanied on the flute by Earl Grant-Lawrence.

The Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission evolved from the Bicentennial Weekend Celebration in October, 1976. Actress Ruth Gordon, who was born in Wollaston, was honored on her 80th birthday.

Proceeds from the celebration, hosted by the city, established the commission which has as its goal to introduce cultural activities for the enjoyment of the public in Quincy and the South Shore.

WEEK OF: MARCH 3

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Well-meaning acquaintance may try to fence you in; speak out before you're in an uncomfortable position. Creative skills can be activated into a profit-making program.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Little arguments can be explosive and yours is the difficult task of peace-maker. Watch diet on weekend — there are more temptations than usual. Financial news is upbeat.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Plans go awry, dates may conflict — the key is to hold onto sense of humor. Don't brush aside health worries of friends, family. Bargain hunting is excellent on the weekend.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Setback in prestige is short-lived — patience is critical here. In romance, trust is the key. Be alert to admirers who are "borrowing" your best ideas.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

If making any major purchases, bring along a knowledgeable companion. Common interests bring you closer to a new acquaintance of the opposite sex. Financial situation stabilizes.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Don't expect praise for work well-done — the finished product is its own reward. Originality for own sake is counter-productive. If plans worked well before, they'll succeed again.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Friend surprises you with his inconsistency and spontaneous decisions. Behind-the-scenes actions work to your professional advancement. New relationship waits in the wings.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Time to launch a self-improvement project. Single Virgoans can improve social status now. Weekend favors renovation and decorating with a bolder touch. Sad friend cheers up.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Be more precise in expressing opinions, more thorough in providing information. Improved communication will relieve family tension. Weekend includes opportunity for carefree travel.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

You're swamped with boring paperwork, but after Monday life becomes more fun. Visit from friends provides opportunities for sorting out priorities and making a romance-related decision.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

If putting off an important decision, settle the matter by the end of this period. Weekend offers opportunity for reconciliations — it won't hurt to try again. Bonus is around the corner.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Week offers opportunities for social advancement; you might be nominated to a prestigious post. Financial advisor may take you to task; listen well and don't hesitate to ask questions.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're compassionate and sensitive to the needs of others, but you often get into trouble by being super-secretive. Year ahead accents reviving hobbies and enjoying activities that have been put on a shelf. Property interests favorably in fall.

BORN THIS WEEK

March 3rd, actress Jean Harlow; 4th, actress Paula Prentiss; 5th, singer Andy Gibb; 6th, host, Ed McMahon; 7th, composer Maurice Ravel; 8th, actress Lynn Redgrave; 9th, promoter Marty Ingels.

Cablesystems To Cut Two Distant Channels

Two of the so-called super stations, one in Chicago and one in New York, are being eliminated from the basic service provided by Quincy Cablesystems due to rising costs.

General Manager James King said the two stations are "priced out of reality" following a recent legislative change in copyright fees.

The price rise would be between 500 and 1,500 per cent for a cable system the size of Quincy's, said King, and would mean an 8 per cent hike in the basic service.

WPIX, Channel 11, New York and WGN Chicago will be replaced by the Nashville Network and 24-hour Cable Network News prior to March 15, he said.

Computer Talk

Ken Howley, a computer consultant from Grogan's Business Machines Co., was scheduled to speak on personal computers at a meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association yesterday (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in the Montclair Men's Clubhouse.

PHARMACY TOPICS

By Edward David R. Ph.

Do-it-yourself test for breast cancer consists of heat-sensitive pads worn inside a bra to record high-temperature areas that may indicate disease.

New birth control pill is taken for four days at the end of the menstrual cycle and works on the uterus, instead of on the whole body. It was devised in France.

Electrical measurement of brain activity — the evoked potential — seems to correlate with IQ testing, say British scientists. It may be effective for testing those, such as the blind, who cannot take the standard tests.

Non-surgical technique uses lasers to melt arterial blockages. Someday the procedure may replace coronary bypass; now it is still being tested on animals.

Simple hearing test for the youngest infant will spot defects in time for early correction. Device placed under the crib mattress measures and analyzes baby's movements before, during, and after a burst of sound.

Bills Seen Out By April 1 Tax Rate May Drop To $175

By TOM HENSHAW

Now that the state has agreed to postpone 100 per cent revaluation for another year, Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he hopes to have tax bills for the last half of fiscal 1983 out by April 1.

First half tax bills were paid last fall based on one half of the previous year's billing, which means that Quincy homeowners should receive a reduction in the second half.

Last year's tax rate was $205.60.

McCauley refused to speculate on a tax rate for 1983 but, based on a tax levy of about $48.3 million, down 13 per cent from the previous year, it could be as low as $175 per thousand.

The key figure in setting the tax rate is the total valuation of all property in the city, which stood at $276,355,000 in fiscal 1982 but could vary, if only slightly, in 1983.

"I don't anticipate a big change in the total value," said McCauley. "But it won't be the same as last year."

McCauley said the assessors are currently putting the total valuation figure together for submission to the state which has to approve the tax rate.

"If state approval goes beyond April 1," he said, "it will delay the revenue coming in."

Quincy's request for a delay in reval was granted because the city is making "a good faith effort" to complete the reval process, said Deputy Commissioner Edward Collins of the Revenue Department.

The postponement, the second granted to the city, will reduce the need for borrowing by the city and will give Quincy more time to reach a tax repayment schedule with General Dynamics.

Escort Service At Night

Women, Cars Safer Under Validated Parking

Four orders designed to clear the way for leasing of city-owned downtown parking facilities to Kinney Systems of Boston were presented to the City Council for approval Monday night.

The package included the lease under which Kinney proposes to manage with Ross Parking area, the Ross Parking garage and the John Hancock parking lot.

The other orders include amendments to the city ordinances that will enable Kinney to set 25-cent hourly parking fees, revise maximum time limits and change the rules for towing.

One of the features of the lease is a proposal that Kinney will provide an escort service from the entrance of the lot to their cars for women who might be afraid to walk in the lot at night.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative aide, pointed out that it will be much more difficult to steal cars from the lots that are attended, particularly when validated parking is introduced.

"When you have to have your ticket validated," he said, "there is a tendency to take the ticket with you and a ticket is needed to get the car out of the lot."

The City Council sent the parking package to its downtown and economic development committee for discussion.

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Of the downtown merchants questioned so far, about 75 per cent favor Sunday openings which are legal starting March 27 according to a new state law.

And an even higher percentage are in favor of validated parking.

Leroy L. "Sandy" Rounseville, newly elected president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said that so far he has surveyed about half the downtown merchants on Sunday openings.

"The majority are in favor," said Rounseville, "some are enthusiastic, some reluctant."

Among the stores that plan to open on Sunday are Beacon Fabrics, Sawyers, T.J. Maxx, Tempo Fashions and Royal Discount Books.

said Rounseville.

Shoppers that frequent stores on Sundays will have the added bonus of free parking.

Mayor Francis McCauley told the QCBPA Tuesday that shoppers will be allowed to park in the parking garage and Hancock and Ross Parking areas free of charge.

"We feel as though we can have a mall atmosphere," said Rounseville. "Lot's of fun in Quincy is planned."

"We'll have special promotions and special prices."

Rounseville said most of the merchants will wait until April 10 to open on Sundays. Some may close again Sundays during the summer, and reopen in the fall.

"It's really a case of self defense," said Rounseville,

"there's competition all over."

"Sunday is going to be a big shopping day. Husbands and wives work during the week and have only Saturdays and Sundays off. "Flea markets are jam-packed. It's a good opportunity for us."

Rounseville also said that about 98 per cent of the merchants favor validated parking.

"It's voluntary," said Rounseville, "then they can advertise free, safer, supervised parking."

Rounseville added that he is urging merchants to light up their stores at night, by using electric timers if necessary.

"We intend to make Quincy Shoppers Town USA once again," said Rounseville.

Police K-9 Corps May Be Reactivated

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he plans to sit down with acting Police Chief Roy Cavicchi and discuss the possibility of reactivating the Police Department's K-9 Corps.

The City Council Monday night passed a resolution commending such action to the mayor "as quickly as possible to help insure the welfare and safety of the residents of Quincy."

"I'm not going to react to the resolve until I get a full briefing," said McCauley. "I want to sit down with the acting chief and see how the professionals feel about it."

Officer Dan Kennedy, who had 12 years with the K-9 Corps before it was abolished as a cost-cutting measure a few years ago, spoke in support of Councilor Leo J. Kelley's resolve.

He said the dogs are needed to investigate buildings and home breaks that are reported in progress and for crowd control in the summer months, particularly at the beaches.

Kennedy said there was an incident the other night in North Quincy where a youth broke into the Mini Mart store and five police officers could not find him and he later escaped.

A dog would have sniffed him out, he said.

McCauley noted that Kennedy and the other dog officers should have come through the mayor's office, seeking an appropriation for the re-establishment of the dog squad.

April 8 Deadline For Recreation Dept. Jobs

Recreation director Barry J. Welch announces that the Quincy Park and Recreation Board has set Friday, April 8, as the deadline for applications for summer employment with the Quincy Recreation Department.

Employment applications may be picked up in person at the Quincy Recreation Office, 100 Southern Artery, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

The department expects to conduct interviews for a limited number of summer positions, which include, recreation leaders on city playgrounds, activity specialists, and water safety bids for construction of the long-awaited Burgin Parkway Extension may go out as early as the first of May.

"The last report that I have gotten," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, "is that we have been able to satisfy the concerns of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

"I am hopeful that we can get an okay from the state on environmental concerns in the next week to 10 days. Then we need approval of working design and the Water St. bridge.

"I'm optimistic that we can go out for bid in the middle of the spring."

The Burgin Parkway Extension will connect the Southeast Expressway ramps which are under construction in South Quincy with Granite St. in Quincy Center.

Tax Abatements Probe Falls Flat

A bid by City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia to investigate "60 or 70 undocumented abatements" by the Board of Assessors fell flat Monday night.

Chief Assessor Elmer "Mike" Fagerlund told LaRaia that "the information you ask for is available at our board anytime" and he asked the councillor if he had any more specific questions.

LaRaia allowed that he hadn't and added that he was satisfied with Fagerlund's explanation.

Fagerlund appeared before the City Council at the request of LaRaia to answer a report by Citizens for Limited Taxation that Quincy assessors had made some 60 to 70 undocumented abatements.

A story on the report appeared in the Patriot Ledger.

"I don't know if it is appropriate for me to respond to editorial comment," said Fagerlund. "I would much prefer to respond to specific questions."

"I can say that any action of our board on the abatement process is thoroughly and completely documented, notwithstanding statements in the public press."

"I invite anyone in the city to come and see our records and, if they don't understand something, our capable clerks will explain it to them."

Fagerlund said that Quincy is probably in the upper third among the state's 351 cities and towns in the number of tax abatement applications that are appealed to the state Appellate Tax Board.

"I've seen the day where we had over 600 appeals and in my tenure as chairman here a few years ago it was brought down to less than 100," he said.

"This board will pursue bringing down the number of appeals to resolve them at the local levels where they belong."

Federal Funds For Lincoln-Hancock Pool?

City Councillor Patricia Toland wants the mayor to study the possibility of funding activities at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool with federal money.

"I have always felt that the pool is inappropriately placed in the School Department, particularly since the coming of Proposition 2½," she told the Council Monday night.

"It is $74,000 in the budget this year and that represents three positions in the School Department. This is a matter of controversy every year."

Mrs. Toland assured Councillor James A. Sheets that the federal money she had in mind would not come out of the Community Development Block Grant that is rehabilitating Brewers Corner.

The matter was referred to the Park and Recreation Department for further examination.

Scofflaws: See Police Or Else!

Parking Clerk Robert Denvir has added a new weapon to the city's arsenal in the continuing war on scofflaws who ignore their parking tickets.

It's a mimeographed notice placed on the windshield of their cars suggesting that they report to the Police Station at a certain time and date or face action by the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

"We started giving out the notices about two weeks ago," said Denvir. "About half of them have come to see us and the other half, most of their cars have disappeared."

Since the drive on scofflaws began a few weeks ago, Denvir said, "none of the real bad ones have come in voluntarily. About eight or nine with 30 to 60 old tickets have settled up."

The city's demand for parking fines and penalties has some teeth in it now since the Registry is empowered not to renew the licenses and registrations of the miscreants.

But while the war on scofflaws continues, people still are piling up tickets.

Denvir disclosed that what is apparently a new record for the fastest tickets was set the other day by a woman who got two tickets in nine minutes in two different spots from two different meter mads.

One was at 9:57 a.m. on Revere Rd., the second at 10:06 a.m. on Hancock St.

Sheets Protests MDC Sewage Plan

The voice of landlocked Ward 4 was heard Monday night in the rising protest against an MDC plan to force more sewage from five South Shore towns into the Nut Island system at Germantown.

City Councillor James A. Sheets told his colleagues that the highest bacteria count in the city last year was taken on O'Rourke Field, West Quincy, in June.

It was 17,000, he said, well over the level of 700 that is considered safe.

Patio Break

John Powers of 371 Elmwood Ave., Wollaston, reported to police Monday thieves broke into his patio by slashing a screen and made off with a chain saw valued at $180, a drill at $80 and a socket wrench set at $88.

"This is the result of too much pressure on the main line," he said. "The MDC talks about taking pressure off Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Randolph and Holbrook and it's felt in Ward 4.

"It is observable on O'Rourke Field. Last June, to the naked eye, you could see sewage floating on that field where hundreds of children play.

"I could take you during any major rain storm into 45 or 50 homes in West Quincy where raw sewage is floating in the basement.

"It's unconscionable for the MDC to make such a recommendation. Our people have had enough."

The matter came before the Council when Councillor Leo J. Kelly introduced a resolve asking that the MDC drop its plans for the so-called Braintree-Weymouth interceptor project.

The Council voted to send the resolve to Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and the MDC.

Council Adds Strength To Dog Sale Ban Petition

The City Council Monday night passed an amendment that Councillor James A. Sheets said would eliminate a loophole in a pending home rule petition to ban the sale of stray dogs for experimental purposes.

The amendment would also ban the sale of the dogs from the city pound to third parties who would sell the animals to the experimenters.

The amendment was forwarded to the State Senate to be joined with the original petition.

Do's And Don'ts When Burglar Strikes Home

Don't go looking for a confrontation with a burglar. If you come home to find a door or a window unexpectedly open, don't go in. Go quickly to a nearby home and phone the police.

If you hear or see a prowler in or around your home don't investigate yourself. Keep quiet and keep the lights off. Call police when you safely can.

In most communities, it takes a patrol car about three or four minutes to reach your home. Be patient. Expect the police to come silently. They will be trying to cut off the intruder's escape.

But, despite the precautions you may take, a situation could arise where you find yourself face-to-face with a burglar. If you prepare for such a situation and rehearse a few simple steps, you may save yourself or a member of the family from serious injury.

- Expect that the burglar will be in a frightened state of mind. Perhaps he will be desperate. A scream may cause him to attack. Unless you are far enough away from him to escape, stand motionless.

- As calmly as possible, say, "I'll meet what you want and I will give it to you."

- Never struggle with a burglar unless you are clearly in danger of serious physical harm. If you are forced to defend yourself, go all out. Scream, kick, gouge, use your hands and feet to inflict as much pain as possible.

If possible, grab a nearby object to use as a bludgeon and continue screaming throughout the struggle.

But, remember, never struggle with a burglar unless it is clearly the last and only course of action.

Duffy Isn't Running

This is the time of year when most people are looking for the first robin of spring.

But political observers are still watching for the first mayoral challenger to come bob-bobbin' along.

Other than incumbent Francis McCauley there isn't a real sign of a candidate yet although Joseph LaRaia seems to be popping up everywhere acting more and more like one.

Of all the potential rumored candidates, he is still the most apt to challenge McCauley.

If he decides to hold off until 1985 instead, who if anyone will oppose McCauley this year?

Latest hot rumor making the rounds is that McCauley's challenger will be a woman: Helen Duffy, who officially retires May 27 as Public Works Department administrative assistant but has already left because of vacation time due her.

But, if there's a woman warming up, it isn't her.

"I've heard that rumor, too," she says. "But that's all it is — a rumor. I don't like politics and being mayor is not one of my life's ambitions."

Actually, she will be taking a new job in civilian life as a secretary in a CPA office.

Miss Duffy, who would have had 32 years service to the city in July, has served as the quite capable assistant public works commissioner for 18 years starting with Public Works Commr. Charles Herbert.

DUFFY

ANDERSON

She served in that capacity with Jack Brown, James (Pete) Ricciuti, Vincent LoCicero and Paul Anderson, public works commissioner under LaRaia and now under McCauley.

She and Anderson, to put it politely, haven't hit it off.

He one day suddenly moved her out of her upstairs office to downstairs where, she says, she was assigned to check on cutting back on street lighting costs and controlling gasoline for city vehicles.

"That was already being done upstairs," she says. Anderson called it a promotion. Duffy says he wanted to get her out of sight and ear-shot.

Duffy, whose salary was around $20,700 plus benefits says her new assignment wasn't worth that salary.

"There wasn't any real work to do," she says. "You could do it in 15 minutes. Walking to the water cooler took more effort."

She says if she hadn't been moved, she would have stayed on instead of retiring.

She's looking forward to her new job. And, she definitely is not running for mayor.

School Budget Boost 'Cruel Hoax', Says McCauley

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has termed "a cruel hoax" the School Committee's action last week in adding some $3 million in pay raises to the school budget for fiscal 1984.

The Mayor had requested a level-funded budget of $24,676,000 but the Committee added $1,428,000 to fund teacher raises granted in 1979 but never funded and $1 million to pay anticipated raises in fiscal 1984.

McCauley said he will not send the Committee's $27,710,000 budget on to the City Council.

"It is kind of a cruel hoax for those people who may be expecting the money," he said. "We don't have the money and the courts have ruled that we do not have to pay it."

"I hope the School Committee's action does not raise any false hopes. I intend to stay with my level-funded budget of $24,676,000."

McCauley, who is chairman of the School Committee in his role as mayor, listened to the discussion on the budget, then collected his brief case and left the room without comment.

"The mayor still has control of the bottom line," said School Supt. Dr.

Lawrence P. Creedon. "He can reduce the budget by the amount the School Committee added to it and there will be no raises."

McCauley noted that there will be a public hearing on the school budget Wednesday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Quincy High School media center.

"I hope it will be approved quickly so that I can give it to the City Council by the April 4 deadline," he said.

Orcutt Renegs, Spoils Oust Deegan Move

An attempt to oust City Manager William J. Deegan, Jr. collapsed when City Councillor Frank N. Orcutt withdrew from a bloc of four councillors, headed by Mayor David S. McIntosh, who had demanded his resignation.

"I am changing my position because of information received in the last 24 hours which has disproved certain statements made to me and which I had accepted as reliable information," said Orcutt, who was under pressure from Plan E supporters to retain Deegan.

Two days before, on a Monday morning, McIntosh, Orcutt, and Councillors David J. Crowley and Carl W. Anderson visited Deegan and asked that he resign by 5 p.m. Tuesday for what they called his "lack of accomplishment."

They represented the four Council votes needed to fire the City Manager, who had been on the job since the advent of Plan E government in 1950.

"I am opposed to it," said Councillor Amelio Della Chiesa. "Mr. Deegan has been here only two years and I think the City Council should cooperate with him to make the plan successful."

Anderson confirmed that he was aware of a plan by Deegan to seek action against him (Anderson) for alleged violation of the Plan E law that prohibits a councillor from interfering with the administrative functions of the city manager.

EAST MASS STRIKE

State Labor Commissioner John J. DelMonte held out little hope for a quick settlement of the strike by AFL bus drivers against the Eastern Mass Street Railway Co., which affected some 800,000 commuters in 92 eastern Massachusetts communities.

The drivers, who earn $1.55 an hour, were seeking parity with drivers of the state-owned Metropolitan Transit Authority, who make $1.87. The company had offered a 13-cent an hour raise and refused to arbitrate pension requests.

SITE CHANGED

The School Committee rescinded a previous action that would have taken part of the Furnace Brook Golf Club as the site for a new school building and selected the Rice estate on Adams St. as the new location.

Frank E. Remick, 73, Business Leader

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"He was a perfect gentleman and tremendously proud of the city of Quincy" said former Mayor Arthur Tobin of prominent businessman and civic leader Frank E. Remick, 73, of Boston, who died Monday in that city.

A memorial service will be held today (Thursday) at noon in Trinity Church, Copley Sq., Boston, for Mr. Remick, former owner of Remick's of Quincy.

Father of actress Lee Remick, he owned and operated the store from 1931 to 1979 when he retired. His father, the late Mr. Alfred H. Remick, founded the store in 1896.

"He always wanted what was good for Quincy," said Tobin, clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court. "He was an institution, a very fine man."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he was "saddened" by Mr. Remick's death.

"He ran a business in the city since 1931," said the mayor, "and I got to know him when I went to work with the (Presidential Cooperative) Bank and joined the City Council in 1964."

"He was an active participant in many business and civic endeavors and for many years he provided leadership in downtown Quincy. We will miss him."

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin said, "the city of

FRANK E. REMICK
(Miller Studio)

Quincy, as well as those of us privileged to have him as a friend, has lost an able and outstanding business executive and community leader in so many ways.

"He will be greatly missed by those of us who knew and respected him... he was a gentleman in its highest sense."

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association had a moment of silence at its meeting Tuesday in memory of Mr. Remick.

Born in Quincy, he attended public schools and was graduated from Thayer Academy and from Harvard University with a bachelor of arts degree in 1931.

From June 1943 to March 1944, he served on the War Production Board. The following two years, he was on active duty as a lieutenant with the Naval Reserve.

Among the awards that Mr. Remick received were the Outstanding Neighbor of the Year Award by the Quincy Red Cross in 1980, the Distinguished Community Service Award by the Harvard Club in 1981, Business Leader of the Year by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in 1979, and the Jaycee's Distinguished Service Award in 1979.

Mr. Remick was a member of the Kiwanis Club, Neighborhood Club, Quincy Rural Lodge, Quincy Harvard Club, and the YMCA's Businessman's Club.

He was a member of the Fore River Railroad Corp., the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, American Red Cross, Norfolk Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association, and the board of trustees at Thayer Academy.

Former president of the old Quincy Chamber of Commerce, he was retired chairman of the board of directors of Hancock Bank.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret (Boney) Remick; two children, Lee Remick Gowan of Osterville and Bruce W. Remick of Springfield, Va.; three stepchildren, Valerie Horst and Pamela Horst of New York and Leslie Horst of Brookline; his former wife, Margaret Waldo Packard; and six grandchildren.

Donations may be made to Thayer Academy, Braintree, or Harvard University, Cambridge.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Nearly every mother or father has shown a child how to draw something or other. Some things can be portrayed on paper, but not everything. For example, when a child asked Daddy to draw a picture of love, he replied, "O.K., but first I want you to draw me a picture of the wind." After a few curved lines were put on paper, the child exclaimed, "Daddy, I can't draw a picture of the wind. You can't see it. You can only feel it."

Feelings are individual emotions. What one person feels, another may not. One of life's greatest tragedies is to allow a feeling of love decay and die. It sometimes happens. Such pitiful feeling can often be avoided by an expression of concern and love. Any one capable of feeling is capable of saying so. That sort of feeling always makes the listener and the speaker feel good... real good.

Hutton Investment Series (HIS)

What's the intelligent way to invest my IRA dollars?

Because the "IRA with the IQ" is three separate funds within one master investment series, you are in the driver's seat. Move your money as often as you like between Hutton's three roads to retirement. 100% of your money goes to work for you immediately with no initial sales charge.

The IRA with the IQ.

Rather than lock up your IRA money in one type of investment, Hutton's "IRA with the IQ" lets you select your investment to take advantage of changing market conditions. So you will have more opportunities to maximize the growth of your retirement funds.

Three Roads to Retirement
Unlike many IRAs, Hutton's "IRA with the IQ" is three separate portfolios within one master investment program. So you can intelligently change your IRA investment from one series to another as often as you like to take advantage of changing market conditions.

Series 1—Short Term Investment Series
When short term interest rates are high, you may take advantage of them through investing in our short term investment series. This Fund invests in high quality, short term instruments.

Series 2—Bond and Income Series
When interest rates decline and the bond market rallies, you may participate in the Hutton Investment Series Bond and Income Fund. This fund invests in a portfolio of quality debt securities.

Series 3—Growth Series
Hutton Investment Series' Growth portfolio offers the opportunity to participate in a professionally managed, diversified portfolio of common stocks and convertible securities.

Management and Advice by a Name You Can Trust

You get E.F. Hutton's investment expertise when you enroll in our "IRA with the IQ." You also get your own personal E.F. Hutton Account Executive.

He or she can help the seasoned investor as well as the individual who has never made an investment before.

Send for Prospectus
Hutton Investment Series is unique. There are no initial sales charges. There is, however, a decreasing contingent fee if you redeem your shares before the end of six years. Send for the Prospectus which describes the management fee, distribution fee, contingent deferred sales charge, portfolio brokerage and other costs. Plus investment objectives and restrictions.

This constitutes neither an offer to sell nor the solicitation of an offer to buy. Offering available through Prospectus only. Be sure to read all material carefully before investing in funds.

For information and a Prospectus for Hutton Investment Series mail the coupon or call.

Passover Seder Meal At Point Congregational

As part of the Lenten Wednesday series at Quincy Point Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Richard Nichol, Spiritual Leader of the Congregation Ruach Israel, Newtonville, will lead in the celebration of the traditional Passover Seder meal Wednesday, March 16. Congregation Ruach

Israel is part of the Union of Messianic Jews - Jews who follow Yeshua (Jesus) as the Messiah. Nichol, who comes from the New York area, holds degrees in music and biblical studies, and has extensive training in Judaism.

Under his direction, the symbolic foods as well as the regular chicken dinner, prepared according to specifications, will be eaten by those attending. They will receive the leadership which is part of the particular meal.

Reservations are necessary. Those attending must remain for the entire program 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. The church is located at 444 Washington St., Quincy.

'Tapping God's Forgiveness' Topic At Atlantic Methodist

The four Quincy United Methodist Congregations began union services of worship for the month of March at Atlantic United Methodist Church, North Quincy, last Sunday.

A Service of Holy Communion was celebrated by the Rev. Dr. Theodore Romberg, and Rev. Walter Wnek.

Rev. Wnek delivered the message on "Tapping God's Forgiveness".

The Co-Operative Parish celebrates Holy Communion with liturgical as well as un-liturgical services. This last service followed the liturgical format.

The choir anthem was "Open Our Eyes" by MacFarlane. The offertory solo was sung by Glee Loranger.

Hospitality for the fellowship hour after worship was provided by the Mother's Club.

The United Methodist Youth Fellowship met recently at the Wollaston Church. The group is planning a fund-raising spaghetti dinner at the Atlantic Church Sunday, March 13 at noon. For more information, call 328-1264.

Members and friends are reminded that services for March, at the Atlantic Church are at 11 a.m. only.

Co-operative Parish Continues Lenten Series

The United Methodist Co-Operative Parish of Quincy's Lenten Religion and Healing Series continues Sunday, March 13, at 5 p.m. at East Milton Congregational Church, 614 Adams St., Milton.

The Rev. William Burrill, first Protestant Chaplain at Carney Hospital, will be the speaker.

The program begins with a light supper. For reservations, call 698-0270.

Bethany To Dedicate 285 Bibles

A total of 285 new Bibles will be dedicated Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Centre, at the 9 a.m. chapel service and the regular 10 a.m. service.

Most of the Bibles have been given "in memoriam", although some were presented to the church in honor of some one.

Plaques with the appropriate information and names have been placed in the front of each copy.

All the Bibles are Revised Standard Versions, in large print, for ease of reading. The books are hard-covered, blue in color, with the church's name stamped in gold on the front cover.

The Bibles are being provided for use in the pews primarily to enable persons to follow the scripture readings during the worship services.

Bethany Church will also be joining tens of thousands of congregations in 30 denominations all across the United States in celebrating

One Great Hour of Sharing this Sunday.

A special offering will be used to meet human need and for emergency relief in America and around the world wherever there is suffering due to war, persecution, famine, poverty, or disease.

Cooperating ecumenically with other denominations, a global network of service has been formed to provide shelter, water, food, tools, medical care, hope for a better life, and encouragement toward self-help as soon as possible.

This is to attempt to continue the ministry of healing and service begun by Jesus Christ and the early church.

Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will preach the sermon on "Who Is Our Neighbor?" Senior minister Rev. J. William Arnold will serve as liturgist and lead the Bible dedication ceremony.

Scripture readings will be Robert L. Lockwood and Evangeline V. Brennan.

Director of music, Peter E. Krasinski, will be at the organ console and will direct the choir in singing the anthem, "O Brother Man" by Ringwald. Nancy Carrier, guest cellist, will play at the offertory an arrangement of "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

The fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor following the last service.

From 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. an adult forum with open discussion will take place in the Parish House. Topic will be a response to the questions raised by the Readers Digest article and the 60-Minutes TV program regarding the National Council and World Council of Churches.

Rev. Huntington and Kathryn Roberts will serve as resource persons. Win Bettinson will be moderator.

St. John's To Celebrate St. Patrick's Day

St. John's Church, Quincy Centre plans two Masses with parties to follow in honor of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland and the Boston Archdiocese.

The celebrations will take place Thursday, March 17, the feast day of St. Patrick. The first Mass will be at 12:10 p.m., with Bishop Daniel A. Hart, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, principal celebrant. The second will be at 7:30 p.m., at which St. John's pastor, Rev. William R. McCarthy, will be the celebrant and homilist.

During the Masses a full choir, an organist and a harp soloist will sing and play the hymns and ballads of Ireland. The congregation will enjoy a sing-along before the services. There will be readings in the Gaelic language and, the usual "wearing o' the green."

Two Irish orchestras and the Ricatones, will provide music at the socials in the lower church hall. There will be Irish stenciling and refreshments. Parishioners' contributions of pre-sliced pastries and Irish bread will be appreciated.

St. John's liturgical music is under the direction of John Cice, choir leader, and Phyllis Ross, organist-pianist. The harpist to perform on St. Patrick's Day is Judy Saki of the Mystic Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. The event is sponsored by the Spiritual Development Commission.

Name one success symbol that won't fail you in the long run.

Chances are you can't. Because most symbols of success are temporary at best. They change with the times. And seldom have any enduring value. □ And yet we tend to measure our success by the things we accumulate... the cars... the clothes... the homes... the wealth... things that eventually fail to deliver the happiness that success is supposed to bring. □ They fail because real happiness can't be found in the trappings of success. It's internal, not external. It comes from a source of inner peace and fulfillment... a source that millions have found in Jesus Christ. □ The promises of Christ have endured for almost 2,000 years... because men and women in every generation have discovered the lasting satisfaction that Christ alone can give. □ And you can too. At the Church of the Nazarene on the dates listed below, you can experience the fullness of Christ's promise during a dynamic revival. It's a relevant, personal promise that will give you more than all the symbols of success could possibly offer. So plan to attend our revival, and...

Possess
the promise with us.

Bridesmaids speaking their minds: words to the wise

Taking part in the approximately 2,500,000 weddings this year will be a whopping 10,000,000 bridesmaids. What will the experience be like for them?

Based on the theory that it pays to take a lesson from history, lists of the most common complaints voiced by past bridesmaids have been compiled by Bride's magazine, which also suggests ways in which this year's brides can help smooth them out:

• What they wore. Perhaps the most frequently heard complaint is that the bridesmaids didn't like the dresses the bride chose for them; they were the wrong color, the wrong style, were too expensive, or couldn't be worn again.

While it's hard for the bride to please everyone, you can make the effort by trying this approach. At first, take only your maid or matron of honor with you shopping and narrow down the almost limitless choice to three or so styles.

Make sure to use your judgment in picking styles that will flatter your attendants' varied figures. For instance, full skirts and blouson tops look good on almost anyone.

You might try to include in your choices one two-piece or shorter style your maids will be able to wear again. Once you've made this preliminary selection, you're ready to schedule a time when the rest of the maids can come into the bridal shop to vote on the final decision.

• How much they spent. Costs can add up when you consider that it's usual for attendants to pay for their own outfits, including shoes, accessories and perhaps an extra dress for the rehearsal dinner; wedding and shower gifts; and transportation, lodging and meals if they're coming from out of town.

Just a few of the many ways to help them out: See if friends and relatives could put your maids up, let them select their own shoes (or wear a pair they already have) and provide all meals.

• What their duties were. The problem was that no one really explained what they were supposed to do.

For instance, many a maid was even more nervous than the bride when she came down the aisle because she hadn't been given a chance to practice.

So at the rehearsal give your bridesmaids plenty of time to walk through their parts, including passing your bouquet and reading any special Scripture passages.

As for their duties before the wedding, simply ask them for help when you need it—in choosing your dress, addressing invitations, welcoming out-of-town guests—but be sensitive to how busy their own lives are.

• How the wedding affected the friendship. Many bridesmaids complained that the bride was so involved in her plans and parties that she was in her own little world and not interested in them anymore.

Again, sensitivity is the key. It's up to you to show your bridesmaids that you haven't changed as a person or as a friend just because you're getting married.

Contemporary classic

THE ELEGANCE OF YESTERYEAR COMES ALIVE in Lord West's new "Winslow," a classic tuxedo designed for the evening wedding with the traditional good taste that allows the contemporary groom to exhibit his sense of style. The "Winslow" is available in a wide range of spring and summer colorings. Gown: House of Bianchi.

Tonsorial tips for the groom

As the wedding day approaches, every groom wants to look his best. Despite all of the worrying over clothes and other details, there is one particular aspect to his appearance that a man should be super careful about—his haircut.

The most attractive haircut for any man depends upon his own unique facial structure and features. For instance, a man who possesses a large nose may look better with his hair combed away from his face, according to New York grooming specialist Stan Place.

Place also suggests that a high forehead gentleman brush his hair forward or to either side, and that a low forehead calls for the hair to be brushed back or forward.

In addition, Place recommends that a man with a receding chin have his hair trimmed short at top and left long at the back and sides.

Skin and hair care are as fundamental to the groom as to the bride, and to find his skin type, the groom should go to a grooming bar at a department store. For example, if his hair is oily, an anti-oil shampoo will be prescribed.

In essence, a few simple grooming tips can help any man develop and maintain his optimum appearance, which is sure to please his wife long after the wedding day.

1983 weddings: more than a touch of class!

Marriage: keeping up with changing times

Excitement builds in anticipation of your very special wedding day. Weeks filled with planning, deciding on ceremonial details and guest lists and picking out and fitting your bridal attire occupy your time before the majestic walk down the aisle.

Do these traditional wedding plans seem a little too old fashioned and out of place today? Au contraire! The marriage bond is stronger than ever in the '80s, though more and more couples are postponing marriage until they are older and have established careers, identities, interests and independence.

The vast majority of couples today are choosing formal and traditional affairs. According to a recent Bride's magazine survey, 98 percent of the brides choose a white or ivory dress, 97 percent plan a religious ceremony and 89 percent invite 100 guests or more.

Wedding ceremonies today are full of options. Some clergy members are willing to perform interfaith ceremonies allowing the couple to choose a religious or civil ceremony.

Etiquette in relation to remarriages has been altered so that the couple may decide on what they feel is appropriate: Children may be part of the ceremony, engagement rings worn with pride, a romantic honeymoon planned.

Increasingly popular are classic weddings with a personal touch. Future brides and grooms write their individualized vows and select their favorite music.

Family members may serve untraditional roles in a traditional service: Dad and Mom could walk their daughter down the aisle and give her away together. Young girls may be ring bearers as well as flower girls. The groom's father could also be his best man.

An important ceremonial tip: Don't be tempted to surprise your mate at the altar with a change of hair color, a sudden dark tan or a substantial loss (or gain) of weight.

"Just the way you are"

Engaged couples share the sentiment of Billy Joel's lyrics, "I love you just the way you are." That song implies mutual care and respect, important elements in a loving relationship, and de-emphasizes looks.

Of course, you want to look you best when you seal your bond. Enhance your appearance by beginning a physical fitness routine together before the wedding.

ALLURING NETTING AND LACE capture everyone's attention on this lovely bridal gown of reembroidered Alencon lace and organza with cathedral train and complementing veil

In search of a wedding dress

Why does a woman go through such trouble to find the perfect wedding gown? After all, it's a dress she'll wear only once. But that "once," reminds Bride's magazine, is one of the most important days in her life and she'll want to look her loveliest.

These tips to help the bride-to-be sort through the possibilities and find a dress that's right for her are offered in a recent issue of Bride's:

- Narrow your choice before you actually set foot in a store. First, ask yourself how formal your wedding will be and rule out any dresses that don't match in style.

Next, consider how much you can spend. The average Bride's reader spends about $350 on her dress, but the range of possible prices is from under $100 to $7,000 and up.

Don't worry that a somewhat tight budget will keep you from wearing a favorite style. Classic designs tend to show up in every price range.

Finally, consider the actual specifics of style: neckline, waistline, sleeve shape and length, and color. (There's white, ivory, and new pastels, such as soft pink, peach, and aqua, alone or combined with white.)

- Start to actually shop at least six months before your wedding. Most wedding dresses are special-ordered and take a couple of months between order and delivery. And you'll need time for alterations.

Plan ahead so you'll shop prepared. Wear the right underclothes, such as a good bra and long slip. Take along shoes with heels in the height you'll be wearing on your wedding day.

- When you do find the dress, be certain the store consultant takes down all
